Chapter 1751

Schneider looked at Matsumoto Taro and suddenly smiled. He had to admit that he completely underestimated the shamelessness of the islanders.

Before, the islanders kept saying that the war between the two sides was a complete misunderstanding, and pushed the responsibility on the Americans, and they were willing to stop the war with Germany with the greatest sincerity. But now, the fox's tail was exposed all of a sudden. At this time and space, they still want to occupy the German colonies in Southeast Asia, which is simply a typical demand for money and life!

Anyone can see that the German Empire has become invincible to the entire world after the demise of the United States. Any country that provokes the German Empire will never end well. Even, as long as Germany mobilizes a large army to move eastward, it will easily destroy the island country. After all, compared with the United States, the war potential of island countries is much worse.

Under such circumstances, the island country should try its best to seek the forgiveness of the German Empire, and let the German Empire let the island country go! No matter how much the price is paid, as long as the island country can be kept, that is the best result.

However, the islanders are still unwilling to give up the hard-earned territory. Do they think that the German Empire will swallow this breath? If the island countries demand peace, it is the most basic to return the colonies of the occupied German Empire. Even more land has to be spit out. Then pay the German Empire severely, and pray for the forgiveness of the German Empire. In this case, the German Empire may be able to spare the island country. After all, the Far East is too far away from Germany. Going all the way to the Far East to fight against a powerful country like an island country, even if the German Empire wins, it will pay a big price.

It's just that, judging from the conditions currently proposed by the island countries, it is impossible for the German Empire to accept their conditions and let them go.

"Mr. Matsumoto, I already know what your country means. However, it is obvious that there is no need to talk about it anymore." Schneider said blankly.

"Mr. Schneider, the island country is very willing to end this war. After all, in this war, our two countries have already paid a lot. If the war is ended now, it will be a very important thing for our two countries. A good result." Taro Matsumoto didn't seem to want to give up yet.

"Mr. Matsumoto, I can convey the wishes of the island government to the country. However, I advise you that it is absolutely impossible for the German Empire to accept such a peace." Schneider said.

Matsumoto Taro naturally understood what Schneider meant, and he also knew that the island government's request was a bit too whimsical. How could the German Empire give up those lands? However, as a diplomat of an island country, he must also work hard for the interests of the island country.

"Mr. Schneider, the government and people of the island country very much hope to achieve peace. But if we can't achieve peace with our best efforts, then we have no other way. The millions of troops and all citizens of the island country are willing to Fight to the end for the benefit of the country. Even if all the citizens are destroyed, it will not hesitate!" Matsumoto Taro said.

Schneider knew that this was a threatening language from the islanders. However, although the military strength of the island country is indeed not to be underestimated. Especially the fearless madness of their soldiers, people have to pay attention to it. But even so, the German Empire will not be afraid of threats from others. Especially the enemies! When the German Empire treats its enemies, it will only completely crush them.

"The empire will not be afraid of any threat. The empire is also capable of defeating any enemy's provocation!" Schneider said coldly.

This meeting, after all, broke up unhappy.

Schneider immediately reported the content of this meeting to the country.

And Ribbentrop, the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the German Empire, also sneered after receiving the telegram. In his opinion, the islanders are too arrogant. The current German Empire is definitely the most powerful country in the world. It is ridiculous that they want to deter the German Empire in this way.

The next morning, Ribbentrop went to the imperial palace and reported the island government's willingness for peace talks to Emperor Qin Tian. Moreover, the conditions of the island government were also fully informed.

After listening to Ribbentrop's words, Qin Tian couldn't help frowning.

"Your Majesty, are the islanders threatening the empire? They simply don't know how to live or die. How can they threaten the current empire." Marshal Manstein looked angry.

"Yes, Your Majesty. The islanders really overestimate themselves. Do they think that such threats can scare the empire? Maybe they don't even know that the empire has already planned to attack them and destroy the entire The island countries are all dead!" Marshal Raeder also said.

Obviously, the marshals of the empire thought that the behavior of the islanders was like an ant provoking an elephant again. This kind of behavior is completely indistinguishable from courting death!

"Everyone, the islanders are indeed intimidating us and trying to scare us. However, the empire is absolutely impossible to accept their conditions. The empire has made up its mind to completely destroy the island nation. Such a crazy country , and at the same time a country that is hostile to the empire, it must be destroyed!" Qin Tian said.

"Yes, Your Majesty." The military and political ministers of the empire replied loudly.

"However, the intimidation of all the citizens of the island country is not completely intimidating. Once they are driven to a desperate situation, they are not unable to do such a thing. Therefore, I authorize the frontline troops to kill in the island country. Anyone who poses a threat to the imperial army can be eliminated!" Qin Tian said.

What Qin Tian meant was undoubtedly to lift the blockade for the army attacking the island country. As long as they wanted to, they could massacre in the island country.

"Yes, Your Majesty." Several marshals replied. They all knew that Qin Tian was not a bloodthirsty person. But now that Qin Tian has issued instructions in this regard, it probably means that this time the battle against the island country will be more cruel than they imagined.

"Everyone, get ready to fight this last battle! After defeating the island country, no one can shake the empire's hegemony." Qin Tian said confidently.

"The empire will win!" The ministers of the empire are also full of confidence in the German Empire.

After receiving domestic instructions, Ambassador Schneider did not meet with Matsumoto Taro again, but made a phone call and told the other party directly that the German Empire would not accept any threats. The island government's desire for peace is even more whimsical.

Chapter 1752

The German Empire has become the most powerful country in the world after the end of the last world war. Although there are still several countries that can pose a threat to the German Empire, the hegemony of the German Empire has been established.

Through this war, the German Empire even brought down one powerful country after another. Under such circumstances, of course no one can challenge the hegemony of the German Empire.

Although the island country is also one of the world's most powerful countries. But compared with the German Empire, it is not a level country at all. This is especially true when the German Empire is close to winning the final victory of this war. How could the German Empire have peace talks with them because they were intimidated by the island countries? This is simply nonsense.

When Matsumoto Taro's telegram was sent back to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the island, Matoku Togo looked a little unhappy after reading the telegram.

"It seems that a big war is inevitable. Can we resist the German attack?" Dongxiang Maode couldn't help thinking.

Although Dongxiang Maode is very clear, the current island country is definitely at the strongest time in history. But their enemies are also very powerful! Dongxiang Maode does not think that they have a chance of winning if they fight against the mighty Germany. However, for the benefit of the island country, they had to fight this battle!

"At first, I thought that the determination of the whole body could scare the Germans. But it seems that the Germans don't accept this at all! Then, there is no other way, but to fight the Germans to the end. Maybe, you can Use huge casualties to scare the Germans. Otherwise, the empire will really end." Dongxiang Maode thought secretly.

Putting such conditions to Germany is entirely in the hope that Germany can be frightened by the determination of the whole people. After all, the island country is a country with more than 70 million people. Although the population is not as good as Germany, but in terms of troop mobilization, the troops they can mobilize are no less than Germany. If the homeland is under threat, all the people can even be soldiers, men, women, old and children can go to the battlefield. It can be said that the islanders are definitely capable of such a crazy behavior. Ordinary countries will definitely not be willing to push island countries to such a point. Therefore, the island government hopes to use this method to scare Germany, so as to protect the interests of the island country. But it now appears that the Germans were not intimidated at all. This also means that this time the island country is really in danger.

"May Amaterasu bless us!" Dongxiang Maode prayed secretly.

Subsequently, Togo Motoku went to the prime minister's office by car and reported to Prime Minister Hideki Tojo that diplomatic efforts had failed.

"Your Excellency, the Germans did not accept our peace talks. It seems that we have to prepare for the worst." Dongxiang Maode said.

Hideki Tojo's face was also a little gloomy, he was very aware of the current military strength of the island country. Compared with the German Empire, which dominates the world, the army and navy of the island country have absolutely no advantages. Before, the Germans only deployed part of their troops in Southeast Asia and Australia, which has already caused heavy losses to the army and navy of the island country. Now that Germany has defeated all other enemies, it can gather all its forces to deal with the island nation. For the island country, this is definitely like the top of Mount Tai. It is almost impossible for the island country to survive the full German attack.

"Your Excellency Prime Minister, since the Germans do not give us a chance for peace talks, then we have no choice but to fight to the death. If there are more than 70 million people in the island country, if they fight to the end with Germany, it will definitely not be so easy for the Germans to defeat us. Yes. At that time, they must at least be prepared to pay a price of several million casualties. It is impossible for the Germans to bear such a large price. Even, as long as the German casualties reach hundreds of thousands at most one million, they I don't want to fight anymore. The Germans are much more afraid of death than the warriors and people of the Empire. The warriors and people of the Empire are willing to sacrifice their lives for the benefit of the Empire. But the Germans are probably different. Therefore, the Germans Although we rejected our diplomatic negotiations. But as long as we can fight the Germans on the battlefield, even if we can lose both. Or let the Germans pay more losses, then we still have a chance. "General Sugiyama Gen. With a determined face.

I have to admit that islanders are crazy. In other words, their soldiers are all lunatics. Even their senior generals are crazy, so it's no wonder that ordinary soldiers are crazy. At this point, the islanders still want to force the German Empire to compromise. It can be seen how unwilling they are to spit out the benefits they have already eaten.

Prime Minister Hideki Tojo nodded, this is indeed the last resort.

"My lords, the empire will have a chance only if it fights the Germans to the end. Otherwise, the empire may not be able to survive this crisis. Once the empire fails, we will be destroyed by the Germans. Even if we pay No matter how heavy the casualties are, we must continue to fight the Germans. Only by making the Germans pay unimaginable losses and prices on the battlefield can we force the Germans to negotiate peace with us and reach an armistice treaty that is beneficial to us ”” Tojo Hideki said.

The ministers of the island country’s cabinet nodded one after another, even though they knew that after making this choice, the island country might pay an unimaginable price. However, they all believe that as long as they can keep the island country and the interests they have obtained, no matter how high the price is, it is worth it.

"My lords, let the Germans take a look at our determination! Let the Germans know that even if they are the world's most powerful country, it is impossible for us to submit. They want to destroy our country. The country has to pay the price of killing and injuring millions of soldiers!" Hideki Tojo said in a deep voice.

Being forced to have no way out, the island government chose to fight to the end. This is undoubtedly more in line with the character of the islanders. The islanders are too gambler, and they always bet on the luck of the country. Although, the islanders won the bet before and gained huge benefits. However, the islanders cannot be so lucky forever. Once the bet is lost, they will lose completely. Even, will pay more points for this.

Hideki Tojo then issued an order, and the entire island nation entered a state of emergency. In addition to the army preparing to fight to the end, a large number of civilians also began to distribute weapons, making a posture of fighting Germany to the end.

After solving the United States, Germany has no enemies in the Atlantic direction. However, Germany and its vassals occupy a large amount of land in the United States, and many Americans are also rebelling against the rule of Germany and its vassals. This forced Germany to temporarily station a large number of troops in the United States. But even so, in order to defeat the island country before Christmas, Germany still sent a large number of troops to the Far East. Especially for the newly formed group armies, most of the troops that have not yet had the opportunity to go to the battlefield have been dispatched to the Far East.

Although the island nation is a very ferocious enemy, it would be relatively dangerous for recruits who have never been on the battlefield to deal with such an enemy. But even so, the German Supreme Command has great confidence in these troops. Because they are also the elite troops of the German army.

Nearly half of the troops subsequently formed by the German Army were re-conscripted from soldiers who had retired in previous years. The rest, there is still a part of the backbone drawn from the main force. The rest are completely recruits. Those soldiers who were re-enlisted after retiring, although their physical fitness has dropped a bit compared to before, but with sophisticated weapons and equipment, they still have strong combat effectiveness. Even if it is against the elite troops of the Japanese army, it may not be bad. As for the crazy fighting will of the island army, it can also be resisted by virtue of its strong combat effectiveness. As long as they have been baptized by the flames of war, these newly formed troops of the German army are also world-class powerful troops.

For the battle against the island country this time, Germany has not mobilized its servants for the time being. The German servant army is generally not very powerful in combat, and is good at fighting with the wind. If you encounter the vicious islanders, you might really be defeated by their fearless fighting style. In that case, not only will it not be able to become a help to the German army, but it will become a burden.

After the German army invaded the mainland of the island country, these servants could come in handy. When the regular army of the island country was almost wiped out, the German servant army always had no problem dealing with the people of the island country.

Germany's reinforcements to the Far East this time are very large. The army alone has 14 army groups with 2.8 million people. In order to send so many troops, weapons and supplies to the Far East, Germany enlisted a large number of ships.

The power of the German maritime hegemony is fully displayed at this moment. More than 3,000 merchant ships and transport ships set off from the mainland of Germany, entered the Indian Ocean through the Mediterranean Sea, and then transported the German troops to the Indochina Peninsula and Australia.

Such a huge capacity is enough to make the whole world look at it.

In order to ensure the safety of the huge transport fleet, the German Navy also tried its best. Not only was the Atlantic Fleet dispatched to reinforce the Far East, but the Mediterranean Fleet was also dispatched to * temporarily. This part of the voyage in the Atlantic and Mediterranean is safe. However, the part of the voyage in the Indian Ocean is full of crises. It is impossible for the island country to watch Germany send more troops to the Far East without doing anything. They will definitely try their best to intercept it. After all, if the German army can lose a lot of power during transportation, then their pressure will be relatively small.

It's just that, under the full * of the German navy, the navy of the island country has no chance at all. Whether a submarine or a light ship is used to launch a surprise attack, it will be intercepted by the German Navy. As for allowing the main force of the island nation's navy to enter the Indian Ocean to fight, the island nation's navy does not have the courage. The German Navy is now in the Indian Ocean, but it has assembled the main force of the navy. The Pacific Fleet, Indian Ocean Fleet, Atlantic Fleet, and Mediterranean Fleet are all assembled here. Even though the strength of the island nation's navy is very strong now, it is still not enough compared to the German navy that has assembled the main force. These fleets assembled by the German navy can easily destroy the navy of the island country.

Although the navy of the island country has received an order to fight to the death with the German navy, rather than being wiped out by the German navy so easily, it is better to plan well and try to win this battle as much as possible. In other words, it caused as many casualties as possible to the German Navy. In that case, even if they are wiped out, they are still valuable.

A large number of German troops and their equipment were transported by sea to Indochina and Australia. For a while, the routes from Europe to the Far East and Australia became very busy.

This also makes Germany's military power is being rapidly mobilized.

Compared with the army, the transition of the Luftwaffe is much easier. Transitions can be made through airports one by one. After a few days, the troops of the Luftwaffe have been transferred to the Far East and Australia. With the addition of several aviation clusters and strategic aviation clusters, the Luftwaffe already has an overwhelming advantage in this airspace. Neither the army aviation nor the naval aviation of the island country can compete with the Luftwaffe. Even if the Japanese Army Air Force has now replaced a large number of P-51 fighter jets and P-47 fighter jets, this situation cannot be changed.

The German army gathered in the Far East and Australia in large numbers. If it is the army alone, plus the previous Army Group E, the total strength will be as high as 20 army groups. With such a large force, command is a big problem. Under the suggestion of the General Staff, the 20 armies of the German Army were reorganized. The original E group army will continue to be retained, and the remaining 14 group armies will be organized into three group army groups.

Among them, Army Group E is still composed of the 11th Army, the 12th Army, the 21st Army, the 22nd Army, the 23rd Army and the 24th Army. The commander was Field Marshal Rundstedt.

F Army Group consists of the 3rd Army, the 13th Army, the 25th Army, the 27th Army, and the 28th Army. The commander was concurrently held by the commander of the 3rd Army, Ferdo von Bock, and his military rank was promoted from general to field marshal.

G Army Group consists of the 4th Army, 16th Army, 29th Army, 31st Army and 32nd Army. The commander is concurrently held by William Keitel, commander of the 4th Army, and his rank has also been promoted from general to field marshal.

Army H consists of the 7th Army, the 19th Army, the 35th Army and the 36th Army. The commander was concurrently held by the commander of the 7th Army, Frank von Loeb, and his military rank was also promoted from general to field marshal.

The Imperial Navy's operations against the island countries this time are under the responsibility of the Atlantic Fleet, the Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet, and the commander of the Atlantic Fleet, Admiral Rolf Kars, is in charge.

The Imperial Air Force is under the command of Air Force Chief of Staff General Hugo Speele.

Myanmar, Yangon, Commander of Army Group E of the Imperial Army.

Originally, Lion City was the headquarters of the Imperial Army's troops stationed in Southeast Asia, as well as the home port of the Imperial Navy's Pacific Fleet. However, as the war progressed, after Dutch Indonesia had completely fallen into the hands of the island army, Lion City had become a battlefield. The army of the island country once wanted to cross the Strait of Malacca and launch an attack on the Malay Peninsula and the Lion City. The 11th Army under the German Army Group E confronted the island country army across the Strait of Malacca. In that case, the headquarters of Army Group E moved to Rangoon.

As a large number of German troops entered Southeast Asia and Australia, the German troops in this area became stronger and stronger. Of the three newly formed army groups of the German Army, Army Group F and Army Group H both landed in Myanmar. Army Group G landed in Australia. As for the six army groups under Army Group E, the 11th Army, the 21st

Army and the 23rd Army fought on the Indochina Peninsula. The remaining 12th, 22nd and 24th armies fought in Australia.

In contrast, the Indochina Peninsula is also the focus of the island army's offensive. The German counterattack will mainly start from here.

On July 20, 1941, all the additional troops sent by the German army to fight in the Far East had arrived from Europe to the scheduled battlefield. The commanders of several army groups of the German Army, the commanders of the three major fleets of the Navy, and the commanders of various aviation groups of the Air Force have all concentrated in Yangon. Marshal Manstein, chief of the Imperial General Staff, personally rushed here from the mainland and held a pre-war meeting. At this meeting, various deployments for combat against the island country will be made, and then implemented according to the deployment, so that the German army can destroy the island country in the shortest time.

"Everyone, the ministries have already arrived at the scheduled area. And now there are only five months until Christmas. Therefore, we don't have much time. The ministries must hurry up. Otherwise, I'm afraid we won't be able to complete it, Your Majesty." The assigned task." Marshal Manstein said.

The marshals and generals who participated in the meeting all had serious expressions. Emperor Qin Tian said that he would end the war before Christmas. Then, the time left for them is only five months. They must destroy the island country in one fell swoop within five months. Otherwise, if the task entrusted by His Majesty the Emperor is not completed, there may not be any punishment, but everyone's face will not look good. Therefore, these generals made up their minds, and in the next few months, they must do their best to launch an offensive.

Besides, Germany is now deploying a large number of troops in Southeast Asia and Australia, which can be described as strong. With the current strength of the German army, it shouldn't be a big problem to destroy the island country. No matter how brutal the island army is, it is almost impossible to confront the German army.

"Now, the enemies we have to deal with are mainly concentrated in Nanyang and the mainland of the island country. According to the information we have obtained, the army of the island country has nearly 3 million troops in Nanyang. In the mainland of the island country, there are another 3 million troops. And, The army of the island country has started a new round of reinforcements on the mainland. They even said that they will arm men, women, old and children to fight the empire to the death. Therefore, the army of the island country will be very large. However, I believe that those rabble-rousers cannot possibly be the opponents of the elite troops of the empire." Marshal Manstein affirmed.

The generals of the Imperial Army also nodded repeatedly. After all, although the island country army can further expand more troops, it is not so easy to arm these troops. You must know that the mainland of the island country is very short of resources. Although the Netherlands Indonesia and the Philippine Islands, which are now occupied by the island army, have abundant resources. But it will take time to mine these resources and then transport them back to the mainland of the island country. In the past period of time, although the island countries were crazily plundering the resources in these areas, they were almost consumed and there were not many left. Once the German army launches an attack on the Indonesian archipelago and the Philippine archipelago, the island countries will no longer be able to use these resources. At that time, they simply will not have enough resources to arm the newly formed troops. Perhaps most of what the German army had to face were unarmed civilians.

"However, His Majesty has given special instructions. This time, the battle against the island country must not be taken lightly. Especially the troops at the grassroots level cannot lose their lives because of kindness. Your Majesty has authorized that once our troops land on the mainland of the island country, Officers and soldiers can attack anyone who poses a threat to the imperial army. The soldiers of the empire will not kill innocent people indiscriminately. But at the same time, they must never let go of any threat." Marshal Manstein continued.

The generals of the Imperial Army all had serious expressions on their expressions. They knew better what Marshal Manstein meant. In other words, once the Imperial Army lands on the mainland of the island country, it can start killing. However, these generals who came out of the mountain of corpses and the sea of blood will not feel pity. Doomed to be an enemy of the empire, the island nation is doomed to perish.

"Our offensive will first start from the Indonesian Islands and the Philippine Islands. After solving the southern army of the island country here, we will attack the mainland of the island country. The island country will be destroyed in one fell swoop!" Marshal Manstein said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the Chief of Staff!" Everyone replied.

"Your Excellency, Marshal Kars, the navy of the island country will be handed over to you. Can the navy kill the navy of the island country before attacking the mainland?" Marshal Manstein asked.

"Your Excellency, Chief of Staff, the navy will look for opportunities in the near future to find a way to kill the island navy!" Marshal Rolf Karls said.

Although the navy of the island country is very strong, it now has more than 20 aircraft carriers of various types. The German Navy's Atlantic Fleet, Pacific Fleet, and Indian Ocean Fleet add up to only 16 aircraft carriers. However, the 16 aircraft carriers of the German Navy are almost all large aircraft carriers. The carrier-based aircraft carried are definitely more than the more than 20 aircraft carriers of the island navy. Coupled with the performance gap between the two sides' carrier-based aircraft, the German Navy definitely has an absolute advantage. Even if the navy of the island country has four battleships known as the most powerful in the world, they are definitely not the opponents of the German navy.

"General Speight, the next operations, air support and strategic bombing of the island country's mainland, are up to the Air Force!" Marshal Manstein said.

"No problem at all!" Air Force Chief of Staff General Hugo? Speight replied.

Chapter 1755

"Three days later, Army Group E, Army Group F, and Army Group G of the Imperial Army attacked Sumatra, Java, and New Guinea respectively to destroy the island army entrenched here. Then they launched an attack on Borneo and the Philippine Islands. In one fell swoop, the southern army of the island nation's navy will be eliminated. The navy and air force will fully assist the imperial army's landing operations. Moreover, the navy should destroy the main force of the island nation's navy as quickly as possible, which is related to the next battle." Marshal Manstein said.

"Yes, Your Excellency the Chief of Staff." Marshal Lundstedt, Marshal Bock, Marshal Keitel and Marshal Rolf Karls replied.

The main force of the southern army of the island country army is now assembled in Sumatra, Java and New Guinea. Among them, Sumatra and the Indochina Peninsula are only separated by the Strait of Malacca. The army of the island country has repeatedly attempted to cross the strait to attack the Malay Peninsula and the Lion City. Java Island and New Guinea Island are the main bases for the army of the island country to march to Australia. In the past, the army of the island country also attempted to cross the Timor Sea and the Arafura Sea and land in Australia with the assistance of the island navy.

But unfortunately, none of the island army's offensives were successful. They were all resisted by the German army, and the losses were not small.

Now, with the German army gathering in Southeast Asia and Australia, the army of the island country is urgently shrinking its troops and strengthening its defenses to resist the attack of the German army. As for the navy of the island country, it quickly withdrew from this sea area and retreated to the waters east of the Philippine Islands. Obviously, the navy of the island country knows that if they continue to stay in the South China Sea while the main force of the German navy is moving eastward, they will be courting death.

After Marshal Manstein issued the order, all the armies of the empire, land, sea and air began to hurry up and prepare. Three days later, it was time for the Empire to launch a massive counter-offensive. In the past, the empire was on the defensive in Southeast Asia and Australia because of the serious shortage of troops. Now, the empire can finally mobilize a large number of troops to launch a counterattack. The good days of the islanders are over.

Indonesian archipelago, Java Island, Batavia. This is the former capital of Dutch Indonesia and the largest city in Southeast Asia. After the island country army occupied the entire Indonesian archipelago, the headquarters of the island country's southern army also moved from Manila to Batavia.

Originally, the government of the island country expected that the Southern Army would continue to launch an offensive and take down the entire Indochina Peninsula and Australia. In that case, the island nation would be able to occupy the entire Southeast Asia and Australia. They can plunder the resources in this area, so that the military strength of the island country can also expand to the peak. But unfortunately, the many attacks launched after that failed to succeed, and instead lost troops.

This made the island country have to draw reinforcements from the country to reinforce the Southern Army, and at the same time replaced the Southern Army Commander again.

General Toshiichi Terauchi took over as the commander of the Southern Army one month before the defeat of the United States. After taking office, General Hisashi Terauchi was equally ambitious and wanted to organize the army to launch an offensive in order to achieve breakthroughs on the Indochina Peninsula and the Australian battlefield. However, when the Southern Army was not ready, a bad news came. The United States, which was extremely powerful in the eyes of the island nation, collapsed under the attack of Germany. This startled the islanders. At the same time, General Shouda's attack on Jinhua was hastily stopped. General Sugiyama Moto, Chief of Staff of the Japanese Army, even issued an order in person, asking the southern army to switch to a defensive state from now on. He also repeatedly asked General Kotobuki, if the German army took the initiative to attack, he must do his best to resist the German army's attack.

Terauchi Toshiichi was very aggrieved, and the attack plan that he was going to continue was completely aborted. At the same time, all the troops had to be placed on the defensive. But General Toshiichi Terauchi knew it was the right thing to do. After all, after the Germans have dealt with the United States, they will undoubtedly attack them next. Even, the main force of the German army will gather throughout Nanyang. This is a huge pressure on the southern army, and even the entire island country.

Although General Toshiichi Terauchi thinks that the army of the island country is very powerful. The entire island nation is also at its strongest stage ever. However, he didn't think they had much chance of winning against Germany.

In the following period of time, the southern army of the island country entered the stage of full defense. A large number of Japanese military forces began to build defense lines along the coast. The islands of Sumatra, Java and New Guinea are even more important places for defense. General Shouyi in the temple also visited the front line many times to inspect the defense line. He is very clear that for the southern army, the most difficult period is coming soon. If they cannot withstand the German attack, then what awaits them will be destroyed. And he, the commander of the Southern Army, is estimated to become the last commander of the Southern Army. The final result will naturally not be much better.

On July 20, General Hisashi Terauchi, who had inspected the front line of defense, returned to Batavia.

In the afternoon of the same day, General Toshiichi Terauchi called all the armies under the Southern Army, and the commanders of each army held a combat meeting. He could vaguely feel that as the main force of the German army had already moved to Southeast Asia and Australia, the German offensive would definitely kick off in the near future. This will be a great challenge for the southern army of the island country army. Although, the total strength of the Southern Army is almost three million. However, General Toshiichi Terauchi had no idea about whether he could withstand the German attack.

The island army wants to think highly of itself, but even so, they dare not underestimate the German army. You know, the German army's title of number one in the world was earned through one battle after another. Countries that were once extremely powerful were defeated by the German army one after another. Even the country was destroyed. This makes the Japanese army have to pay special attention and vigilance.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, General Toshiichi Terauchi walked into the conference room. All the commanders of the Front Army and the Army under the Southern Army of the island country stood up and saluted.

After returning a gift from General Shouda in the temple, he sat down in his seat.

Those front troops and army commanders, just sit down now.

Terauchi Shouichi glanced at these generals. From their faces and eyes, Terauchi Shouichi could clearly feel everyone's nervousness. Obviously, everyone knows what kind of opponent they will face this time. There is also a lot of pressure on everyone. Everyone knows very well how powerful the enemy they want to defeat this time is. It can be said that the odds of winning will be very, very low.

Chapter 1756

"Gentlemen, according to the latest information we have obtained, the Germans have assembled a large number of troops in Southeast Asia and Australia. Moreover, their war preparations are nearing completion. I have reason to believe that the German attack is imminent. So, I hope all the troops can be prepared. This time, the Germans will attack very fiercely. And we have no way out. I have received orders to fight to the end. So, I now officially give The troops issued orders. All the ministries must fight to the end, even if it is the last soldier, they must not retreat! Anyone who retreats without receiving the order will be treated as a deserter." General Shouda in the temple looked murderous Said.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander!" All the generals of the island army were stunned. They knew that General Shou in the temple was definitely serious this time. If it really fell into his hands, it must be a dead end.

"However, I believe that the warriors of the empire will never run away in fear of the enemy. You are all warriors of the empire, and you are all elites of the empire. For the benefit of the empire, there is absolutely no problem in fighting to the death." Added a sentence.

The generals nodded again and again. Indeed, they were deeply influenced by the spirit of Bushido. Needless to say, the military of the island country has issued an order to fight to the end, even if such an order has not been issued, they will also fight to the death during the battle.

"This time, our enemy is very powerful. But I believe that as long as the warriors of the empire can show their bushido spirit, they will be able to withstand the German attack." General Toshiichi Terauchi continued.

Although, after occupying the Philippine Islands and the Indonesian Islands, they collected a large amount of war resources from these areas and shipped them back to the country. Most of these resources are manufactured into weapons and equipment. However, in order to restore its strength, the navy of the island country has spent a lot of resources. This makes the island country army's equipment slightly improved, but compared with the world's first-class level, there is still a big gap. Not to mention compared with the world's most well-equipped German army.

The generals of the island country army also know this. If they fight for weapons and equipment, they are not the opponents of the German army at all. Therefore, the only thing they can fight is the spirit of seeing death as home. Perhaps only with this fearless attack method can the German army be truly deterred. Otherwise, it would undoubtedly be very difficult to resist the German attack.

"Your Excellency, the Europeans have always been timid. It is impossible for them to fight like the warriors of the Empire. The spirit of Bushido will definitely guide us to defeat the Germans!" General Itagaki Seishiro, commander of the 7th Front Army, said.

The other generals also echoed.

Perhaps, for the generals of the army of these island countries, the spirit of Bushido who is not afraid of death has become their only sustenance for victory. They very much hope that in this battle, this spirit can enable the island army to exert a stronger combat effectiveness. Perhaps in this way, they can turn defeat into victory in this war.

Of course, reasonable people will know that the possibility of this will be very low. But the generals of the island country army are undoubtedly the craziest and most irrational group of people in the world. Otherwise, there would be no such tactics as "pig sudden attack" in the attack of the island country army.

Everyone was not frightened by the powerful German army, but full of fighting spirit. This made General Kotobuki very satisfied. As long as the generals are not frightened, then the troops below will definitely continue to fight. In this case, the Japanese Army still has hope.

"My lords, this battle is about the life and death of the empire. So, I get rid of you!" General Kotobuki bowed heavily to the generals.

"Hey, the lowly ranks must do their best to fight to the death!" All the generals replied one after another.

Now, the main forces of these troops under the army of the island country are concentrated in Sumatra, Java and New Guinea. Among them, the 7th Front Army, the 14th Front Army, the 2nd Army and the 18th Army are deployed in Sumatra. The 18th Front Army, the 5th Front Army, the 38th Army and the 4th Army deployed to the front line of Java Island. The 10th Front and the 31st Army deployed to the island of New Guinea. The Lanyin Front Army and the 37th Army are deployed in Borneo. The Philippine Front and the 34th Army were deployed in the Philippine Islands.

It can be seen from the distribution of troops of the Southern Army of the Island Army that the Southern Army of the Island Army regards Sumatra, Java Island and New Guinea as the focus of defense. Borneo and the Philippine Islands have relatively few troops. If the German army wanted to launch an attack on Borneo and the Philippine Islands, it would first have to occupy Sumatra, Java and New Guinea. Otherwise, it would be difficult for the German army to attack Borneo and the Philippine Islands, which are located in the hinterland of the island army defense.

Especially when the navy of the island country was still very strong, the German army had no way to carry out such an operation.

This also made the southern army of the island country army make up their minds. They hope that in the next battle, they will do their best to resist the German attack. Even with the huge consumption, the German army will have to pay heavy losses. In this case, it may be possible to make the German army retreat. At that time, if some diplomatic concessions are made, it may be possible to end this war and achieve peace.

The islanders are crazy, but that doesn't mean they're stupid. They all know very well how powerful Germany and the German army are. With the current strength of the island country, it is almost impossible to defeat Germany. If Germany made up its mind to destroy the island country, and at all costs, the island country would definitely be destroyed. Therefore, they can only hope that the huge casualties will scare Germany. In this case, they still have a chance.

Of course, the islanders don't know that Germany's determination to destroy the island country this time is extremely firm. Who made Kaiser Qin Tian dislike the islanders from the bottom of his heart? In order to destroy the island country, Qin Tian even agreed to use atomic bombs on the island country. From this, it can be seen how much Qin Tian hates the islanders. If possible, he would even wish to destroy the entire island country.

The generals of the Southern Army of the Island Army left Batavia as soon as the meeting ended and returned to their defense zone. Although they are determined to fight to the end. But they also knew that the enemy was very powerful, and this time they had to work hard. If you are not careful, you may die in this battle. Although the generals of these island country armies are not afraid of death, it would be best if they could survive.

Batavia, the Southern Army Command of the Island Army, the office of General Hisashi Terauchi, the commander of the Southern Army.

After the combat conference, the commanders of the various armies and armies under the Southern Army have hurried back to their respective defense areas, ready to face the German army. It stands to reason that the current Southern Army's morale is high, and it has not been frightened by the German army. The commander, General Shouichi in the temple, can naturally relax.

But in fact, can General Toshiichi Terauchi really feel at ease? This time, the German army gathered the main force in Nanyang and Australia, as if Mount Tai was overwhelmed. It can be said that he, the commander of the southern army, was under tremendous pressure. General Toshiichi Terauchi didn't even want to be the commander of the Southern Army if he could. But unfortunately, this is not his choice. After becoming the commander of the Southern Army, there were only two paths before him, either to lead the Southern Army to resist the German attack and realize the strategic vision of the island government. The other way is to fight * to the end. When the Southern Army was wiped out, he committed seppuku. In addition, there is no third way to choose.

"Your Excellency, our troops are ready. Although the Germans are strong, we are not without a chance of winning. Besides, we are not trying to defeat the Germans, but to resist them. Let the Germans pay as much casualties as possible during the attack." Lieutenant General Tsukada, Chief of Staff of the Southern Army, said.

In the eyes of Lieutenant General Tsukada, it is almost impossible for the Southern Army to defeat the German Army. However, it is entirely possible to resist the German attack and cause the German army to suffer as much casualties as possible.

"Mr. Tsukada, the German's title of number one in the world was not made by blowing it up. It was earned through one battle after another. It is not so difficult to resist the attack of the German army!" Siuchi General Shouyi sighed. In front of Lieutenant General Tsukada, Toshiichi Terauchi did not pretend to be confident.

Lieutenant General Tsukada Gong nodded. He is very clear about the pressure on General Terauchi Toshiichi.

"Your Excellency, Commander, we have already done what we can and strive to do our best. Next, whether we can achieve our strategic goals depends on whether Amaterasu will bless us." Tsukada The lieutenant general said.

"God Amaterasu will definitely bless his people!" said General Kotobuki in the temple.

Although, praying for victory to the illusory gods is undoubtedly a sign of lack of confidence. However, now General Kotobuki in the temple seems to have no other choice but to pray to Amaterasu, whom they believe in.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander. Amaterasu will definitely bless us, and we will be able to withstand the German attack." Lieutenant General Tsukada also said.

Time passed bit by bit, and the German offensive preparations were gradually completed. A large number of elite German troops have entered the predetermined position. The German Navy and Luftwaffe are also ready to provide fire support to the troops.

On the morning of July 23, the German Air Force dispatched a large number of fighter planes, which took off from airports in the Indochina Peninsula and Australia, respectively, to attack the defense lines of the island army in Sumatra, Java and New Guinea.

At the same time, the German Navy also dispatched fighter planes to attack the island army's defense lines along the Strait of Malacca, southern Java Island, and southern New Guinea Island.

However, the warships sent by the German Navy to provide fire support to the army are mainly the capital ship formations of the Pacific Fleet and the Indian Ocean Fleet, and the aircraft carrier formations of the two fleets and the Atlantic Fleet are active in the Coral Sea. If the main force of the island nation's navy dares to go south at this time, what awaits them is a fierce attack by the German navy. The combination of 16 aircraft carriers in the aircraft carrier formations of the German Navy's Atlantic Fleet, Pacific Fleet, and Indian Ocean Fleet is enough to send all the main forces of the island navy to the bottom of the sea.

And, in addition to these three major fleets, the German Navy received the remaining warships of the U.S. Navy and the British Navy after the United Kingdom and the United States successively admitted their unconditional surrender. Although the navies of the two countries have been almost wiped out by the German navy, the performance of the three "Iowa-class" battleships of the U.S. Navy and the four "Hood-class" battlecruisers of the British Navy is still good. These seven capital ships formed the fire support fleet directly under the German Navy. Now, this fleet also temporarily belongs to the command of the Atlantic Fleet. The strength of the German Navy's capital ship formation in the Pacific has been further strengthened. After all, the 'Yamato-class' battleships of the Japanese Navy are undoubtedly very terrifying.

In the Pacific Ocean, the German Navy has now assembled 8 battleships from the Atlantic Fleet, 6 battleships from the Pacific Fleet, 7 battleships from the Indian Ocean Fleet, and 7 battleships from the Fire Support Fleet. There are already 28 battleships in total. A capital ship. Even with the addition of four cutting-edge "Yamato-class" battleships, the battleship formation of the Japanese Navy has only 8 ships in total. The German Navy has a 3.5 times advantage in capital ships. No matter how powerful the "Yamato-class" battleship is, it may still be very difficult to defeat such a large battleship formation of the German Navy in one fell swoop. Not to mention, the German Navy has a more powerful carrier-based aircraft force.

The task of attacking the main warships of the island navy is often completed by the carrier-based aircraft units of the German Navy. As long as the conditions are unfavorable, such as the combat environment at night, the capital ship formation of the German Navy will be responsible.

In addition, the capital ship formation of the German Navy will assume more of the role of fire cover for landing operations. Whether it is an attack on the southern army of the island country army entrenched in Nanyang. Whether to launch an attack on the mainland of the island country, it is a landing operation. The fire cover of the capital ship formation will be very important fire support for the German army in landing operations.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

In the Strait of Malacca, the capital ship formation of the German Navy's Indian Ocean Fleet is being dispersed into multiple formations, launching fierce shelling on the positions of the island army.

Large-caliber naval gun shells hit the beach one after another, destroying the fortifications painstakingly built by the island army, leaving huge craters.

In the north of Java Island and the south of New Guinea Island, the battleship formation of the Pacific Fleet also dispersed into multiple formations, launching fierce shelling on the fortifications built by the island army on the coast. Use powerful artillery fire to destroy the fortifications of the island army.

In the sky, fighter jets and bombers of the Luftwaffe are also attacking. The large-scale counter-offensive of the German army has officially kicked off.

Chapter 1758

In the northwest of Sumatra, the nearly 300-kilometer coast from Banda Aceh to Medan is the area where German troops landed. The seven capital ships of the capital ship formation of the German Navy's Indian Ocean Fleet, a large number of cruisers and destroyers, opened fire on the beach frantically within ten kilometers from the coast.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

The large-caliber heavy artillery shells fell one after another, causing a devastating blow to the positions built by the island army on the coast. Continuous fortifications were destroyed under heavy German shelling. Many soldiers who poured in were killed directly under the heavy shelling of the German army.

"Woo!"

Accompanied by a sharp and piercing whistling sound, the German Air Force's dive bomber dropped a heavy aerial bomb on the island army's position.

The bomb made a violent explosion, leaving a huge crater on the Japanese army's position. Almost all the army of the island nation in this area was torn apart.

A formation of twelve H-11 medium-sized bombers flew over the sky at a height of 2,000 meters. The magazines were opened, and bombs fell like raindrops one after another, directly blowing up a section of the island army's position into a sea of flames. The island army stationed in this position suffered heavy casualties.

Under the joint attack of the German navy and air force, the troops of the island country army stationed on this line of defense suffered very heavy losses.

It is the 14th Front Army of the Japanese Army that is defending the front from the German attack. The army in this area is very strong. In addition, the defense zone of the 7th Front was next to the 14th Front. Once the 14th Front cannot withstand the German attack, the 7th Front will immediately reinforce it. The 2nd Army and the 18th Army of the Japanese Army serve as reserves.

Medan, Commander of the 14th Front Army of the Island Army, Commander General Tomofumi Yamashita has already woken up. The sudden attack of the German army forced him to leave the bed.

"Your Excellency, the German offensive is very fierce. They are attacking our defense line with warships and aircraft. The defensive offensive built on the front line is being rapidly destroyed. The losses of various units are also very large." Chief of Staff Lieutenant General Akira Muto reported road.

General Yamashita Fengwen has a serious expression on his face. He knows that his 14th Front Army is about to face the biggest test.

"Order the frontline departments to preserve their strength as much as possible before the Germans launch a landing. But once the Germans launch a landing, they must fight to the death and try their best to resist the German attack." General Yamashita ordered. .

Under the heavy shelling of the German Navy and the bombing of the Luftwaffe, continuing to stick to the line of defense is no different from dying. The naval artillery firepower of the navy is not so easy to resist. Even the destroyer's 105mm naval gun is much more powerful than the army's 105mm howitzer. To fight hard without commanding the sea is simply courting death. As for the fortifications, there is no other way if they are destroyed. Compared with those fortifications, people are the most important.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander." Lieutenant General Akira Muto nodded. He also believed that General Yamashita Fengwen's decision was extremely correct.

"In addition, report to the Southern Army Command that we have been attacked by the Germans. The big war has already begun. At the same time, send a telegram to the 7th Front Army, the 2nd Army and the 18th Army, asking them to prepare and reinforce us at any time !" General Yamashita Fengwen said.

Although the 14th Front Army has a strong force, it is almost impossible to resist the German attack alone. The support of other forces will be essential.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander." Admiral Akira Muto immediately went to make arrangements.

"Hope, we can withstand the German attack this time!" General Yamashita Fufumi's eyes could not hide his worry.

Actually, without Yamashita's report, General Hisashi Terauchi, the commander of the Southern Army of the island country, also knew that the German army was attacking them. Because Java Island was also attacked.

Four "Bavaria-class" battleships of the German Navy's Pacific Fleet, leading a group of cruisers and destroyers, forcibly crossed the Sunda Strait. With the main force of the island nation's navy withdrawing from Southeast Asia, the German navy can be described as rampant.

Of course, the German Navy also pays great attention to anti-submarine and air defense. Sonar and air search radar are always on.

Because the southern part of Java Island is mountainous, the terrain is not suitable for landing. Therefore, the German Navy is preparing to land directly in the northern part of Java Island. The terrain here is flat and there are many ports, making it more suitable for landing operations.

The island army may not have expected that the German navy would directly forcibly break into the Sunda Strait and launch an attack from the northern part of Java Island.

From Cilegon in the west of Java Island to Semarang, the 300-kilometer coastline has become the landing point of the German army. Of course, it is impossible for the German army to be scattered on such a long coastline. Batavia, Cirebon, Pekalongan and Semarang, these four places will be the main landing points of the German army. Of course, the German army is also very clear that the island army's defense in Batavia is very tight, and it will be very difficult to land directly from here to open up the situation. Therefore, in Batavia it was nothing more than a feint. The other three cities are the main landing points.

The commander of the Southern Army, General Hisashi Terauchi, jumped out of bed the moment Batavia was shelled, and rushed to the underground headquarters immediately.

Compared to the command post on the ground, although the underground command post is not comfortable enough, it is undoubtedly safer. General Toshiichi Terauchi didn't want to be killed under the heavy shelling and bombing of the Germans. In that case, it would be too worthless.

"Your Excellency, the Germans have launched heavy shelling and bombing on Batavia, Cirebon, Pekalongan, and Semarang. At the same time, there are also a large number of German transport ships on the Java Sea. Obviously, they want to It is time to launch a landing operation on Java Island." Lieutenant General Tsukada Ko reported.

"Baga! The Germans dared to enter the Java Sea. Don't they think that the Imperial Navy has withdrawn and we have nothing to do with them? Call the Air Force and ask them to take off fighter planes and bomb the German warships and warships in the Java Sea. Transport ship, send all those Germans to the bottom of the sea to feed the fish!" General Toshiichi Terauchi ordered.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander." Lieutenant General Tsukada immediately went to give the order.

However, he returned after a few minutes. Moreover, his complexion is very ugly.

"General, the Germans took the lead and dispatched a large number of bombers to bomb our airport. The airports on Java Island, Borneo, and Sumatra were all violently bombed by the Germans, and the air force suffered heavy losses."

Chapter 1759

The Island Army Air Force deployed four air forces in Southeast Asia, and one air force each in Java Island, Sumatra Island, Borneo and Luzon Island. However, in the previous confrontation with the Luftwaffe, the Army Air Force of the island country has always been at a disadvantage, and the troops suffered heavy losses.

This time, the Luftwaffe added three tactical aviation clusters and three strategic aviation clusters to Nanyang and Australia, bringing the German Air Force's strength in Nanyang and Australia to 6 tactical aviation clusters and 3 strategic aviation clusters. A total of more than 5,400 fighters of various types. Moreover, the fighters of the three newly added tactical aviation groups are all TA-152 fighters, and the fighters in the previous three tactical aviation groups are also FW-190 fighters. Follow-up also began to supplement TA-152 fighters. This makes the power of the German Air Force in Southeast Asia and Australia completely superior to the army air force of the island country.

Before launching the offensive, the Luftwaffe found almost the locations of the airfields of the island army air forces on Sumatra, Java and Borneo. When the tactical aviation group assisted the navy in attacking the island army's fortifications on the coast, the three strategic aviation groups of the Luftwaffe, also under the protection of their own fighter jets, began to bomb the airport of the island army air force.

Destroy the enemy's airport first, defeat the enemy's air force, and seize air supremacy. This has become the common sense of the German army before launching a large-scale offensive. Compared with the German Air Force, the Army Air Force of the island country lacks experience in this area. This also made the island country's Army Air Force suppressed by the Luftwaffe from the very beginning. Moreover, this will cause the Japanese army to lose air supremacy. In the future, it will only continue to be at a disadvantage.

General Terauchi Toshiichi learned that except for the air force located in Luzon Island that was not bombed, the other three air forces were bombed. After suffering heavy losses, he immediately became furious.

"Baga! Don't those * have any defense at all? How could the Germans succeed so easily?" General Toshiichi Terauchi was very angry. He knew very well that after losing the air supremacy, it would be even more difficult to continue to resist the German attack.

Lieutenant General Tsukada Gong lowered his head and said nothing. This is the end of the matter now, and it is useless to say anything else.

"Report!" A communications officer stood at the door.

"What's the matter?" General Shouichi of the temple scolded.

"Sumatra and New Guinea were heavily shelled and bombed by the Germans," the officer reported.

"Baga! Did the Germans launch an attack on Sumatra, Java and New Guinea at the same time? Their appetite must be too big!" General Toshiichi Terauchi's expression became very ugly. He knew that the German army was launching a large-scale offensive. This also means that the entire Southern Army will now be in a bitter battle. Except for Borneo and the Philippine Islands, other major defense areas have become battlefields.

"Send a telegram to all the ministries, and the German attack will definitely be resisted!" General Toshiichi Terauchi ordered.

"Yes, Your Excellency, Commander." Lieutenant General Tsukada Gong hurriedly sent a telegram. He didn't want to stay here any longer to bear the wrath of General Shou in the temple.

New Guinea Island, the coastline near Port Moresby, two 'Derfflinger-class' battlecruisers of the German Navy's Pacific Fleet lead a fleet of cruisers and destroyers, and are conducting a war on this coast shelling. This was originally a German colony, but after the fall of Dutch Indonesia, the German army voluntarily abandoned it. This made the entire island of New Guinea fall into the hands of the island nation. However, the Solomon Islands were still under German control.

The German army started to fight on three main battlefields at the same time, which undoubtedly put the main force of the southern army of the island country army in fierce battle.

The Southern Army Command also reported the news of the violent attack by the German army to the country as soon as possible. However, the telegram sent to them from home was asking the southern army to stand firm and resist the German attack. As for support and others, nothing was mentioned.

In the northwest of Sumatra, the defense line of the 14th Front Army under the Southern Army of the island country was severely damaged by the heavy shelling of the German Navy and the bombing of the Air Force. A large number of fortifications were destroyed, and the island army on the front line suffered heavy casualties. Many island country army soldiers were even buried alive because the air-raid shelters and air-raid shelters were destroyed.

The fierce shelling and bombing by the German Navy lasted for a full two hours before coming to an end. When the shelling and bombing ended, the island army's defense line was already in a mess. The whole beach seemed to be plowed by someone with a plow.

"The German shelling and bombing stopped, and the troops were ordered to enter the position and prepare for battle!" General Fengwen Yamashita, commander of the 14th Front Army of the Japanese Army, issued the order immediately.

So, after receiving the order, the island army on the front line began to enter the position one after another, preparing to resist the German landing.

However, what puzzles the island army is. Although the German army put down a large number of landing craft on the sea, it has not started to attack for a long time.

Ten minutes later, the island army will know what the Germans want to do.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

The German fleet once again launched a fierce shelling, and heavy shells roared and hit the island army's position. Almost the positions that have been destroyed can no longer provide decent protection for the officers and soldiers of the Japanese Army. In other words, even if these fortifications are intact, they will not be able to withstand the bombardment of large-caliber naval guns at all.

For a while, the shells of the German navy fell like raindrops, causing great casualties to the island army on the position.

At the same time, the German Air Force launched another bombing, which further increased the losses of the island army.

After General Yamashita Fengwen heard the news, he almost vomited blood with anger.

At the same time, the German army also adopted the same deception tactics on Java Island and New Guinea Island. This caused the loss of the island army to soar. Before the German army started to land, the island army had suffered a lot of casualties. This undoubtedly added a shadow to this war.

"Baga! Cunning Germans, they are so despicable and shameless!" General Toshiichi Terauchi couldn't help cursing after learning about the situation on the front line.

This time, the German shelling lasted only half an hour before it began to extend to the depth of the island army's defense. The German Marine Corps began landing operations on Sumatra, Java and New Guinea.

Chapter 1760

In addition to the 14 armies of the German Army to reinforce Southeast Asia and Australia, the main force of the German Marine Corps also moved eastward. After all, whether it is a battle in Nanyang or an attack on the mainland of the island country, landing operations are essential.

In the Strait of Malacca, the sea surface has been occupied by landing craft of the German Marine Corps. The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Divisions of the German Marine Corps took the lead in launching a landing operation in this sea area. The warships of the German Navy continued to provide fire support for the Marine Corps. Especially those destroyers, even approaching the coast, fired wildly with artillery of various calibers.

For a while, the entire coast was burned into a sea of flames by German warships. The island army stationed on the coast suffered heavy losses under the powerful firepower of the German army.

Before the German marines washed up on the beach, the coast was already full of stumps and broken arms.

"Bastard, enter the position, the Germans are about to attack, we must resist their attack!" The officers of the Island Army drove the soldiers of the Island Army to the position like driving cattle.

People were constantly killed by shells falling from the sky, and the bodies were directly torn into pieces.

The Luftwaffe fighter planes also continued to attack the positions of the island country army. The fighter jets used aviation machine guns or machine guns to straf, and the dive bombers launched precision strikes on those firepower points that were not completely destroyed. The ground attack aircraft even dropped a large number of bombs. This caused a lot of losses to the island army on the ground.

I have to admit that the officers and soldiers of the Japanese army have a very complete will to fight, and even so, the officers and soldiers of the Japanese army persisted. However, the troops suffered heavy losses, and it was undoubtedly very difficult to resist the German attack.

"Boom! Boom! Boom!"

The island army also launched a counterattack, and their hidden artillery positions began to pour shells into the sea. Shells continued to fall into the sea, splashing jets of water that soared into the sky. Some landing craft of the German Marine Corps were also hit and were directly blown to pieces.

"Da da da!"

Some of the surviving machine gun fire points on the army positions of the island country were also firing frantically, and the bullets were strafing the sea. German marines were constantly being shot.

"Boom!"

A machine gun that was firing crazily was blown to pieces.

This was done by a dive bomber of the Luftwaffe. It is undoubtedly the responsibility of these dive bombers to destroy these firepower points that can cause great losses to the landing of the German Marine Corps.

"Shhhhhh!"

The armed helicopters of the German Navy also flew to the battlefield, pouring firepower on the positions of the island army. This kind of big killer that can hover on the battlefield and cover the positions of the island army with powerful firepower has caused heavy losses to the island army.

Amphibious assault ships on the sea, dock landing ships, and helicopters are constantly taking off. Whether it is an armed helicopter or a general-purpose helicopter, they have all participated in the attack on the army of the island country.

Under the fierce naval artillery strikes of the German Navy and the air strikes of the Air Force, the island army's counterattack did not cause much trouble for the landing of the German Marine Corps.

Soon, a landing craft washed up on the beach.

Although, the German marines who rushed to the beach were exposed to the firepower of the island army and suffered a lot of losses. But at least he won't be helpless. They sprawled on the beach and fought back with a variety of weapons.

As more and more landing craft rushed onto the beach, the German Marine Corps even launched an attack on the island army's positions. And under the fire support of one's own naval guns and air support, it once broke through the position of the island country army.

At the landing site chosen by the three Marine Divisions of the German Marine Corps, the battle was fierce. In order to hold the position, the island country army is almost desperate. No one ran away, and everyone fought to the death. But unfortunately, when the strength gap between the two sides is huge, no matter how tenacious the will to fight is, the final result cannot be changed. This is especially true when the German army's fighting will is also very tenacious.

After paying a certain price, the German Marine Corps successfully landed on the northern coast of Sumatra and opened up several safe landing sites.

The 11th Army under the E Army Group of the German Army, the 3rd Army under the F Army, and the 13th Army began to land one after another. With the landing of these main army troops, the German army launched an attack on the coastal cities in the northern part of Sumatra. After taking these cities, you can quickly disembark the heavy equipment of the German Army with the help of the port. In this case, the next battle will undoubtedly be much easier to fight.

When the German army and the island army fought in Sumatra. The 4th, 5th and 6th Divisions of the German Marine Corps, General, landed on Java Island. However, although the German Navy and Air Force used powerful firepower to attack Batavia, they did not choose to land here. These three marine divisions landed in Cirebon, Pekalongan and Semarang respectively.

Although the island armies stationed in these areas are very tenacious, under the strong firepower of the German army, these island armies have already suffered heavy losses. They had no way to stop the landing of the German Marine Corps, they could only watch the German Marine Corps land and then break through their defense line.

Once the German Marine Corps successfully lands and establishes a safe landing field, the German Army will begin to land. Even if the heavy equipment cannot be sent ashore for a while, they can be supported by naval gun fire when fighting on the seashore. Therefore, the firepower will not have much impact on them.

Of course, after the successful landing, the German army began to attack the coastal cities in an attempt to quickly capture the port. Then use the port to disembark more troops and heavy equipment. Only in this way can we have a greater advantage in the next battle.

New Guinea Island, the 7th Division of the German Marine Corps chose to land in the south of Port Moresby. With the fierce naval gun support of the German Navy and the air support of the Air Force, the 7th Division of the German Marine Corps also landed very quickly. Subsequently, the 22nd Army and the 24th Army under the E Army Group of the German Army began to land here. Their task will be to destroy the 10th Front Army and the 31st Army of the Island Army entrenched here, and completely recapture the entire New Guinea Island from the Islanders.
