

KRYPTONIAN: MAN OF STEEL

Chapter 4 Be my running dog

After the Ministry of Defense and the American military tried the effect of Super Soldier Compound No. 1, they placed a fifty-year order with the Imperial Company.

This order is that within fifty years, all of the output of Super Soldier Compound No. 1 of the Imperial Company will be purchased by the military.

It is equivalent to the military buying out the fifty-year order of the Imperial Company.

You know, this thing is not cheap, and Luther did not feel embarrassed to ask for more, and directly asked for 10 million US dollars per bottle.

By the way, when the military protested, Luther added that Super Soldier Compound No. 1 can also delay cell aging, allowing the injected super soldiers to maintain a longer combat state.

Anyway, after he added this sentence, the military never said anything about protesting the price, but urged the Imperial Company to produce more Super Soldier Compound No. 1 as soon as possible!

But Luther naturally could not accept this order.

If it were other companies and industrial groups, they would probably be very happy. Osborne Industries also received a similar order, which is why they have so much endless funds, but they are still studying.

Without this funding, it is still unknown whether Osborn Industries can reach one-tenth of its current size.

But Luther wants to open up the world market, and no one can compete with him in market share. In this case, why should he be bought out by America?

When Luther refused and said that Compound No. 1 belonged to everyone, not America, the military representatives who were not controlled by Luther were very angry and said that Luther had to abide by American laws when doing business in America!

Of course, even if you don't do business in America, you have to abide by American laws. This is how a big company that can't afford to play solved its competitors in other countries.

Is Luther a person who can be threatened?

I used to swallow my anger because I was an ordinary person, but now I have become a Kryptonian. This world doesn't have Kryptonite, Superman, or Batman. The Supreme Sorcerer Ancient One doesn't seem to want to care about me. I still have to swallow my anger. Am I still a Kryptonian?

Therefore, without fear of the other party's assassination, Luther said that he had planned to establish a branch in a certain Vodka Ula country, and he did not rule out finding a piece of land in Asia to establish a branch.

Then, Luther encountered an assassination.

"You really don't know how to live or die, and you really dare to assassinate me?"

Luther looked at the guys in black clothes and black pants who were lying on the ground in front of him speechlessly.

All the technical information of the Emperor Company was not left on the company's computer. Luther knew very well that no matter how powerful the firewall he set up was, it was not safe in the Marvel world. With perverted hackers like Skye, there would naturally be weaker but equally unreasonable hackers.

It would be safer for him to keep everything in his own mind.

Anyway, it is impossible for someone to extract the memory of a Kryptonian.

Those Kryptonian cells were all eaten and digested by Luther himself, without any residue.

If the military and the Ministry of Defense want to take action against the employees of the Emperor Company... that would be even better. Luther would directly go to the Vodka Country and Asia to open a branch and turn it into the head office!

Perhaps they investigated Luther's "background" and felt that Luther was not to be feared, so they took action directly.

Several professionals with guns couldn't subdue a scientific researcher?

Then they didn't expect that they really couldn't subdue him. Instead, several professionals were easily knocked unconscious by Luther. Then Luther hypnotized them and asked about their employers or the masterminds behind the scenes.

After successfully getting the answer, Luther did not humanely destroy them, but kept them and slowly hypnotized and brainwashed them into his own people.

He just needed professionals in this area, and now there are people delivered to his door, so he wouldn't waste them.

However, this is only the first attack. After finding that it was unsuccessful, there will definitely be more temptations.

The benefits and value of Compound No. 1 are so great that no one can resist its temptation.

Luther didn't care, he went straight to the door, and then hypnotized and brainwashed them.

What he likes most is to turn his enemies into his friends. Why do you have to be so extreme? Can't you just be my running dog?

These big shots are usually hard to see, and they are almost never seen by the public. But now Luther can easily contact them, find their hiding places, and then turn them into his running dogs and annex their power. Isn't that good?

"Really? I just want to do business with you. Why do you have to force me?"

Luther looked at the big shot who was kneeling and rolling on the ground in front of him and said with a smile.

"Good dog, come here."

Luther called out, and the other party climbed up with a howl, crawled in front of Luther, and was rewarded with a big bone by Luther.

Then he really chewed the bone like a dog, even if he was bleeding and his teeth were broken, he still ate it with relish.
