

Life at The Top – Chapter 1735 - 1736

After the shot was fired, Anna's arm became numb from the recoil. Meanwhile, on the ground, the bullet blew up Echo's arm that was holding the gun.

How powerful was the anti-materiel sniper rifle?

Within the effective range, it could penetrate 30 mm thick steel plates.

In other words, it would make a huge hole in an ordinary cement wall.

If it was a person, they would be blown to pieces if the bullet penetrated their torso.

Echo was lucky this time. The wind speed caused by the helicopter was too strong.

Thus, the bullet trajectory did not directly kill Echo after Anna fired the shot. Even so, one of Echo's arms was shattered in a cloud of blood.

Before the bloody cloud dispersed, a strong noise came from the helicopter.

Echo's eyes widened and looked at the bloody cloud blooming in front of him in disbelief. At that moment, the speed was too fast and he did not even feel the pain.

In the next second, the nerves sent the pain signals straight to the brain.

"Ah!"

Echo let out a roar that sounded like a beast. His arm was blown up from the shoulder blades onward. Among the bloody wound, one could even see the squirming muscles and white bone fragments underneath.

No one could imagine how intense this pain was.

At this moment, Echo's entire brain almost lost consciousness and all that was left was endless pain.

Inside the helicopter, Anna saw that she had not killed Echo with a single shot, so she got up furiously and grabbed the gun to take another shot.

With her previous experience, she could definitely give Echo a killing blow right now.

“Miss! Miss!”

At this time, the two bodyguards rushed up together. They stopped Anna firmly and said, “Miss, we are in the United States and we’re even on a helicopter belonging to the United States police. If you really shoot and kill Echo, it will be very troublesome.”

“Am I the one who’s going to get into trouble? The one getting into trouble is the person below! He doesn’t even know that he is dying. Get lost!”

Anna turned a deaf ear to all the exhortations and said with a cold face. At this time, one of the bodyguards was cleverer and understood that at this point, it was useless telling Anna how serious the consequences would be if she really killed

Echo. Therefore, he needed to use another reason to talk Anna down.

“Miss, you destroyed that person’s arm with the rifle and Mr. Laine is already safe. If you take another shot at this time, you won’t be the only one negatively affected by it, Mr.

Laine will also be in trouble.”

“Why don’t we go down first and discuss with Mr. Laine before you continue, okay?”

This bodyguard was very smart. He knew that Anna would immediately change her mind as long as they mentioned Jasper,

Sure enough, Anna frowned. Then, she took a cold look at Echo, who was screaming and struggling crazily in a pool of blood before replying, “I’ll let him live a few more minutes.”

The two bodyguards looked at each other and breathed a sigh of relief.

They were drenched in cold sweat. They seriously could not provoke the young miss of the family.

They had never seen such a valiant woman who would wield an anti-materiel sniper rifle to kill someone. How could there be such a valiant woman in the world?

On the ground, Jasper knew Anna was here when he heard the gunshot.

When he turned his head, Echo was already struggling frantically in a pool of blood. Although he was still alive, he was better off dead in this tragic situation.

Chapter 1736

Jasper patted the dust on his body with a sigh of relief. He just snatched back his life from the jaws of death, so now that it was over, Jasper felt both physically and psychologically exhausted.

At this time, the helicopter slowly landed.

The helicopter was not stable yet, but Anna jumped directly from the cabin and sprinted over straight over to Jasper.

When Jasper wanted to show Anna a big smile, she rushed into his arms.

Holding

Jasper tightly, Anna said in a shaky voice, "You scared me to death, do you know that?"

Jasper patted Anna's head that was as tame as a dove and said, "I'm fine now. See, I'm standing right in front of you now."

Anna bit her lip and said, "My heart was in my throat when I saw the man shooting you just now."

"You're such a scaredy-cat. I am so blessed that I would definitely have been fine."

Jasper laughed and continued, "By the way, who was the one who fired the gun? His marksmanship is impeccable. He saved my life, so I want to thank him properly."

When Anna heard that, she buried her head deeper into Jasper's arms.

At this moment, the two bodyguards also came over. After hearing what Jasper said, they looked at each other and said awkwardly, "Mr. Laine, Miss Anna was the one who fired the gun."

Jasper was dumbfounded when he heard that.

"You even know how to fire such a big sniper rifle?"

Jasper looked at the anti-materiel sniper rifle mounted at the door of the cabin. Although he had no interest in weapons, he recognized that this was the famous Barrett sniper rifle. It was a killer weapon that could penetrate armored vehicles with a single shot.

Jasper could not imagine Anna's small body holding and firing the anti-materiel rifle.

"I know how to shoot. I have practiced for many years, it's just that no one knows," Anna whispered.

"That's good."

After suppressing the surprise in his heart, Jasper joked, "If it's you, I don't need to express my gratitude anymore. When I go back, I'll have many ways to satisfy you."

After the first experience, women would get the reference straight away, so Anna understood what Jasper was implying immediately. She raised her head and shot Jasper a fierce look. After that, she gritted her teeth and said, "You punk, nothing proper comes out of your mouth as soon as you're safe."

"Haha, come, let's go back."

Jasper pulled Anna toward the helicopter and said.

"You're not going to deal with him?" Anna pointed at Echo who was struggling in a puddle of blood and asked.

His screams of pain were also dying out gradually.

"Deal with him? Why should I?"

Jasper did not even look at Echo. He said, "He is now a completely useless pawn. What is the point of dealing with him? Let him be dealt with by the police in the United States, and judging from the state of him, he won't live long."

After getting into the helicopter, Jasper narrowed his eyes and said, "It is the people behind him that have to be dealt with."

Anna said coldly, "We have to catch all of them and not leave a single one of them behind."

Jasper patted Anna's hand and chuckled. "This is my business so I will take care of them properly. You should prepare for Paris Fashion Week with peace of mind. After that, I will wait for you to return home."

Anna replied unhappily, "Why are you still treating me like an outsider? Those people are breaking the rules and have started to kill. Why are you still not letting me help you?"

"It's not enough to quench my hatred for some people just by killing them. The best way is to make them lose everything bit by bit," Jasper said meaningfully.