Chapter 34 Bite Back

Elisa opened her eyes wide in horror as she looked at the big black horse galloping toward her. She completely forgot to react.

The big black horse came out of nowhere, leaving Elisa and Andre equally startled.

The little white horse was startled and instantly ran wildly.

Elisa screamed as she sat on the horse before she fell off.

At the same time, the little white horse stomped on Elisa's calve as it ran uncontrollably.

Isabella simply rode off on the big black horse.

The short-haired girl and her friends were watching from the lounge. The moment they caught the scene, they hurriedly ran toward Elisa.

"Elisa,

Miranda Lockwood was so startled that she lunged beside her little sister. Elisa was in so much pain that she passed out with her face ghastly pale.

"Andre, were you not supposed to keep an eye on my little sister?" questioned Miranda sternly.

Andre was at a loss and did not know what to do.

After snapping out of his shock, he quickly rode off and roared at Isabella, "Get over here!"

Isabella laughed frostily and ignored him completely.

Elisa made an attempt to scare the black horse and disregarded her well-being completely. She naturally had to fight back.

Isabella patted the black horse a couple of times. She leaned forward and commended the horse by its ear, "Black, well done!"

She gave the horse a thumbs up.

The big black horse blinked its eyes. Now, its attitude toward Isabella had undergone a 180-degree change. When Isabella reached her hand out, it tilted its head sideways and placed its head in her palm. They proceeded to ride off leisurely.

The horse was equally thrilled by the ride. This human being was good and did not get flung off by the horse, so it had accepted her in its heart.

After interacting with the horse, Isabella walked up to them leisurely and watched from the sidelines.

"Elisa, wake up." Miranda shook Elisa's shoulder anxiously. Elisa gradually woke up. Her face looked contorted from pain as beads of sweat trickled down her forehead.

The short-haired girl had already called the emergency hotline and the ambulance would probably get there

Soon

Miranda turned around and charged toward Isabella furiously. She slapped Isabella without hesitation. Isabella calmly moved sideways just a little bit, and Miranda missed Isabella completely

Since Miranda was running too hard, she lunged forward from the momentum and fell onto the ground altogether

It was clear how hard Miranda had tried to slap her

Isabella tilted her head sideways and glanced at Miranda mildly

The moment Miranda saw this, her eyes instantly turned red She was simply arrogant!

“Miranda!”

The short-haired girl screamed as she went forward to help support Miranda to get up.

Everyone looked at Isabella with murderous eyes and felt furious with her

The horse trainer, Andre, looked at Isabella From the look in his eyes, it was clear that she was dead meat

He reached his hands out and pointed at Isabella as he said threateningly, “Just you wait!”

He turned and said to Miranda apologetically, “Miss Miranda, it was my fault We should never have let customers like her into the club”

His face looked pale as he looked at Miranda and Elisa ingratiatingly and said, “Why don’t we forget about waiting for the ambulance? Why don’t I send Miss Elisa to the hospital instead to save time?”

Andre fell to the ground because of the kick. His brows were furrowed in pain. He peeked at Isabella's face, begging for mercy, but Isabella didn't even look at him.

It was as if he did not exist.

Andre was in despair. He had been working in the club for all these years and had been arrogant, which offended many unimportant people. However, he had never been in such a situation. He really regretted doing that.

Jude was afraid that Draxton and Isabella would be annoyed if he kept Andre in the room. So, he beckoned the security guards to shove him out.

Andre lost hope. He knew from that day onwards that his future was gone.

But soon, Andre realized that not only his future was over, but his life was also over.

After Andre was dragged away, Jude flattered Isabella and Draxton. "Chieftain, Miss, please calm down. I'll arrange an equestrian coach to teach you."

Isabella glanced at him and said, "You've seen the video. You know, I can ride it myself."

Cold sweat drenched Jude's forehead.

To him, Isabella seemed bad-tempered and difficult to coax.

However, Isabella suddenly changed the topic and said, "Is that big black horse for sale?"

Jude seemed to catch Isabella's interest and found a way to flatter her. So, he immediately shook his head as he stammered, "No... I-It's not for sale."

"Not for sale?" Isabella frowned.

Draxton glanced at Jude coldly.

Out of fear, Jude quickly added. "I'll give it to you... You can take it for free if you like it, Miss.

"Also, you can tell me if you like any other horses here. I'll give all of them to you for free."

Draxton's gaze was not that cold anymore.

Isabella didn't even bother to stand on ceremony and agreed. "Just give me the big black horse."

Then, she turned around and asked Draxton, "Can we keep horses in the estate?"

Draxton smiled lightly and said, "Of course, the maple forest is vast, and there are paths in the maple forest. It would be great to ride a horse through the forest."

Isabella's eyes lit up upon hearing that.

Draxton continued, "Actually, I have a red-haired horse of a rare bloodline, but this black horse seems rare too."

His eyes were fixed on her.

He had just seen how she had tamed the wild horse and ridden it like a lightning bolt.

She was not the woman he thought she was. Instead, she was brave and bright.

Draxton was a little displeased upon thinking about it. Isabella not only disliked him but also didn't open up to him. She seemed timid and cautious before him, but behind him, she was wilder than a wild horse.

His gaze made Isabella feel uncomfortable.

"Let's go back," said Isabella, breaking the awkward moment.

Draxton nodded, yet he was a little frustrated with himself. He had brought her there to build their relationship, but in the end, she got humiliated and wronged instead.

Meanwhile, Isabella felt relieved. She was not someone who would just suffer in grief and say nothing. Since she had gotten a horse for free, her mood brightened again.

"We need to go to the kindergarten to pick Ricky up," Isabella reminded.

Draxton nodded. "Well, it's still early. Let's go back to the estate first."
