Chapter 50 The Biggest Boss Behind It All

However, she made a small request.

"If we go out for dinner tonight, I hope it's just the two of us. I want to talk to you about something."

Carolyn hesitated for a moment and immediately responded, "Sure, sure!"

After waiting so long, Paloma finally agreed, and of course she wouldn't refuse.

Although Paloma didn't know why Greyson arranged it this way, she still followed his instructions.

"Rebecca, later you go back by yourself, tell your dad that I have something to do tonight."

"Good job!"

Rebecca was extremely excited.

Instinctively, she smiled at Greyson.

Carolyn took the opportunity to invite Paloma, "Since that's the case, why don't we find a place to have some tea now? I feel a special connection with Ms. Frazier, as if we've known each other for a long time."

"Ms. Frazier achieved so much at such a young age."

Paloma smiled and politely said, "Not at all. You are the senior here. I want to learn from you."

Talking about studying is a slap in the face.

You manage buildings worth billions, while my net worth is only a few tens of millions.

In order to get closer to Paloma, Carolyn invited her to a tea house she was familiar with

She certainly wouldn't have imagined that her daughter would get involved with a construction worker

After giving a few instructions, they went downstairs.

Seeing the two of them getting on the car and leaving. Rebecca waved her hand and said. "Goodbye, Mom!"

Then she turned back and the two people in love couldn't wait to embrace each other...

"Greyson. I loved you!"

"Hmm!"

"I loved you too!"

This time, we could finally be together openly without worrying about my mom watching us.

Paloma and Carolyn were still drinking tea.

Little did they know,

The curtains of a room in a nearby hotel were slowly pulled up.

In the teahouse, Carolyn was particularly polite, "Ms. Frazier, I really have to thank you for his time."

“Hey, Ms. Frazier, how old were you?”

“I turned twenty-four.”

“I envy you guys at your age, in the blink of an eye, I have grown old.”

Looking at Paloma’s beautiful figure, Carolyn couldn’t help but feel envious

So young, yet so capable, combining beauty and intelligence in one person, it’s probably not easy to find a girl like this.

“Where is Ms. Frazier’s home?”

Carolyn drank tea and slowly got closer to Paloma.

Paloma’s eyebrows suddenly twitched for no reason.

I always felt like something was about to happen.

However, the command she received was to delay Carolyn as much as possible.

Drinking tea, having a meal, and then going for some wellness activities...

Can’t you finish it in a few hours?

Paloma had been wondering what Greyson meant.

What did this guy want to do?

What did the clever Paloma seem to guess?

Her face turned red and she cursed silently in her heart

What an idiot!

The two people stayed in the hotel room for over three hours and found it difficult to part ways

Aston called, and Rebecca just remembered that she hadn't told her dad that she wouldn't be coming home for dinner tonight,

"Oh no, will my mom suspect?"

"No, she herself couldn't keep up with the busy schedule."

"Alright!"

Rebecca finally relaxed and said, "Oh, it seems like you were familiar with Ms. Frazier,"

Greyson nodded, "Did you really think that our mother could rent such a cheap office building?"

"Ah? So, it was you who helped behind my back?"

She didn't quite believe it,

Greyson's family was not well-off, so he worked extra hard.

In addition to working part-time on campus, he also took on outside jobs.

According to my dad, he met Greyson at the antique market.

I didn't expect him to actually know someone like Paloma.

In Rebecca's eyes, Paloma should be considered the big boss.

After all, the total assets of her parents amounted to only one or two

Sure enough

She could never have imagined that Greyson was the mastermind behind all of this

The two people stayed at the hotel until after ten o'clock, and Rebecca had to go back.

Greyson was very careful this time and did not leave any marks on her neck. He escorted Rebecca to the doorstep of her house before taking a taxi back home.

Today he was indeed very excited, finally he won over Rebecca.

Experienced another kind of joy in life.

After returning to the apartment, Greyson went to the bathroom to take a shower.

Unexpectedly, Paloma came back before finishing her bath.

She brought food to Greyson.

Greyson half-closed the bathroom door and asked, "Why did you come back?"

Paloma looked at him and asked, "What do you mean?"

"Don't you want me to come back?"

"No, I didn't bring any clothes in."

"Cut!"

"I've seen it before." Paloma pouted.

"When did you see it?"

Why did Greyson feel that something was wrong?

Paloma suddenly blushed, "I helped you get the clothes."

Seeing her like this, Greyson felt a little flustered.

That's not right!

How could she have possibly seen it?

Did she peek at me?

Paloma brought the clothes over and, seeing her guilty expression, Greyson seriously suspected that he had been taken advantage of by her.

After changing clothes, Greyson came out and said seriously, "Tell me honestly, did you peek at me?"

"What are you thinking?"

"It was when you were sleeping at night..."

Paloma suddenly stopped.

Greyson trembled and said, "Then you can't watch either."

"Is it my fault?"

"I would have been fine if I hadn't taken advantage of others' misfortune."

When it comes to being a hooligan, I really can't argue with her.

Greyson had to change the subject. We need to quickly establish the company structure and also hire people for Marlon's team."

"Hmm!"

"Just as I was about to do it. I asked him to gather his former comrades and form a defensive force."

"Yes, we also need to establish a property management company."

“I’ll think about this matter first.

Greyson had his own considerations.

I will go to the barbecue restaurant tomorrow to see their current situation

The next afternoon, Greyson arrived at the barbecue restaurant.

Seeing that Kent was there, Mariana continued to work for them.

Greyson asked, “How has business been recently?”

Chelsea said it was so–so, not too good, but not too bad either.

Earned over a thousand dollars in a day.

Greyson said, “Just forget it! Let someone else do this kind of thing.”

“Ah?”

The crowd was puzzled.

Pearce said, “I thought it was already great to earn over a thousand dollars a day during the summer vacation.”

Greyson asked him, “Have you done the accounting? If there is no loss. we can all make a little profit and sell it!”

“I had an idea, how about we start a property management company?”

“Property management company? How much money do I have to invest in that?”

Greyson certainly wouldn’t let them invest money. He asked Paloma to handle that side and then subcontract it to them.

Let them adapt to society in advance.

If Cloud Building were to be done, it would be like picking up money.

Greyson said to Mariana. "You should come along too, the five of you can start a business together."

Mariana hesitated, "Huh?"

She didn't expect that she also had one.
