Chapter 201 Peter dotes on Adri

Just now in front of everyone beat Sloane, now she must be in a bad mood.

"Go on, go on, coax her. That girl, too, has a bit too much temper." Mrs. Alston said.

"Okay."

Theresa smiled warmly and seemed to raise her hands and feet in the style of a lady.

Adriana came over with a cup of tea and handed it to Peter.

The sudden gesture flattered Peter, one eyebrow raised, "For me?"

"If you don't like, don't drink it."

Adriana takes her tea and makes a move to leave.

But Peter pulled back, "Drink, of course."

The man held the tea, blew the curling cigarette, tasted a mouthful, "did not find your tea art is good."

"That's for sure."

The two men looked at each other and laughed.

Helen, who was left out in the cold, got up from the sofa and walked to Adriana and Peter with a resigned look on her face.

"Mommy, Daddy~"

Even if the child is no longer how smart, but after all a child, will be sad, will be jealous.

Peter found Helen unhappy, immediately put down the tea, leaned down and held her in his arms, and gave her a kiss on the cheek, "Good girl, talk to daddy, what's wrong?"

Helen shook her head and smiled cheekily, "I miss daddy."

The family being together in harmony and happiness is what Adriana feels at this moment.

Although it is the two children who play an important role, it must be said that the seemingly superficial calm can also create happiness.

Chapter 202: Peter Bumps Mother for Adriana

She was furious and pushed Mrs. Alston, shouting aggressively, "Mom, look, my brother is actually sending me to Africa for that woman, so why don't you take care of it?"

Mrs. Alston let out a sigh, "Peter, Sloane is right. She's a girl, she'll find a good family to marry, she doesn't need to be a big shot."

"Really, then you think, her fiery nature, which man will marry her? Rich, where can not find a gentle and virtuous? If you don't have money, what can she look for? You are coddling her, trying to ruin her future."

Peter analyzes them one by one.

Mrs. Alston listened for a moment, then nodded fervently, "Sloane, your brother has a point. "

"Mom, you're a wallflower who falls on both sides."

Sloane stomped his feet in anger, "Since you were a child, you have been patriarchal and loved my brother, and you still listen to him for everything now, so what am I?"

Faced with this situation, Adriana can only quietly accompany Luis and Helen to eat together, without speaking or taking a stand.

After all, it all started because of her.

The heart is still full of guilt and self-recrimination, only she is also helpless.

"Sloane, mom thinks your brother has a point, you"

"Hmph, eat it yourselves, I'm not eating it."

After saying that, Sloane moved out of his chair, gave Adriana a vicious glare, and went upstairs in a huff.

Theresa pursed her lips, "Auntie, don't be angry, I'll go up and see Sloane and bring her some food. She hasn't eaten much."

Mrs. Alston shook her head and sighed, "Alas, Sloane's temperament needs to be managed, Theresa, thank you for your hard work, you are such a kind child. "

"Auntie, what are you talking about? Sloane and I are good friends too, and I've always treated her like my sister. Then you guys eat, I'll go up first."

Joe up went to the kitchen, took the tray and picked up a few of Sloane's favorite dishes and brought them up.

A lunch was the first time a few people had eaten together and it just didn't go well.

After waiting for the two children to eat, Adriana took them aside to the playhouse to play.

His sudden intimate gesture overwhelmed Adriana, who reflexively bounced up and took a few steps backward.

"What's wrong?" Peter frowned.

"Sorry, I probably wasn't ready for it."

In fact, is simply not any mental preparation, and there is no way to accept his intimate actions like that.

Peter stood up, walked over to her and took her hand, "I'm sorry, I didn't think about your feelings."

Adriana hangs her head and shakes her head in silence.

He lifted his arms and hugged her gently, "I know it's hard for you, and I know you're trying to adjust. Whether you're doing it for the baby or something else, as long as you're by my side, it's the best."

Whether it's for the kids or otherwise?

Adriana's jaw dropped, couldn't he know everything?

"You get busy, I'm going to take a break."

Adriana left the study in a hurry, unable to accept being with both Peter, or not being able to adapt in a short time.

The moment she closed the door, she glanced at Peter sitting in the executive chair through that one gap, and frowned with a deep frown.

What would it take for her, exactly, to get her hands on that?

When she returned to the bedroom, she took advantage of Peter's absence to shine a light on the cabinets in the room, and rummaged around without finding it.

Knock-knock-

Suddenly, there was a knock on the door from outside, which scared Adriana's face and immediately closed the locker, "Who?"

This is Peter's room. If Peter comes in, he must not knock on the door.

Therefore, it should be someone else.

She went to the door and pulled it open, only to see that the person standing in the doorway was actually Theresa.

Adriana was disheartened and almost desperate.

But not conceding defeat, she still entered her password haphazardly on the computer.

"What are you doing?"

Suddenly, a voice rang out beside him.

Adriana stood up in a flash, surprised to find Peter standing beside her at some point.

So, gather your composure and pretend to be calm.

"Oh my God, do you walk without a sound? I'm really scared to death of you."

Raising his hand and patting his chest, he took a long breath, maintained an extremely natural posture, and pointed to his computer, saying, "I want to use your computer, but I don't know the password."

"Why didn't you call and ask me?"

The man's face was expressionless, a look that made it impossible for Adriana to guess whether Peter trusted her words or not.

"Oh, yeah. I forgot."

Adriana tapped her brain, "By the way, what brings you back?"

"I forgot something and came back to pick it up." He answered truthfully, his cold face with the slightest light smile, seemingly in a good mood.

"Well then, can you turn on the computer for me, I need to use it."

Adriana put on a calm face and said.

"Good."

Peter walked over to the computer, and Adriana immediately stood by his side, staring straight at his hands over the keyboard, wanting answers.

The two went upstairs together.

The two kids looked at me and me at you, then shrugged their shoulders and continued to eat with their heads down.

A bit of 'a heart to read sage books two ears do not hear outside the window' meaning.

Adriana slowly put down her chopsticks, "Peter, I think it's better for me to leave with Helen. Here, it's not suitable for us."

"Mommy, I don't want to~"

Before she could finish her sentence, Helen and Luis immediately burst into tears.

"Oooh Mommy, don't you go, okay?" Luis put down his chopsticks, slipped out of his chair, walked up to her and hugged her waist, "Mommy, I don't want you to go."

"Mommy, I want to be with my brother."

Helen's eyes were heavy with tears and she spoke pitifully.

Adriana's heart seized up, sandwiched between two children, indescribable heartache.

"If you don't want to see her with Sloane, I'll let them go. Or, we leave."

Peter put down his chopsticks and held her hand, "Girl, with you and Helen, this is the real family. Not to mention me, for so many years, Luis has been without a mommy, the lack of motherly love has made him very cold in nature, and only in front of you is he this lively."

"Yes mommy, will you not leave? Luis misses you so much."

Luis' tears instantly came to his eyes and melted Adriana's heart straight away.

She sat there, in a dilemma, left and right.

In fact, she was trying to put on a show in front of Peter, and she wasn't going to leave because she couldn't get the papers.

But now it's just a show, Luis and Helen are sad like this, she really doesn't know how to continue on the road in the future.

"Okay, okay, good boy, Mommy is with you, with you."

Adriana wrapped her arms around Luis, and Helen ran over to her, her heart aching beyond words as she wrapped her arms around her two children.

"Adri?"

Peter called out, but Adriana's head did not return, simply ignored.

He looked back, his sword eyebrows wrinkled, his gaze swept over the two, and said in a cold voice:

"Mom, I say again, Adri is Luis' mother. For this reason, I will not let anyone bully her. If you are willing to accept it, then it is best. If you are not willing, you can leave Orchard House."

Peter does not hate his mother, but over the many years she has become more snobbish under the influence of her family and sees only money in her eyes.

Power to the top!

So how could a Cinderella like Adriana be accepted into The Alston family?

In the past, he also struggled for the family to prosper, until he met Adriana, he realized that there is one more beautiful thing beyond money and power love!

"You you kid say it again!"

Mrs. Alston slammed the table, "I gave birth to you, and now you're turning against me for an outsider? Don't forget who gave you what you have now!"

"Auntie, don't get angry, don't get angry."

It was Theresa's real sense of Mrs. Alston's anger, and she immediately reassured her, "Peter is also lost in the moment, don't be angry. Maybe it will be fine after this excitement has passed."

"Hmph, don't you speak for him! He, a heartless thing, has dumped you, and you're still worried about him? To say the least, you're a fool."

Mrs. Alston poked Theresa's head with the meaning of a rotten wood that cannot be carved, "Grow a heart. Can't you keep an eye on Peter for me?"

"Auntie, I try my best." Theresa beamed, a face of aggression on the surface, the heart does not know how happy.

Peter grunted coldly and turned to walk out of the bedroom.

Downstairs, Adriana found a band-aid and dressed the wound, then ordered the maids to bring Mrs. Alston a lunch, and instructed them to bring one to Sloane as well.

I wanted to do it myself, but Mrs. Alston and Sloane had too much prejudice against her, so it was useless to make a show of goodwill even now.

Instead of forbidding a good intention to be questioned, it makes them loathe her presence even more.

"Let's see."

Adriana was sitting alone in the living room staring when Peter came over and grabbed her hand, "Does it hurt?"

"I'm just huge money to take with me." The man was extremely cooperative.

And then, he suddenly stood up and did not open the safe again.

Adriana's heart went up and down with Peter's actions, like a roller coaster ride, not to mention how exciting it was.

"Better forget it, you look too flashy, I'm afraid to cause public outrage."

"Is that so? That's a compliment on how good-looking I am?"

Adriana couldn't help but laugh, "Narcissistic."

The two joked in a good mood, but each had something in mind.

Peter then sat back down at his desk and went back to his work.

Adriana, on the other hand, looked at the safe with unexpected depth, sensing vaguely that Peter must know something.

But even so, she still had to get the important document that Brenden had explained.

Knock Knock-

A knock on the study door.

"Enter."

Peter responded.

The door opened from outside to inside and a person walked in, holding a delicate European-style porcelain plate with some snacks and coffee on it.

"Peter, knowing you have work to attend to, sent you a little heart."

Theresa wore a sexy purple lace nightgown, as thin as a cicada, her long hair draped over her shoulders and hanging down, raising her hands and feet in a seductive and enchanting way.

But when she twisted her waist and walked in front of Peter, she caught a glimpse of Adriana sitting on the sofa over there.

But Helen was not happy, beamed, went to her side, took her hand, and began to pout, "Mommy"

Adriana's face was slightly cold as she dragged her straight to the restaurant, and Luis followed in a frenzy.

If Helen is allowed to attend the same school as Luis now, if one day she has to take Helen away with her.

Adriana worries that she doesn't have the power to reject Luis, let alone the courage to watch him cry in sadness and despair.

The most important thing is that once things happen then, they will be the first to reach Peter's ears.

Then, if she really wants to leave, it will be much harder.

"Okay, as you wish."

Peter hesitated a little and finally agreed to her.

After the meal, Peter drove, taking mother and son, first to take Luis to school and then to Helen.

"Just stop in front, you go to the office, I want to go back and get some things." After dropping off Helen, Adriana got in the car and said to Peter.

"I'll drive you."

He said.

Adriana's eyes flashed slightly, "I'm jobless now, so I won't take up your time. Besides, I want to go see my brother."

"How is YY Law Firm doing now?"

Peter asked as he drove.

"Hmm?"

Adriana's eyes widened in amazement.

So, he knew about YY Law Firm all along?

Adriana bristled, and on second thought, Peter's strength could not be underestimated, and it was not surprising that he knew about her hidden law firm.

But I thought he didn't know, I thought I could hide it from everyone, but it turned out to be self-deception.

That action caused Adriana to purse her lips and smile.

"Senior, actually I came to you today because I have something to discuss with you." In the past, I tried to distance myself from Alvin because Alvin had feelings for her.

Now that Alvin has given up, they can naturally still get along as friends.

When it comes to some things, she would rather ask Alvin for help than to beg Peter.

Because, with a guilty conscience, it is impossible to speak.

"It is rare that you will seek me out, and I will certainly do my best."

Alvin raised his eyebrows and said in a clear voice.

Adriana jawed slightly and fished out a document from her bag and handed it to him.

The hand, however, kept pressing on the document, and his gaze showed some harshness, "Senior, I know that you and Peter are very close. But, can you promise me that you won't tell him everything I told you?"

Alvin's white, clean face was tinged with a little confusion, "Why?"

"You don't have to know that much."

"So if I didn't say yes, you wouldn't have let me help you, would you?" Alvin seemed to understand what she meant.

Adriana nods her head.

"Okay, I promise you."

He readily agreed, and Adriana's eyes turned to stare at him for a few seconds, as if trying to figure out what he was thinking through his good-looking eyes.

Naive, the eyes are as clear as a clear stream, no impurities, in addition to honesty, there is only sincerity.

"I believe you."

Adriana handed him the file, "Investigate him for me, and make sure you do it very, very carefully."

"What, you think if you quietly opened YY Law Firm, we won't know? You're a strong woman, too. It's just that it's better to have more money around than to treat yourself better."

Listening to him, Adriana realized that it was so tightly hidden that she didn't realize that everyone in the world knew she had a law firm.

After lunch with Alvin, Adriana went down to YA Law Firm to help out.

Now that the company is busy and she doesn't have to help out at the Alston Group, it's only natural that she has to go to her own company to keep busy.

Time flies when you are fully engaged in your work.

When the call came, she looked at her watch and realized that it was already more than six o'clock in the evening.

"You're still at the office?"

Peter called and asked.

"Well, the company is a little busy. You go back to spend time with the kids first, so don't worry about me."

She blurted out a sentence, but inexplicably there is a kind of family warmth and harmony. As if a loving couple seems to be living the life of an old married couple.

"Okay, I'll pick you up tonight."

"Hmm."

After hanging up, Adriana put down the phone and looked at Peter's phone number, which up to now had been just a string of numbers without any notes.
