As expected, the celebratory banquet for gaining the right to host the Olympics had become a large event involving the entire country.

Entertainment, for citizens right now, was a far cry from the diverse options that would appear in the future. All they had were a few ways to have fun here and there.

The nightlife was mainly dancing at the disco or eating and drinking beer by barbeque stalls. Some larger cities might have karaoke rooms and people would drop by to sing a few songs.

That was all.

Thus, the moment news of the banquet was released, it instantly became a household topic within the country considering its link to the approval to host the Olympics.

Its influence could be considered second to only the annual New Year's Eve countdown on national television.

Still, the countdown was annual, but there was only ever this one celebratory banquet for having gained the right to host the Olympics.

It made the banquet much more special.

The following day, Jasper and Henry arrived at the airport together.

All the guests from Harbor City would be arriving at Swallow Capital today, so Jasper definitely had to pick them up.

However, Jasper was not the focus when he arrived at the airport.

Considering all four rich families would be arriving together, including a formidable senior like Old Master Law, Swallow Capital immediately resolved to give the highest standard of welcome once they got wind of it.

Disregarding the rest of the welcoming team, the mere fact that both Swallow Capital's mayor and deputy mayor were present meant that Jasper had to stand aside.

However, no one present was taking him lightly either. After all, the higher-ups were well aware that Harbor City's four major families and its top rich businessmen were here not for them but for Jasper.

Jasper had done something in Harbor City, and it was hardly a secret to the higher-ups.

As such, Jasper's arrival was also met with the mayor and his deputy's enthusiastic greetings.

As Old Master Law's grandson, Henry naturally joined in the conversations with a few of the big shots there.

"Jesus, just look at how enthusiastic they are with you. I'd say they all look like they want to lock you up in a little cage."

Henry spoke enviously when the two returned.

Jasper did not know whether to laugh or to cry. "What does locking me in a cage have anything to do with them being enthusiastic?"

"They'll lock you up so you'd work with them, of course! They've realized your capabilities and your influence," Henry explained.

Jasper smiled, but there was no shift in his expression when he replied, "They're here because it's your grandfather they're welcoming. There's no way I'd be able to speak to such big shots if I was on my own."

Henry looked at Jasper's calm expression and grinned. "Sometimes I really wonder if you're a wise old man who has reincarnated into our timeline. We're both youths, so how are you so outstanding, hmm?"

Henry would never have expected that a mere joke of his was actually the truth. Sure, Jasper was physically in his 20s, but his soul was of a wise old man who had experienced more than half a lifetime of events.

Less than ten minutes later, the special plane landed on the tarmac. Jasper and Henry followed behind the two major figures and were followed by the welcoming group.

With Old Master Law in front, the other heads of the four major families walked down the staircase. Swallow Capital's two mayors stepped up to welcome them, enthusiastically greeting Old Master Law.

Despite this being the first time everyone was meeting each other, the older generation seemed to have a tacit understanding to all act like old friends and began to chat about.

Old Master Law excused himself and walked over to Jasper, patting his shoulder in an extremely familiar way. "We meet again, Jasper."

Jasper greeted him politely. "I'm thrilled to see you still as bright and lively as the last time we met, Old Master."

The old master chuckled aloud. "It's still too early for me to rest when I see the citizens living better lives and our nation's strength and influence growing each day."

Among the four families, the Laws were the most special and with the highest status in the Mainland.

He was no longer a mere businessman. In terms of status, his might be in an even higher position than both of Swallow Capital's mayors.

Regardless of whether his status was above or below the mayors', it was destined for his every action to be under public scrutiny.

Not only were the two Swallow Capital mayors confused seeing how close Old Master Law and Jasper were, but even the other three families out of the major four seemed intrigued at the sight.

Then, Spencer and Joe came over to greet Jasper.

Followed lastly by Wallace Langdon who he had never met before.

The stern and meticulous old man was followed closely by his son Kennedy. Now Kennedy, Jasper was acquainted.

"You're quite the outstanding young man," Wallace smiled and praised.

"Thank you, Mr. Langdon, but there's still a lot I have to learn from all of you." Jasper was still very attentive and detailed when it came to greeting people. His words were smooth in a way that made him seem much older than the 20-something-year-old he was.

Wallace chuckled. "Harbor City really is too small, especially in the past two years. I don't like how heavy and dead the air is. I'm glad there are youths like you to liven it up. We've got to let them know that there'll always be someone better.

"I've also realized that the Mainland seems to be flourishing much more than we thought, considering how it managed to produce such promising youth like you. I'm certain that the Mainland market will be in for a great future.

"You should come in contact with more Mainlanders these days, Kennedy. Don't simply believe that the Mainland is behind us. Know that your roots and our ancestors were all from the Mainland. Not to mention the Mainland has a boundless future, and it'll only be a short amount of time before it surpasses Harbor City.

"With such a big market here, we can follow the Laws' footsteps and start investing in the Mainland as well."

Kennedy replied courteously, "Yes, Father."

Wallace's words had easily brightened up the two mayors' moods. The four families' approval of the Mainland was in extension approval to them as well.

It would be beneficial to the country and its citizens if they managed to use this opportunity and persuade Harbor City's four families and other important businessmen to invest in the Mainland.

With that being said, Swallow Capital's two major figures found themselves more fond of Jasper. They thought this young man was very capable, and under their nurturing, could turn out into a great asset.

Following the four major families were renowned rich men of Harbor City.

Among them was Bob Lancaster, the Smith brothers, Tenson Davis, and other names that he knew from his past life.

He had seen some of them before, but there were also those he never had the fortune of meeting.

Still, everyone was polite with one another.

After all, this was a situation where even true enemies had to force a smile at each other, or they would only be seen as unreasonable.

Not to mention that Harbor City did, in a way, owe Jasper, so even the Smith brothers who were a competing rival in the media and entertainment industry were very polite with Jasper. After a long conversation, they exchanged contact information.

After the short welcoming ceremony, everyone proceeded to get into their own specified cars before heading to the hotel.

Arriving at the hotel, Jasper then spoke with Old Master Law again. However, the old master was far from young and the long flight had taken a toll on him. Plus, he also had other important people to meet that afternoon.

As such, Jasper did not overstay his welcome and excused himself after a short chat.

Zachary was the one who sent Jasper out the door.

“How’s the preparation for the banquet going? It’s starting tomorrow, isn’t it? Is there anything I can help with?” Zachary asked.

Jasper smiled. “Everything’s prepared. I don’t think there’ll be any issues.”

Zachary nodded and smiled, looking pleased. “That’s great, then. We’ll talk more after the banquet is over. This is a grand event, so do your best and make sure it’s perfect!”

The celebratory banquet for the right to host the Olympics was held the next day.

At this moment, Honeycomb Stadium still did not exist in Swallow Capital. As such, the place with the biggest stage would be Workers' Stadium.

The renovation for Workers' Stadium was stopped temporarily for an entire month because of this. After an intense round of preparation, they finally completed the entire layout for the renovation.

The event would be broadcasted live by CTV and 18 satellite channels at the same time. A lot of media personnel from within the country and overseas would arrive at the scene to carry out interviews and reports.

Swallow Capital would dispatch professionals to oversee the security and safety of the event.

Twilight shrouded this ancient city. There were blue and red lights shining everywhere, coupled with the flashes from the cameras of various journalists.

Workers' Stadium was filled with people. More than 10,000 spectators came here on account of its reputation, and they were making the stadium impenetrable.

After everything was ready, at 6 p.m., all of the esteemed guests with invitation cards arrived one after another.

On the two sides of the red carpet were numerous passionate citizens and journalists who were snapping photos furiously. All of the esteemed guests with invitation cards felt like celebrities. They walked with their heads high and chests puffed along the red carpet amidst the thunderous cheers. They felt that the life on top was so ordinary.

“What a huge scene.” After getting out of the car, Lisa mumbled to herself and looked at the scene in front of her with a shocked expression as she walked across the red carpet.

At this moment, the people next to her were her father and uncle. Ben was next to her as well.

“This host is pretty great.” Lisa’s father, Norman Gardner, experienced the same shock as he said that.

“Remember guys, just look and listen but don’t speak. This is not our house where we can run amok.”

Ben’s father, Ian Hull, said solemnly.

“Got it.” Ben nodded carefully. Suddenly, he pointed at a group of people in front of him and said, “Dad, Uncle, isn’t that the president of the Haddock Chamber of Commerce? Should we go and say hi?”

Ian and Norman looked at each other. They went over and started exchanging conventional greetings at the same time.

Behind them, Ben asked Lisa, “Where’s Mr. Turner? I don’t see him anywhere.”

“Mr. Turner and the rest went in earlier. I’ll go find him directly later,” Lisa said softly.

Ben let out a sigh of relief. He mumbled, “Someone who can host an event like this is the true big shot. His background and power are so exceptional.”

When Lisa was about to say something, she suddenly saw a familiar figure from the corners of her eyes. She grabbed Ben quickly and said, “Benny, look. Isn’t that Jasper? Wendy’s boyfriend?”

Ben looked over immediately after he heard that. Indeed, he spotted Jasper who was speaking to Henry.

A smirk appeared on his face. After telling Ian and Norman, he grabbed Lisa to walk over to him.

At this moment, Henry was complaining to Jasper with reluctance on his face. He was the young master of the Law family, so it need not be said how big of his influence was. However, with his personality, he did not even want to interact with those big shots. He also resented these kinds of solicitous inquiries about someone's well-being to pander to someone.

"My brother, I really don't want to be at my father's side. There are big shots all over the place and I don't even dare to breathe too loud, so how will I ever have the chance to speak? Why can't I stay with you?"

"You have to go even if you don't want to. You're in your 20s. Are you going to stay a child forever?" Jasper said insipidly.

"You'll get used to these kinds of events sooner or later. If you really can't, get Anna to go. I wonder who you're going to cry to when Anna is the one who gets all of the family's property in the future."

After Henry heard that, he chuckled while shifting his eyes. "That works too. I'll be more than happy if you can get Anna to promise me enough pocket money every year."

After Jasper heard that, he looked at Henry and said seriously, "You're able to become a fully grown man because your father is reluctant to beat you to death. The love of a father is so amazing."

Henry's face fell. When he was about to say something, he heard a voice from behind him.

Life at the Top Chapter 389

“Oh, Wendy seriously got you an invitation card? And you have the guts to show up?”

Ben brought Lisa along. The two of them attended this banquet dressed in their fanciest attire and were looking at Jasper with contempt and disdain. Ben mocked, “I didn’t expect you to be so ballsy!”

Lisa covered her face and giggled. She said, “You’re even donning a suit. How ugly. Indeed, any low-ranking person would look like an insurance agent after wearing a suit. Did Wendy buy these clothes for you as well?”

The suit Jasper was wearing right now was the one Anna designed herself back then. Jasper had worn this back in Harbor City and this was the second time he wore it.

Young Master Law was already feeling pissed. When he heard the two of them saying Jasper’s clothes were ugly, a fire of rage immediately surged in his heart.

“Where did these two idiots come from? Don’t you have the ability to make discerning judgments? Can’t you see that I’m speaking to this man? F*ck off!”

Ben and Lisa were stumped for words after they were yelled at.

Ben looked at Henry with malevolence on his face. When he saw that Henry had an extraordinary temperament and a flamboyant, bossy aura, he knew this was not something that an ordinary person would have.

As such, he suppressed his displeasure and grunted. “Who are you? I don’t think I know you. Aren’t you going a little over the top for screaming at me for no reason?”

“And you’re not over the top for speaking like that, you bellend?”

Henry was thrilled. These two were obviously mocking Jasper just now with the way they spoke. As such, Henry smirked and said, “I want to scream at you, so I will. When I want to beat you up, I’ll directly put a sack over your head and throw you into the sea to feed the fish. Who do you think you are? Is it even your turn to spew bullsh*t in front of me?”

Ben’s face was flushed white.

He had never seen someone so arrogant before!

Henry immediately yelled at him after a disagreement and even said such horrendous things.

In the face of Henry’s arrogance, Ben thought his temper was considerably kinder and more virtuous in comparison.

When he was about to say something, Lisa said, “Benny, let’s not stoop down to his level. Just think about it, how good can a low-level person like Jasper be? One is of low worth and one doesn’t even have inner quality. Aren’t these two the perfect match?”

While she said that, Lisa smiled and said arrogantly, “We’re people on the high-level. These poor people only know how to yell at others, but they’ll never be able to get to the level where we’re at.”

Jasper burst out laughing after he heard that.

If they said Henry was someone from the low-level, then there would not be a lot of high-level people here at the scene currently.

This time, Henry was truly amused. Rather, he was so angry he was amused.

Henry lifted his finger and pointed at his nose. He looked at Lisa and said, "I've been living in this world for so long and this is the first time I'm being called a low-level person with no inner quality."

"B*tch, I'm giving you three seconds to tell me what your father works as, what kind of company the richest elder in your family has, and who do you have in your family."

Lisa's expression went cold. She scoffed and said, "Why? Are you going to compare your family background with mine? Do you even think you're worthy?"

"Compare with you? Are you worthy?" Henry pointed at Lisa's face and yelled, "You have a pretty face but you have such an exaggerated opinion of your own ability."

After he said that, Henry turned his head to look at Ben. He said frigidly, "And you, how about I castrate you and have you undergo a sex change?"

Ben and Lisa sucked in deep breaths. Their eyes turned red from anger.

"Damn it, what did you say?" Ben growled immediately.

"I said, I'm going to have you undergo a sex change! Then, I'll sell the woman next to you to a remote jungle somewhere! Do you understand?" Henry smirked. He had been feeling miserable earlier, but suddenly, these two wretched-looking tramps appeared and started acting like fools in front of them. If he was not going to teach them a lesson, who would?

Life at the Top Chapter 390

Ben and Lisa were so mad they were shaking.

They never had someone attacking them so wildly before in their entire lives.

Henry's top-notch arrogance and overbearingness that exuded from his body as a hedonistic son of rich parents managed to subdue them.

However, Ben was not able to endure this extraordinary shame and humiliation.

Ben looked straight at Henry and said coldly, "Stop yapping. Do it if you have the guts! Who do you think you are? If God's the boss then you're his second in charge? You don't know for sure who's going to kill who when that happens!"

Henry narrowed his eyes and smiled evilly. He said, "Alright, try it then. I don't know if I'm the second in charge if God's the boss, but I'm sure I can step on your face and spit on you!"

"Damn, we have a male and female dumb*sses here. If I don't kill you today, then my surname is not Law!"

Who was Henry Law?

He was the number one hedonistic son of rich parents in the country. If he were to act like a thug, even God would tremble under his feet.

Ever since he started to understand the world, the children from rich parents who had been bullied by him were enough to form a line.

Low-ranking people like Ben and Lisa were not even qualified to make a peep if they were arranged according to seniority.

Jasper patted Henry's shoulder when he saw that he was infuriated.

"Alright, don't make a scene. You can do whatever you want when we go out."

The only people in the world who could stop Henry aside from Old Master Law, Zachary, and Anna was Jasper.

There was no other reason apart from that Jasper used his own ability and power to truly make this young master surrender to him.

After Henry heard what Jasper said, he curled his lips. He used a dangerous gaze to look at Lisa and Ben before laughing eccentrically. "I'll listen to my brother-in-law today as a show of respect. However, we're not done yet. Just you two wait, dumb*sses!"

Ben scoffed. "Whoever chickens out is the coward!"

Lisa crossed her arms across her chest and looked arrogantly at Henry. She smirked and said, "I'll kill you whenever I want after I say hello to Mr. Turner."

"Mr. Turner?"

Henry scoffed. "Erik Turner? You think that fool dares to act up if you call him over in front of us? It just so happens that I'm pissed with him, so get him over if you have the balls!"

Lisa's expression changed. When she heard Henry's arrogant tone, she sensed that something was wrong. She asked, "Who are you?"

Jasper looked at the time and realized it was almost time. He interrupted their conversation and said to Henry, "We should go."

Henry grinned at Lisa. "My surname is Law. Go ask around how many people among the tens of thousands here tonight have Law as their surname."

After he said that, Henry and Jasper strutted away.

After the two of them left, Lisa turned to Ben in confusion. "Benny, he said his surname is Law, do you know him?"

However, Lisa did not get Ben's answer after a very long while. She turned around to look at him in confusion, but what she saw was Ben's pale face.

"Law? Could it be that he's one of the Laws? How is that possible? The Laws are one of the four rich families in Harbor City. Why are they here?"

When Ben said this, his entire body was shaking.
