

King of Hell 291

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 291: This Group Of Animals!

Everyone roared with laughter and jeered in unison, "After Eldest Brother finishes having fun with her it'll be our turn!"

The girl struggled with all her might to escape from the man's large hands, simultaneously letting out a heart-rending screech, "You're all animals! Animals! If you dare touch me, my Master and Daddy will never let you go! Kill me if you have the ability!"

The masked man yelled as he groped her chest, laughing with a lecherous expression, "Kill you? Such a beautiful girl; how could we be willing to kill you!?"

The force of his grip increased and a tearing sound could be heard as the girl's clothes were instantly torn to shreds, revealing her soft skin and red undergarments.

"Indeed this is an item of the highest quality!" Saliva pooled in the men's mouths and their eyes gleamed with fiery lust. "Eldest Brother, what are you waiting for, quickly f*ck this girl! With the fog being so thick and heavy, it's a natural barrier from prying eyes!"

The masked leader's eyes were also shining as he turned to his brother behind him, and said, "Shou Hou, hold this girl's feet for me, don't let her move."

After his words, he immediately pinned the girl to the ground as if she was an animal.

The girl's miserable and desperate shrieks echoed incessantly throughout the thick fog, however, her resounding scream was unanswered. Furthermore, even if someone did hear it, what could they do? Everyone in this thick fog was rendered powerless so who could come and save her?

In the blink of an eye, the masked man had completely stripped off the girl's clothes. Shou Hou couldn't help but loudly swallow his saliva as he held the girl down, an impatient expression on his face.

All of a sudden, Shou Hou felt something cold touch his neck that caused a sharp twinge.

He couldn't help but reach out his hand to touch his neck, yet unexpectedly, his line of sight abruptly changed and flipped completely upside down.

Shou Hou opened his eyes wide with shock and stared helplessly at his now headless body. He then watched as it incessantly spewed forth a tremendous amount of blood that splashed across the girl's body, as well as the Boss's.

"ARGHH-!!" Amongst the robust men standing around in a circle and watching, the cowardly ones uttered screams of terror.

The masked leader who was soaked in blood finally returned to his senses and suddenly jumped up, gripping his large axe as he shouted, "Who are you that you dared to launch a sneak attack on us?! Quickly reveal yourself!"

As his words fell, he saw a vague silhouette slowly moving within the white fog.

It was a youngster who looked to be about sixteen to seventeen years old. He had snow-white skin, striking features, and bright red lips that were slightly pursed; like a red plum flower that had softly fallen onto the snow in winter.

As he gradually appeared the dense fog swept across his face, slicking back the jet black strands of his satin-like hair and causing it to gently stick to his slender and fair neck. Following the gorgeous arc of his neck, it gracefully extended downwards to an exquisite collarbone; prompting wild and fanciful thoughts.

The masked leader gulped. He could clearly see that the person before his eyes was a man, yet he still couldn't help but feel his throat tighten, his breathing deepen, and the stirring in his genitals that had vanished due to the blood just a moment ago, was now back and throbbing more vigorously than before.

Oh shit! This was apparently a young man, however, to think that he was actually more seductive than the young lady from the Red Cloud sect!

"Stinky brat, you must have guts if you want to be a hero and rescue a beauty. Or do you want to replace that young lady and have fun with us brothers instead?"

The youngster ignored him and laughed, a corner of his mouth lifting into a stunning curve before he suddenly waved his right hand.

A purple shadow flew like a lightning bolt towards the man who spoke. Before he could react, that purple shadow abruptly wrapped around his neck and dragged him forwards like a dead fish.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 292: Helping Others

When everyone could finally see what it was, they saw that the purple shadow was actually a vine. Moreover, it was emitting a frightening amount of spiritual pressure.

"Who did you want to have fun with?" The youngster's voice echoed in their ears. It was a clear and melodious voice which was pleasant to listen to, but when it reached their ears, it was like hearing an evil spirit from the underworld.

The man hanging from the vine opened his eyes wide and wanted to beg for mercy, but before he could utter a word, a crack resounded in his ears as his neck was instantly snapped and he lost his life.

A corner of the youngster's mouth curled up into a cruel smile. "As for the rest of you, who else wants to have fun with me?"

The very youngster before them now was Hexi.

Not long after she'd entered the white fog, she was separated from Nangong Yu and the others.

As for the reason of their separation, Hexi had noticed that the purple vine in her hand was restless.

After entering the white fog, Hexi discovered that the white fog did more than merely injure a martial artist than just absorbing their spiritual power.

Within the white fog, there was a hard to detect aura of ice cold spiritual power. It entered a martial artist's meridians little by little, gradually slowing their movements.

If they had a spiritual power supplement, it wouldn't really matter, but because spiritual power couldn't be used within the white fog, they could only purely rely on physical strength to resist the cold. Since everyone's physical strength decreased extremely fast, in just a short period their complexions had all become somewhat pale.

Only Nangong Yu and Hexi didn't seem to be affected by the white fog.

It was at this time that Hexi was surprised to discover that Nangong Yu had a dual soul cultivation base. Although he still couldn't use spiritual power, the cold air within the dense fog was nothing to him.

While Hexi, on the other hand, wasn't affected because of the plant spirit pet that she'd just taken in...

Though Hexi would never have guessed that the draining effect the white fog had towards spiritual power would be utterly ineffective towards the Purple Abyss Vine!

Not long after entering the white fog the Purple Abyss Vine had quietly left her space to explore, full of happiness and joy as it occasionally absorbed the spiritual power within the white fog. This caused Hexi to feel comfortably warm without a trace of coldness.

However, what Hexi didn't expect was that after the Purple Abyss Vine had absorbed an enormous amount of spiritual power from the white fog, it unexpectedly had a small advancement.

This transformation affected the white fog and unfortunately caused a whirlpool to form inside the fog. But because the Purple Abyss Vine was her spirit pet, she was directly involved and was drawn into the whirlpool too! As soon as she awoke, she found herself alone.

When Hexi recalled being swept up into the whirlpool, she remembered Nangong Yu's frightened and sorrowful expression, as well as his trembling shouts. Her heart couldn't help but slightly tighten. That guy...he was really worried about her?

Hexi returned from her train of thought about Nangong Yu and swept her icy gaze over the masked men, before ultimately settling them on the undressed girl.

The clothes on the girl's body had long been torn to reveal her delicate skin, but sadly, it also showed the ghastly bruises and cuts that covered her.

The girl's expression had been blank as if she'd reached an extreme level of fear and desperation. It wasn't until her gaze had locked with Hexi's that she'd finally realised that she was saved, and it was then that she'd broken down into loud sobs.

At that moment, she'd really thought that she was ruined! Even if she hadn't died today, her life would've still been the same as a dead person's.

However, at such a critical moment, this god-like youngster had appeared like a hero with a bright cloud beneath his feet, rescuing her from hell.

Hexi's eyes widened, and her cold gaze travelled back towards the few masked who were still panicking. "Originally, I wasn't interested in meddling in other people's business, but who told you all to commit such a disgusting act! You're all worse than pigs! You're fortunate for running into me today since this Young Master occasionally likes to help others. After all, what harm is there in helping others once in a while?"

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 293: Blood Refining Body Cultivator

"Damn bastard, who do you think you are?! How dare you meddle in our business?!"

At that moment, the masked leader finally returned to his senses. When he took a closer look at Hexi's frail figure, exquisite face, pure white skin, and body without any spiritual power fluctuations, he immediately sneered without the fear that he'd had a moment ago.

"You're only relying on a spiritual weapon that doesn't require spiritual power, yet you want to take advantage of us? Dream on!"

"Haven't I told you yet? I'm a blood refining body cultivator, not an ordinary spiritual cultivation martial artist. Even if you use a magical weapon, don't think that you can survive under my hands!"

Upon saying that, the bodies of the masked men suddenly exploded with a severe amount of pressure that rivalled Mount Tai, and their entire bodies began to be enveloped in orange light.

Upon saying that, the bodies of the masked men suddenly exploded with a severe amount of pressure that rivalled Mount Tai, and their entire bodies began to be enveloped in orange light.

In this world, most martial artists chose the road of spiritual cultivation. However, there were also a few who had poor qualifications and eventually decided to refine their bodies instead.

Refining the body was a hundred times more painful than spiritual cultivation, and the majority didn't survive the training. In the end, they could only die like an ordinary person. Therefore, exceptions such as Nangong Yu's were abnormal; being able to achieve a dual soul cultivation base was near impossible.

The ranks of refining the body were divided into a total of; honing the tendons, refining the blood, cleansing bone marrow, tempering the bones, casting off a mortal body and being reborn, and becoming an immortal. Don't think that a blood refining body cultivator was weak because if they wanted to advance, they didn't have to train hard for decades. Once they broke through the first rank, a blood refining body cultivator would be on an equal level regarding the strength of a high-rank Foundation Establishment stage martial artist.

The moment Hexi noticed their bodies emitting an orange light, she was momentarily curious yet amazed.

Of course, she wasn't afraid of their strength. Instead, she was thinking about the differences between the methods of training for refining the body, and the methods of training she gave to Xi Jia and the others.

Although Xi Jia and the others were now rapidly improving, there was still no better way for them to advance. If she could combine her training methods with the blood refining body cultivation method, wouldn't it help them to reach a new whole level?

Seeing the surprise on Hexi's face, the masked leader couldn't help but be supremely proud of himself. So lifting up his large axe, he rushed forth as he shouted, "I'll let you have a taste of my big axe!"

With a loud boom, the white fog surged forth and completely enveloped the two people fighting, blocking them from view.

However, while the remaining few strong men had full confidence in their Boss, they couldn't help but loudly tease, "Boss, remember to keep that little rabbit alive! We don't mind playing with him, even if he is a little boy!"

"Boss, even if you chop off his hands and feet, spare that beautiful face of his! Adding it to our loot collection would be good too. Hahaha..."

The men's cruel and rough laughter made the girl on the ground curl up into a ball and tremble violently, tears of desperation streaming down her cheeks.

If that youngster died, her...her fate would be incredibly miserable. What's more, that youngster, to save her would...would...

Suddenly, the girl blankly stared ahead with wide eyes.

She'd noticed that the initially thick fog was now slowly dispersing, allowing a rhythmic thumping to be heard before that too ultimately stopped when the fog cleared.

The next moment, she saw a youngster dressed in pure white robes unhurriedly walking towards them. Twisted around his right hand; there was a purple coloured vine, while in his left hand; he was carrying a human head. Although the human head was dripping blood, the youngster's clothes weren't stained at all; as if he was a spotless white fairy untainted by the dirt of the world. At the same time, he seemed like an aloof god that looked down on everyone.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 294: The Eye Of The Array? The Core Of The Array?

The girl suddenly covered her mouth and uttered a muffled sound of joy, while tears continuously rolled down her cheeks like a strand of pearls with its string snapped.

While the group of strong men who had previously been excited and were jeering nonstop, simultaneously showed horrified expressions.

Staggering back several steps, they were unwilling to believe that their powerful Boss had been slaughtered.

However, once they squinted to scrutinise the head, they recognised the familiar face. His facial features were twisted grotesquely, his eyes were wide open, and the black cloth covering his face had disappeared; revealing an expression of utter horror and despair.

"Spare...spare our lives!" Some of the men dropped to their knees, kowtowing to beg for mercy.

While others screamed and tensed to flee into the thick fog.

The purple vine in Hexi's hand flashed as it suddenly sprang forward. In the next second, it was like a sword as it pierced the backs of those who wanted to run away.

Blood trickled down the leaves of the vine to drip unseen to the ground layered with white fog, and in a heartbeat, the air was permeated with the thick stench of blood.

Although, when Hexi retrieved the vine, the purple leaves were already clean and fresh; you couldn't even see a trace of the blood. The Purple Abyss Vine swayed in delight, expressing its happiness and desire to continue consuming blood.

Hexi immediately rejected the Purple Abyss Vine's wish to kill and eat in the white fog, and put the unwilling vine back into her space. She then slowly walked towards the only strong man who remained alive.

The strong man currently had a blank look in his eyes as he trembled and stared at the corpses of his companions. Due to the trembling his teeth were chattering together, and in the next moment, there was an overwhelming stench of urine as a wet patch spread between his legs.

"Please have mercy, Young Master, spare my life! I beg of you; please spare my life, I won't dare do anything! I wouldn't dare!"

Hexi's towering figure looked down at him as she coldly asked, "Tell me, how long have you been in this white fog and how many martial artists have you robbed?"

How could that man dare to conceal the truth? He quickly kowtowed and said, "Answering Young Master, we...we were the first ones to enter this white fog; it's been six days. In the beginning, we didn't know that this white fog could completely absorb a martial artist's spiritual power, we just wanted to profit from the medicinal field."

"But, later, when we discovered that those spiritual cultivation martial artists who usually think so highly of themselves would become useless and helpless in the white fog, we came up with the plan of robbing them."

The man raised his head and looked at Hexi, only to find her eyes focusing on him. "Continue, say what you know."

"Yes! Yes! This small one absolutely wouldn't dare conceal anything!" The man was so frightened that his trembling grew more violent before he quickly continued, "Normally us body refining cultivators are bullied and humiliated by spiritual cultivators, yet now we had an opportunity to take revenge. Moreover, this white fog is very strange. After we explored deeper we couldn't find the way out, also...we couldn't find a way to enter the medicinal field. Therefore, we all figured that we might as well wait around here and focus on robbing the martial artists' whose spiritual powers were drained."

Hexi furrowed her brows. "There's no way to enter the medicinal field?"

"We didn't find it, however...however, we met a group of extremely powerful martial artists. Although they didn't have any spiritual power, the imposing aura being emitted from their bodies was immense. We didn't dare approach them and instead, we quietly ran away."

“But, I remember hearing them talking about wanting to enter the medicinal field and that to do so, they had to find the eye of the array...or the core of the array...or something...”

The eye of the array? The core of the array? The wrinkle between Hexi’s beautiful eyebrows deepened. As she’d expected, this white fog was a natural array.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 295: Major Cloud Array

Since she’d read the ancient records left by Old Man Xumi, she had some understanding about arrays, but at most, it could only be regarded as minimal. So if she wanted to break the array, it was simply impossible.

The strong man noticed that Hexi was lost in thought and completely unguarded.

His hands that were by his sides slowly moved towards his chest pocket. He knew that this youngster before him would never let him go, so this being the case, he might as well strike first and try to gain an advantage.

He abruptly took out a tube which stored poisonous needles and fiercely aimed one at the youngster’s heart.

With a quiet swoosh, a needle flickering with green light flew directly towards Hexi’s chest.

A vicious light gleamed within the man’s eyes, and he couldn’t help but shout as he stood up, “Bastard, go die!!”

Yet before he could finish his curse, his eyes opened wide in horror.

What he saw was that the needle surrounded by flickering green light was unexpectedly caught between Hexi’s slender and fair fingers. Then, before he could react, the needle suddenly flew back towards him; straight towards his left eye.

“AHHH—!” The man uttered a pained scream as he covered his left eye and tumbled to the ground.

He wanted to howl in anguish and beg for mercy, but before he could say a word, his eye that had been pierced by the needle began to rot while a white foamed mixed with blood filled his mouth. There was so much that it started to overflow and he had to keep spitting it out.

After a moment, he stopped breathing.

Hexi was too lazy to even glance at him and turned to leave.

The young girl who’d initially been curled up on her side with a frightened look on her face suddenly returned to her senses and shouted, “Young Master, Young Master! Please stop!”

Hexi stopped and somewhat impatiently looked at her.

The girl had a delicate and pretty face, a petite figure, a well-proportioned build, and she appeared to be about seventeen to eighteen years old. Unfortunately, she couldn’t stop trembling as she tried to cover herself with the pile of rags that she clutched; she looked absolutely pitiful.

The girl shivered under Hexi's cold gaze, but nonetheless, she held back the fear and shame bubbling within her heart to lower her head and quietly say, "Young Master, many thanks for your kindness! Can you please tell me your name, I will certainly repay you in the future!"

"No need!" Hexi indifferently replied. "I didn't mean to save you. They were just unpleasant to look at, nothing more!"

A trace of disappointment flashed within the girl's eyes, but it was quickly replaced with even more gratitude. "No matter how it happened, if you hadn't saved me, I...I really don't know...My name is Shen Qingchuo, and I'm a disciple of the Red Cloud sect. Young Master, if you have anything that requires my help in the future, please don't hesitate to find me at the Red Cloud sect. I'll certainly go to any length to repay Young Master's favour."

The girl had initially wanted to use a jade tablet or talisman for help, but in this white fog, she couldn't open her storage ring. This made her heart feel upset and ashamed.

Hexi nodded her head to indicate that she understood, then turned around to leave once more.

Seeing his back as he turned around, Shen Qingchuo bit her lower lip and suddenly said, "Young Master, do you want to enter the medicinal field? I...I know the way to enter it."

Hexi stopped in her tracks, her gaze not as cold as it was before as she looked back at the girl.

Shen Qingchuo's cheeks reddened, and she slightly lowered her eyelashes. Then, she softly said, "I...I heard my Sect Elder say that Zijin Master's medicinal field is known as the Hundred Herb Mist, and that the array inside is the powerful Major Cloud array. There are a total of two sections to the array; the core, and the sixty-four part eye. Only one of them is in this white fog though; if you want to break the Major Cloud array, you need to find the array eye and cut off its energy supply. With that, the array core will shortly appear as a portal door. That portal door is the gateway to the medicinal field."

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 296: We Will Definitely Meet Again

"I just have to find this core of the array?"

Shen Qingchuo tilted her head to the side in thought for a moment, then said, "Actually, there is a way. That is, a way to destroy all sixty-four parts of the array eye in a short period, causing the array to briefly cease functioning. Although this period of time will only be for a few short breaths, if you're prepared to enter the medicinal field, then it's still possible. But, wanting to find the sixty-four parts of the array eye within a short time is practically impossible because once the time runs out, the destroyed parts of the array will be automatically restored. Moreover, the force the fog uses to absorb spiritual power will dramatically increase."

Hexi looked pensive as she said, "I understand, thank you for telling me this!"

Having said that, Hexi withdrew a set of clothes from her space and gave them to Shen Qingchuo, before she indifferently said, "This should be enough to repay you for your information. It's dangerous inside this white fog, so you should hurry up and leave!"

This time she didn't stop and quickly disappeared into the thick fog.

Left alone, the girl quickly dressed in the clothes that had been handed to her. Lifting up one of the sleeves to the tip of her nose, she smelled the scent of fresh medicinal herbs and a faint blush covered both of her cheeks. "We'll meet again, right?...We will definitely meet again."

Hexi's figure disappeared into the fog, and to ensure that no one was around, she immediately summoned the Purple Abyss Vine from her space.

As the Purple Abyss Vine came into contact with the white fog, it promptly began swaying excitedly. It then started transmitting its excitement and cravings to Hexi through her divine sense.

However, Hexi didn't dare let it do as it pleased and refused to allow it to absorb more spiritual power. If it were to cause another whirlpool within the white fog, or directly touch the array; then she would be in big trouble.

After appeasing the Purple Abyss Vine and promising to give it some spiritual fire for it to eat when they entered the medicinal field, the Purple Abyss Vine reluctantly calmed down.

Hexi flicked her hands, and in a split second, several hundred purple shadows flew out; all of them instantly shooting in all directions of the white fog.

This was the Purple Abyss Vine's unique technique of dividing its body into thousands of vines, and it was the quickest way to search for the core and the eye of the array in this boundless white fog.

Each of the Purple Abyss Vine's sub-vines was connected to Hexi's divine sense. Unfortunately, this meant that each sub-vine was dramatically weakened compared to its usual strength, rendering it unable to attack. It also meant that if it was attacked, the damage would be relatively severe, and most of it would be inflicted on Hexi's divine sense.

Soon, in as long as it takes to burn a stick of incense, and Hexi's complexion was becoming a little pale, the purple vine wrapped around her wrist began excitedly bouncing around. It was like it was eagerly trying to tell her about something.

Finally, Hexi opened her eyes to reveal a sharp glint of purple swirling within their depths. In a split second, all of the Purple Abyss Vine's sub-vines returned to Hexi's body as fast as sharp arrows.

Excellent, she had found all sixty-four parts of the array's eye.

Unfortunately, she couldn't find the core of the array, which would've made everything a lot easier.

After all, the core of the array was the array's lifeline and foundation, so no matter what kind of array it was, they were typically concealed well to prevent it from being destroyed. It was normal that the Purple Abyss Vine couldn't find it.

However, with the exact location of the sixty-four parts of the array's eye, it wouldn't be too complicated for her to destroy it within a short time.

A corner of Hexi's mouth stretched into a faint smile, and with a light tap of her foot, she disappeared from where she stood.

The location of the first part of the array's eye was nearby, so Hexi arrived beside it very quickly.

The white fog surrounding the part of the array's eye was apparently a lot thicker than other areas, which made the draining of spiritual power extremely powerful.

Hexi's eyes focused, and the main part of the Purple Abyss Vine sprang out, heading towards the centre of the array's eye without any hesitation.

Before her, there was only a thick layer of fog, but she still heard a crash echo around her, as if something had broken.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 297: Black Clothed Man

Next, the white fog started surging around her; like a huge rock thrown into a tranquil lake.

The first part of array's eye had been eliminated!

Hexi tapped her foot again, and at lightning speed, she proceeded towards the second part of the array's eye.

The location of the second part of the array's eye was more remote than the first's. As soon as Hexi neared it, she couldn't help but shudder.

Even though it was already cold in the white fog, this area seemed to be several times colder.

Moreover, even though the white fog was thick, you could still see about three metres ahead.

However, the white fog here was so thick that there was nearly zero visibility.

Hexi wiped at the water vapour gathering on her face, feeling the biting cold air seeping into her bones. At this moment, her hair and clothes were wet, and to withstand the cold air, she had no other choice but to use her internal energy.

With her powerful internal energy, she was now able to tolerate the cold environment.

Hexi no longer hesitated, and the Purple Abyss Vine sprang out from her hand in a flash. With a crash, the second part of the array's eye was broken within the white fog without mishap.

Due to this, the rolling of the white fog became more violent, and its absorption of spiritual power increased to the point that it made all of Hexi's meridians tremble.

She didn't dare stay any longer, so she turned around to leave.

However, just as she was about to use her qinggong, her expression suddenly changed. Then, like a shadow, her figure jumped back a few steps.

The thick fog in front of her still made everything hard to discern, but she could vaguely see a tall silhouette slowly approaching her.

Just as Hexi was filled with bewilderment, she heard the deep voice of a man that was filled with murderous intent. "Who let you touch a part of the array's eye?"

Hexi was momentarily shocked. This person also knew about the array's eye?

Her brow furrowed, yet she didn't answer the man and instead raised her foot, moving to flee like a bird.

"You want to escape?" The man's voice was cold as he snorted in contempt.

Hexi had barely jumped into the air before an invisible force wrapped around her ankle, dragging her back.

This time, an alarmed expression finally revealed itself on Hexi's face.

Hexi waved her right hand without hesitation, and a purple shadow shot towards the figure within the thick fog.

The purple vine trembled and waved in the air as it absorbed the spiritual power within the white fog, its momentum gradually increasing. Just as it was about to fly towards the man, it twisted itself up like a small storm, signalling its intent to shred the man to pieces by whistling through the air.

However, a scene of the man being ripped into pieces didn't happen as Hexi expected.

Instead, she heard the man make an exclamation of surprise in a puzzled tone before he then grabbed the Purple Abyss Vine with one hand. After he tugged on it a few times, it was left entirely immobilised.

Hexi was shocked once again, but before she could react, she felt an immense force grab her, and she abruptly tumbled forwards.

With a thump, she harshly made contact with something, causing her to feel faint and her vision to blur.

Her nose filled with the white fog's cold atmosphere mixed with the robust and unfamiliar scent of a man.

"You're just a low-level martial artist, yet you're able to control the Purple Abyss Vine...haha!" A deep, dark, and husky voice sounded above her head. Obviously, it was only a soft laugh, but it made a person's blood run cold when they heard it. "Speak, who told you about the location of the array!"

Hexi raised her head and saw a handsome face before her, with features as sharp as a blade.

The man looked to be about twenty-four to twenty-five years old, and he was dressed entirely in black. His features were undoubtedly handsome, but a callous aura surrounded his appearance; it was as if a cold and murderous spirit had crawled out of the depths of the underworld.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 298: Immortal Silk

Hexi struggled and found that without her realising, thread as thin as a strand of hair had wrapped around her body.

The other end of the thread was gripped in the man's hand, and at this moment, she was just like a fish on a chopping board with no way to escape.

If it were an ordinary person who was facing such a situation, he likely would be frightened and panic.

However, what kind of person was Hexi? When she'd carried out missions in the past, she'd encountered all sorts of dangers, and had fought many different types of drug lords.

A corner of her mouth stretched into a sneer before a beautiful, yet cold voice unhurriedly left her bright red lips. "Such a joke. If you can find the parts of the array's eye, why can't I? Was this Major Cloud array created by your family? In the end, you're nothing more than a useless person who was trapped in this array and was unable to come out!"

The man was astonished when he heard her remark. Growing up until now, he had never encountered anyone who dared speak to him like this.

After a long while, he quietly chuckled, but that laugh didn't reach his eyes. Instead, his glare was cold. "Excellent, your cultivation base isn't high, yet your courage isn't small. Since you court death yourself, then I'd like to help you accomplish it. After I cripple your cultivation base, I'll use the Soul Search Technique to get the information from you; the result is the same for you either way."

As his words fell, a sharp light flashed from his hand and suddenly flew towards Hexi's heart.

However, in the next moment, a shocked expression appeared on the man's face.

He watched as Hexi, who was supposed to be restricted by the Immortal Silk and unable to budge, suddenly bent down and at a moment of life or death, avoid a fatal blow.

Following that, the Immortal Silk restraining Hexi like glue abruptly lit up. Turning a charred colour and withering away, it then fell to the ground as ash.

The trace of a sneer showed on a corner of Hexi's mouth, and the Purple Abyss Vine in her hand flew straight towards the man without any hesitation.

The man was stunned and caught off guard, so he was directly hit on the chest by the Purple Abyss Vine with a snap.

If he hadn't reacted in time and quickly stepped back, perhaps his heart would've been directly hit by the Purple Abyss Vine.

But despite dodging, his upper clothes had now been shredded, exposing his bare chest, perfect skin-tone, and the smooth lines of his six-pack.

The man bowed his head to examine his torn clothes and the bloody cut on his chest in disbelief. He couldn't believe that he was injured by such a puny low-level martial artist.

Hexi didn't look pleased though. This man before her, compared to her, had more experience and a higher cultivation base.

Even if he couldn't use spiritual power within the Major Cloud array, Hexi didn't believe for a second that if he attacked another way that she would be able to escape again.

With this thought in mind, Hexi no longer hesitated and the purple vine in her hand spun rapidly, causing the surrounding white fog to surge uncontrollably as it flew towards Hexi.

In just a moment, the white fog looked like it was going to swallow her. However, in the blink of an eye, it was entirely absorbed by the Purple Abyss Vine in her hand.

The purple vine which had absorbed the white fog kept trembling and rubbing its leaves against each other, making a rustling sound as if it was telling Hexi that it wanted to drink blood.

As more than half of the white fog was absorbed, the surroundings began to lighten. Yet suddenly it fluctuated, and soon after became denser.

Within the white fog, the black clothed man's face expressed clear shock. As he looked at Hexi and the flickering purple vine in her hand, his expression abruptly changed to one of understanding and excitement.

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 299: Escape Without A Trace

After building up enough force, Hexi's attack made a whistling sound as it launched through the air.

Following the whistling, the purple vine abruptly transformed mid-air into many shadows; like a thousand arrows all shooting straight towards the man.

The man's eyes gleamed with a hint of admiration, but then a corner of his mouth curled up.

The next second his big hand flipped over and a flag a blue so dark it seemed black suddenly appeared in his palm.

There was no apparent spiritual power being emitted from the flag due to the white fog, but there was a chillingly cold aura surrounding it that could make anyone terrified.

With a wave of the flag, every single purple vine was suddenly absorbed inside of it; all of them swallowed up silently and cleanly.

The man lightly laughed and went to look at the youngster, but then his expression swiftly froze.

There was no trace of the youngster anywhere within the thick white fog. As it turns out, the moment the Purple Abyss Vine had attacked, he'd taken the opportunity to disappear completely.

"He escaped! He actually dared to escape!!" A sharp light sparked within the man's eyes. "You think you can run away from me?!"

In this world, no matter what he wanted; people or things, they could never get away from his grasp.

As soon as the words left his lips, the man's figure disappeared; leaving only the churning white fog to indicate that something was amiss with the Major Cloud array.

The moment Hexi had released the Purple Abyss Vine, she'd used her qinggong to escape far away.

Although she was proud, she wasn't arrogant. That black clothed man had clearly come prepared since he could use a high-level spiritual weapon without spiritual power. Coupled with the disparity in their experience, he wasn't a person she could currently win against.

Hexi had initially wanted to destroy the next part of the array's eye, but she was afraid of once again being caught by that crazy black clothed man. So hesitating for a moment, she pondered over what should she do now instead.

After thinking it over for a moment, she once more released the Purple Abyss Vine's sub-vines, deciding to use it to find Nangong Yu and the others.

With help from Nangong Yu, Gu Liufeng, and the others, she didn't believe that there was no way to destroy all sixty-four parts of the array's eye.

However, just as she released the Purple Abyss Vine's sub-vines, Hexi's complexion promptly changed.

As the purple vines shot out like shadows, they unexpectedly made a loud bang. When she was able to see what had occurred clearly, she noticed that they'd blocked a powerful attack.

Hexi had an ashen complexion as she looked at the black clothed man who'd appeared not far away, and coldly said, "You followed me like the spirit of a deceased person...in the end, what do you want?!"

The fog where Hexi was now standing wasn't as thick as it was before, so the black clothed man could finally see the youngster's features clearly.

Long eyelashes curled upwards, soft and snowy skin, beautiful lips, and long black hair that was dampened by the fog stuck to his cheeks. With such a pure appearance and brightly shining obsidian eyes, he had a countenance that could easily capture anyone's soul.

Unexpectedly, it was a stunning youngster who could topple the world with just his looks. He appeared to be about fifteen to sixteen years old; a child who'd just entered adulthood but not yet twenty.

It turns out that it was only a tender youngster who'd forced him to such lengths. Even causing him to bring out the Black Banner.

The coldness in the black clothed man's eyes transformed into excitement, and crossing his arms in front of his chest he arrogantly said, "I can allow you to live; however, you have to become one of my people and obey my words. If you do, I can promise you that as long as you help me to destroy this Major Cloud array, in the future, you'll gain benefits that you never would've imagined having in this lifetime."

Hexi looked at him with a 'you're crazy' look, then sneered as she said, "There must be something wrong with your brain, or were you born mentally handicapped? Why should I help you break the Major Cloud array? Even going so far as to make me be one of your people and obey your words...you deserve this based on what?"

"Good! Very good!" The black clothed man's eyes suddenly flashed dangerously as a murderous aura condensed within them. "It seems that I'll have to let you experience several defeats before you are obedient!"

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife

Chapter 300: Collaborate

After he spoke, the black flag suddenly flew out and enveloped the two figures; like a cloud covering the sun.

There were no apparent spiritual power fluctuations, but the densely cold aura it emitted caused Hexi to be alarmed. She felt like she was being pressured by Mount Tai and found herself unable to breathe.

While this was occurring, the black clothed man smirked and approached Hexi.

As he got closer, the black flag suddenly transformed into a black shadow and also headed towards Hexi.

The Purple Abyss Vine rapidly responded by springing out to fight with the black shadow.

Following that, a dark golden blade appeared in the black clothed man's hand and shot towards Hexi.

A loud bang echoed through the white fog, causing it to start violently churning.

When the white fog finally settled down, you could see one black ray of light, and one purple ray of light, intertwined. As the light had become like two ropes, they had tightly bound Hexi together with the man.

Both of their complexions were a little ashen, while Hexi's hand was clenched around a green dagger that was firmly pressed against the man's neck.

Though on the other side, a golden blade was gripped within the black clothed man's hand as it firmly pressed against Hexi's chest, as if in the blink of an eye it would pierce her heart.

However, shock and amazement showed on the black clothed man's face. His hand holding the golden blade trembled as he was unsure whether to withdraw or not.

He looked at the elegant youngster with shining eyes in bewilderment, taking quite a while before saying, "You're...you're a man..."

A coldness flashed in Hexi's eyes, and the dagger suddenly cut into the skin on the man's neck as she coldly said, "This dagger is smeared with the highly deadly Blood Sealing Throat poison. Although it's useless against a high-level martial artist, in this white fog you're unable to use spiritual power, and due to this, you won't be able to expel the poison immediately. If you still insist on harassing me, I don't mind if neither of us wins."

Feeling an itchy pain from the wound on his neck, the black clothed man's expression became sterner and a trace of anger showed on his face. "If you refuse to cooperate, do you really think that I don't have ways to deal with you?"

After a brief pause, he coldly said, "If you hadn't rashly destroyed a part of the array's eye, which changed the direction of the eight-track trigrams, I would've already found the array's core and destroyed the Major Cloud array! Now that you've ruined my plan, shouldn't you pay the price? How about you help me break the array?"

Hexi was startled for a moment, while on the contrary, the only thing revealed on her face was a slight trace of hesitation.

If this man really could find the array's core, it would save her the time of breaking every part of the array's eye.

Looking down, she saw that both of their bodies were tightly joined together, and in a heavy tone said, "Make your black flag release us first."

The man slightly lowered his head and smelt the fresh fragrance of medicinal herbs being emitted from her body, so pursing his lips, he said, "Your Purple Abyss Vine still restrains me too!"

Hexi furrowed her brows. "I'll count to three, and then we'll release each other at the same time."

In a flash, the Purple Abyss Vine, and the black flag, simultaneously retreated and flicked into the air. The Purple Abyss Vine turned into purple light and returned into Hexi's body, while the black flag returned to the man's palm.

Hexi quickly stepped back to make space between them and silently took a deep breath, using this opportunity to restore her depleted internal energy.

On the other side, the man felt the sudden loss of warmth within his arms and missed the subtle fragrance tickling the tip of his nose. He was somewhat disappointed at the loss for a moment.

He looked up at Hexi, and the cold tone within his voice was mixed with a slight gentleness, "To get rid of the Major Cloud array, it's necessary to find the array's core and cut off its energy supply; just destroying one or two of the array's eyes is useless. I have a way to find the array's core; however, there is a strong spiritual power barrier surrounding the array's core. As I can't use the technique within the white fog, wanting to break through the barrier uses a large amount of effort. But, if we were to use your Purple Abyss Vine, it would be different..."