

SPOILED BY THE CEO: WHY THE WIFE IS KINDA SWEET?

Chapter 5 Stop The Loss

Chapter 5 Stop The Loss

Natalia leaned weakly over the car window. She was watching the night view flash by, and the rims of her eyes were red.

What Shawn had said was still lingering in her ears but now she just found them ridiculous.

She was not the weak type. She fought back when she could bear no more. But in the eyes of Shawn, she was the one who was bullying.

She was driven out of the Dawson family, and everyone across the city had known that she was the abandoned daughter of the family.

She did not want to make things difficult for him and could only avoid showing up in the public. But in the eyes of Shawn, it became her reluctance to go to social parties with him.

As for her adult product business?

Were it not for what the Dawson family had done to her, were it not for the selfishness and biases of the Dawson family, would she end up like this?

And all of these ended up being her own faults?

Natalia closed her eyes, feeling everything was so ridiculous.

Suddenly, a man's voice suddenly came up to her, "Is it worth it? You are so sad for such a crab."

She froze a little, and looked over. In her now blurred vision, she saw a man sitting right there, cool and noble. His back was straight, his eyes were cold. Only then did it come to her mind that she had got into a car with a man and this man had help her in the bar just now.

Knowing that there was someone next to her, she could only try to get herself together and wipe off the tears on her face, "You must be mistaken. I'm not."

Shawn raised his eyebrows and his stares fell on her eyes, red but still beautiful.

Natalia explained, "Do you know what you should do when an investment fails?"

"What?"

"Cut it loose and stop the loss."

These gentle words from his thin lips made her heart tremble.

She looked over and saw his towering body. The dim light of the street cast a layer of shadow on the side of his chiseled face, and a cool and noble aura can be seemed from his whole being.

She sure had seen good-looking men and Shawn was one of them.

However, Shawn was far behind the man standing in front of her at the moment.

No matter how bright a star could shine, it could never be compared with the moon and the sun. The man in front of her was dazzling. He was like an eagle flying freely above even the heaven, with unparalleled nobility.

Not to mention his face. Such a gorgeous face was enough to make just any woman scream.

Suddenly, a seemingly absurd thought flashed across her mind...

Staring at the side of his delicate face, she gulped, "I see."

She paused for a while and asked all of a sudden, "What do you think of the adult product business?"

Archie said, his brows knitted, "Just a normal business. I don't think there is anything special with it."

She smiled somewhat sweetly.

Smiling, she was half drunk, yet he could still see the great emotion in her sexy and charming eyes.

Her voice was soft, "Neither do I."

All of a sudden, a hint of clean and comforting fragrance climbed onto his nostrils. He turned his head slightly, only to see her straighten her body and lean forward against him.

"Then, what do you think of me? Am I beautiful?"

His back stiffened.

The woman in front of him was no doubt beautiful.

She was more than just beautiful. She was also stunningly sexy.

Although she only wore a simple beige jacket over a white camisole, it could not hide the clean and noble aura emanating from her body.

“I have never seen a woman more beautiful than you are,” he could not help but think.

He gulped but he did not say a word.

It was only a few moments later that he gave an uncomfortable, “Mm...”

Natalia leaned even closer, and her bright red lips almost brushed his ear.

She thought she had kept her voice down, and she said, “Then if I want to have sex with you, would you be willing?”

“Pfft—”

Brian, while he was driving the car, could not help but snort a laugh.

The next second, however, he felt the blazingly cold gaze behind him.

He hurriedly stopped smiling and pressed a button. A glass panel raised silently, separating the front seat and the back seat cabins.

Only then did Archie looked back at the woman next to him.

He squinted at her, and an unusual expression could be seen from his eye,

“There’s a price to pay if you want that, are you sure?”

She giggled, “You want money? I have money.”

With that, she produced her wallet from her bag, and took out all of the hundred dollar bills she got.

“You can count it out. If it’s not enough, I can also transfer some more to you.”

Only then did Archie understand that she had been serious.

The veins on his forehead throbbed twice and he rubbed his temple.

“So you are just going to sleep with whoever is with you tonight.”

She shook her head.

All of a sudden, she giggled again and reached over to pat him on his face.

“I am not that dumb. I want you just because you are handsome. They all looked down on me. So I have got to find someone who is more handsome than he is. They must be soooooo mad!”

Such an answer had indeed surprised Archie.

He did not know what to do with her. Apparently he did not plan to take it seriously.

At this moment, the car suddenly screeched to a stop.

Natalia crashed forward and was almost flung out if Archie had not held her just in time.

Archie frowned and asked, “What happened?”

The voice of Brian sounded from the front seat, “Sorry, sir. We’ve just arrived at the McCarthy Mansion.”

“Alright. You can go now.”

“Yes, sir.”

Then there was the sound of door closing. Archie looked back at the woman in his arms. He could not help but knitted his brows seeing her drowsy eyes and glowing pinky cheeks.

“Here we are. Let’s get in.”

Yet the woman who was leaning against him did not move at all but stared at his noble and willful face.

On that noble and cold face, his lips were thin and sexy. She felt herself bewildered seeing the movement of those lips.

With the help of the alcohol, she could no longer hold back herself.

She reached over and circled her arms around his neck. The next moment, her

His back stiffened and his pupils dilated slightly. Yet the next moment, the softness was already nowhere to be found. Instead, there were the giggles of Natalia, who saw the serious face of him.

“Handsome, you’ve got a real sweet mouth.”

He did not know what to say for an instance, and just wanted to throw her out of the car.

Eventually, he held back the impulse and said in a grim tone, “Get your hands off me!”

But she did not listen to him. She blinked, staring at his handsome and cold face, and the rims of her eyes became red again.

“So you also think I am cold and dull. And you don’t want to sleep with me?”

Archie’s jaw tightened, “That’s not what I mean.”

“Then why won’t you agree?”

She suddenly felt aggrieved. Two streams of tears flowed down her now pale cheeks, forming large drops of glittering gemstones from her chin.

His heart tightened for some reason even he himself could not tell.

The tears of the woman in his arms poured without restraint and soon wet his shirt.