

Kick Ass Wife 10

Chapter 10 They Were Found

However, when he spun around, he only glimpsed the sides of the woman and kid.

The boy was little and walked closely next to the woman with his short legs. The woman had slowed her pace, so it wasn't hard for him to catch up with her.

The woman looked slim, even a little bit fragile. Most of her small face was covered by her oversized sun glasses, but the uncovered lower part of her face was exquisite and pleasing to the eye.

Draxton somehow found the woman familiar.

He didn't rudely stare at them and averted his eyes

But inexplicably, he kept seeing that woman and boy in his mind's eye, especially that woman and her delicate jawline.

Out of the blue, Draxton pulled up short, and the expression on his face changed.

James Beck, his assistant, gave a start and almost collided with his back. The silver-brimmed glasses James wore jerked with his movements and almost fell off his face.

James pushed his glasses up hastily and asked in a low voice, "Mr. Lockwood, what's wrong? Are we being stalked?"

James was not being paranoid. It was just that Draxton's safety took the top priority, and so many people were lurking out there waiting for a chance to take Draxton's life.

Although bodyguards were protecting Draxton in secret, James automatically became on edge.

Draxton whirled abruptly. His tall and sturdy body was mountain-like, and his dark blue eyes were penetrating as he looked around like the alpha of a wolf pack.

The two figures were becoming smaller and smaller in the crowd, but he caught sight of them nonetheless.

James followed his gaze in bemusement but saw nothing.

Draxton lifted his wiry, long leg again and strode forward.

James quickly caught up with him. "Mr. Lockwood, did you notice anything suspicious?"

not going to Lotus for many years, he knew better than to have noticed intention of filling him in on more details, James didn't pry would tell him what to do when built high-end apartment complex buildings in Orchid Residences were all built in the European style. Apartments had lots of light there, and before on the third floor of Building A, which was the closest building to the entrance the entrance, they looked up and could see the wall-sized window of his face up with a tousled his hair and answered, and only one apartment on each floor. They opened the door. The house was 3,000 square feet, and its minimalist lived there, so everything in the house was covered in a thin layer much like Grandpa of his house is cold too." Ricky lifted bitter smile "Looks like we his thin great. You're the best, Ricky." Isabella crouched down to give the boy a moment. Then they looked into each other's eyes and said both smiled and started mop and and wiped the of them soon got sweaty. Before long, they gave the cold house a moment before saying to James and another two men, "Today at the airport, I saw Isabella. As we tow. He's about four and gave his silver-brimmed glasses a push to hide the astonishment in his eyes wide. Alan Drennon, the