

SPOILED BY THE CEO: WHY THE WIFE IS KINDA SWEET?

Chapter 18 Shopping With Him

Brian?

Why was he here?

Natalia instantly tensed up and glanced behind Brian, but she didn't see the man in her mind.

Katie did not know him and frowned unpleasantly, saying, "Who are you?"

Although the sales assistant didn't know him, he knew the mall manager behind him and hastily tugged on Jessica's sleeve gently and whispered something.

Brian sneered and commanded directly to the person behind him.

"The McCarthy always has a rule. We won't bully any customer even if it runs a large business. How dare you be arrogant as a shareholder and bully customers in the mall? If we let you do this for a long time, it will definitely ruin the fame of the McCarthy."

"Mr Jenson, take down Miss Miller's words today, and fling them back to Mr. Miller. Ask them not to blame us for kicking them out in spite of the contract. From now on, let them not get involved in Central Square's business!"

Mr Jenson trembled and agreed hastily.

Katie's face changed immediately, "You're from the McCarthy?"

Brian sneered, "Miss Miller has finally figured out what's going on."

"Even if you're from the McCarthy, you can't make random decisions."

"Just wait and see if I have the right to make a decision. I'm sure Chairman Miller will tell you his decision when he gets home tonight."

After he finished, he didn't want to talk to Katie any more, and walked straight to Natalia, whispering.

"Miss Natalia, Mr. Archie is waiting for you outside, see..."

Natalia's face changed slightly and bit her lips.

"My friend is still upstairs..."

"I'll explain to her."

Natalia looked up at him and eventually nodded.

When she went out of the shop, she walked a dozen meters to her left and sure enough, she saw a man standing there.

He was in a black suit with a serious look, deep eyebrows, handsome and upright face. Standing there, he became natural scenery.

Seeing her, Archie waved his hands toward her.

Natalia walked over and stood still a step away from him, forcing a smile on her face.

"Mr. McCarthy, what a coincidence! You're shopping too?"

Archie tugged his lips and raised his hand to pull her over.

Natalia was shocked and stumbled, but falling into his arms out of her expectation.

"What are you doing?"

"Don't move."

Archie reached out his hands to pick off the fragment on her hair, his move was gentle and natural.

Natalia stunned, and her face flushed involuntarily.

She stepped backwards, lifting a hand to tuck a stray of hair behind her ear.

Natalia was inexplicably afraid to look into his eyes.

"Well... thank you for sending Brian to help me out."

Archie smiled and said in a gentle voice.

"I happened to pass by and noticed someone arguing in the store. It sounded like you. It turned out to be true, so I have to say we're really destined to run into each other, even when we're shopping."

Natalia looked up at him curiously.

"Shouldn't you be working in the company at this time of the day? How come you go shopping now?"

The man lied without changing his posture, "I'm off today."

"Ok!"

Although Natalia was a little confused about why Archie would be off on a Monday, she figured bosses would set their schedule by themselves. So she didn't ask further.

She glanced around, not seeing anyone else, and asked, "Are you shopping alone?"

Archie nodded.

"Wouldn't that be boring?"

"A little bit, so can you accompany me later?"

Natalia was dumbfounded.

That was a tough question, and it was weird... to answer!

She forced a smile and declined him politely, "I'm here with my friend. It's not very convenient!"

Archie thought for a moment and nodded, "Indeed."

He suddenly took out a black gilded card from his pocket and put it in her hand.

"Then take this."

Natalia was startled.

If she was not mistaken, this card should be the VIP card of the McCarthy's shopping mall with a large sum of deposit. It was a symbol of wealth and noble identity.

With this card, Natalia would be regarded as a member of the McCarthy family, and no one dared to look down on her wherever she went in the future.

She opened her mouth in surprise and looked at Archie.

"You're giving this card to me? Why?"

Archie frowned, as if he didn't like her question.

"Doesn't my wife deserve a black card?"

Natalia didn't know how to respond to it.

That...really made it hard for her to refuse this card.

"I haven't agreed to..."

"We already got the license."

Archie interrupted her and added seriously, "The reason why I give you three days is because I think you might have difficulty accepting the fact of our marriage. However, that doesn't mean you can use it to deny our relationship. You should understand it"

Natalia's phone suddenly rang.

She had to answer the phone first, as the call was from Victoria.

"Hello, Natalia! I heard you have to leave because you have something urgent to handle. What's happening?"

Natalia glanced at Archie.

His face was full of innocence, and she could only blame this on Brian, saying,

"Nothing's wrong! I'll be right back. Don't worry."

"Never mind, I just got a call from my agent. There's a temporary activity I have to attend. Maybe I have to get there later. Let's meet again next time!"

Natalia had no choice but to agree, and then hung up the phone.

Archie's face was full of smiles.

"Isn't your best friend coming now?"

Natalia stared at him suspiciously, "Mr. McCarthy, do you arrange this?"

The man shook his head, "You mean I arrange someone to ask your friend out just to go shopping with you? I am not that boring and I don't know your friend at all!"

Natalia thought what he said was true.

Well! She wouldn't blame him this time.

Seeing that her tension finally eased, Archie smirked and said, "Mrs. McCarthy, do I have the pleasure to invite you to go shopping with me?"

How can anyone refuse it, considering his gentle attitude?

Natalia curled up her mouth with a leathery smile, "What do you want to buy?"

"Well... help me pick out some clothes!"

Natalia had never accompanied a man to buy clothes in her entire life. Shawn didn't even have that honor.

But it was hard to deny that Archie had a perfect body.

Archie had wide shoulders and narrow waist, slender with a perfect figure in the golden ratio, and most importantly, he was handsome!

Girls in the fashion shop were attracted by his appearance. They all flushed and held their faces, with an entranced look.

"Dear god! Where was this man come from?"

"He was so awesome!"

"Mom, I wanted to marry him!"

Natalia sat there speechlessly, as she nodded at every set of clothes Archie changed into.

Well, this one was good, and that one was good. It seemed every set of clothes looked good on him.

After seeing so many clothes he changed, she realized there was not a single piece of clothes Archie couldn't fit in.

Regardless of the style and color, handsome and dashing, elegant and reserved, it matched him perfectly.

In short, if this man became a model or entered the entertainment industry, he would be really popular by his appearance.

She couldn't help but sigh.

Well, this guy was so rich! Why was he still so handsome?

A man with such a handsome face didn't want to cash his appearance. It was outrageous!

The Assistant-PR-Agent Natalia began her fantasy again, picturing in her mind how popular Archie would be if she took charge of him. He would surely be the most valuable superstar!
