

The Return of the Last Dragon

Chapter 17 - Let's go!

"Why don't you come with me?" Falkor said as he looked at Isobel.

Ever since they went on to escape this forest, Falkor thought of inviting Isobel to come with him outside this place.

After all, Falkor wanted to have Isobel's knowledge of this world.

Even if they talked already, there would be some parts that Falkor would forget or some parts that Falkor would misunderstand.

Well, Falkor already thought of inviting Isobel since the start, but Isobel...had the air of not wanting to go outside of this place.

That was why Falkor only asked this when they had the option to actually go out.

It was then that Isobel spoke as she looked at Falkor.

"Go with you...do you mean that I would go out with you?"

"Out of this place?"

And when Falkor heard that, he nodded his head readily.

After all, that was indeed his intention.

There was no need to complicate things by lying or something like that.

Well, Falkor was not a human, and that was why he was incapable of lying.

The only time he would be able to lie would be the time he was able to adjust to being a human.

"That's right. I don't know what you are doing here, but you would serve a cause greater if you come with me."

"After all, you would be...hmmm...with me. That's right, you would be with me!"

"With me, the greatest dragon living in the world!"

Falkor said as he considered himself as the greatest dragon. Well, he would be the greatest dragon as he was the only dragon left.

However, Isobel...wasn't answering Falkor's question, no matter how much time has passed.

That was because Isobel was thinking about things.

There was only one reason why she wasn't allowed to go out of this forest, and that was because of the order from her family.

Of course, her family is the royal family of the Lors Kingdom.

Although Isobel looked to be quite young, she was actually old by now.

However...due to her special blood, she didn't age. She wasn't aging, and the royal family knew the cause of it.

It seems that the cause was something scary, and that was why they 'locked' her up in this forest.

Well, even if Isobel wasn't aging, the normal lifespan of a human in the world of Allland is long.

The normal lifespan of a human in this world is 300 years. That was why Isobel wasn't that weird.

After all, she just looked young. As a human gets stronger, they would be able to live even a thousand years!

Even the strongest human could live ten thousand years!

However, it seems that the royal family thought otherwise as they locked Isobel here.

'I lived...a hundred years in here.' Isobel thought as she remembered the boring days she spent here.

It was so incredibly boring, and there were many days that Isobel thought of going out as well.

However, it was because Isobel was a good girl that she didn't even try.

But...what if there were an arm reaching out to her?

Isobel then looked at Falkor, who was just looking straight at her.

Falkor was waiting for Isobel's decision, and that was why he was keeping quiet.

Well, he just didn't know what was going on in Isobel's mind.

Either way, that clueless look of Falkor was...reliable in Isobel's mind.

After all, Falkor was the first human that Isobel met in a hundred years.

Well, Falkor was a dragon, but that was not the point. Falkor had a human body, and that was why he was a human.

That was why...Isobel thought that maybe it would be fine.

It would be fine to get naughty and disobey the order that came from her family.

It would be fine...to go out of the forest.

It would be fine.

And it was at that moment that Isobel decided, she decided to go out of the forest, together with Falkor.

"Yes...I'll go with you."

Isobel said as she looked at Falkor. Although she was nervous about this decision of hers, she didn't hesitate.

After all, it's not like Falkor forced her to do this or something like that.

It was her own decision, and she took her time before making her decision.

That was why it would be absurd if she would hesitate. Well, Isobel actually wanted to go out of here, and that was why she was excited about it.

And when Falkor heard what she said, Falkor laughed.

"Kuhahaha! Good. Good."

"So, you wanna be with the greatest dragon living in Allland, huh!"

"That's how a normal human should act, and that's how every human should act!"

Falkor said as he felt extreme happiness from Isobel's decision. After all, Falkor knew how...Isobel tried to avoid the topic of her going out or something like that.

What's more, Isobel only talked about things from the perspective of Falkor going out alone. She didn't talk about how she would go together with him.

That was why Falkor was happy about this simple decision. After all, Falkor would have someone to guide him in real-life situations.

Falkor was indeed a simple dragon.

It was then that Isobel spoke as she shushed Falkor.

"Shh! They are still near here, so don't speak so loudly."

What Isobel was the truth. The group of women who were looking for the intruder, Falkor, was still here.

That was why they couldn't afford to be loud or something like that.

After all, they would get caught even before they start their journey outside the forest.

Isobel then made something appear with her hands, and it was...nothing.

Right, it was nothing, but that was because it was an invisible cloak.

This cloak was what Isobel used the illusion magic on, and that was why she whipped it out.

After all, they would continue their way out as Isobel decided to go out of the forest.

"Let's go!" Isobel said with a smile as she was excited about this new part of her life.

Even if it were by a sin, Isobel planned to have the fun of her life.

She planned to have the happiness she couldn't have before in this new adventure.
