

The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife #Chapter 9 – Slave Restriction Spell, But So... - Read The King of Hell's Genius Pampered Wife Chapter 9 – Slave Restriction Spell, But So... Online -

Chapter 9 – Slave Restriction Spell, But So...

Recalling the terrible memories caused the four guards to get really angry, and when they glanced at the unconscious He Xi in the dim corner their expressions turned extremely dark.

One of them suddenly laughed demonically, saying: “There will come a day when the furnace’s usefulness will be exhausted, just wait until she doesn’t have any value left, will the Young Master still care about her then? At that time, we can let her experience the taste of wanting to die but being unable to!”

The four people complacently laughed heartily at their conversations content, the originally depressed mood swept away.

He Xi had her eyes closed to feign sleep, however behind those closed eyes flashed a trace of killing intent.

Those slags, she will absolutely not let them off!

He Xi slightly moved her fingers and several Invisible Needles suddenly appeared in her hand.

Using the guards laughter to cover up any sound, her body issued a slight crackling noise.

In a blink, she twisted and reduced the size of her wrist bones, effortlessly breaking free from the iron chains that bound her.

This type of skill to reduce a bones size, while the effect was useful, when practiced it was more of a one time trick as to use it she had to bear an inhumane pain. Moreover she could only maintain it for a few short seconds so only a monster like He Xi could endure it!

Because of the pain, her complexion became pale. She lightly placed a slim finger on a vein on her wrist.

Sure enough it’s the Brain Domain Restriction spell!

The corner of He Xi’s mouth lifted into a self-confident smile.

Her guess was true, the so called Slave Restriction Spell used spiritual power inserted into the nerves of an ordinary person's brain domain, locking the person's ability to be able to control their body normally.

The Slave Ownership Card was the key to activate this lock.

It's the same as how Tang Seng used the Band Tightening Spell to control Sun Wu Kong[1]. Once the spiritual power was poured into the Slave Ownership Card, it locked the brains domain nerve of spiritual power at the same time it blocked the ability to recover, oppressing the human brain, causing it to be unable to resist pain.

This type of simple Restriction Spell was useless on a martial artist who possessed spiritual power, but to an ordinary person it's as if they were at the edge of a sword, simply unable to resist.

What a pity that today they ran into her, He Xi!

One must know that in her previous life when in the organisation, apart from achieving peak medical expertise and poison techniques, she had also mastered something that made people fear her, it was Mind Control.

She only needed to insert a small Invisible Needle into an enemy's brain to cause them to become completely powerless and unable to resist her commands, making them wish for death.

This insignificant Brain Domain Restriction Spell when compared to her was only a minor accomplishment!

The Invisible Needles were rapidly and accurately inserted by He Xi into her brain. A strange chilliness along with an intense burst of pain was felt in He Xi's head.

She clenched her teeth to prevent her groan being heard by the guards in the carriage.

This pain lasted a full three and a half minutes. He Xi felt the original drowsiness in her mind suddenly leave, her thoughts became clearer and her eyes shone brighter, she felt extremely relaxed yet energised.

As He Xi pulled the Invisible Needles out, she happened to see that attached to the top of the three needles there was a layer of faint blue light.

Her cold breath quietly exhaled in the dimly lit corner of the carriage.

So this is the Restriction Spell filled with spiritual power that had been planted into her brain.

Suddenly the carriage started to shake, followed by a 'creak' sound before it stopped moving.

They had arrived at Zhu manor!

He Xi didn't have much time to think, very quickly she threw the Invisible Needles with the Restriction Spell still attached into her space, using the iron chain she tied her hands and feet, closed her eyes, and pretended to be unconscious.

The golden cage that was carried down from the carriage by the guards contained a messily clothed, unconscious little girl.

Zhu Zhong Ba waved his hand as he said: "Carry her to my room, tell Uncle Guan to prepare some good pills, tonight this young master shall be promoted from a Cultivation Base to the Foundation Establishment Stage!"

His gaze swept over He Xi, his eyes flickering with excitement: "Wait until I successfully advance to the Foundation Establishment stage and return to Zhu Family, it will make father shocked. See if he can still scold me as a useless person then."

[1] The monk and monkey King character in Journey to the West