Chapter 101: The Grant Family Throws a Big, Flowing Feast

It's so stupid.

She turned around with a formulaic smile on her face, "Thank you Mr. Alston for reminding me."

Crossed into the living room and removed the key from the wall.

But as soon as her hand touched the key, Peter held her hand down, "Are you hiding from me?"

So obvious, how could he not see it.

"Oops, I'm running out of time, something's really wrong."

Adriana didn't dare to look directly at Peter, struggled to grab her keys and ran out in a huff.

Standing in the corridor, she reached out and pressed the elevator furiously, and after waiting for a while finally waited for the elevator.

When the elevator door opened, she immediately got in, to make sure that Peter did not follow, before a long breath of relief, nervous to death.

This day, Adriana slipped in the park alone all day, hesitant to go home.

On this day, Peter stayed at Adriana's house alone for a long time.

A few days later, the news agency broke the recent news that The Grant Family's youngest son had quit his job as a music professor and returned to The Grant Family Group to inherit the family business.

The Grant Family is overwhelmed with joy.

The Grant Family's parent lamented that Alvin had grown up and was finally willing to inherit the family business, and that they didn't have to worry about not having an heir.

For this reason, The Grant Family hosted a three-day banquet and invited all of Waverly's waste pickers and sanitation workers to eat for free.

And a direct donation of $5 million was made to UNICEF to support children.

News of The Grant Family overwhelmed news of The Alston family and became the news headline of the moment.

Adriana was eating lunch when she saw the news, but after seeing the news, she lost her appetite for food.

"You're the one who told Alvin to go back?"

Just as Adriana was staring at her phone, someone suddenly spoke.

Eyelids slightly raised, looking at the opposite sitting Peter, can not help but the heartstrings tightened, immediately put away the phone, "eat full, Mr. Alston enjoy your meal."

She slinked away, front to back, giving Peter only one look.

Chapter 102 Law Firm Established

If Brenden used her, it was because he could see Peter's feelings for her.

So how could Theresa not see it?

If Theresa also saw Peter's different feelings for her, only then could the suspicion of the car accident be revealed to the Atkins family people, only then would there be a scene of the Atkins family people spilling their guts at Gisselle's memorial service.

Think carefully.

Adriana let out a long sigh and suddenly felt that she had unknowingly fallen into a whirlpool of intrigue, trying to escape but being swallowed by the swamp and unable to pull herself out.

After so many things, Adriana was physically and mentally exhausted and nearly couldn't hold on.

But fortunately, the days were calm and uneventful for a while afterwards, so that her tired heart was soothed.

Gradually came out of the shadows.

One month later, MM Law Firm was officially established.

On the day of the ribbon cutting, Adriana was there as a guest and witnessed Vivian and Jenkins, both dressed and glowing, appear on the ribbon cutting stage.

Hale Cobb Law Firm used to be well-connected, so on the opening day Vivian invited the mayor and very important people from the mall to come and support the venue.

Everything went very smoothly, and also invited a lot of media reporters to make a lot of publicity.

MM Law Firm is officially established

The establishment of the law firm was like a rainbow after the rain, giving her a glimpse of light and relief during the bad days.

The mood is much better.

Perhaps because she gave Jenkins a company, Thelma treated her much better.

That evening, Vivian, Jenkins, Hayley, Thelma, several people dining together, everyone shut up about unhappy things, but also get along very well.

After the meal, Vivian took her back to her apartment and rested early.

Because Alvin returned to The Grant Family to inherit The Grant Family Group, he had long since moved out of her upstairs.

There is a new tenant upstairs, Adriana has seen it and it is a college student.

She should have been the one to move out, but Alvin was already gone, so there was no need for her to be tossing and turning.

Adriana was a little helpless and had to nod, "Then you can just call me if you need anything, okay? I really have to go to the office now or I'll be late."

"Well, good, good."

Brenda nods her head.

Leaving the hospital, Adriana went to dinner, cleaned up, and arrived at the office just in time.

After a busy morning of menial work, I received a call from Brenden at the end of the day.

"Say."

Her attitude was icy.

"Do you have time tonight, The Alston family old man wants to see you."

"See me?"

Adriana was taken aback and felt her heart thumping at the thought of meeting the old man and refused outright, "No, I don't have time."

"I'm informing you, not asking for your opinion."

"You

Adriana gasped and clutched her phone, "Got it."

Hang up the phone and fling it on the table, angry with a headache.

Knock Knock-

While this was going on, someone came over and knocked on the table.

Adriana looks up, and it's Minister Nelson Dean.

"Mr. Alston wants you to go to the president's office right now." After the order, he barked, "Immediately!"

"What is it? Would the minister please tell me about it?"

Adriana never wanted to see Peter.

"How am I supposed to know if you ask me? I'm not Mr. Alston."

Nelson Dean, who was not happy with her, gave her a blank look and went straight to the minister's office.

Adriana was ordered and had to go.

"Hank is your personal assistant, there must be something to discuss between you, I'd better change seats with him."

From the beginning to the end, I don't want to have too many opportunities to spend time alone with Peter.

This time, if she hadn't been thinking about Helen and trying to avoid The Alston family dinner, she wouldn't have chosen to go abroad with him.

"The plane will be taking off soon!"

The man gave a dismissive reminder, then took the blindfold and covered his eyes.

Adriana had no choice but to wait.

Not long after, the plane took off, Adriana some nervous, hands clasped tightly on the seat, dead eyes closed, not dare to open.

"You're afraid of heights?"

Some people are so afraid of heights that they can't fly.

It just didn't occur to me that Adriana was such a person.

"Hmm."

The plane kept rising, and Adriana became more nervous and fearful, clutching the armrests of her seat with a slightly white hand.

Peter took off his glasses and put his big palm over the back of her hand, his other arm around her head close to his, "It's okay, I'm here."

A word of comfort from him, extremely simple.

But the feeling of security that fell on Adriana's ears was immense.

Leaning in his arms, feeling his breath, everything is so familiar, familiar to make her heart beat faster.

"You're beating fast and nervous?" He asked.

Adriana's white teeth bite her lips, naturally will not admit, "afraid of heights."

"Just get used to it."

"Hmm."

On the plane, perhaps because Adriana was afraid of heights, she kept her eyes closed nervously, so that she eventually fell asleep in a daze.

As she slept, she leaned into the arms of one person and was held in a reassuring embrace.

By the time I woke up I had arrived in Los Angeles.

She pulled a front.

"But I remember you living in Los Angeles for five years."

Adriana: "....."

The investigation is so clear, can we still continue the conversation?

"It's because I've been living here for a long time, and it's so easy to come here that I want to go out for a walk and see my friends in the meantime."

The most important thing is to take time out to meet Helen.

After being separated from her baby daughter for so long, how could she not miss it?

"Are you here to work, or are you here to play?"

Peter's attitude is slightly cold and his unpredictable nature is unpredictable.

"I'm just asking. If you have time to see a friend, if you don't, you don't, is there a need to be angry."

Originally because Brenden, Adriana mood is a little upset, now by Peter angry dislike a sentence, the mood is even worse.

"Go eat on your own, I'm not hungry."

Stepping back, without forgetting to give him a blank look, he closed the door of the room with a bang.

Standing behind the door, Adriana is furious and kicks the door in anger.

If she hadn't wanted to avoid Brenden, she would have had to come to Los Angeles with Peter.

What's so fierce!

"Open the door!"

Outside the door, Peter's voice rang out once more.

A commanding tone, a low voice with a slightly commanding tone.

"If Mr. Alston has something to say, I'll go to bed if nothing else."

"I say again, open the door!"

The man's voice grew low and penetrating, falling into her ears, causing Adriana to subconsciously raise her hand on the doorknob and try to open the door.

But she held back in the end.

"Not open!"

"Adriana, do you want to die?"

"Murder is against the law, Mr. Alston can't be ignorant of even basic common sense."

"Open the door!"

He ordered once again.

"Hey Peter, I'm working several jobs, how much are you going to pay me a month?"

Adriana trotted after her.

Peter took out his sunglasses and put them on with graceful demeanor.

Silver gray sunglasses, covering the pair of black as ink narrow phoenix eyes, converge the harsh sharpness, just like a business elite handsome and dashing, competent and handsome.

"How much do you think you're worth?"

He asked as he walked.

Perhaps because he has long legs, his stride is so wide that Adriana can only keep up with him at a trot.

"Of course you say so."

Adriana was speechless.

She's not the boss, ask her? It's a joke, right?

"I said?"

"Ouch."

Peter suddenly stopped, Adriana did not brake in time, hit his back, nose sore sore, tears can not stop the dense eyes.

"Hiss It hurts like hell. Peter, what are you doing stopping all of a sudden?"

The stop was so sudden that she was caught off guard.

"Stupid as you are, using you is a favor."

He tossed the car keys to Adriana, his cold handsome face showing all the contempt and disdain.

Contempt.

"Lifting?"

Listening to his words, Adriana almost did not blow up her lungs in anger.

At least she was once the president of Hale Cobb Law FirFuck, owning four branches and leading a chic and prosperous life.

More than that, it is the envy of countless people.

How did Peter become such a mess when he met him?

"What do you mean? If you despise me so much, don't use me! At least I've run a few companies, I'm not as useless as you say!"

"Sure."

Her answer was straightforward.

After all, it was now in Los Angeles and she could have gone straight to Helen if she had had time off.

Her daughter.

It had been a long time since we had met, and Adriana felt that her heart was thumping uncontrollably, and her nervousness was unspeakable.

In the evening, went back to the hotel.

Driving all afternoon, Adriana was really tired to waste seemingly.

When I got into the hotel, I fell straight into bed and drifted off to sleep after only a short while.

Knock Knock-

At some point, there was a knock on the door.

Adriana woke up from her sleep and rubbed her sleepy eyes to find that the sun was setting outside.

Get up, walk to the door and open the door to the room.

Raise your eyes to meet Peter's dark, ink-like face.

With a cold face, he said in a deep voice, "Are you a pig? Can't hear the knock on the door and can't hear the call?"

This damn woman, what an underestimation of her ability to sleep.

Adriana smiled awkwardly, "Sorry, fell asleep."

She doesn't know how she slept until now, not to mention that she slept for a long time on the plane in the morning.

"It's time to eat."

The man coldly dropped a sentence and left.

Adriana was doubly speechless and had to follow with her phone and bag.

The two of them went to a western restaurant and ordered some random meals.

During the meal, Peter asked, "Where is your company?"

"What company?"

Adriana froze, not understanding.

Adriana froze, her heart racing, with the embarrassment of being caught in a lie.

The tip of my tongue licked my lips, hesitated for a few seconds before saying: "Something happened to my company, I came back to deal with things. It just so happens that Mr. Alston also had to go on a business trip, so I had to say so to the minister under a different guise, otherwise, he would not have given me leave. As you know, there were conflicts with the minister before, how he would easily grant me leave."

"Oh, so. Okay. Then remember to call me when you come back, I'll come and pick you up oh."

"That was great."

She forced a smile.

Hanging up the phone, Adriana stood in place holding the phone, closing her eyes and taking a deep breath, nervous as hell.

"Lying without changing your face or needing a draft, Adriana, how come I didn't realize you were such a good liar? Or are you just a liar in the first place, huh?"

The man suddenly closed in and stood in front of her, appearing so suddenly.

When she opened her eyes and found Peter standing in front of her, Adriana was so shocked that the phone in her hand almost fell to the floor.

She frowned and said with displeasure, "Peter, what are you doing, you're out of nowhere, do you know that people are scared to death?"

Open your eyes is that cold face, still so annoying.

"That's you being a thief."

The man's hands are inserted in the pockets of his suit pants, a pair of good-looking Danfeng eyes slightly narrowed, the bottom of his eyes released a ghostly light, "You"

"What do you mean by being a thief? I just don't want to be misunderstood by Theresa. As I said, Theresa is my best bestie, and I don't support you being together, and that's because you don't deserve it. But I also don't want Theresa to think much about it!"

Chapter 109 If you do not love, please let go

With her back to Peter, she stood in place, her hand hanging at her side unconsciously tightened, her gaze flattened as she looked ahead, a little gloom and sadness flowing from her eyes, and more, heartache for Theresa.

Froze for a moment to calm the shock.

Yuran turned around and looked faintly at Peter, "Not in love? If you don't love him, why did you make such a big deal of the engagement ceremony? If you don't love him, why do you want to spend so much time with him?" Peter, you are a bastard!

Adriana's heart was so angry that if it weren't for the fact that she was no match for Peter, she would have struck out and taught this self-proclaimed noble man a hard lesson.

Peter does not retort, but rather a mild mood, can not see a trace of anger.

It was such a gesture that angered Adriana, and she was so angry that she clenched her red lips with her teeth, "You you"

The long, slender finger pointed at him, angry and could not say a word.

Finally, she took a deep breath to calm her emotions before saying, "Remember what you said today. If you don't love, then please give her back her freedom."

"Good."

The man answered without thinking.

The words came out of his mouth, not only shocked Adriana, even Peter himself felt unbelievable.

But he was clear that the answer he just gave was from the heart.

"You won't accept her because Theresa can't have children?" A man, unable to accept a woman, was all the reason she could think of.

Peter frowned, unable to answer Adriana's question.

He was silent, but in Adriana's mind, it was by default.

Adriana stared straight at Peter and watched him for a while before suddenly turning away.

"Where are you going?"

Peter pursued the question.

"Peter"

Theresa took Peter's hand, rather incredulously, "Is it true what you said?"

"When have I ever lied to you?"

The man's attitude is indifferent, although it is trying to Theresa to explain, but between the eyebrows but vaguely appear a little impatient.

It was just a flash of emotion, so fast that Theresa didn't even catch it.

"Theresa, I'm sorry for the misunderstanding. I didn't mean to lie to you, it's just that it's just that"

Adriana didn't know how to explain it, and the more she explained, the messier it got.

"The client the company is negotiating with this time is in Los Angeles, and you told me to stay in Los Angeles for four years, so she is very familiar with Los Angeles, and her English is the best in the company. That's why I brought her here."

Peter patiently continued to explain.

Perhaps, she herself did not realize that his words today, compared to the usual, a lot more.

Adriana looked at Peter's eyes deepened a bit, her good-looking eyebrows wrinkled deeper, and then she lowered her head, "Since Theresa is here, you guys talk, there's nothing going on I'll leave first."

She stepped around the two men and walked out, closing the door behind her.

Back in her room, Adriana leaned against the door panel and raised her hand over her heart, her thumping heart nearly jumping out of her throat, scaring her three souls out of her body.

She has also faced numerous difficulties and dilemmas, but never at any time will be as nervous as just now.

At this moment, in the next room.

Theresa, with red eyes and teardrops, hugged Peter pitifully, "Peter, is there really nothing between you and her?"

Although the mouth asked this, but no matter what answer Peter gave her, she would not believe it.

Theresa, has always believed only in herself.

Not to mention that the private detective gave her too much evidence before, and at the time, she thought she had misunderstood, but now it seems to be true.
