

Chapter 150— A Change Of Plan

FREYA

Later that day, Kale took the letter to the location where Ethan and Morgana exchange letters. Despite me wanting to come along with him, he had refused saying it was too dangerous and since he made a reasonable argument, I decided to stay behind.

Jet also send a letter informing me he wouldn't be able to come home until bedtime which mean that our plan of distracting him was working, I only hope there was some truth in the theories so all these wouldn't be a wasted effort and Claire would get her memories back one way or the other.

Hazel stopped abruptly, a surprised expression on her face as she came into the room and saw me pacing around, her hands were filled with folded clothes. "I'm so sorry for startling you Luna" She apologized immediately. "I did not expect to find you here in the middle of the day. I went to collect your laundries from the servant quarters" She informed me.

"No problem. Just do whatever you have to do, I'm waiting for Kale" I answered, darting a quick glance at the clock. She nodded her head before proceeding into the bedroom, I heard a knock on the door and thinking it was Kale. "The door is unlock" Instead, the person turned out to be Camille.

"The wolfsbane" She whispered flashing it in front of me. I took it from here and them separated it from the white cloth that was wrapped around it. "Please, do not open it further, it is layered well so none of it can spray out of the bottle. If as much as a drop of dust from the container gets out, then everyone present in this chamber would not be safe and that appears to be me" She warned and I quickly started to wrapped it up again.

I dropped it in my pocket once I was done. "Lucky for me, tonight isn't a full moon so I have another advantage against Morgana" I paused. "Can I get mountain ash too? That work on all supernaturals and it's better to be safe than sorry" I stopped talking once I noticed her looking over my shoulder. I followed the direction of her gaze, only to see she was staring at Hazel, who was coming out of the bedroom.

I knew Camille doesn't trust Hazel and the fact that I do bothers her, the same can really be said for Hazel too. As I said earlier, I wasn't going to address anything yet until she prove herself to me. "Thank you Hazel and I have a job for you" Hazel beamed at my words, ignoring Camille.

"It's not much but it is very important. I need you to make sure that no one comes into this room looking for me tonight. Just tell them, I have a fever or something, make up any lies that get them to leave me alone" I told her.

"What about Alpha?" We both know, she can't stop him.

"Just tell him I'm planning as another surprise for him and in all that you do, don't get nervous or act scared. Tell him straight up and don't think about me, if you must, try to guess what the surprise might be around him. He will want you to leave immediately without spoiling it for me" I explained and she nodded her head.

"You can count on me Luna" She assured me before leaving the room.

"I sometimes forget Alpha can read minds. It is a very cool ability, I recall while I was in the councils lab. They were injecting human with all sort of things to make them like him. Why were they so obsessed with him? I believe it is because they could not get him to join them so rather, they decided to create clones of him" Her body jerked as if recalling whatever they put her through.

"I met one of his clones remember? They did not only try to give him his abilities but Hus face as well. Poor guy died a miserable death. Jet refused to see his grave and I completely understand him. We never really talked about what you went through there, Jet has difficulties opening up about his own experience and I'm hoping one day, he will tell me"

"It is a very difficult experience to talk about and I did not go through half of what Alpha went through. They did not know what to do with the females yet so they just kept us in a cage in the basement. Sometimes we were asked to serve members of the councils" She responded.

"Members? You speak as if they are more than four" I have only heard of four of them, probably because I saw them when Sophie kidnapped and took me to their headquarters. Jet already killed one of their members.

"They are more than that. I cannot recall their exact number. Some are creatures I have never seen before and very ugly to look at..." A single knock on the door interrupted our conversation, a second later, the door opened and Kale stepped in.

"I was so worried" I cried as I stood up on my feet to give him a hug. "How did the journey go?"

Chapter 150— A Change Of Plan

"Everything went according to plan. I made sure to wait until Morgana came to pick the letter to make sure Ethan was telling us the truth" He answered.

"What? What if she catch your scent?" Camille interjected but Kale shook his head.

"There was a lot of werewolf present in the bar including Shifters. She cannot detect my scent in a crowd that many unless I'm her mate and I'm not. So there is no need to get worried. What time do we leave?" He asked, sitting down beside me.

"Once it start getting dark then we leave. Thank you for the wolfsbane by the way. I'm going to check on Claire and see how things are going between her and Hunter" I let them know before leaving.

Few minutes later, I was standing outside Claire's room. I knocked on the door but no response and that went on for a while until I got approach by her handmaid as they call it.

"Have you seen Claire? I have been knocking for a while now and can't seems to get any response" I asked her.

"Lady Claire left with Beta half an hour ago, she told me they were going for a walk in the garden" She smiled. "I'm glad, they are spending time together once more" She added, I smiled back before dismissing her.

I turned to leave and almost bumped into Hazel. "Why are you everywhere?" I teased, making my way back to my room.

"I cannot help it Luna" She responded and I could tell she was fighting off a smile. "Lady Caroline sent another letter, requiring about the ball you promised to host. She also want to know if there is anything she can do to help"

"Phew!" I sighs. "I totally forgot all about that. You know what? Write back to her, tell her I will be hosting the ball on Saturday, that is two days away correct? Tell her I got everything covered" I replied.

The rest of the day, I spent with Kale and Camille. We spoke more about our plans, had lunch then waited and before you know, it was night time and we proceeded to carry out our plans.

Kale and I waited for Camille to show up with Ethan on our agreed location, Hazel was on the lookout as we sneak out using the secret passage in Kale's room. Camille showed up half an hour later, by then I was convinced something had happened to them or she had changed her mind. Kale was even on the point of checking on her before they show up, she shoved Ethan in Kale's direction.

Breathing heavily, she said. "It was hard carrying an extra weight and we were almost caught because the guards kept smelling blood in the air"

"The blood on his body are all dried up. They must be smelling fresh blood from one of the rogues. The good thing is, none of you were cut. So Ethan, are you prepare to take us to meet Morgana?" Kale demanded and Ethan nodded.

"We can't passed through the dungeon, it is too risky. We wouldn't make it far before the guards ranted us out" I groaned not believing we completely left out this important details. "Tell me you know another exit" I asked Kale.

Chapter 150— A Change Of Plan

He sighs. "On a normal circumstances you all are not suppose to know this and I do not want to hear any words about it, if we all make it out alive" We all nodded in agreement.

Their secret meet ups wasn't even that far from the pack and once we got to the location, Kale untied him and pushed him forward to speak to Morgana while we hide in the nearby bushes, in other to hide their scents, Kale brought something along and spray it on himself and then Camille, like it was some kind of perfume.

"Blue" Ethan shouted what I'm guessing his their code word. Blue? Really?

"Ethan" I heard Morgana said coming out of whatever place she is hiding. "I got your emergency letter, although I find it very strange. We are not to meet until tomorrow, have you been missing me?" Hearing her talk to him, I almost believed she feels something for the poor guy but that just shows how manipulative she is.

I couldn't hear what Ethan said in response because I was totally catch off guard when Kale came out of his hiding place. I covered my mouth as a gasp threatened to slip out as Kale digged his fangs into Ethan's neck and then snapped his neck, killing him. Ethan's body dropped heavily on the floor.

"Kale!" Morgana growled, bearing out her fangs and ready to attack. This wasn't part of our plans, the plan was for me to fight Morgana and not him!