

Chapter 38 A Well Orchestrated Plan

Erick paced back and forth in his room, trying to put as much distance as possible between him and his false companion.

Joshua was taking longer than expected, it had been three months since he had left with Lila, in search of proof that Camila was nothing more than an impostor.

What happened exactly three months ago was this:

When Erick left the infirmary, before reaching the clearing he remembered that he had left on the little table next to the unconscious girl a report about Peter's disappearance, so he decided to return.

But to his surprise the girl wasn't in bed and Erick could hear her say "Yes, master," but as much as Erick tried to see who the person was that the girl was talking to, it wasn't possible, he also considered the possibility of just going there and getting the two of them, but after some quick thinking he decided to wait because this girl could be Hercules' accomplice and have precious information, that's when he clearly saw Camila hiding a doubtful bottle between her breasts and Tron growled in his mind.

Deciding to drop the report as there was nothing of importance there he silently retreats .

He headed for the clearing with his thoughts racing, he already knew that the whole prophecy thing was real, he also knew that Hercules was somehow infiltrating his followers around the royal academy and suspected that Hercules himself was there.

So he had to plan

his next move very well, until now Hercules had always been one or two steps ahead of him, and now the time had come to change the game.

He could use this girl to find out who were the followers of Hercules infiltrating the academy and more importantly what Hercules really looked like.

For that he would have to pretend that he fell for the companions' story, and the best way to find out the necessary information, without drawing attention from Hercules and his followers was for Erick to stay there, and send someone he trusted to track the girl, to know where she came from, who her family and friends were, so he could get to the moment she met Hercules and maybe even Hercules himself, and the only person he would trust with such an important mission was his Beta and best friend Joshua.

He would also have to stay completely away from Eduarda because any girl Erick showed any kind of interest in would be in grave danger with Hercules after her.

And that was the way Erick had been spending three extremely difficult months, after Eduarda had kissed him in the clearing and he had used that excuse to push her away, it had been extremely difficult to ignore her.

Erick watched from afar as she dealt with a plot to keep people away from her, because someone had attacked Betany and set fire to the girl's hands, but as soon as he saw the wound it was clear that it was nothing more than ordinary fire and Betany recovered, minutes after the accident, but that made everyone except those two idiots stay away from her

Erick also saw Eduarda grow stronger and more confident, and beautiful, and by the moon goddess in his eyes she was perfect, and Erick will once follow her for he had begun to get suspicious of her midnight runs and to his surprise found out that Draco was training her, and was pleased about it.

But of all the days the most difficult was the day of the body combat, every blow Eduarda took seemed to reverberate in Erick's heart, but it was also amazing to see the release of her power, driven by an irresistible attraction, Erick held her hand just as she had held him and prevented him from killing Betany and Tiffany.

But now finally Joshua was back and he could get rid of that annoying and clingy girl, Erick couldn't stand to pretend to drink anymore, whatever she put in his drink every chance she got.

Lila just informed him that Joshua had gone after Eduarda because he had a strong feeling that she needed him, and then he would meet Erick in the royal pavilion with the information he had gathered.

Smiling Erick uses the link to call one of the royal guards and is even more smiling when Camila comes bouncing into the pavilion.

"My darling," she says launching herself at Erick who moves at the last instant causing her to crash to the ground.

Erick's eyes immediately turn red, his voice expressing all the disgust and revulsion he feels as he says:

"Touch me again and I'll kill you you bitch", his furiously murderous aura makes her cringe on the floor.

At that moment Lila opens the door for two guards and Erick says:

"Take this trash to the academy dungeons, and don't let anyone except me or Joshua near her", looking at the trembling girl on the floor he says "later I'll pay you a visit dear" and the guards drag her out .

Lila gives Erick a strange smile and says:

"Your day is going to get a lot worse in a few minutes, so maybe you'd like to take off that white shirt, after all you look good in it it would be a shame if it got ruined", seeing Erick arch his eyebrows she adds, "relax because it will get a lot better later"

Hardly had Erick and Eduarda learned not to ignore Lila's weird lines as they always paid dearly when they did, so sighing Erick headed for the bedroom making sure to put on some shirt he didn't like so much.

Now he felt anxious to see Eduarda and finally tell her that all his interaction with Camila was just na act, and maybe they could pick up where they left off in the clearing.

That's when he hears the Front Door slam violently, and Joshua's angry words .

"Why didn't you let me kill him, damn it Eduarda I'm going back there and rip that trash's head off"

"No you won't,"
Eduarda and Lila say at the same time

"He easily finished off a Lycan Joshua," says Eduarda in despair.

Joshua unleashes
all his power on the surroundings and says :

"I'm the real Beta,
and I'm going to rip that asshole's head off"

At that moment Erick thinks it's better to go see what's going on and asks:

"What the fuck else
is going on here?"

