Chapter 172 Adriana confronts Peter

Adriana, unwilling to be an ear to the wall, immediately closed the window and eliminated that one sound.

Back in the living room, Adriana finally decided to give Peter a call.

Toot-toot-

The phone dialed and rang a few times.

At that moment, Adriana suddenly felt that she should not continue to interfere with the affairs between Peter and Theresa.

Then he lifted his hand and prepared to hang up the phone.

But before the long and slender fingers touched the phone screen, a low and seductive voice came from there, "What's wrong?"

A familiar voice, just one listen and I knew it was Peter.

"That"

Adriana was speechless for a moment, did not know what to say, stammered for a while, but did not say a reason.

Eventually, the man over there sulked and asked directly, "What's the matter, just say it."

He was a little surprised that Adriana would take the initiative to call him.

"Peter, I just wanted to ask you"

The words came to her lips, she once again closed her mouth, genuinely do not know how to say some words out.

The man waited quietly for her to finish the unspoken words.

Adriana summoned a breath and said quickly, "You're breaking up with Theresa? Why is that?"

"Because of you."

The other side was also silent for a few seconds and gave her a straightforward answer.

It is reasonable and expected.

"....."

Adriana was speechless, much less able to answer.

The two men held their phones and fell into a brief silence with each other, each with their own thoughts.

If there are special circumstances, she will call ahead to inform the teacher.

With Peter's previous experience, Adriana was really worried that Peter would take Helen away again when she wasn't looking.

The morning flew by with full concentration on the work at hand in the office.

In the blink of an eye, it was already noon, but Adriana still had two more urgent cases in her hands, so she had to work late at the office.

After being busy for a while, the phone rang.

She didn't even look at the phone and answered it directly, "Who is it?"

"Adri, it's me."

The familiar voice could not be clearer.

Adriana looked up and subconsciously frowned, "Theresa, what is it?"

Last night, Theresa had already called her about what had happened between her and Peter.

She wants to help Theresa, but her heart is not in it.

Peter's heart is not in Theresa's body now and he has no emotion for Theresa, even if he gets married, he will not be happy.

As Peter says, marrying Theresa is a sign of irresponsibility because he doesn't like her.

Married, but also just a heavy shackle, each other will not be happy.

"I'm outside, come out here for a minute, I want to talk to you."

Theresa said.

Adriana looked up, looked sideways, and when she did, she saw Theresa standing in the doorway.

The two looked at each other from a distance, looking at each other with a complicated expression, and she said, "Good."

Hang up the phone, close the file, get up and walk out.

Following Theresa, the two walked to stand at the entrance of the stairway.

She cried miserably and sadly, as if a sharp knife, stabbed into Adriana's heart viciously.

Theresa's inability to have children is a wound that Theresa will never be able to heal, and a pain that Adriana will never be able to let go of.

Because, she was unable to have children all because of that one car accident.

It was her fault.

Inwardly, he blamed himself immensely.

Even if she wants to turn around and leave at this moment, she has no more courage.

"Theresa, everything is going to be okay."

She bowed her head, her voice slightly hoarse.

"How is it good?"

Theresa suddenly turned, helpless and desperate, and spread her hands, "How good is it?" Eyes burning, she glared at Adriana.

The crystalline tears glittering in her eyes came out in that moment, she pursed her lips and shook her head, "No more, as long as I can't have children, it's impossible to be good for the rest of my life. Peter is everything to me, it's my life. If he really wants to break up with me, then I"

Theresa speaks lustfully, clutching the recorder in her hand, her nails scraped on the recorder, her eyes showing a desperate struggle, "Only the option to die."

"You're crazy!"

Adriana growled, "You have more than one person in your life, is it worth it for him?" Love is important, but the most important thing is life.

Theresa would be foolish to do so.

"Yes, I was crazy, from the moment I fell in love with Peter."

She reddened one eye, "Adri, it would be nice if you could help me. But now, no one will help me. No one, no"

"After all that talk in circles, you just want me to give you my womb, don't you?"

Listening to her words, Adriana, although heartbroken, also found it ironic and ridiculous.

Theresa slowly raised her eyes, a pair of eyes full of tears to meet Adriana's cold pupils, and then the tears in her eyes gradually dissipated, leaving only anger and resentment.

After a few seconds of staring at each other, Theresa suddenly yelled, "Adriana, what do you mean, aren't you responsible for this?"

Meanwhile, the hospital.

Adriana was taken to the hospital for a full workup, and the final conclusion was that malnutrition combined with anemia caused the fainting spells.

Lying in a hospital bed hanging from a drip, Adriana gazed at the ceiling and said, "You can go now, I'm fine."

The mind echoes back to the stairway at the company where Peter recklessly lunged towards her, hugging her tightly and rolling down the stairs together.

Every time she fell on the steps, either his body or his arms shielded her so that she was unharmed and did not even feel the pain.

It's happy and wonderful to be pampered.

Just

The one who gave her happiness was Peter.

She, who should not covet.

"You're not well lately, so don't go to the office and rest at home."

Peter sat on the escort chair, looking at the little woman's delicate cheeks through the sickly slightly white, a heartache.

The eyes stared straight at Adriana, always feeling that she was a woman with thorns all over her body, wrapping herself into a hedgehog and not allowing anyone to come near.

"No need, thank you Mr. Alston for your concern."

Adriana was indifferent, keeping aloof from him, "Since it's all right, please ask Mr. Alston to leave, I don't want to cause any misunderstanding. A slap is a lesson, I can't afford a second, third, or more."

After saying that, she closed her eyes.

Didn't look at him the whole time.

"I'm sorry, I didn't handle it well."

The man who has always been above, in front of Adriana put down his stature, the tone of voice even vaguely let people feel a little humble.

He looked at the red fingerprints on Adriana's right cheek and subconsciously raised his hand towards her cheek.

Finally, when he was only a stone's throw away from her cheek, his hand froze in mid-air.

The two muddy ink-dyed eyebrows wrinkled, fingers slightly clenched, and then slowly retracted their hands.

"Then you get some rest."

Chapter 176 Peter's late-night visit

Adriana put down the paper in her hand, got up and walked to the hall door and opened it.

Surprised to find that the person standing at the door is Peter?

"What brings you here?"

Hasn't she moved from next door to here, how can Peter still find her?

I think Hayley told him.

"Auntie, hehehe, Luis missed you and sister Helen so much that he came over to play with you oh."

Luis grinned, let go of Peter's hand and flung himself directly in front of her, hugging her thighs and spooning.

"Luis wants to play with Helen and is crying to come over."

Peter said with an expressionless face.

"Really, Luis?"

She kept a certain distance from Peter, but she liked Luis from the bottom of her heart and was happy to see him come over.

"Well, of course it's true, Luis misses you."

"That"

Adriana took Luis' hand and raised her eyes, glancing meaningfully at Peter, "If it's just Luis who wants to come over and play, then you can leave him here, and I'll call you if he's done and you can come back to pick him up."

The implication was that there was no intention of letting Peter into the house.

How could Peter, as smart as he was, not understand her words?

Immediately nodded, "It's okay, I'll just wait outside."

Mind you, she wouldn't let him actually be at the door, would she?

Adriana nodded without thinking, "Okay, then I'll work hard for Mr. Alston."

She pulled Luis into the house and closed the door directly.

The moment the door closed, her hand tightly gripped the door handle, and a sourness rushed to her heart.

Throughout the whole process, Peter did not say a word and spared no words.

Perhaps, even he himself was surprised that Adriana's move would actually turn him away up to two hours!

"Daddy, are you bullying Auntie? Why won't she let you in?" Luis asked glamorously with an ignorant look.

"Because Daddy is smoking at the door, you are children and smoking is not good for you."

Peter sought a random reason.

Meanwhile, Helen was extremely curious and asked Adriana the same question.

Adriana, however, did not answer.

Just take that one hair that was ripped off Luis' head and bang it into a plastic bag all the time to save it.

The next day, after dropping Helen off at school, Adriana went to the hospital first and took things to the identification department.

Only after that did they leave with confidence.

Only, not long after she left, someone called Theresa here, "Adriana just took Luis' hair to the hospital for identification, I think, is suspicious of the identity."

Theresa turned pale with fear and immediately said, "No, she must not know."

"Understood."

Hang up the phone.

Theresa dropped into a chair in a daze, and did not come back to her senses for a long time.

It is unimaginable that if Adriana really knew about Luis' real relationship with her, then she and Peter would never have the possibility and chance to be together again.

Alston Group, Legal Dept.

After the busy lunch, it was already time to leave work.

The phone suddenly came a text message, open it, it is Brenden's text message.

Adriana frowned in thought, guessing that he was probably looking for her about the matter he discussed with him yesterday at the hospital.

Brenden immediately took out his cell phone, called one person, and sent Adriana's cell phone account number.

While waiting for the meal to be served, Adriana's cell phone rang.

30 million, as promised!

"It's here."

Adriana said while taking out a contract from her handbag and placing it in front of Brenden, "Sign it."

"What is this?"

Brenden put down his knife and fork, picked up the contract and scanned it, snickering unexpectedly, "What bars? I don't want to read it."

He dropped the contract directly in front of Adriana's heels with a look of contempt.

Adriana did not show any anger, once again pushed the contract in front of Brenden, "Yesterday it has been agreed with you, Uncle is going to change his mind?"

"What, the money is here and you want to turn the other cheek with me?"

Brenden's bony hands like jade glass of red wine, tasting a sip, the evil eye drifted to Adriana eyes hidden under the anger.

"Turning the other cheek? Are you talking about yourself? Making a deal with you is like seeking skin with a tiger. You give me 30 million, but you can take more from me, otherwise, why bother to play games with me?"

Adriana leaned on the card seat, looking sideways out the window, sighed, "You see nothing but profit, and I'm just a pawn for you. What I'm doing now is to ensure my own rights, otherwise, maybe one day I'll be like your ex-wife and die without even knowing how I died. Isn't it?"

One day husband and wife.

Until now, Adriana can't understand how Brenden killed his wife with his own hands in the hospital that day.

Suddenly, Adriana had an idea that she must take time to practice Taekwondo for self-defense recently.

Otherwise, it is really too dangerous.

"Heh."

The man smiled, his eyes unfathomable as he looked at her, then picked up the contract and signed his name in a dragon's flight.

"Adriana, I admire you. Not afraid in the face of danger, not surprised when things go wrong, a rare woman."

He shook his head, "Unfortunately, it's not the one I like, otherwise, I would have you for myself."

Jenkins responded without hesitation, inclining her head and asking Helen, "Would you like to go to your

Helen likes Jenkins quite a bit, so naturally she doesn't mind.

"Helen be good, from now on you let uncle pick you up from school during the day and I'll pick you up at

"Hmm."

Because since childhood, Adriana raised Helen and spent her days running around earning money, she grew up almost under the care of many people, so she slowly adapted to the situation.

Thinking about it, Adriana still felt guilty.

After dinner, leaving the restaurant, Adriana pulled Jenkins aside.

"Adri, is there something you want to say to me?"

Seeing that she wanted to say something, Jenkins took the initiative and asked.

Adriana sighed, hesitated for a moment and said, "Brother, although I don't like Hayley very much, but she is Thelma's daughter, your sister in the end. So, I sincerely advise you, let her stay away from Brenden, the farther the better!"

That man is a snake with a very poisonous nature, ferocious and extremely dangerous.

"Okay, I'll do what you want."

Jenkins asked, "Why are you still so close to Brenden? I know, you don't like Brenden. is there some kind of hidden secret?"

She said several times that Brenden was dangerous.

Jenkins trusts her unconditionally, yet cares for her.

Feeling his concern for herself, Adriana's heart warmed, her red lips raised a sweet smile, "Brother, I have my own ideas."

Adriana, being a woman, knows that women are quicker than a book to turn their faces.
But Theresa's speed to change her face is even better.

By her tightly clenched hands, Adriana curved long eyebrows slightly wrinkled, "now has not said it."

As he spoke, he drew back his hand imperceptibly.

From the bottom of his heart, there is already a rift with Theresa, and even if they stand together, they have become rusty and cold.

Emotions are long gone.

But even so, her heart left a trace of guilt for Theresa.

If not for that accidental car accident, how could Theresa have been de-wombed and never become a mother?

Otherwise, why would she have chosen to claim her engagement to Brenden despite her reputation?

Only to dispel Peter's thoughts of her and Theresa's hatred of her.

All the more reason to distance yourself completely from Peter.

They are supposed to be parallel lines and should not have intersection points.

"Adriana"

Peter's face was extremely ugly, and he tried to speak several times, but was interrupted by Theresa, "Peter, you can't call her Adriana anymore. From now on, you have to call her 'Auntie'."

"Auntie?!"

The man's pupils shrank slightly and shouted with extreme sarcasm.

"Okay, okay, Adri, don't stand there either. Let me tell you oh, the dresses in this store are really super nice, you can accompany me to see them."

Theresa dragged Adriana along with her to see the dress without consulting her at all.
