Chapter 276 I searched for you for a day and a night

At least the situation now is naturally the more chaotic the better for Brenden.

Adriana drove towards the direction of the city center, but the road foot pain is too serious, but also afraid that he drove to stop on the road will not be safe, in case Peter suspected midway, and turn back, would not be a bad situation?

So she braced herself for a foot injury, used her familiarity with Los Angeles to cross from south to north, and then stopped at the curb for Anne to come and pick her up.

Back at Anne's house, Adriana took off her shoes and looked at her feet, which were already full of blood staining the gauze, even the soles of her shoes were stained with crimson blood.

Anne was worried and asked, "Where have you been, do you know Peter is worried about you? And that Harlee has been looking for you too."

"Get my medicine cabinet for me."

Adriana doesn't want to mention it, she doesn't trust anyone now except Anne and Vivian and Jenkins.

Because, no one is good enough for her to trust.

Anne wrinkled her brow and opened her lips slightly, wanting to say something, but the words came to her lips and swallowed them back, sighed, and went to bring Adriana the medicine box.

She tended to the wound herself, cleaning the blood stains, applying medicine and dressing it before lying down on the sofa, closing her eyes and murmuring, "I'm exhausted, I want to take a nap."

"Go to your room and rest, it's all packed up, the room has been reserved for you." Anne felt sorry for her.

"Nope, didn't shower, didn't want to go to bed to rest."

Adriana is lying on the couch, resting with a cuddle pillow.

Sleeping through the night, Adriana kept her phone off, then took a shower and laid down to rest.
