

Life at The Top – Chapter 1443

Ever since he lost the game with Rogers from Quantum Fund by half a stroke in the Harbor City stock market, Jasper repeatedly reminded himself not to underestimate any enemy. He could not rely on the advantage of his reincarnation to treat everyone else as sub-human.

In this world, there were two kinds of people who were the most indispensable. One was an extremely clever genius, while one was the fool who thought he was extremely clever.

However, after learning about Fabian's entire plan, Jasper realized that he had still underestimated and underrated Fabian. That guy did not show his most vicious side in the previous match with him on the Dow Jones Index. Even when he fought to the point where his net worth vanished, he did not show it.

He chose to bare his fangs only after. At this moment, he was also at his deadliest.

Since Jasper had invested everything that he could, his assets could not be withdrawn in the short term.

It could be seen that Fabian had used himself as bait. It would have been good if he was able to get rid of Jasper in the first stage, but if he could not, this counterattack would surely doom him to eternal damnation.

“What do you mean?”

Celine did not know that Jasper had figured out so many things in just a few short seconds. She frowned and asked inexplicably when he said something so vague.

“Nothing...” Jasper shook his head. It was not that he did not want to explain to Celine, but that the matter was too complicated and would simply take too long a time to explain.

“Fabian should be the one behind all of these...”

Celine raised her eyebrows and said in disbelief, “The entire Atticus family might not be able to do such a huge thing. You must know that Layman, Softwin, and Quantum Fund, are much larger than the Atticus family. Could he really make these three investment banks act for him so obediently?”

“In many cases, as long as there is interest, a transaction can be facilitated. This is largely irrelevant to the status of both parties-it work as long as they have common interests,” Jasper said lightly.

Celine frowned and said, “It doesn’t matter whether it’s Fabian or someone else, the most important thing now is how to deal with this problem. Is it too late for you to get out now?”

Jasper glanced at Celine and shook his head.

Was she kidding? This was not like storing a few hundred bucks in the bank and withdrawing it when you needed to.

It was almost impossible to withdraw such a large amount of funds.

“How much money do you have in the Dow Jones Index now?” Celine asked in a frightened voice.

“It’s not just the Dow Jones Index. I am shorting the Dow Jones while still longing on gold. Now the overall invested capital has reached 8.5 billion US Dollars.”

That was right, since Jasper handed over all accounts to the Baz’s team to operate, under Jasper’s command, he had earned another 1.5 billion US dollars from the original investment of 7 billion US Dollars.

Jasper’s words made Celine, the president of the Terra regional branch of Colossal Investments who had long been accustomed to treating money as nothing more than a series of numbers, feel a numb sensation on her scalp.

The funds approved by Celine every day were at least one billion US Dollars.

However, the money came from investment banks and investors, so it came and went frequently. Although the cash flow was large, the overall capital was nothing excessive.

Throughout the entirety of the previous year, the performance of the Terra regional branch of Colossal Investments had an effective transaction revenue of 10 billion US Dollars. However, what was the profit? Less than 1.8 billion.

Even so, the performance of the Terra region was already the largest and most profitable region for Colossal Investments aside from the headquarters in the United States.

Despite all this, it paled in comparison to Jasper's profit from a single investment.

Jasper's profits this time were so big that the entire Terra regional branch of Colossal Investments would need to work for three or four years to achieve it.

It could even be said that because of the losses incurred by this financial crisis, Jasper's profits might have exceeded the total annual profit of Colossal Investments as a whole.