

Kryptonian 22

Chapter 22 Two updates starting today

"Sir, you have made it clear that you can buy Superman medicine without a criminal record. What if criminals also have Superman medicine in the future?"

Michelle followed Luther and asked cautiously.

In Michelle's view, Luther spoke too absolutely, and he should not have spoken so confidently.

It should be said that Emperor Company will try its best to prevent such things from happening, so that Emperor Company's public relations department can do its work.

"What does this have to do with us?"

Luther said with a smile.

"But, didn't we say..."

Michelle couldn't understand. After all, she had just graduated and had not yet learned the shamelessness of capitalists and the ability of big companies to talk, confuse right and wrong, and mess around.

"Yes, we said it, but there are accidents in the world, my little sweetheart. For example, a customer bought Superman medicine from our store, and then accidentally dropped one and it was picked up by a criminal. Or maybe he didn't have time to take the medicine and was robbed by criminals..."

Luther guided Michelle's thoughts, or opened up her thinking and ideas.

If the most important person under his command doesn't even know these things, he will have a big headache.

Although, he still has artificial intelligence Megatron to help him.

Megatron operates with Luther's authority, so he has greater authority than Michelle. The entire Imperial Company strictly manages employees by levels. Without corresponding authority, you are not qualified to enter higher or underground floors.

There are five elevators inside the Imperial Company Building and two employee elevators, which can only stop on the first floor and go up to the fifth floor.

Two high-end elevators can go up to the fifth floor and below the fiftieth floor.

There was only one elevator left to go up to the fiftieth floor, which was full of Luther's private residence and research laboratory.

The underground floors are another secret passage, which is only available above the 50th floor. It goes all the way to the underground. There is no elevator or stairs. Except for Luther who can fly, everyone else will be thrown to death.

Michelle is monitored by Megatron on a daily basis. Luther says that Michelle is very important, but in fact he will still take precautions to prevent Michelle from doing anything sorry for him.

This is the second-in-command of a super company with an asset valuation of over 100 billion US dollars. Not anyone can resist the temptation, and Luther does not believe in the so-called human nature at all.

Human nature cannot stand the test.

The electronic products Michelle carries and the electronic products around her are tools for Megatron to monitor her. There are also dust-sized flying robots that Luther built out of boredom to serve as eyes and eyes for Megatron. A tool for gathering information and intelligence.

Megatron used some of the robots to monitor Michelle, and the rest monitored the entire Imperial Corporation building.

Being called sweetheart by Luther, Michelle's ears turned red and she soon returned to normal.

"But, will they admit this kind of thing?"

Michelle didn't think those civilians would agree with this statement.

"Otherwise, it has nothing to do with us whether they admit it or not. Nothing in the world is absolutely accident-free. This explanation is enough. If they don't admit it, they don't have to buy the Superman medicine."

Luther shook his head.

"Then wouldn't we lose a lot of consumers?"

This is the first time for Michelle to stand from the perspective of such a high-end seller. She feels that Luther's attitude will cost many consumers.

"No, it will stimulate more people to buy superhuman drugs."

Luther raised the corners of his mouth and patiently explained to Michelle.

"You mean... the fear and uneasiness caused by super criminals?"

After all, Michelle is an elite from a higher education institution, not a nerd. She just couldn't keep up with her thinking before, but now she can catch up.

"That's right, think about it. Criminals all have superhuman drugs. What will happen to this society? Can the police officer be trusted? Can he protect himself? Don't forget, Michelle, Amélie Kako is a country where the civilian gun ownership rate is around 47%, and almost half of the people have their own weapons."

Luther nodded, finally enlightened. If he really hadn't realized it yet, Luther would have suspected that his secretary's diploma was fake.

"Superman medicine is like a new firearm. Of course, I personally don't want such an accident."

Michelle didn't know whether she should believe what Luther said. Are capitalists really so kind?

Knowing that there would be a bigger market, it was hard for Michelle to say whether she could control herself when faced with such temptation.

Looking at Michelle's expression, Luther shook his head, young.

Say one thing, do another, show another, and do another without knowing the operation.

Of course Luther had to do a good job on the outside, but as for what it was like on the inside, would he still open it and show it to others?

"I understand, BOSS."

Michelle didn't know whether she really understood or just pretended to understand, but Luther did not continue to preach.

The more people who preach that superhuman drugs will bring disaster to society and end the world, the better.

Isn't this the way the strategist works? Of course, there are still some differences, but Luther is looking forward to the butterfly effect that the emergence of his superman drug and No. 1 compound will bring to Marvel.

The unchanging Marvel is boring. He has become Doomsday Superman, so what is there to be afraid of? Thanos can slap him twice when he comes!

That's why Luther was so generous in giving Superman Medicine, something that was obviously cheaper and more suitable than Compound No. 1.

Chaos is the ladder of promotion, but stability is what the rich seventh generation pursues. No chaebol is a fool. They pursue stability, money and interests. Chaos is good for them, but chaos is not good for them.

Especially the unprecedented human enhancement technology that has no reference data before.

Captain America is nothing, he is just a super soldier, but now there may be thousands of superhumans. How should they deal with it?

In the face of this unprecedented change, the pursuit of stability has become their primary goal. Of course, it is not ruled out that some extreme lunatics will want to make trouble.

So, in this case, the superman drug is very consistent with their ideas and needs.

I am a superhuman when I need it, and an ordinary person when I don't need it. In this way, the power they have at hand is still useful for suppression!

As for Compound No. 1, of course, it is to slowly cultivate the power at hand. They will not be as stupid as a certain person, who is afraid of a weapon like a musket and does not use it.

The emergence of the superman drug not only did not affect the order of Compound No. 1, but the sales of Compound No. 1 and Superman Drug increased significantly.

Gentlemen! I will update twice starting from today, so please vote for recommendations and monthly tickets, and read the latest chapters. The editor said that I still have hope of being recommended, so I plan to give it a try. Let's work hard together! ! !
