Chapter 28

Chapter 28

Although Barry did not know who the old man was, he also stood up when he saw everyone do that.

"Mr. Camidge!" Lucas Lobelius, who was next to Barry, greeted the elder first. After that, the greetings from other people filled in the meeting room, sounding with great respect.

Barry looked at Carlos and frowned slightly.

Seeing that, Lucas immediately reached out to poke Barry under the table and scolded in a low voice, "Watch your expression!"

"Mr. Lobelius, I think I've seen this person before." Barry felt that Carlos looked familiar.

"Mr. Camidge is the butler of Mr. Zabinski and he won't show up at ordinary times. Don't think too much! There are so many people wanting to meet Mr. Camidge. Just wait for your turn!" scolded Lucas.

Barry nodded sensibly and said nothing more.

The elder who entered the room was Carlos.

Carlos walked to the main seat of the long table and motioned with both hands to let everyone sit down. Everyone thanked him before daring to sit. However, when everyone thought that Carlos would sit on the main seat, they found that Carlos was actually sitting on the chair next to the main seat. His action shocked the others, and their eyes widened.

They wondered in unison, "Mr. Camidge sits in the chair next to the main seat. Who could get Mr. Camidge to do that? Could it be that Mr. Zabinski would show up today?"

Thinking of that, everyone became excited again after calming down while waiting.

"Everyone," said Carlos.

When Carlos spoke, the whole meeting room was silent. Everyone held their breaths and listened quietly.

"First, considering your status, you don't have to be so formal today. But you should've heard somewhere that Mr. Zabinski will take over the business of the group in the future. It's also Mr. Zabinski's intention to meet you today. Before he comes, I think there are some things I need to explain."

Speaking of that, Carlos glanced across everyone's faces.

Carlos, who was usually kind and respectful in front of Robert, seemed to have a sharp gaze. He swept his gaze across everyone's faces, and no one dared to look at Carlos directly.

After glancing around, Carlos continued, "Mr. Zabinski will take charge of the matters of the Zabinski family entirely in the future. Remember, I'm saying it's entirely. So, don't voice your doubts against Mr. Zabinski's words, and don't have any other ideas. I think you all understand what I'm saying, right?"

"Got it, we understand." Lucas nodded repeatedly.

The rest also hurriedly agreed, not daring to be negligent at all.

Carlos only nodded slightly and said nothing.

The meeting room fell into silence, and everyone sat upright.

After about three minutes, there were footsteps outside the meeting room. The moment the footsteps sounded, everyone suddenly became nervous.

The door of the meeting room was gently pushed open, and everyone's gazes focused on the door at that moment.

As the door opened, a young and slightly immature face appeared in their sight.

The moment Barry saw the face; he could not help exclaiming, "Robert!"

Lucas hurriedly glared at Barry and scolded him harshly, "Shut up!"

Barry immediately realized that he had lost his composure and hurriedly shut up.

Everyone got up.

Robert walked into the room and went straight to the main seat of the long table.

Carlos got up and pulled the chair for Robert. Then, Robert sat down.

That day's main character, the head of the Zabinski family in the future, had arrived.

Barry watched Robert walk from the door to the main seat and watched Robert sit. During the process, Barry's brain went blank. He finally remembered why Carlos looked so familiar. The day before, it was Carlos who congratulated Robert on graduating in front of everyone.
