Chapter 156— How We Came To Be

JET

If it were up to me, I would have been in New York the second I heard that my human mate was getting married to her suitor but I waited in two long weeks of agony, imagining the worse possible thing. As soon as Knox return to the base and his mate sent me a thank you note, the next day Kale and I were on a plane to New York City.

I once made sure not to concern myself with anything relating to humans activities until I found out having a friendly relation with people in the position of power would help my going and coming into any countries I wanted. I managed to do that, so I became acquaintance with a few of them. A friendly business arrangement we all benefits from, despite that I made sure we are not exposed to them.

Even though our world was on an Island, meaning we could also travel by ships but having learned that plans were faster, I bought a private jet under the names of one of my business partner. It took us about twelve hours before we arrived at our destination and immediately checked into a hotel.

The first thing I did after arriving was having a meeting with my undercover men, telling them to round off whatever business they had left that they were to return to the pack on a ship, I will send another team to take over, so they can return home to their families.

The next morning, I went to have lunch with one of my friend in New York, hoping he has some informations about the so called suitor my mate is being forced to marry. What if she really wants to marry him? a voice in my head taunted but I shook it off. If she wanted to marry some other loser, she wouldn't have reached for my hand with the mate link.

"Jet" Zane stood up to shook hands with me. "Mind if I ask what brings you by?" He asked but I did not provide him an answer right away as we were interrupted by a waitress.

Once she left after taking our orders, I replied. "I'm simply here to take what belong to me"

His eyes widened a bit. "Why does that sound like a threat?"

The corner of my mouth lifted at his words before leaning slightly towards him. I lowered my voice as I asked. "I need information on Dane Grayson's son in law. I heard he is to marry his daughter, I want the address of the venue and other important details. I shall reward you for it" Just incase he tries to deny it, I listened to his heartbeat.

The waitress approached us with our orders, interrupting us once again. I hate having meetings at restaurants but humans on the other hand seems to love it. Due to her being distracted with staring at me, the waitress knocked over one of the glass cup she placed on the table.

Zane and I stood up immediately. In order not to get her in trouble, I told Zane we should leave. Even on the verge of bursting into tears, she kept apologizing. We left, right after I made sure he left a tip for her.

"What would my reward be?" He questioned as we walk towards his vehicle.

"I don't have the time to discuss details of your reward. Send me the information I need and also what you want in return for it. I will make certain you get it, that is if you are not asking for something ridiculous or impossible" I replied, impatiently.

"You do realize who you are talking to right?" He teased. "Usually, no one dares talk to me like that but you are exception. Anyways, I'll send the details to you before the day is over" And that was it, the conversation ended and we went our separate ways.

"While you were gone, I researched about how human marriage ceremonies works and the results are pretty interesting, it obviously does not work like our mating ceremonies. Human have different cultures and traditions so people do their marriage ceremonies according to their cultures or traditions" Kale explained as soon as I stepped into the hotel room.

"I don't fucking care" I growled at him.

"You should" He insisted. "What if your mate demands a human wedding ceremony? How are you going to give her one when you have no idea?" How could I possibly disagree with that?

So for the next hours, Kale and I researched about different cultures of humans and their wedding ceremonies, since I had no idea what my human mate culture is, I had to go through everyone one of them. At some point during the night, Kale left me and went to bed but I continued regardless until my cellphone beeped, indicating a message.

I have always been told that my mood changes so fast but I never believe it until this moment, Zane sent the address alright and it shows that the wedding is happening tomorrow! What if I didn't get here on time? Then the bastard would have married her!

I shut down the laptop, telling myself there will be plenty of time for me to learn about her culture wedding ceremony but now, I have to get her away from those disgusting piece of shits, including her father.

Hunter picked up the phone at the second ring and I immediately went straight to the point. "The fucking ceremony is going to take place tomorrow morning, Just as we fucking suspected, the wedding is rushed. Whatever Dane Grayson is planning would come after the ceremony so, focus on getting me information on the fucker I asked you to, taking my mate away tomorrow may disrupt whatever it is they were planning, which in return we buy us more time"

"That is a lot of cuss words" He remarked.

"Good thing you are not a lady then" He snapped before ending the call.

I immediately knew when it was morning because I could not get a wink of sleep during the night. I kept turning and tossing until I finally gave up on sleeping and started plotting out my revenge plan. A normal man whose mate is on the verge of getting married, would have left immediately he got the message or this morning but I will not be doing that.

I will wait in the shadows, I want the fuckers to think their plan is working. I want her suitor to feel he will have her soon if he didn't already think he already has her. And then in the last minute before they take their vow, I will walk in unannounced and take what belong to me in front of everyone of them.

The plan calmed me down, made me patient until it was finally time for me to carry it out. Immediately I stepped into the church, all eyes left both the bride and the moron she was getting married to. There eyes were on me as I walk towards the soon to be married couple, Dane men tried to stop me but my men stopped them before they could reach me.

I stopped in front of them and reach out for my mate, just as she had reach for me countless times in my dreams. However, my eyes were on her mate, daring him to try and stop her.

"Who the fuck are you dude?" He yelled, glaring at me.

Her mate It was on the tip of my tongue to say but I decided not to. "I'm Jet" I introduced myself.

"Then what the fuck is your business here? If you are here for the wedding then stay in the fucking crowd" He barked, for a split moment, he looked dangerous but then I glimpse the fear in his eyes, the desperation in his action and the rate at which his heart was beating. Now, that was very interesting.

Someone cleared their throat beside me and my gaze softened as I looked at my mate. Although I hated the wedding dress on her but it suit her so well. I could not see her face clearly due to the veil covering her face but when she raised it, I stared at her, stunned for a moment.

"What-is-going-on" She asked, her voice soft and laced with tears.

She is so feminine and soft, what I could do to her! I pushed the dark thoughts away and tried to assured her. "Mine" Is that came out of my mouth instead which by the look in her eyes, I knew it seems to scare her more.

Before I could think of something to say, to correct my mistake. Someone fired a gun and everyone went wild, screaming and running out. Kale appeared by my side and I mind link him to get my mate out of the commotion before she's injured.

As soon as Kale picked her up, her so-called suitor tried to stop him but I block him, punching him hard enough to send him flying across the room. I knew that punch would land him in the hospital due to broken bones and that should do—for now.

My mate was screaming loudly now, fighting kicking and trying to get Kale to put her down. As they were both struggling, I walk past them and went to wait inside the car. He managed to get her into the car next to me, the driver locked the doors in case she tries to get out and she will.

As the car drove towards the airport, my mate continued to fight, scream and trying to get the door open. I watch her, smiling to myself. I know I might have got her but things were far from being over.

I was forced back to the present due to a knock on the door, at first I thought it was Claire coming to sit with me and console me like she has been doing for the past three days but instead it was one of the maid, so I told her to come in.

"I apologize for disrupting your peaceful moment Alpha but Beta sent me to inform you that the Luna has regain consciousness" The words hadn't completely left her
