

Jagged 1651

Chapter 1651

"Your Excellency, Commander, we have won. The second wave of carrier-based aircraft fleet has begun to return. According to the news they reported, all the large fleet aircraft carriers of the US Navy have been sunk!" Han, the commander of the local fleet aircraft carrier formation Lieutenant General Si, with a smile on his face.

"Very good, very good. It is worthy of such a big loss for our capital ship formation!" Marshal Lütjens also showed a smile on his face. The capital ship formation almost suffered a devastating blow, which made him feel very distressed. But now, their counterattack has eliminated nine large fleet aircraft carriers of the US Navy. It can be said that from the perspective of this battle damage ratio, the German Navy undoubtedly has an advantage.

"Your Excellency, Commander, the Americans lost nine large aircraft carriers. Then, they only have four light aircraft carriers left. Although the British still have eight medium-sized aircraft carriers, they are no longer a threat to them. We have already won this naval battle." Fleet Chief of Staff Lieutenant General Carl Witzel also said with a smile.

"Yes, we have already won!" Marshal Lütjens said heavily.

Although, the local fleet suffered a lot in this battle. But the results obtained are undoubtedly greater than their losses. What's more, although the German Navy's home fleet suffered heavy losses, the Atlantic Fleet and the Mediterranean Fleet undoubtedly still have very strong strength. Once these two fleets are also involved in this naval battle, the German Navy will easily win the final victory.

"Your Excellency, Commander, there are still three hours before dark. We can still continue to launch attacks and further cause heavy damage to the Americans and British." Lieutenant General Hans suggested.

Marshal Lütjens nodded: "Have the first wave of returning carrier-based aircraft been ready again?"

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander." Lieutenant General Hans replied.

"Well, order the first wave of aircraft to take off again and launch a third round of attacks. At the same time, let the second wave of aircraft return at an accelerated pace, and strive to launch a fourth round of strikes. This time, we will severely damage the US Navy and the United Kingdom in one fell swoop. Navy!" Commanded Marshal Lütjens.

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander." Lieutenant General Hans immediately went to make arrangements.

Soon, the eight aircraft carriers of the German Navy began to take off carrier-based aircraft again. The carrier-based aircraft, which had been refueled and replenished with ammunition, flew away from the aircraft carrier and rushed towards the US and British navies, preparing to cause them further losses. After the nine large fleet aircraft carriers of the U.S. Navy were sunk, it was the turn of the eight medium-sized aircraft carriers of the British Navy.

When the air search radar of the US and British fleets once again discovered the attacking German navy's carrier-based aircraft group, the generals of the two navies all turned pale. Especially the generals of the British Royal Navy, their faces were even more ugly. No need to think about it, the Germans will target them this time.

But, besides ordering the fleet to prepare for air defense and face the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft group, do they have other ways? Although the US and British fleets still have some fighter jets left. But the number is running out. In addition, the pilots were already scared out of their wits. Now if they are allowed to continue to fight in the air, I am afraid no one will be willing. Instead of that, it is better to devote the whole army to air defense operations.

Although the number of carrier-based aircraft launched by the German Navy in the third round of attack is far less than that of the first round of attack. However, it is still not to be underestimated.

During the first round of attacks, the carrier-based air fleet included 144 carrier-based FW-190 fighter jets, 144 dive bombers and 120 torpedo attack aircraft. But now, there are only 108 carrier-based FW-190 fighters, 104 dive bombers and 76 torpedo attack aircraft left in the carrier-based fleet.

"Attack, target the medium-sized aircraft carriers of the British Navy, and sink them all!" The commander of the German Navy's carrier fleet issued an order.

"Boom boom boom!"

The anti-aircraft firepower of the Royal Navy also opened fire, and the 127mm anti-aircraft guns were the first to attack. When the distance between the two sides was further shortened, the 40mm anti-aircraft guns and 20mm anti-aircraft guns also started firing immediately. Dense shells roared and exploded in the sky, forming dense air defense firepower nets.

"Woo!"

There was a shrill howl, and the dive bombers of the German Navy, under the cover of fighter jets, began to attack the * warships of the Royal Navy. It is still the same tactic, sinking the outer * warships first, and then attacking the core aircraft carrier.

"Fire, shoot down the German plane, hold on. Otherwise, it's all over!"

"Boom! Boom!"

A violent explosion sounded, and a destroyer was broken into two pieces during the explosion, and soon sank into the icy Atlantic Ocean.

As destroyers and cruisers were sunk one after another, the aircraft carriers at the core of the fleet began to be attacked.

The first to be sunk was the British Navy's 'Brave' aircraft carrier. This aircraft carrier with a displacement of 22,500 tons was hit by more than a dozen heavy aviation armor-piercing shells. There was a raging fire. In addition, as many as eight heavy aviation torpedoes hit the aircraft carrier. Such a severe injury caused the aircraft carrier to sink into the sea very quickly.

Immediately after the "Brave" aircraft carrier was sunk, it was the "Victory" aircraft carrier. The displacement of this aircraft carrier is as high as 23,000 tons. However, under the siege of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet, there is still only one life to be sunk.

The carrier-based aircraft of the German Navy shuttled among the anti-aircraft firepower. Some fighters were unlucky and were shot down by the anti-aircraft firepower. However, some fighter planes were luckier and successfully dropped the bomb on the enemy's aircraft carrier.

Countless warships were hit, burning and sinking slowly.

"Damn it! Will all our aircraft carriers be sunk by the Germans?" Admiral John Tovey looked ugly.

Andrew? Admiral Cunningham, not a word. But from his tightly clenched fists, one could see how nervous he was.

Under the attack of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft group, the British Navy's aircraft carriers were sunk one after another.

Although their anti-aircraft firepower also shot down many carrier-based aircraft of the German Navy. However, it could not prevent their aircraft carrier from being sunk. Judging from the current battle situation, the British Navy has also lost.

The German Navy, after experiencing the initial heavy losses, has begun to reap their victories.

Chapter 1652

"It's over, everything is over! I am a sinner of the Royal Navy of the British Empire!" Admiral John Tovey burst into tears as he watched his own aircraft carrier being sunk continuously.

The current British Empire is not as good as before. It took them a long time to accumulate these wealth. However, in this battle, they suffered heavy losses.

Admiral Andrew Cunningham also looked livid. No matter who it is, seeing their painstaking efforts come to naught, they will probably feel this way. As the deputy commander of the Atlantic Fleet of the British Empire Navy and the commander of the aircraft carrier formation, Admiral Andrew Cunningham felt as if he was bleeding from his heart at this moment.

"Boom! Boom!"

A violent explosion sounded, another aircraft carrier was exploding, thick smoke billowed, and flames shot into the sky.

The carrier-based fleet of the German Navy is still raging. While avoiding the intensive anti-aircraft firepower, they dropped bombs and torpedoes on those aircraft carriers, sinking those huge aircraft carriers. Further added losses to the Royal Navy.

"The British are finished too. I'm afraid there will be nothing left of their eight medium-sized aircraft carriers." Admiral Hasben Kimmel said.

Ernest? Admiral King nodded. In this battle, the U.S. Navy suffered heavy losses. Similarly, the British Navy also suffered heavy losses. It can be said that the joint navies of the two countries were also severely damaged by the German Navy's home fleet. Although the German Navy lost a capital ship formation, such a loss is also not small. But compared to their results, it is undoubtedly completely acceptable. The U.S. Navy lost nine large fleet carriers and the British Navy lost eight medium-sized carriers. This is completely tantamount to solving all the aircraft carrier formations of the two countries!

Although, American and British shipyards are still working hard to build aircraft carriers. However, the construction of an aircraft carrier is time-consuming and laborious. Even if the speed is increased, the construction of a large aircraft carrier will take more than a year. This time, the British and American navies lost so much. If the navies of the two countries want to restore their eyesight again, I am afraid they will have to wait until the year of the monkey. Even, the German Navy would not give them this time at all. After the Germans won this naval battle, they will definitely continue to attack, take this opportunity to land in North America, defeat the United States and Britain in one fell swoop, and completely solve the problem.

The massacre of the German Navy's carrier-based fleet continued until it was almost dark. At this time, their bombs and torpedoes were almost exhausted. Coupled with the fact that the sky was getting dark, they had to return as soon as possible. Otherwise, it would be very difficult to land on an aircraft carrier at night. If you don't pay attention, the plane may be destroyed.

The German carrier-based aircraft pilots did not want to die in the accident. Even the tragic naval battle didn't kill them. If they died in an accident, it would be too unworthy.

The carrier-based fleet of the German Navy left, leaving behind the devastated US and British fleets. The eight medium-sized aircraft carriers of the Royal Navy were also wiped out in this battle. Moreover, many cruisers and destroyers were lost. Although, the Royal Navy still has a large fleet of battleships. However, can these capital ships withstand the attack of the enemy's dense carrier-based aircraft group? That is obviously unlikely.

"We lost, this time we lost a complete defeat again!" Admiral Ernest Jin was a little dejected. Originally, he was also ambitious and wanted to lead the US and British fleets to fight a turnaround. However, I did not expect such a result in the end.

"General, this time we may not be able to explain to the country! Your Excellency has great expectations for our actions this time." Admiral Hasben Kimmel said.

These words immediately caused Admiral Ernest Jin even more headaches.

"Let General John Tovey and General Andrew Cunningham come over and discuss what to do!" Admiral Ernest King said.

"Okay, General."

Soon, Admiral John Tovey and Admiral Andrew Cunningham boarded the battleship 'Montana' in a traffic boat.

"Everyone, I have to admit that we made unforgivable mistakes in this naval battle. And, in the end, we missed the victory and lost a complete defeat. But it is useless to talk about these now. Now, what do we do?" Admiral Ernest King said.

"There is no doubt that the Germans have won this naval battle. It is impossible for us to regain the disadvantage. Under such circumstances, we had better escape at night. Otherwise, Once day breaks, the Germans will definitely launch a new round of attacks. Don't forget, our enemies include the German Navy's Atlantic Fleet and Mediterranean Fleet in addition to the German Navy's home fleet." John Tovey will say.

General John Tovey was frightened. He knew that after this fiasco, the US and British fleets would no longer be able to compete with the German navy. Under such circumstances, it is undoubtedly better to flee back to the country. In that case, at least part of the strength can be preserved. At the same time, you can save your own life.

Of course, the last point is undoubtedly the most critical. As the admiral of the British Empire, Admiral John Tovey didn't want to really die in this naval battle. He can lead the fleet to go to sea to fight, but at critical moments, he still cares about his own life very much.

Ernest? General Jin frowned. Admiral John Tovey's intentions, of course, he is very clear. However, he was somewhat unwilling. If you escape now and escape the pursuit of the German navy, there is no problem at all. But in that case, the US and British fleets would lose completely this time.

"Even if we can safely withdraw to the country, what's the use of that? After the Germans win, they will also launch an attack on our homeland. At that time, we will not be able to escape either." Hasben Jinmei Admiral Er said.

"Then what should we do? We can't fight the Germans, right? Even if we fight the Germans, do we still have the capital to fight the Germans?" Admiral John Tovey said.

"We still have four light aircraft carriers and 16 capital ships. Our strength is still very strong!" Admiral Ernest King said through gritted teeth.

Indeed, with 4 light aircraft carriers and 16 world-class capital ships, this is already a very powerful maritime force.

Chapter 1653

"General Kim, do you still have a plan for us to turn defeat into victory?" Admiral Andrew Cunningham asked.

General John Tovey stopped talking, and stared closely at General Ernest King. If he can really use the opportunity to turn defeat into victory, he will certainly not let it go. After all, whether to flee back as a loser or to return triumphantly as a winner are undoubtedly two completely different results.

"I can't guarantee that we will be able to turn defeat into victory. However, we should try!" General Ernest King said.

"What way?" Andrew Cunningham Admiral asked.

"It is night now, and the German carrier-based aircraft can no longer take off. Moreover, their capital ship formation has been devastated. And we have as many as 16 capital ships. Among them, There are many capital ships that are very fast. We can use this group of capital ships to hunt down the aircraft carrier formation of the German home fleet. If we can successfully kill the eight aircraft carriers of the German home fleet. If so, then we don't think it's too ugly to lose this time. Even, we can barely continue to deal with the Germans in the Atlantic Ocean." Admiral Ernest King said.

"Can it work? We don't know the location of the German aircraft carrier formation. They are at least 400 kilometers away from us." Admiral John Tovey frowned.

"How do you know if you don't try? Perhaps, the Germans thought they had a chance of winning, and wanted to launch a new round of attacks on us after dawn tomorrow. So, they will continue to chase us tonight. In this case, it will give us a chance." Admiral Husband Kimmel also said.

Admiral Andrew Cunningham nodded: "For us, this is indeed an opportunity. If we can succeed, our loss will not be so embarrassing. In addition, we can continue to persevere in the Atlantic Ocean ...and when more of our aircraft carriers are built, we'll have another chance to challenge the Germans."

"If everyone has no objections to this plan, then implement it immediately. This is our only chance, and we must not miss it!" Admiral Ernest King said.

Indeed, this is the only chance for the US and British fleets. If they can't catch it, they will never have another chance. What awaits them will be a fiasco.

After the senior generals of the US and British fleets reached an agreement, they immediately began to implement this plan.

The three "Iowa-class" battleships of the U.S. Navy, with a maximum speed of 33 knots, became the ships sent by the U.S. Navy to implement this plan. Among the 10 capital ships of the British Navy, the maximum speed of the two "Nelson-class" battleships is only 25 knots. The maximum speed of the four "Lion-class" battleships is only 30 knots. The speed of the four "Hood-class" battlecruisers is 32 knots. Therefore, only four "Hood-class" battlecruisers are fast enough to participate in this plan. Although the other "Nelson-class" battleships and "Lion-class" battleships have more powerful firepower, their speeds are slower. Even if they find the German Navy's aircraft carrier formation, they cannot catch up. After all, the speed of the aircraft carrier of the German Navy has also reached 30 knots.

"Three 'Iowa-class' battleships and four 'Hood-class' battlecruisers. The strength of seven capital ships is enough. As long as our capital ships can approach the German aircraft carrier formation, they will die. It's settled!" Admiral Ernest King said.

The aircraft carrier is indeed very powerful, and the combination of the aircraft carrier and the carrier-based aircraft has become the absolute main force in naval battles. However, under certain circumstances, the aircraft carrier is not invincible. At night, the carrier-based aircraft of the aircraft carrier cannot take off, and the aircraft carrier has lost its combat effectiveness. Moreover, once a battleship or even a cruiser approaches, the aircraft carrier is also very dangerous. Especially the main gun of the capital ship, as long as one shell hits, it is enough to cause the aircraft carrier to be severely damaged. It is very easy for a capital ship to sink an aircraft carrier.

Although the US and British fleets suffered heavy losses, their capital ship formations were not harmed. Especially those fast capital ships are still intact. This undoubtedly gave the US and British fleets a chance.

In less than half an hour, the fleet consisting of three "Iowa-class" battleships and four "Hood-class" battlecruisers broke away from the formation and sailed eastward at high speed under the cover of night. They hope to find the aircraft carrier formation of the German Navy's home fleet and sink all those aircraft carriers. In that case, they will be able to regain the disadvantage.

"May God bless the American Republic!" Admiral Ernest King secretly prayed to God.

The current situation is indeed very unfavorable to them. Admiral Ernest Jin also had no confidence at all whether the plan could be successful this time. Therefore, he can only pray to God, and pray that a miracle will happen.

On the aircraft carrier "Poseidon", the flagship of the German Navy's home fleet, Marshal Lütjens is reading the battle report.

"Very good, very good. The aircraft carrier formation did a very good job in this counterattack!" Marshal Lütjens put down the battle report in his hand, and his face was already full of smiles.

During this counterattack, the carrier formation of the German Navy's home fleet sank nine large fleet carriers of the U.S. Navy and eight medium-sized carriers of the British Navy. As for the sunk cruisers and destroyers of the US and British navies, there are countless. This undoubtedly made the local fleet already established an advantage in this naval battle.

"Through this naval battle, we have won!" Lieutenant General Carl Witzel said.

"Your Excellency, Commander, the U.S. Navy and the British Navy still have four light aircraft carriers, and as many as 16 capital ships. If we launch another attack after dawn tomorrow, we will definitely be able to obtain more results." Hans Zhong Will recommend.

Marshal Lütjens frowned. It would be great if the results of the battle could be further expanded. But is it really that easy?

"The U.S. and British navies still have 16 capital ships left, which is probably also a threat to us!" Marshal Lütjens said.

"Your Excellency, Commander, do you mean that the Americans and the British may take the risk and let their main fleet attack us?" Lieutenant General Karl Weitzer was taken aback.

Lieutenant General Hans' expression also became serious.

Chapter 1654

"Our capital ship formation has been completely lost. Once the Americans and British use capital ships to attack us, we will have no way to fight back before dawn! Even our aircraft carrier will be easily destroyed by the enemy. His capital ship was sunk." Marshal Lütjens said with a serious face.

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander. In this case, we have to be more cautious." Lieutenant General Carl Witzel said.

Lieutenant General Hans seemed a little reconciled: "Your Excellency, if we miss this opportunity, the Americans and British will probably escape our strike radius after dawn. At that time, we want to deal with the enemy again." It is very difficult for the enemy to attack."

Marshal Lütjens nodded: "Indeed, it would be a pity. However, we have won the battle so far. Next, we must be more cautious. Otherwise, if we suffer again If we are hit hard, then we have no advantage at all."

Marshal Lütjens obviously wanted to accept it as soon as he saw it. This naval battle is undoubtedly very risky. Their capital ship formation has been completely lost. Of the seven capital ships, four were sunk, and the other three were also severely damaged. In terms of aircraft carriers, although the eight aircraft carriers did not suffer losses, nearly half of the carrier-based aircraft also lost. It can be seen how tragic this naval battle was. Fortunately, in this naval battle, they sank as many as 17 aircraft carriers of the US Navy and the British Navy, which can be regarded as almost exhausting the aircraft carriers of the US and British fleets. This also made the German Navy's home fleet actually take advantage of this naval battle. Even if this naval battle ends like this, the German navy can be regarded as a big victory. Even, the foundation has been laid for the next victory.

"In any case, now we need to adopt a more robust plan. Order the fleet to turn north. After three hours, turn west. And, send more cruisers and destroyers to conduct reconnaissance, to ensure that once encountering the enemy With the capital ship formation, we have enough time to escape." Marshal Lütjens ordered.

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander." Lieutenant General Carl Witzel said.

Although, whether the US and British fleets will send capital ship formations to attack them is just a guess. However, the local fleet took this seriously. They all hope to ensure that the aircraft carrier formation of the local fleet will not suffer too much loss in this battle. In that case, even if you have won the final victory.

"Don't worry, the Americans and the British won't be able to escape this time. Although, we may not be able to attack them again. However, the Mediterranean Fleet has already gone north. They will definitely not miss this rare opportunity. Even Therefore, the Atlantic Fleet will also step in. Even if the Americans and the British want to escape back to their homeland, it is not so easy. Their remaining warships are very likely to be eliminated by us." Rutte Marshal Yan Si continued.

The fleet of the German Navy in the Atlantic Ocean is not only the home fleet, the Mediterranean Fleet and the Atlantic Fleet are equally powerful. In particular, the Mediterranean Fleet has already moved northward from the waters near Bermuda.

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander." Lieutenant General Hans nodded. He also knew that at this time, protecting himself was the most important thing. After all, this war is far from over. Although the German Navy has gained an advantage in the war, the U.S. Navy and the British Navy are like centipedes that are dead but not stiff. It will take more time to completely eliminate them. In addition, when the German army lands in North America on a large scale, it will also need a powerful navy to  it. Even, in the far east, the German Empire still has a powerful enemy to face. After defeating the United States and Britain, the German navy will inevitably march eastward.

"Where is our capital ship formation? Have they returned?" Marshal Lütjens asked.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander. The capital ship formation has suffered heavy losses this time, and the remaining warships have already returned." Lieutenant General Carl Weitzel said.

"The reason why we were able to defeat the Americans and the British this time was that the capital ship formation made huge sacrifices. Even, they are indispensable." Marshal Lütjens continued.

Lieutenant General Karl Witzel and Lieutenant General Hans nodded repeatedly, and they could not deny this. It can be said that if the capital ship formation had not attracted the carrier-based aircraft fleet of the US and British fleets, then the local fleet would have suffered a crushing defeat this time. Not to mention that they were able to use a sharp counterattack to deal with more than a dozen aircraft carriers in the US and British fleets.

"Your Excellency, the contribution of the capital ship formation this time is indelible." Lieutenant General Carl Weitzer said.

"It is precisely because of the sacrifices of the soldiers of the empire that we were able to win this war! We dispatched a seaplane to send a telegram to the Mediterranean Fleet after flying 300 kilometers. It will be up to them then." Lu Marshal Tejets ordered.

"Yes, Your Excellency Commander."

Soon, a seaplane took off from a heavy cruiser and disappeared into the night sky. The seaplane flew southward for more than three hundred kilometers before it began sending telegrams. In this case, even if the US and British fleets listen to the radio signals, they will not find the location of the aircraft carrier formation of the German Navy's home fleet.

In the mid-Atlantic waters, a fleet is sailing under the night sky. This fleet is impressively the Mediterranean Fleet leaving from the waters near Bermuda.

is already deep, and Admiral Herman Boehm, commander of the Mediterranean Fleet, has also rested.

However, after receiving the telegram, the general on duty did not dare to neglect, and immediately woke up Admiral Herman Boehm.

"General, a big victory! The local fleet won a huge victory in the battle against the US and British fleets. They sank a total of 17 aircraft carriers of the US and British fleets. They almost killed all the aircraft carrier formations of the US and British fleets." Mediterranean Fleet Staff Officer Lieutenant General Cramer looked excited.

Admiral Herman Boehm finished reading the telegram quickly, with a smile on his face.

"The local fleet did a very good job this time. Under such a predicament, they were able to turn defeat into victory. It is indeed too cost-effective to exchange the loss of the capital ship formation for the aircraft carrier formation of the US and British fleets. We will win this battle." However, it is up to us. This is our opportunity. If we can seize this opportunity and inflict heavy losses on the Americans and the British in one fell swoop, we will be able to make more achievements!" Herman Boehm The general said excitedly.

Chapter 1655

"General, the local fleet is really bold this time! They saved the aircraft carrier formation at the cost of losing the entire battleship formation. At the same time, they launched a counterattack at the right time and severely damaged the US and British fleets in one fell swoop. I have to admit that their plan is too risky. If you are not careful, it may lead to the annihilation of the entire army." Lieutenant General Shremel, commander of the aircraft carrier formation of the Mediterranean Fleet, expressed emotion.

"Yes, it is indeed too bold. However, they are also very lucky. In other words, the Americans and the British are too stupid. They dispatched more than 1,200 carrier-based aircraft, but in the home fleet The carrier-based fighter jets intercepted heavy losses. Moreover, the target of the attack was placed on the capital ship formation of the local fleet, and no further search was made for the aircraft carrier formation. Otherwise, the local fleet should have suffered very heavy losses this time." Lieutenant General Cramer also said.

Admiral Herman Boehm nodded: "No matter what, the home fleet won this time. Moreover, it also created an opportunity for us to beat the dog in the water. We must not let this opportunity pass. "

"Yes, General. According to the telegram sent by the Home Fleet, the position of the American and British Fleet is about a thousand kilometers away from us. They should be sailing westward. We only need to turn slightly, so that after dawn, we can turn around The distance has been shortened to less than 400 kilometers. With the strength of our carrier-based aircraft group, if we launch an attack, it will be enough to further damage the US and British fleets." Lieutenant General Schlemmer said excitedly.

Because of its relatively small strength, the Mediterranean Fleet has always played a supporting role, whether it was in the naval battle of the Azores or in the attack on Bermuda. This time, they had a chance to pick up a bargain, and of course they would not let it go.

"Well, the US and British fleets now only have 4 light aircraft carriers and 16 capital ships left. And their carrier fleet has also suffered heavy losses. If we launch an attack, they will definitely not be able to resist." Herman said Admiral Boehm.

"General Schlemmel, how big is our carrier-based aircraft fleet?" Admiral Herman Boehm asked.

"General, we lost some carrier-based fighter jets during the interception operation in the Bermuda waters. However, the overall loss is not large. Now, our five aircraft carriers have a total of 106 carrier-based fighter jets left, 152 1 dive bomber and 152 torpedo attack planes. If they are dispatched in two waves, at least four rounds of attacks can be launched from morning to night. If the battle situation is optimistic, it is enough to further cause heavy damage to the US and British fleets." will say.

Admiral Herman Boehm nodded: "Then let's do this! After dawn tomorrow, it's time for us to perform."

October 20th, at six o'clock in the morning, it was just dawn.

The Mediterranean Fleet of the German Navy took off more than ten seaplanes at one time. These seaplanes will go to the north, northwest and northeast of the fleet to search for the location of the US and British fleet.

On the five aircraft carriers of the Mediterranean Fleet, the decks are already full of carrier-based aircraft ready to go. The carrier-based FW-190 fighter jets, dive bombers and torpedo attack planes have all been filled with fuel and ammunition, ready to attack at any time.

At this moment, Admiral Ernest King's eyes are red like a rabbit on the flagship battleship 'Montana' of the US and British fleets. In the ashtray in front of him, the cigarette butts piled up like a hill.

"Is there no news about the hunting formation yet?" Admiral Ernest King asked.

He has been waiting all night, hoping to get good news from the hunting formation. But unfortunately, there is no news so far. This also made Admiral Ernest King's mood worse and worse.

"General, there is no news so far." A staff officer reported.

Obviously, the hunting formation failed this time. Perhaps they were not able to find the German Navy's aircraft carrier formation at all. Therefore, there will be no news. If the aircraft carrier formation of the German Navy has been found and the attack has been launched. Then, it will definitely be reported to the flagship. It is still silent so far, which can already explain the problem.

"General Jin, it seems that our plan has failed. The hunting formation failed to find the Germans." Admiral John Tovey looked regretful.

"Alas! It seems that God is not on our side. Order the fleet to speed up immediately and prepare to return." Admiral Ernest King ordered helplessly.

When the counterattack plan fails to succeed, they can only preserve their strength as much as possible.

John Tovey Admiral nodded, and then returned to the flagship of the Royal Navy.

"General, the air search radar found several targets, and the analysis should be seaplanes." A staff officer suddenly reported.

"What? Could it be that the Germans are chasing them again?" Admiral Ernest King was very nervous.

With the current strength of the US and British fleets, if they are attacked by the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft group, then they will really be powerless and can no longer resist.

"Lieutenant General Halsey asked if it is necessary to take off fighter jets to shoot down the German seaplanes!"

"Well, take off the fighter jets immediately and shoot down the German seaplanes, so that our position cannot be leaked." Admiral Ernest King ordered.

Subsequently, several F4U fighter jets took off from the US Navy's "Independence-class" aircraft carrier and killed the German seaplane.

Several seaplanes were undoubtedly shot down by F4U fighter jets of the US military. However, before they were shot down, they had already sent the telegram.

The Mediterranean Fleet of the German Navy responded immediately after receiving the telegrams from these seaplanes. They can already roughly judge the position of the US and British fleets. Under such circumstances, Admiral Herman Boehm decisively ordered the carrier-based aircraft to attack!

A few minutes later, the carrier-based aircraft began to take off from the aircraft carrier of the German Navy's Mediterranean Fleet. One "Lord God-class" aircraft carrier, plus four "Deutschland-class" aircraft carriers. Although there are not as many carrier-based aircraft as the other two fleets, they are still very powerful.

In the first wave of fleet, the Mediterranean Fleet took off 48 carrier-based FW-190 fighter jets, 66 dive bombers and 66 torpedo attack aircraft. The fleet of the second wave that is about to take off will also be of this size. The spare aircraft remained.

Chapter 1656

"General, we shot down the German seaplane. However, before they were shot down, they sent a telegram. Our position may be exposed again." A staff officer reported.

Admiral Ernest Jin's complexion became very ugly.

"Asshole. Will the Germans still send carrier-based planes to attack us? After one night, the distance between us and them should be even further!" Admiral Ernest King couldn't help cursing.

"General, what should we do now?"

"Order the fleet to turn to the northwest. Also, prepare for air defense!" Admiral Ernest King ordered.

"Yes, General."

The order was quickly issued, and the US and British fleets became tense again. Many sailors had unconcealable panic on their faces. Yesterday's attack by the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft group has already frightened many sailors of the US and British fleets. If the German navy makes another attack like this, how can they resist it?

"What's going on? Could it be that after a night of sailing and turning, you still haven't been able to get rid of the German navy? But our hunting formation obviously has no news! If the German navy follows us, our hunting formation will They will definitely be found." Admiral John Tovey couldn't help but frowned tightly.

"Maybe what we have to face this time is not the German home fleet." Admiral Andrew Cunningham said.

Admiral John Tovey's complexion suddenly became even uglier. He understood what Admiral Andrew Cunningham meant. That is what will be faced this time, and I am afraid it will be other fleets of the German Navy. After all, the German navy is not only the home fleet in the Atlantic Ocean. The Atlantic Fleet and the Mediterranean Fleet of the German Navy also have very powerful forces.

Sure enough, in less than 20 minutes, the shrill air defense siren sounded shrill. The air search radar has discovered that a group of carrier-based aircraft is approaching them.

"General, the enemy's carrier-based aircraft group is coming from the south, and the scale is not very large. There are about 150 carrier-based aircraft." A staff officer reported.

"South? Is this the German home fleet, or another fleet?" Admiral Ernest King asked through gritted teeth.

The officers could not give a definite answer.

"No matter which fleet of the Germans. This time we must resist their attack! Order all ships and prepare for air defense operations." Admiral Ernest King ordered.

Indeed, for the US and British fleets, the most important thing now is to resist the attack of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet. Only in this way can we ensure our own safety. Otherwise, no matter how much you say, it is just empty talk.

"Yes, General."

The carrier-based aircraft force suffered heavy losses, and there are not many carrier-based aircraft left. Therefore, they did not take off carrier-based fighter jets to face the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet. After all, those pilots who survived are also very precious. Even, the value of these pilots is more precious than those lost carrier-based aircraft.

In order to leave some seeds for the carrier-based aircraft forces of the US and British fleets, the pilots of those carrier-based aircraft have even been evacuated to other small and medium-sized warships in advance. The purpose is to ensure that these carrier-based aircraft pilots have a chance to survive after suffering heavy losses. Of course, this doesn't really make much sense anymore. After all, after the disastrous defeat of the US and British navies this time, they will never have hope again.

"Boom boom boom!"

The anti-aircraft firepower of the US and British fleets soon began to roar, and the 127mm anti-aircraft guns, as long-range anti-aircraft firepower, fired first.

But the carrier-based aircraft group of the German Navy's Mediterranean Fleet has dispersed and rushed to the remaining four "Independence-class" light aircraft carriers of the US Navy. Although the displacement of these light aircraft carriers is less than 20,000 tons, they are undoubtedly much smaller than those capital ships that easily cost tens of thousands of tons. However, the carrier-based aircraft pilots of the German Navy still regard these light aircraft carriers as their primary attack targets.

"Boom boom boom!"

The U.S. Navy's aircraft carrier and * warships opened fire frantically, trying to use intensive anti-aircraft firepower to block the attack of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft group and ensure the safety of their aircraft carrier.

But soon, they found that this is futile. The intensive anti-aircraft firepower can certainly shoot down some carrier-based aircraft of the German Navy. But it actually has no effect on changing the outcome of the entire naval battle.

"Boom! Boom!"

Explosions sounded, and US warships began to be hit by German carrier-based aircraft.

It was still the * warship that was dealt with first, and finally the aircraft carrier at the core of the fleet.

The remaining four light aircraft carriers of the U.S. Navy are USS 'Langley', USS 'Cabot', 'Bataan Peninsula' and 'San Jacinto'.

Although the U.S. fleet has strengthened the protection of these four light aircraft carriers, they still failed to hold on in the face of the overwhelming blow from the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet, and they were shot and caught fire soon.

Finally, in less than half an hour, the four light aircraft carriers were all sunk.

So far, the US and British fleets have lost all their aircraft carriers in this naval battle. Although, they still have a lot of battleships left. However, the outcome of this naval battle cannot be changed.

The carrier-based aircraft group of the Mediterranean Fleet of the German Navy, after sinking four light aircraft carriers, also began to attack the capital ship formation of the US and British fleets.

The three "Montana-class" battleships were the largest in size, so they became the focus of attack by the German Navy's carrier-based air fleet. Although the "Montana-class" battleship has thick armor, it also has dense anti-aircraft firepower. However, under the siege of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet, the three "Montana-class" battleships still want to be in danger.

For the "Montana-class" battleships, a single aviation armor-piercing shell and aviation torpedo will not cause any damage to it. But once too many bombs are shot, even these battleships with a displacement of more than 70,000 tons will not be able to hold on.

The first wave of carrier-based aircraft of the German Navy's Mediterranean Fleet, after dropping all the bombs, failed to sink the three "Montana-class" battleships of the US Navy. And the loss itself is not small.

However, when the second wave of fleet was put into battle, the fate of the three "Montana-class" battleships of the US Navy was still doomed.

Chapter 1657

"Boom! Boom!"

Two torpedoes hit the side of the battleship 'Montana' in succession. The warhead exploded violently, and the huge power tore apart the underwater armor of the battleship 'Montana'. Even though the underwater armor of the battleship 'Montana' was more than 500 millimeters thick, it still couldn't resist and was torn open. Although the hole is not big, it is not so easy to block it.

Immediately afterwards, two heavy aviation armor-piercing shells hit the battleship 'Montana'. The explosion sounded on the battleship, the flames shot up into the sky, and thick smoke billowed.

"God! The 'Montana-class' battleships are our most powerful battleships, but they still can't hold on under the siege of the German carrier-based aircraft! If this continues, they will still be sunk." A staff officer exclaimed.

Admiral Ernest King's complexion was very ugly. After the U.S. Navy lost all its aircraft carriers, even capital ships will begin to lose. Moreover, the loss is still a powerful capital ship like the "Montana-class" battleship.

"Damn it, those carrier-based planes that shot down the Germans!" Admiral Ernest King said through gritted teeth.

Although, the US air defense firepower has done its best, and has achieved some results, shooting down some carrier-based aircraft of the German Navy. However, this is nothing compared to the results achieved by the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft.

The remaining three "Montana-class" battleships of the U.S. Navy have all been severely damaged at this moment. As the aerial bombs and aerial torpedoes continued to hit the three warships, their injuries were compounded. If this continues, these three huge battleships with a displacement of more than 70,000 tons will soon sink into the icy Atlantic Ocean.

The battleship 'Maine' was the first to sink. The battleship suffered thirty aerial bombs, and the entire hull was blown to pieces. The waterline armor on both sides suffered from 18 heavy aviation torpedoes. Under such injuries, even God could not save this battleship.

The sinking of the battleship "Maine" seems to herald the fate of the US Navy. At this point, they are powerless. In this naval battle, the U.S. Navy has already lost.

"It's over, it's completely over! The U.S. Navy has suffered a crushing defeat in this battle!" Admiral Ernest King watched the battleship 'Maine' slowly sinking, and he was stunned.

Not only Admiral Ernest King was shocked, but other US Navy generals were also like this. The same is true for the generals of the Royal Navy. Because they knew that after the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet sank three "Montana-class" battleships, they would attack their capital ships. At that time, they may not be able to escape either.

Less than ten minutes after the battleship 'Maine' was sunk, the battleship 'Montana' was also sunk. This battleship suffered dozens of bombs and torpedoes. Even though the defensive power is extremely abnormal, it still can't hold on. In the end, the battleship sank into the Atlantic Ocean because of too much water.

The last battleship 'Ohio' did not last long. After the battleships 'Maine' and 'Montana' were sunk successively, the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft concentrated their firepower on the battleship. . Perhaps it was because the German navy had suffered from the 'Montana-class' battleships in the capital ship battle, so it wanted to completely send these extremely perverted battleships to the bottom of the sea. After all, the capital ships in active service, except for the "Montana-class" battleships, those capital ships of the German Navy are barely able to deal with them. But for the 'Montana-class' battleships, there is absolutely no way. Therefore, the carrier-based aircraft has become the most effective weapon for the German Navy to deal with these perverted battleships.

After the three "Montana-class" battleships of the U.S. Navy were sunk, the German Navy's carrier fleet immediately launched an attack on the British Royal Navy's capital ship. Two "Nelson-class" battleships and four "Lion-class" battleships were all targeted by the German Navy's carrier-based air fleet.

It's just that, in the battle against the three "Montana-class" battleships, these carrier-based aircraft consumed too many torpedoes and bombs. So much so that in the attack on the capital ships of the Royal Navy, they were not able to sink these capital ships.

However, this is only the beginning. The German Navy's attack on these capital ships will continue for a long time.

Two hours later, the German Navy's Mediterranean Fleet launched a third round of attack. The carrier-based aircraft group launched a siege to those battleships of the Royal Navy. This time, the battleships of the Royal Navy could no longer escape.

Under the siege of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft fleet, warships were continuously hit or even sunk. Even a huge battleship cannot withstand the siege of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft.

"God! Are we really going to be completely wiped out?" Admiral John Tovey saw his own battleship struggling under the siege of the German Navy's carrier-based aircraft, and his heart was bleeding. Same.

"General, we lost, we have already lost. We lost everything by accident! Another fleet of the Germans also participated in the battle. Because of this, we are not their opponents at all!" Andrew Kan Admiral Ning An sighed.

If at the beginning of the naval battle, they were able to attack the carrier formation of the German Navy's home fleet instead of attacking the capital ship formation, perhaps they might still be able to reverse the situation and win the naval battle. But now, it's too late. The German Navy sacrificed its capital ship formation, but in exchange for a chance to turn defeat into victory. From that moment on, the fate of the American and British fleets was sealed.

Admiral John Tovey closed his eyes in pain, seemingly unable to accept such a result.

"From now on, the Germans will completely rule the Atlantic Ocean. We can no longer stop them rampaging in this sea area. Even if the Germans launch a landing operation in North America, we will not be able to resist at all. The possibility of us losing this war will be very high!" Admiral Andrew Cunningham secretly thought.

The German navy is so powerful that the navies of the two countries are completely overwhelmed. Although, they still have three "Iowa-class" battleships and four "Hood-class" battlecruisers in the hunting formation. However, in front of the German navy that has already grasped the victory, hunting and killing the battleships of the formation is nothing at all. No one can prevent the German Navy from winning this battle.

"Send a telegram to the hunting formation, telling them that we have been besieged by the Germans. Now that all the capital ships are in danger, let them find a way to escape the blockade of the German navy and return home!" Ernest King The general ordered.

Although, the hunting formation only has three battleships and four battlecruisers. In such a large-scale naval battle, it has been useless. As all the aircraft carriers and most of the capital ships of the US and British navies were sunk, the remaining 7 capital ships would at best cause some minor troubles to the German Navy.

But even so, Admiral Ernest King still hopes that the hunting formation can successfully escape back to the United States. After all, this will also be the last remaining part of the US Navy and the British Navy. Although these capital ships could not help the United States and Britain defeat the German Navy. However, when the German navy attempts to land in North America, it may be able to cause them some trouble.

Of course, on the whole, the U.S. Navy and the British Navy still lost in this naval battle. Through this victory, the German Navy has completely controlled the Atlantic Ocean.

The capital ships of the US and British fleets were sunk, and the German Navy's Mediterranean Fleet stopped attacking them. Although there are still some cruisers and destroyers, the Mediterranean Fleet does not have many carrier-based aircraft, so it is unwilling to waste on these small and medium-sized ships.

"What's going on? How come there are only nine capital ships? Don't the US and British navies have 16 capital ships? Where are the remaining seven capital ships?" Admiral Herman Boehm asked with a frown.

Although, sinking four light aircraft carriers and nine capital ships is undoubtedly a very good result for the Mediterranean Fleet. However, Admiral Herman Boehm was still not satisfied.

"Yes, General, there should be seven capital ships. However, since the beginning of the battle, we have not found those seven capital ships. Perhaps, those capital ships had already left last night." Cramer said the lieutenant general.

"General, the Americans and the British suffered heavy losses yesterday, so they sent some of the fastest capital ships to leave. The purpose may be to deal with the local fleet." Lieutenant General Gremel guessed.

Admiral Herman Boehm nodded: "Perhaps it is possible. Send more seaplanes to search the nearby waters. Once you find this fleet of the US and British Navy, you must find them and solve the problem. In this way, we will be able to eliminate all the aircraft carriers and capital ships of the Americans and the British in one fell swoop through this naval battle."

"Yes, General." Lieutenant General Cramer immediately went to make arrangements.

Not only is the Mediterranean Fleet sending seaplanes to search for the hunting formations sent by the US and British fleets, but the German Navy's home fleet is also doing the same thing.

Especially after learning that the Mediterranean Fleet had sunk four light aircraft carriers and nine capital ships of the US and British fleets, the local fleet also focused on the remaining fleet of the US and British fleets.

However, the search of the two major fleets of the German Navy has not been able to achieve results. The seven capital ships of the US and British fleets seemed to have disappeared out of thin air.

It is Admiral Hasben Kimmel who is in charge of commanding the hunting formation. Originally, he was also full of confidence in hunting down the aircraft carrier of the German Navy's home fleet. However, when it was almost dawn, they still had not been able to find the aircraft carrier formation of the German Navy's home fleet, which made Admiral Hasben Kimmel a little worried.

After all, as soon as it is dawn, the aircraft carrier of the German Navy can take off the carrier-based aircraft. Even though the seven capital ships he led were very powerful, under the siege of the German navy's carrier-based fleet, there was only one dead end.

It is precisely because of this that Admiral Hasben Kimmel ordered the formation to abandon the mission and turn to escape.

Admiral Hasben Kimmel did not lead the fleet to sail west, because he knew that the German navy would definitely attack the US and British fleets after dawn. If they sailed west, they would only fall into the hands of the German navy.

Hasben? Kimmel Admiral ordered the fleet to sail southeast. Wait until after dark to turn south and then turn west, eventually heading back to the Caribbean. The United States has military bases on those islands in the Caribbean Sea. As long as you return to that sea area, you will be safe.

Especially after receiving a telegram from Admiral Ernest King, learning that another fleet of the German Navy also participated in the battle and sank the remaining four light aircraft carriers and nine capital ships of the US and British fleets, Haas Admiral Ben Kimmel was more cautious.

It is precisely because of this that the hunting formation of the US and British fleets was able to escape the pursuit of the German Navy and successfully return to the United States. However, even if they fled back, it would not have any impact on the overall situation of this naval battle. Even, it will have no impact on the German Navy's maritime hegemony in the Atlantic Ocean. The German Navy is already at an absolute advantage in the Atlantic Ocean.

"Your Excellency, the American fleet seems to have disappeared. Could they have sailed further west last night and fled back to North America?" Lieutenant General Carl Weitzel asked.

Marshal Lütjens shook his head: "It's unlikely. They must still be in the Atlantic Ocean. However, the Atlantic Ocean is too vast. If we want to find such a fleet in the vast ocean, it is tantamount to finding a needle in a haystack. Especially Now it's dark again. The American and British fleet can escape further under the cover of night. It will be even more difficult to find them."

Marshal Lütjens was a little regretful. If all the aircraft carriers and capital ships of the US and British fleets could be sunk in one fell swoop, then the German navy would undoubtedly win the most glorious victory. But unfortunately, several capital ships escaped.

"Your Excellency, the American and German capital ships cannot be found, and we have no other way. Fortunately, we have won this battle. The Americans and the British can no longer turn the tables Already." Lieutenant General Carl Witzel said.

Marshal Lütjens nodded: "Indeed, the overall situation is settled now. Escaped a few American and British capital ships, and it will not affect the overall situation. When we landed in North America, we always There will be a chance to get rid of them too!"

Chapter 1659

Germany, Berlin, Imperial Palace.

Emperor Qin Tian was arranging flowers and plants in the yard after finishing his official duties. As I get older, my body doesn't get as good. Many government affairs are handed over to the cabinet and the crown prince, and Qin Tian only needs to make the final check.

Of course, Qin Tian is still very concerned about this war. This is related to whether the hegemony of the German Empire can be stabilized forever. It can be said that as long as this war is won again, Germany will be able to continue to dominate the world for the next half century or even longer.

This is also Qin Tian's biggest goal. He hopes that he can achieve this goal and be reborn again.

"Your Majesty, the Ministers of War, Navy and Air Force are here." The secretary said to Qin Tian.

"Well, let them wait for me in the office!" Qin Tian put down the kettle in his hand, washed his hands, and then returned to the office.

When Qin Tian walked into the office, he could clearly see the unconcealable smiles on the faces of the three important military officials of the empire. In particular, the Secretary of the Navy, Marshal Raeder, seemed very excited.

"Good afternoon, Your Majesty!" The three military officials saluted one after another.

"Sit down, everyone." Qin Tian seemed very casual. For his confidants, Qin Tian never cared much about etiquette.

"Your Majesty, the Atlantic naval battle has come to an end!" Marshal Raeder said.

"Oh? I think it's because of this aspect that the three of you came to see me together. Judging from your expressions, it's good news, right?" Qin Tian asked with a smile.

"Yes, Your Majesty. We have won again. The combination of the local fleet and the Mediterranean Fleet has already wiped out the main forces of the U.S. Navy and the British Navy. In this battle, the nine large fleet aircraft carriers of the U.S. Navy, 4 light aircraft carriers and 8 medium-sized aircraft carriers of the British Navy were all sunk by us. In terms of capital ships, we sank three 'Montana-class' battleships of the US Navy and four 'Lion-class' battleships of the British Navy 'The battleship and two 'Nelson-class' battleships. The cruisers and destroyers that were sunk and severely damaged by us are countless. It can be said that from now on, the command of the entire Atlantic Ocean has been in our hands." Raeder The Marshal said excitedly.

For a long time, the German Navy has regarded the US Navy as its primary enemy. Although the previous victory in the Azores naval battle defeated the U.S. Navy and caused them heavy losses. But there is still a long way to go before completely controlling the sea in the Atlantic Ocean. But now, after this naval battle is over, the German Navy has completely won.

"The result of the battle is so great?" Qin Tian couldn't believe it. Although he has great confidence in the Imperial Navy, he thinks that the Imperial Navy will definitely win. However, such a fruitful result was beyond his expectation. After all, after this battle, the U.S. Navy has only three "Iowa-class" battleships left, and the British Navy has only four "Hood-class" battlecruisers left. Although the performance of these two battleships is not bad. But it is undoubtedly not enough to confront the strong German navy. Even if the United States and the United Kingdom continue to build warships frantically, they will no longer be able to pose a threat to the German Navy. The German Navy will maintain its superiority until the end of this war.

"Yes, Your Majesty. The fleet commanded by the commander of the local fleet, Marshal Lütjens, performed amazingly in this naval battle." Marshal Raeder continued.

Afterwards, he reported to Qin Tian the performance of the local fleet in this naval battle in detail.

After Qin Tian finished listening, he couldn't help being very satisfied.

"The local fleet did really well this time. In a disadvantaged situation, they were able to think of a way to turn defeat into victory. Marshal Lütjens' command ability is undoubtedly worthy of recognition!" Qin Tian said.

Although, the capital ship formation of the home fleet was almost crippled. Such a loss is not insignificant. However, compared to the results they achieved, such a loss is relatively nothing. This naval battle not only completely defeated the U.S. Navy and the British Navy, but also further increased the strength of both sides. It can be said that even if the Americans and the British try their best, they will no longer be able to threaten the German Empire in the Atlantic Ocean.

"Your Majesty, the navy has now completely controlled the Atlantic Ocean. Moreover, we have also captured the Bermuda Islands. This allows us to have a bridgehead in the western Atlantic Ocean. The next landing operation in North America can also be put on the agenda "" Marshal Manstein said.

The victory of the navy completely established Germany's advantage in the Atlantic Ocean, and at the same time cleared the way for Germany to land in North America. It can be said that the Americans and the British are now powerless to intercept the German army in the Atlantic Ocean. The only thing they can rely on is homeland defense through the army and air force. But when the German army has such a big advantage, it is very difficult to say whether they can resist it.

Qin Tian nodded: "It's time to land in North America. Have all the preparations been completed?"

"Your Majesty, our preparations have been continuing. After we defeated Bu Russia, except for sending a small number of troops to reinforce Nanyang, the rest of the troops are resting. Now, we have assembled enough troops on the east coast of the Atlantic Ocean. Yes. The various ships and war materials needed for the landing are almost ready. According to the plan, we can launch the landing operation by the end of November at the latest," Marshal Manstein said.

"It's already winter in November. I'm afraid it will snow throughout northern North America. Will this affect our landing?" Although the current German army is already the most powerful force on the planet. But there will still be many unexpected factors that make them fall into the sand. The weather is undoubtedly the most important factor. Qin Tian didn't want to repeat the mistakes of Napoleon and the head of state.

"Your Majesty, although the weather may become a problem. But the existence of the North Atlantic warm current keeps the seas in the northeast of the United States from freezing. If we are well prepared, we can succeed. Moreover, the bad weather will not only affect us , At the same time, it will also have an impact on the British and Americans. If we can gain a firm foothold in winter, we can take this opportunity to deploy more troops to prepare for a counterattack in the coming spring." Marshal Manstein explained road.

Qin Tian nodded: "Okay, let's start preparing for the plan to land in North America!"

Chapter 1660

Of course, the United States and the United Kingdom are also concerned about the naval battle between the US and British fleets and the German fleet, especially the navies of the two countries.

When the US and British fleets were defeated again, losing all their aircraft carriers and most of their capital ships, the telegram was finally sent back.

For a while, the U.S. Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Harold Stark, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and British Secretary of the Navy Sir Pound Dudley, who received the telegram, were completely shocked.

"God! How is this possible? How could we lose when we have such a big advantage? And we still lost so badly?" Admiral Harold Stark was dumbfounded, completely refusing to accept this fact.

You must know that the strength of the US and British fleets is undoubtedly very powerful, completely much stronger than the German Navy's home fleet. Even if the German Navy's home fleet and the Mediterranean fleet are combined, the US and British fleets should have the upper hand. However, it turned out to be such a result now.

Admiral Nimitz happened to be in the Naval Operations Department, so he also learned of the news for the first time.

"The Germans actually won again, and they won so cleanly. I'm afraid we can no longer stop the Germans!" Admiral Nimitz's face was also full of despair.

"It's over, this time it's completely over. We can no longer fight against the Germans." Admiral Harold Stark said.

Admiral Nimitz was also completely silent. He knew that the loss of the naval battle this time probably meant that the US Navy and the British Navy had completely lost the naval battle.

After that, there was no chance to stand up again. Even, the navies of the two countries will no longer exist in the future. After all, once Germany wins the war, even if the United States and Britain, the defeated countries, can barely continue to exist, the way the Germans treat the defeated countries will definitely suppress their military power. At that time, the navies of the two countries will definitely cease to exist. Unless the United States and Britain can win this war, no matter how bad they are, they can fight for a decent peace, then their navies will have a chance to rise again. However, judging from the current situation, this possibility is undoubtedly very small.

"Those idiots, how could it be like this? We obviously have such a big advantage, but why did we fail in the end? How could those guys concentrate their carrier-based aircraft groups to attack the German capital ship formation instead of the German aircraft carrier formation? ? Any fool knows that the aircraft carrier is now the main force!" Sir Pound Dudley was furious.

British navy lost all their wealth accumulated for many years this time! In order to accumulate so many warships, Britain has worked hard to prepare for more than 20 years. However, in a naval battle now, all these family fortunes will be gone. Such a loss is enough to make every high-level navy's heart bleed.

Although there may still be many warships under construction in British shipyards. However, that was too late. The Germans will never give them time to rebuild a huge fleet. Needless to say, the German offensive will soon begin. At that time, these battleships that have not yet been built in time will become a pile of scrap iron, and perhaps wait until the Germans occupy those shipyards and become the Germans' spoils of war.

"Come here, prepare the car, I want to see the Prime Minister immediately." Sir Pound Dudley ordered.

Department of the Navy, Washington, USA. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was stunned after reading the telegram.

The navies of the United States and Britain joined forces, and such a large fleet lost. This blow to them was almost devastating.

"God! How could we lose? Are the generals who commanded the naval battle all pigs? With such a big advantage, they all lost. They should all be sent to court-martial, or even be sent to the military court. Shoot directly!" Frank Knox was very angry.

Originally, Frank Knox and the U.S. and British fleets were able to win this naval battle. In that case, even if they can't defeat the German navy, they can at least have the strength to confront the German navy. Coupled with the frantic construction of warships by major shipyards, the U.S. Navy will soon regain its strength. As long as they can continue to invest in the navy, perhaps they will soon be able to regain a strong fleet. In future naval battles, it may not be impossible to defeat the German navy in one fell swoop and regain its advantage in the Atlantic Ocean. However, this failure now shattered all their hopes.

Needless to think about it, Germany, which has already gained an absolute advantage, will soon launch a landing operation on North America. The warships under construction in the shipyard may be destroyed or captured by the Germans before they are completed. Just like in the last world war, after the Germans defeated Britain, they received a large number of unfinished warships from British shipyards, so that they did not build battleships after the war, but they still had the world's largest warships. The capital ship formation is the same.

"Even if we lose the war, those unfinished warships will never be left to the Germans!" Frank Knox said through gritted teeth.

Subsequently, Frank Knox rushed to the White House by car, preparing to report the bad news to President Roosevelt.

Although he knew that this bad news would be an extremely serious blow to President Roosevelt. But he also knew that it was obviously impossible to hide it. The current situation is very unfavorable to them, which makes the United States have to make early plans.

At the same time, Admiral Harold Stark was also rushing to the White House.

Frank? Knox and Harold? Stark Admiral, almost met unexpectedly at the gate of the White House. When the two got out of the car, they could see the despair in each other's eyes. Both of them are very clear that from today onwards, the U.S. Navy may be completely finished.

President Roosevelt was in a meeting, but when he heard Secretary Frank Knox and Admiral Harold Stark join hands to ask for an audience, he immediately suspended the meeting and received the two in his office.

However, when President Roosevelt saw the faces of the two, his heart sank. He knew that the two of them might have brought him bad news this time.

"Both, have we failed yet again?" President Roosevelt asked.