

Life at The Top – Chapter 1715

Every word Jasper uttered was breaking news.

Today's JW was no longer the obscure nobody who everyone ignored even if were shouted in the street with a loudspeaker. JW now had the title of Somerland's number one private enterprise. Although there was no formal public recognition, JW was obviously more famous than any other Somerland company in the eyes of foreigners.

In addition to this, in terms of size, organizational structure, or overall scale of operations, JW was already a true behemoth.

JW, which spanned various industries such as entertainment, real estate, internet, finance, and electronics manufacturing, had been able to influence habits attention of countless people at home and abroad unlmovingly with their every move.

The news announced by Jasper could be said to be the first official statement from JW that they would be evolving toward being a internationalization to become a group consortium. Once successful, JW would become Somerland's first private multinational group in the true sense, and it would be a giant the moment it was formed.

Looking at the excitement of the reporters below, Jasper suddenly realized that JW had grown to this point after him so many of his sleepless nights.

When he recalled back when he had only just got reincarnated, hundreds of thousands could make him so excited that he could not sleep.

With a soft breath, Jasper had a rare chance of being arrogant and he said, “JW’s goal is to be the world’s number one in terms of market value!”

As soon as these words came out, there was an uproar. However, the reporters were more excited. They were not afraid of the madness of the interviewees, on the contrary, the madder they were, the happier they would become. Only in this way could they write more eye-catching reports.

On the contrary, a satisfactory official answer would make them feel dull.

Among the crowd, there were a few media outlets that were very upset. For example, the reporters from Sunrise Land and the United States.

“Mr. Laine, although JW is strong, it is still far from achieving the goal of being number one in the world by market value, right? Is the humility of the Somerland people absent when it comes to you?” A reporter from Sunrise Land said.

Jasper glanced at him and said lightly, “It seems that you understand the culture of Somerland quite well, but that is only on the surface. When we say that a nobleman does not fight, it means that a nobleman will not have the desire to beat others and that they are courteous. But Somerland has never been a country or a nation that is willing to fall behind. We won’t give up anything that should be contested.”

“What I or JW want to do is to set an example in Somerland. Either the Somerland people do it best or don’t do it at all!”

Every word sounded like thunder as it was uttered.

The SCTV reporter almost threw the microphone away and started applauding.

This statement was so amazing!

The Sunrise Land reporter was blushing, but the reporter from the United States saw it and said sarcastically, “It sounds good, but you are far from being number one in the world!”

“What’s more, as far as I know, JW Foundation’s funds are deep in the quagmire of the United States stock market, and you had no choice but to apply for a lockdown order to protect yourself. Mr. Laine, you will need to spend at least 25 billion US Dollars to acquire Nokia. Do you really have that much money?”
