

Life at the Top Chapter 2013

/ Life at the Top

Life at the Top Chapter 2013

If they did not do meritorious deeds or show off, when would they do it?

However, could these families be regarded as greedy based on a causal loophole?

Not necessarily.

When one rose to a certain level and stature, regardless of it was Swallow Capital or himself, everyone would only care about the result and they would not ask the reason and original intention, The same applied to those families.

As long as the result was good, who cares i f the original intention was less than purehearted?

00:00/00:00

Take Jasper for example, if he was doomed to fail after doing so many things, and he would end up being exposed and criticized, why would he continue? He would just pack his bags and flee.

Human nature was inherently selfish and complicated. Some people would genuinely sacrifice themselves to fulfill a greater good, but those people did not exist in this room.

Everyone wanted to get a piece of the pie, s o whether this person came with a fruit knife or a meat cleaver, it did not matter. Any knife that could get the meat off the prey was good enough.

Jasper suddenly became enlightened as he thought about this.

He also understood that, just like what the little prince said before, no matter how much he thought about it, no matter how big the combined advantages of his past and present life were, he was not from a big family, so he could not properly look a t the problem from the their perspective. A t the end of the day, it was him who had looked down on this matter and also looked down on these families.

These people were so evil.

However, whether it was Jasper or Swallow Capital, they would have to praise their evilness. After all, it was good that they were evil.

“You’re giving up foreign trade cooperation and even sacrificing yourself. This is a high price.”

Jasper smiled softly and asked, “How much money can you gather?”.

The little prince immediately answered, “ We did the math on the way here. We’ll have about 160 billion Somer Dollars at most.”

Jasper’s expression changed.

Since the financial war first started, these families had been continuously giving out money, with the profits from JW Foundation still being locked up in the United States and currently non withdrawable, so they were basically book profits.

Things had reached this stage, but the fact that they could still take out 160 billion Somer Dollars in cash truly impressed Jasper.

The little prince seemed to know what Jasper was thinking and he smiled bitterly. “In reality, this money is not even a quarter of the amount of the money that we can take out. We’re not lying when we say that the past few periods squeezed us dry. We used our industries as collateral to get a loan from the bank. Also, it’s clear that the bank was given some sort of authorization. These loans were approved very quickly and efficiently. On the premise of not affecting the operation of the industry, the maximum amount was obtained in the shortest speed.

“It’s also another way of green lighting a policy”

Jasper narrowed his eyes and nodded, thinking that this made sense.

Otherwise, it was outrageous that these families would still be able take out 160 billion pure cash now, right now.

It was only 2001 now, not the inflation era in which any company could be valued at tens of billions, which was only common ten or twenty years later.

“If there is so much money, then I have to alter the plan I just came up with... Your money will not enter the A-share market.”

Jasper crossed his hands and fingers under his chin. His sentence shocked everyone in the room.

Life at the Top Chapter 2014

/ Life at the Top

Life at the Top Chapter 2014

“What do you mean?”

Lord Alvarado was the first to lose his composure and asked directly, “Say, Laine, you are not being generous now. The boys and I did everything to take out all of our money for you, yet you’re playing mind games with us?”

“You’re suppressing us when we need to show ourselves. What’s the matter? Are you afraid that we’ll take all of the credit?”

Jasper glared at Lord Alvarado and said angrily, “Do you know how to speak properly? If you can’t, just shut your mouth.”

Lord Alvarado was furious.

If it was anyone else who talked to him like this, he would have a fallout with that person on the spot.

However, this person was Jasper, so he was not confident about doing such a thing.

00:00/00:00

“Jasper, what are your plans?” The little prince also glared at Lord Alvarado and asked Jasper.

Jasper then replied, “Do you think I’m afraid that you will take credit? I'm afraid that your credit won't be big enough!

"Is the credit for helping me complete a successful defense big enough, or will the praise be bigger if you work with me to take down the enemy?"

Jasper had made this so clear, so Lord Alvarado, who still had a sullen face a second ago, suddenly beamed. "I understand what you mean!"

Before Jasper could show a relieved expression, Lord Alvarado's next sentence directly made his face darken.

"Are we going to wreak havoc in the United States stock market again? Good. This plan of attacking them from behind is amazing. At this time, no one would think that we would raid the United States stock market. Their stock market is in such a poor state now, so if we just work slightly harder, we'll be able to blow them up."

Jasper looked at Lord Alvarado with an incomprehensible look. He could not help but say, "How does your brain work?"

Lord Alvarado replied proudly, "I'm also a smart person. Don't think that only you are the only one who could think of this.

What do you think? Did I get it right?"

With a sigh, Jasper rubbed his eyebrows and said, "If the 160 billion went to the United States stock market at this time, I bet that the United States stock market would collapse completely... Then, the United States would have a complete fallout with us. They would directly freeze all the funds we invested before and make a market correction. Do you believe me if I said that would happen?"

Lord Alvarado's smug expression froze on his face, and he was speechless for a while.

"Don't think that such a thing is impossible. The performance of the United States financial market at this moment is just about the limit of what they can accept. Why else do you think the JW Foundation is dormant? If this is not handled well, you, me, and everyone here will have their assets raided by the United States. Right now, we're at a strange balance.

"The balance point is that the United States has not yet made up its mind to completely have a fall out with us and create the biggest scandal in the history of human finance, but if we continue to crash the market, they will do absolutely anything shamelessly when they see their domestic economy going backward.

"It's not like the freezing of funds and the stock market's correction have never happened. If things really reach that point, who can stop the United States from doing such a thing?

"Thus, we cannot increase our funds in the United States stock market at present. Even if we do, we need to find a suitable opportunity, an opportunity within their acceptable range.

"This delicate balance is very important!"

"Then what exactly do you mean?" The little prince asked, unable to keep his cool.

At this time, Simson, who had never spoken, suddenly said, "Mr. Laine, do you mean Harbor Stocks?"

Life at the Top Chapter 2015

/ Life at the Top

Life at the Top Chapter 2015

No matter in terms of status or relationship with Jasper, Simson was inferior to the little prince and Lord Alvarado, so naturally, he could not call Jasper's name directly. Hence, he referred to him as Mr. Laine.

Jasper laughed and said, "You're right.

"Actually, you are all confused by the sight in front of you. You think that the A share market is the final battlefield between us and Soros, but from the beginning, the restriction of 10% price limit in the A-share market has destined that it will not become the final battlefield. Still, this battlefield cannot take place in a third country, so it must be either Somerland or the United States.

“We can’t continue the attack on the United States stock market due to the reason I told you earlier.

“A-shares also has a 10% price limit. We can’t kill Soros and Soros can’t kill us. We work so hard to only get 10%. It’s not enough-it’s far from enough.

“Therefore, only Harbor Stocks, which is closely related to the Somerland economy but has no restrictions and is relatively more open, is the real final battleground.

“This is also the fundamental reason why 99% of JW’s funds are in Harbor Stocks and have not been transferred back. Also, most of the money brought by Soros is in Harbor Stocks too.

00:00/00:00

“The current calm in Harbor Stocks is only because the final battle has not yet come. The outcome of the domestic A share market will decide how we fight the war.

“But whether it’s me or Soros, our fundamental purpose is the same. We plan to use the A-share market to hold each other’s funds and attention as much as possible and then fight for life and death in Harbor Stocks.

“Soros’ strategy is actually very simple. He will set up a battlefield in Harbor Stocks and then enter the A-share market. If I don’t defend, he will smash the A-shares and demolish our hometowns. If I defend, our weak financial strength will make us strapped for cash, which is also the fundamental reason why Swallow Capital gave me the right to dispatch the 600 billion social security fund.”

Jasper’s words made everyone become contemplative, and when they finally heard that the dispatching power of the 600 billion social security fund was in Jasper’s hands, the expressions of the little prince and Lord Alvarado changed.

It was just that this change was so subtle that no one noticed it.

The two looked at each other and suppressed their emotions.

The little prince licked his dry lips and said to Jasper, "Since you have new considerations, then you should decide."

Jasper lifted two fingers and said, "In the next two trading days, there will be a result in the A-shares market."

"How confident are you?" The little prince asked.

"Not at all."

Jasper's answer did not consider the others' feelings at all.

Lord Alvarado and the gang's expressions fell.

Jasper explained, "I don't have confidence in beating Soros, and Soros also has zero confidence in beating me."

"As I said, the fundamental purpose of this battle in the A-share market is to hold back each other's funds and attention, so we can't fight to the death even though there's such a large amount of funds. As long as we don't fight to the death, then it is impossible to completely kill each other from the other side."

Taking a breath, Jasper continued, "In other words, if the A-share market does not collapse, we will win."

"And for Soros, as long as our capital loss is large enough, then he would have also achieved his goal, which is equivalent to winning."

"So, if you want to speak in terms of absolute victory or defeat, my confidence in achieving success is zero. However, in terms of relative victory and defeat, that is, achieving our respective goals, Soros and I are both 100% confident."