Chapter 151 Pregnancy Farce

"No need."

Adriana shook her head, not wanting to do any more tests at all.

There are still stomach pills at home, go back and drink a little, why waste time here.

"Stand still!"

Seeing that she was about to leave, Peter chided, stepped forward and grabbed her hand, "Go with me when I tell you to, where's all the nonsense!"

"Who are you to control me?"

Adriana struggled.

"With me being your boss, how can you work properly when you are not well? Don't forget the dinner party tonight. Otherwise, you get the hell out of here!"

He reminded, Adriana immediately remembered, this evening seems to have a dinner party it.

Just the thought of continuing to be by Peter's side made her infinitely melancholy.

"Just check, what are you fierce about."

Adriana glared at him, furious.

In the end, it was an honest and docile checkup.

After the examination, the doctor advised her to rest regularly, eat more light food, don't order take-out, and exercise regularly.

Eventually, left the hospital carrying a bag of western medicine.

"Where to?"

In front of the hospital, Peter asked.

"No, I'll take my own taxi."

Wasn't the reason Peter came to the hospital with her to find out if she was pregnant?

Now that it is certain that they are not pregnant, their relationship should have been broken off long ago.

She stubbornly walked out of the hospital, stopped a cab on the side of the road, got in, and left.

Adriana took the morning off and spent the morning resting at home.

In the afternoon, I received a call from Theresa.

The moment Adriana saw the phone number, she instinctively resisted a bit and did not want to answer the phone.

"Adri, I know what happened between you and Peter, and I don't care what happened between you. Peter is my fiancé and you should never have his child."

Theresa emotional, a pull her hand, tone humble, with a little pleading tone, "You are my best friend, he is my fiancé, my future life, if not him, I really do not know how to live in the future."

Adriana looked at her hand, which she was holding tightly in her hand, and was quite uncomfortable.

Solely, drew back his hand and asked, "Are you okay with him cheating?"

"Adri, Peter is a person of great importance, as the future head of The Alston family, she is a man even if cheating is very normal ah. How many rich men do not have a lover? I don't care, and I don't even care, as long as I can be with him."

She said it with a straight face, but it subverted Adriana's three views.

"Do you like his money? Or the man?"

"I"

Theresa was dumbfounded.

A pair of nice watery eyes met Adriana's gaze, frowned and said, "Like both."

"So you're not 100% in love with him either, but you prefer to enjoy The Alston family's dignity and luxury, right?"

Adriana analyzed the situation and then added: "A person who really likes someone will be extremely possessive and will not accept that he is involved with any woman at all."

"I don't want to either!"

Suddenly, she slapped the table, emotional yelling, startled a lot of people in the cafe have looked sideways over.

Chapter 153 Never

Adriana took two hundred dollars out of her bag and put it on the table, got up and left. Today was the day she reacquainted herself with Theresa, who really could do anything for money and power. Its tactics are outrageous. She never thought that Theresa would be able to figure out how to get her to donate her uterus to her so that Theresa could allow her to be with Peter, saying that it would be impossible for her to get pregnant and not jeopardize her position as the rightful wife. Ridiculous, ridiculous! "Adriana!" She had just taken a few steps when Theresa's shout rang out behind her. Adriana took a step and stood still, not turning around, "What else is going on?" "You can think about it, I'm serious." Theresa was afraid that Adriana would think that she was joking about what she said. Adriana was silent for two seconds, turned around, and said in a cold voice, "No need to think about it." "Really, are you saying yes?" Theresa was ecstatic and immediately stood up, looking at her with a hopeful face, full of expectation. "Never!"

Leaving five words behind, she left straight away.

Theresa's smile faltered and she gaped.

Originally thought, such conditions Adriana will certainly agree, did not expect the refusal so crisp.

"Is it because he likes you?"

She couldn't resist and asked.

Adriana, who had already walked away, heard Theresa's words and couldn't stop the corners of her lips from lifting, feeling sarcastic.

Alston Group, Office of the President.

Adriana knocked on the door and stood in the office. As soon as she saw Peter, she remembered what Theresa had said today and was a little distracted.

"Mr. Alston, what time do you want to leave? Is there anything else I need to prepare, please?"

Before coming to the office, Adriana went home to change into a professional outfit, well dressed, and considered properly dressed.

Peter handled the paperwork, not forgetting to glance up at her, and saw that he looked pale, and his hanging heart fell.

"Theresa went to see you?"

He asked.

"Mr. Alston, company, no personal matters." Adriana didn't want to have too many personal conversations with him.

After the recent events, the most important thing she needs to do now is to fight back and get out of her current situation.

However, everything does not look so easy.

Peter raised his eyebrows, closed the file and leaned lazily in the executive chair, "Say."

The sudden shift in attitude was cold and raw.

Adriana hooked her lips in a smile, "What else could be said? What do you think, what will she say?"

The words that were said, Adriana were embarrassed to say, and naturally could not be said.

After all, that's between her and Theresa.

"Theresa She"

"It's already six o'clock, has Mr. Alston made his reservation at the hotel?" Peter just wanted to say something, Adriana directly interrupted him.

"Hmm."

"And what other documents do I need to prepare?"

"No need, just have the people there."

"Peter, I need to say it again."

She looked sideways and looked serious, "There is no possibility between me and you, there never will be. Whether you marry Theresa or call off the engagement, that's between you and her, it has nothing to do with me. You like me, that's your business, it has nothing to do with me, and I don't want to know. Besides, there are so many people who like me, so why should I say yes to you."

A speech that left Peter speechless.

Yet her persistence is deeply felt.

"What if the person I met in the beginning was you?" The man asked again.

At this question, Adriana was silent.

What if the person who met her in the beginning was her?

Yes, they did know each other first, but unfortunately, you've got the wrong person.

The person who originally saved him was Adriana, but he found Theresa.

This is life, should be resigned to fate.

"No ifs."

Adriana adjusted her sitting posture, leaned back on the car seat and looked ahead, "Mr. Alston, as the president of Alston Group, would not be so naive as to think that there are pills of regret for sale in the world, right?"

"Adriana, you're a cruel woman."

Peter was slightly angry and slammed his fist on the steering wheel.

In the past, only women were attracted to him, but no woman has ever been so resistant to him, avoiding three, such as the plague.

But Adriana is that woman, and he kept a certain distance, from her eyes to see only hate, distant and indifferent.

"It's not too late to know."

Adriana pointed to her watch, "Time to go."

Peter had no choice but to start the engine and drive away.

Alvin pulled out a slender black and red brocade box from his briefcase.

"I don't know what you like, so I bought you a simple necklace, see if you like it?"

Alvin opened the brocade box inside the box quietly lies a platinum four-leaf clover necklace, in the sunlight, the emerald four-leaf clover pendant crystal translucent, reflecting the silk luster, beautiful.

"Wow, that's beautiful."

Adriana immediately spotted the necklace and liked it very much.

"Cough cough"

Peter, who was standing on the side, finally couldn't help himself, raised his hand and made a fist in front of his nose and coughed gently, as if to remind them that there was still him in it.

"It's not good for a girl to casually accept things from people, right?" Peter reminded.

When she said that, Adriana's face changed instantly.

The long, slender fingers flicked the four-leaf clover pendant, and then slowly retracted her hand, "Senior, thank you for your kindness. This gift is too expensive, I really can't accept it."

Although the words came out of Peter's mouth with some unkindness, I have to say that what he said is still very reasonable, and it is really not good to take things from others casually.

Alvin's good-looking eyebrows knitted slightly, subconsciously raised his eyes to look at Peter, his gaze between him and Adriana back and forth between the two.

Then added: "Adri, this stuff is cheap, bought from a roadside stall, but it's only a few hundred dollars, I also gave Flora, you all have it."

He confessed.

"So, really?"

"When did I ever tell a lie?"

"Okay then, I'll take it, thanks." She really likes this necklace Alvin bought, but

"Okay, don't see me."

When he entered the hotel, Adriana was waiting for him at the entrance and, not seeing Alvin, asked, "Where is the senior?"

"Let's go."

Peter dropped the two words coldly and walked around Adriana into the box.

In the evening at the hotel with several male Old Mr. Grant will always meet, although has been persuaded to drink, but Peter three words close to the word, those people also dare not make a mistake.

Three contracts were signed in one night.

After the deed was done, the two left the hotel.

As she walked down the hall, Adriana said, "I'm going to go to the bathroom."

"Hmm."

Peter is waiting for Adriana in the hall.

Ten minutes later, the phone received a text message, "Mission accomplished, I've gone home, Mr. Alston see you tomorrow."

Seeing the message, Peter smiled helplessly.

He knew that Adriana was avoiding him on purpose, but he really couldn't do anything about the little fox.

Nine o'clock, Houston Boxing Gym.

Peter arrived on time, by which time Alvin had been wrestling soundly for several hours, drenched in wet sweat stains.

"Peter, come on!"

He removed his gloves and leaned over the railing of the boxing ring and looked at him, "I'm going to beat you up today!"

Sooo they are all brothers, and all the brothers among him a person from the text, so it seems to be as gentle as jade, hands free, but in fact he still has some strength.

"Okay, full force."

There was someone looking for her at this point in time, and Adriana almost had a bit of a breakdown, not understanding just who it was.

There probably won't be anyone else but Brenden.

She got up, walked out of the bedroom and caught a glimpse of the man sitting in the living room.

At once anxiously ruffled his hair, indescribably angry and grumpy.

"Brenda, you go ahead and rest."

Adriana waved her hand, not wanting to disturb Brenda.

"I am not very sleepy, you guys talk, I will go out for a walk." Brenda is very aware of the eyes, know that they have something to say to each other, and left.

With the living room door closed, Adriana and Brenden were the only two people left in the hall.

She licked her lips with her tongue, sighed helplessly and spread her hands, "Brenden, what do you really want? You give a painful word!"

Adriana, who has always been very well brought up, was driven to madness by Brenden.

"From the beginning, you said it was just a deal, then you talked nonsense about our relationship to the public, to now, you told the people of The Alston family that we are in a couple relationship. I just want to ask you, what exactly do you hold in mind? Or, how do you want me to go along with you? To marry you? Stay with you, help you take the Alston Group, and then kick me out as a pawn, is that it?"

There are things she doesn't understand, but now she is bent on being squeezed by Brenden and has no room to turn around.

The only thing that is best is to keep Helen by your side.

From the time she met Brenden, she kept telling herself that she must be independent, strong and powerful enough, otherwise, you will never be qualified to protect your loved ones.

She tried her best and tried hard, but the results were not ideal.

Brenden sat on the couch, silently lit a cigarette, took a drag, and listened quietly to Adriana's rant without anger.

That look, in Adriana's eyes, really had an impulse to kill him.

Adriana hurriedly shouted, "It's hard for you to escort my daughter back, I'll treat you to lunch."

"No, see you later."

The man all kinds of cool and crazy hanging, head did not return waved a hand, directly left.

Adriana was curious about the identity of this person, so she knelt down and asked Helen, "Baby, who is this person? What is his relationship with your Aunt Anne?"

Anne is very confident in her work, and since she arranged for this man to escort her back, she must be trustworthy.

This man looks familiar, what is his relationship with Anne?

Helen shook her head, "very mysterious uncle oh, so cool grin."

"No more." Helen nodded, "I just flew here with him and didn't talk much the whole way."

"Okay."

In that case, there is no point in Adriana asking any more questions.

It would be better to ask Anne in person later.

Then sent Anne a What's App message telling her that Helen had arrived.

"Baby, it's noon, what do you want to eat, Mommy will take you to eat something delicious." She rubbed her little face with both hands, loving it.

Helen's presence in her life was like the sun shining after the rain, brightening her dark life and making her feel happy.

"Want to eat fried chicken, burgers, fries."

Helen jumped up gleefully, then stopped again and stood in front of Adriana with a droopy face, "Ugh, let's eat Chinese food. Mommy doesn't know how to cook, so there must be many, many opportunities to eat fried chicken burgers in the future."

That look, properly in dislike of Adriana.

But Adriana's heart can't help but marvel at the fact that other children are still pampered and naughty playing with toys when they are more than four years old, but Helen, the girl, likes to tinker with the computer and never likes those Barbie dolls, cashmere dolls and those little toys for girls.

The last time I was abroad, I met with this girl.

She is the daughter of Adriana's best friend's relative.

No, I should say very similar.

"Peter, you guys know each other?"

Theresa's deep, deep gaze surveyed Helen, always feeling that this child bears a striking resemblance to Luis.

"Met once." Peter said back.

Alvin on the side was a bit curious, "Whose child is this girl? It's really too similar to Luis, how can it be such a coincidence?"

"A friend's kid."

Peter took Helen's hand and his tone was extremely gentle, "Little girl, where is your mommy?"

"My mommy? Oops, crap, my mommy must be looking for me."

With that, Helen instantly ran out of the room.

As expected, in the large restaurant, Adriana is looking for Helen and is anxious.

"Mommy?"

Helen gave a loud shout and waved at Adriana.

Adriana looked over and ran over when she saw Helen and hugged her. After two seconds, she let go of her and said angrily, "Where have you been, you damn girl? Do you know you scared me to death just now?"

She had just returned to her home country and one phone call and she was missing, what should she do?

"Mommy's sorry, Mommy's not mad."

Noticing Adriana's red eyes, Helen was so distressed that she immediately raised her arms and wrapped them around her neck, "Helen knows she's wrong."

"Know Your Faults"

Adriana just wanted to say something, then found not far down the corridor Peter walked over, that a cold face through the appalling cold air, eyes sharp to the extreme.

She had not known Peter long, but knew that this was the expression of his extreme anger.
