

Life Makeover: Minted Edition Novel

Chapter 48

Chapter 48

After Kendrick sent this message, a proud smile appeared in his eyes. He could already picture Robert's horrible state tonight.

At ten o'clock in the evening, Robert pulled a reluctant Naomi out of the casino, for he still had a lot of things to deal with. As soon as he left the Fairsaint Restaurant, more than ten people appeared in front of Robert to block both of them.

"Hey punk, it's getting dark. It's not safe to go home alone. Let us send you home." A young man who seemed to be the leader looked at Robert with a sneer.

Naomi glanced at the leader and shouted coldly, "I recognize you. You're one of Charles' men, aren't you? What do you want?"

"Oh, don't worry, Naomi. It's not about you. It's about this punk." The leader looked at Robert and said provocatively, "Hey punk, if you're not a coward, don't hide behind the woman and come with me!"

"Let him go with you? Call Charles here and let me see if he's crazy!" Naomi angrily pushed the leader away.

The leader ignored Naomi and stepped forward to grab Robert's collar, trying to pull Robert away.

While being pulled, Robert made a few gestures with his right hand.

In the dark, a man put on a pair of white gloves.

"Let go of him!" Suddenly, a sweet roar sounded.

Marilyn strode over, followed by four strong men behind her.

Seeing this, Robert hurriedly made another gesture. The man in white gloves took off his gloves again and dialed a number.

Ever since Robert took over the Zabinski family, he knew he couldn't roam freely anymore. Carlos had arranged bodyguards for Robert long ago, but they will not show up unless necessary. The gesture that Robert made was a signal.

Marilyn's hair was tied up behind her head, and she was dressed in sportswear with a slimming effect, with a baseball cap on her head. She looked exceptionally handsome. She strode over to Robert, looked at the leader who held Robert's collar, and scolded, "I told you to let go of him. Didn't you hear me?"

The four strong men who followed Marilyn immediately surrounded them. The four of them were at least five feet eleven inches to six feet three inches tall. Although there were only four strong men, their aura completely overpowered the dozen young men.

Under the gaze of one of the strong men, the leader swallowed hard and loosened his grip on Robert's collar.

Marilyn looked at the leader coldly and scolded, "Get out!"

Under the deterrence of the four strong men, the leader didn't dare to say anything more and hurriedly escaped with his men.

Naomi stood there watching as Marilyn arrived at the scene. She stretched her body and said, "Robert, you deal with your affairs first. I'll make a move."

Chapter 48

After she had said this, Naomi waved her hand and walked away.

The four strong men brought by Marilyn stepped aside sensibly; until only Robert and Marilyn left at the front of the restaurant. They looked at each other awkwardly.

Under the night sky, Robert looked at the handsome woman in front of him. No matter how she dressed, Marilyn always seemed so perfect.

It was the first time they had been alone with each other since they broke up.

Robert and Marilyn made eye contact. Then Robert smiled and said, "Thank you."

After saying that, Robert left.

The moment when Robert's body brushed against Marilyn, she shouted, "Robert! Stop!"

Send Gift

Comment