

Kidnapped and Rejected The Return of Alpha's Luna by Moon Claw Chapter 11-12

"Alpha! How could you let Janet walk away like that?" Harper rushed to his side while yelling. "You haven't made her kneel down and apologize to me yet-

Her chin was grabbed by Daran all of a sudden.

Daran glared at her and breathed:

"If you still want to stay in BloodMoon Pack safe and sound, you'll stay away from Janet and not mess with her. I can't promise I'll save your ass next time. Do you hear me?"

Scared, Harper nodded quickly with tears.

Daran shook her off and walked towards the hotel, leaving Harper stomp her feet in fury behind his back..

In Casper's suite.

Janet had finished shower and got changed.

She came back into the living room and found Casper talking to Eden in a serious tone.

"...so I think we should kick him out of the alliance," Casper said.

"What's happening? Kick whom out?" Janet walked close wiping her wet hair. "What am I missing?"

Eden gave Casper a helpless look, "Your dear brother is thinking about kicking Riverside Pack out of the alliance. I'm telling him it is a terrible idea. Can you back me up here Janet?"

"It's a great idea!" Casper cried, "Riverside Pack was a bunch of losers maybe except their Alpha! And their Alpha is a total arse! We don't need them to defeat rogues-

"But we do."

Janet tossed her towel aside and faced Casper with a serious look.

"

"Brother, you don't need me to remind you that those rogues are very strong and I too was almost killed by them, do I?" Janet asked.

Casper clenched his fists, "How can I forget? I want to skin them alive every single day!"

"So that's why we must put our personal feelings aside and focus on the major goal here." Janet said sternly, "I won't let what happened in the past influence me. Will you, brother?"

"No! But..."

Casper hesitated. Then he gave Eden a furious glare.

Eden spread his hands and shrugged, "Don't look at me. It's the wise thing to do. It doesn't hurt to listen to your Beta and Gamma once in a while."

Casper rubbed his hair frustratedly.

"Fine!" Casper groaned, rolling his eyes. "But I think he is jealous of me. I'm totally using that hat against him."

Janet smiled, "Sure. Do as you want. But he stays because we still need him. Now let's go back to the meeting room."

When they returned to the meeting room downstairs, everyone had already been seated, including

Daran.

After what happened in the wrestling ring, nobody dared to challenge Janet's qualification anymore.

People all looked at Janet in awe as Eden pulled the seat open for her to sit down.

"OK, so let's begin our official meeting, shall we?" Casper tapped the table and said, "The reason that brought us here today is one thing—rogues."

Everyone nodded along with him.

"Rogues are becoming a very serious issue today," Casper said sternly. "They rob us, they slaughter women and kids, and they burn down our villages. We offered them peace treaty before but they rejected it and killed our messenger...I think many people here today have been through a rogue attack before. Including my Janet. I almost lost her to rogues 6 months ago."

Daran's body strained.

He looked over to Janet. But she had her eyes on Casper and completely ignored Daran's gaze.

"So how do you propose we should tackle this problem, Alpha Casper?" Alpha Jared from Silver Claw Pack asked.

"An alliance is what we propose," Casper said.

He looked over to Janet, who stood up and took over the topic.

"We caught a few rogues a month before and managed to get the location of their stronghold."

Janet tapped the remote and a large map was projected onto the big screen.

She pointed at a circled area on the map:

"There. It's way up north. We must climb over a few mountains before reaching their territory. But as you can see, this place is easy to defend but hard to attack. We need capable soldiers to take them down."
"

Her eyes traveled across the room.

"There are 5 packs in this room today. 5 largest pack alliance," Janet said.

There was a short silence.

And Daran was the first to respond.

n the world. We need all of you to form an

"Riverside Pack is on board," he said with a deep voice

But Janet didn't look back at him as he had hoped.

Then Alpha Jared from Silver Claw Pack raised his hand as those rogues already."

One by one, all 5 packs agreed to join.

at Janet.

"I'm fine with it too. I'm very sick of

A bright smile appeared on Janet's face, "Fantastic! So our plan was to start the attack on rogues at the turn of next year, which leaves us about 6 months to train our soldiers together."

"Where should we train them then?" Alpha Kai from Black Mountain Pack asked.

"Rogue's territory is way up north. So i think we should find a place which has a similar climate condition. Therefore-

11

She finally turned her gaze to Daran.

Daran's heart suddenly skipped a beat.

"-I suggest we train our soldiers at Riverside Pack," Janet said.

There was a short
silence while members from Riverside Pack exchanged looks of suspicious,

"That's impossible!" Baron suddenly snapped.

He shot up from his seat and pointed a finger at Janet crying:

"Who knew if the training is only a cover for you to spy on us? We won't invite people from other packs into our territory! Plus-"

He crackled a laugh and stared at Janet with a nasty look.

-

Why do you propose our pack specifically? I think you still have a thing for our Alpha and are using his training as an excuse to approach him!"

'But you better kill that thought immediately because our Alpha already has Lady Harper!"

Chapter 12

There was a ringing silence in the room.

At this point, everyone had sensed the tension between BloodMoon Pack and Riverside Pack

Casper's face darkened significantly.

He glared at Baron as though he was going to jump up and ripped. Baron's throat open the next second.

Yet Janet remained calm.

She slightly leant forward and braced his hands on the table, staring at Baron, "You want me to explain why I'm choosing your pack as the training site?"

Baron puffed his chest, "Yeah. I think I deserve to know."

"You?" Janet let out an icy chuckle, "Who the f**k are you? Since when does Riverside Pack let its Gamma make all the decisions?"

"You-!"

Baron's face turned purple. He was about to burst into roars when Daran's Beta Justin tugged at his sleeve.

Baron turned around and found Daran staring at him coldly.

Daran's sharp gaze rendered him afraid.

Shivering slightly, Baron lowered his head and sat back without a word.

"What do you say, Alpha Daran?" Eden pursued.

Daran focused his gaze on Janet and nodded, "We'd be happy to host it."

"Fantastic! It settles then."

Casper clapped his hands together and stood up laughing:

"We'll bring our soldiers into Riverside Pack half a month later. In the meantime, please feel free to explore BloodMoon Pack!"

The meeting was dismissed, and everybody filed out together.

Daran was dragged behind by Casper negotiating some details about the training.

When they finally moved out of the meeting room, they found Janet talking to Alpha Jared from Silver Claw Pack in the hallway.

"This is my first time in the BloodMoon Pack," Jared said briskly to her. "I must say you've got quite a scenery here."

"Indeed," Janet nodded while smiling politely. "Many tourists pour into our pack during the summer. We are well-known for our lakes and waterfalls."

Jared was encouraged by Janet's friendly attitude and moved even closer to her.

He flashed his baby-blue eyes and asked with his sexy voice, "You seem to be very familiar of BloodMoon Pack. Are you from here originally?"

"Yes."

"So Casper and Daran...Are you dating one of them? Or both?"

Janet

Janet let out a small chuckle, "I don't know where the rumor comes from. But I'm single."

The corner of Jared's lips lifted into a charming smile as he said;

"Fabulous."

"Well, well, well..."

Casper crossed his arm. He looked at Daran, who had a dark look on his face right now.

"Seems like Janet's admirers are lining up right now. But it's only natural. Who can resist her charm?" Casper shrugged playfully.

Daran clenched his fists.

in time to catch Jared's

He suddenly strode forward and walked towards the talking couple. He was just in time to catch Jared's invitation when he came close:

"...So nobody would mind if I take you to one of those waterfalls? I'd like to have a local to show me around-

Janet smiled and was about to say something when Daran came abruptly between them.

"You shouldn't ask her."

Daran kept Janet behind his back and faced Jared with a cold look.

"There are tour brochures everywhere," Daran said with a freezing tone. "I can ask my man to bring you a copy if you are too stupid to find one yourself."

Jared snorted.

"Daran Albright, sharp and mean as ever." Jared tilted his head to the side and looked at Janet. "Thank you for your advice but I'm asking Gamma Janet here. Who are you to interrupt us?"

"I-

"It's fine. Alpha Jared, I'm happy to do it." Janet walked out from Daran's back and smiled, "The weather should be nice tomorrow. Shall we hike to the Great Waterfall tomorrow morning at 7?"

"Great!" Jared laughed.

Daran's face was twisting in rage.

He suddenly grabbed Janet's shoulder and spun her around to face him and blurted out angrily:

"Are you out of your mind?! This guy is a f**king playboy! He specializes in playing with women! Do you want to get rejected, AGAIN?"

His roar echoed in the hallway.

Janet's face gradually turned dark.

Jared looked between the two of them and suddenly burst into laughter, "Don't be ridiculous Daran! Who is stupid enough to reject Janet?"

Then he gently rescued Janet's wrist from Daran's grip.

"Keep your hand to yourself," he said to Daran half-threatening and half-joking. "We all know you are a strong Alpha. There's no need to demonstrate your strength on a lady."

Janet rubbed her wrist and nodded at Jared with a smile, "Thank you. So tomorrow at 7?"

Jared blinked, "It's a date."

"Awesome!" Casper squeezed himself between the two of them and laughed, "Count me in! I can't miss a trip to the Great Waterfall!"

The three of them walked away together, talking excitedly about plans for tomorrow.

Daran remained on his spot.

There was a dark, gloomy look on his face as he stared at their back...

The next morning.

Janet got up early and refreshed herself.

She put her hair into a high ponytail and got dressed in a sport bra and leggings.

When she moved downstairs, her best friend Balvina had been waiting for her at the hotel lobby.

Balvina was a female warrior at BloodMoon Pack, She and Janet became closest friends soon after Janet was claimed back to BloodMoon Pack 6 months ago.

Last night when Balvina heard about the trip to the Great Waterfall, she enthusiastically volunteered to tag along.

Janet agreed with pleasure.

She knew that Balvina had a secret crush on her brother Casper. She had been trying to fix her up with Casper for a while.

While waiting for Jared and Casper to arrive, Janet told Balvina about what happened the other day during the meeting.

Sure enough, Balvina turned furious.

"Oh my god that Daran is such a jerk!" Balvina clenched her fists and snapped, "He refused to save your life and then rejected you. And now what? He is not happy with you hanging out with Jared? I think he can go suck his own dick!"

Janet shrugged, "That's just classic Daran."

When she was still his Luna, she often got confused over Daran's constant mood-swings. He often got angry over something she never did and gave her the cold shoulder.

Luckily for her now, she didn't have to guess his thoughts anymore.

"So what's his deal then?" Balvina nudged at Janet, "You wouldn't think he still loves you and wants to claim you back now?"

"No way. He clearly likes Harper now," Janet said firmly. "And I'd never agree to that."

"That's the spirit. Though I still think you should kick both of their asses-

Balvina suddenly froze.

She looked over Janet's shoulder and murmured in frustration, "...Oh what the hell?"

"What? Are they here?"

Janet turned around following Balvina's gaze.

A tall, handsome man dressed in sportswear with a hiking bag on his back just walked in to the lobby. He easily became the center of every girl's attention when he appeared.

But it's not Casper nor Jared.

It was Daran.

Daran

walked over to Janet and Balvina. When he received their hostile glares, he casually raised an eyebrow and said:

"Why? Only you are allowed to the Great Waterfall?"

Janet had a headache seeing this Alpha show up – this trip is going to be a tough one with Jared, Casper, and Daran altogether.