Chapter 49

Chapter 49

Robert stopped in his tracks, turned to Marilyn, and tilted his head, asking, "What's wrong, Ms. Quesnell?"

"Robert, please wake up!" Marilyn turned around and locked her gaze on Robert. Tears welled up in her eyes. "I know that you are different now. The clothes you wear are worth hundreds of dollars from well-known brands, and the places you visit are all high-end. But do you think these are meaningful to you?"

Robert laughed after hearing her words. "Marilyn, you're one to talk. You looked down upon me when I was poor, and now I've got rich, but you still criticized me. Who do you think you are?"

Marilyn bit her red lips and shook her head heavily. "I admitted that what I said hurt you, and I'm not somebody. But out of sympathy... No, as your past classmate, I want to tell you that all of your acts are childish and foolish! Do you know what will happen if you offend Kendrick? He's not someone you can mess with!"

"Yes, of course, I can't offend the man that you chose, Ms. Quesnell." Robert shrugged. "Well, I'm done hearing everything that you want to show off. Can I go now?"

Marilyn stared at Robert without saying anything.

Robert grinned and said, "Goodbye, Ms. Quesnell."

After that, Robert strode forward without looking back.

Robert turned around at a quiet corner and looked at Marilyn's back. His eyes got red at this point. "Marilyn, I'll never be as good as Kendrick in your eyes. Just wait and see. One day, I will show that your choice is wrong!"

Marilyn crouched down in front of the Fairsaint Restaurant. Her tears fell uncontrollably to the ground drop by drop. Her body trembled slightly, and she wept.

"Robert, why did you become a man like this? The Labelle family is rich, but it didn't mean that you're able to compete with the Zabel family. Now, the Hoffman family also targeted you. Do you think this is easy? Why didn't you listen to me? Why?"

Marilyn recalls the first time she met Robert. He worked hard and depended on himself to succeed at the time, which was quite different from who he was today.

That night, Marilyn cried sadly, and Robert walked forward in dark. Facing different directions, the two were both thinking about each other in their hearts.

An Audi stopped slowly on the road, and Naomi, sitting in the driver's seat, was holding her phone.

"Mr. Camidge, just now..."

"I've already known about this. I'll handle it. Please take care of Mr. Zabinski for me." Carlos' voice came from Naomi's phone.

Naomi nodded and looked aside. On the road, Robert was walking with his head down, thinking.

Looking at Robert who looked lost, Naomi felt somewhat sad.

Hurriedly, Naomi shook her head to get rid of that feeling, mumbling, "I can't see this kind of heartbreak scene often, or I won't dare to be in a relationship anymore."

It was late in the night, and most doctors at Lofbury's Fourth Public Hospital were still on duty, and the Director had been there since the afternoon. It was all because there was an important patient in the hospital.
