

Chapter 11

Joaquin's fiancée, Natasha Cruz is the daughter of their biggest investor and receiving a large amount of investment from her father, besides Natasha is a very popular face in the country that he can use it as an advantage in the future so he decided to marry her so he can kill two birds with a stone.

Emiliano's fiancée, Kayla Dias is the model and actress who was behind him since so many years but after he gets to know that she can be a great face for their business and lure men he decided to get engaged with her because he saw no harm in it.

Alejandro's fiancée, Brittany Cano is not a popular face but a spoiled brat and princess of her father. She gets what she wants and this made Alejandro to get engaged with her and then he took half of the shares of her father's company in the perks of being their future son-in-law.

But these were not the main reason of them for getting them engaged with those good-for-nothing women. Most importantly they engaged with them because they are selfish, self-obsessed and money-minded. That's the only thing they love about them. They mind their own business and don't interfere in their lives because as far as they are paying their bills they are completely fine and happy with it. But from a few days they don't know what has gotten into them, they have started barging into their office anytime they want without informing and today it broke Emiliano's string of patience.

He strode towards them angrily and then next moment Kayla was hanging in the air with his hand curled around her throat cutting her air supply. A shriek left from other of the two woman's mouth but none of them cared. She started scratching his hand to pry it off but his hold was ironed grip on her throat. She tried to let out some words out of her mouth but nothing came out.

"¿CUÁNTAS VECES TENGO QUE DECIRTE QUE LLAMES ANTES DE ENTRAR MOCOSO SIN MANERAS?!)" he shouted at her making her flinch in his hold while the other two backed away from that raging bull.

(Translation: HOW MANY TIMES I HAVE TO TELL YOU TO KNOCK BEFORE ENTERING YOU MANNERLESS BRAT?!)

Due to lack of air her face turned completely red and her eyes popped out of her sockets. She started panting heavily due to the shortage of air. Her struggles started to stop and her eyes started to get heavy but it didn't bring any ounce of softness at his hardened face. The other two woman started yelling in the background making him realize she was almost at the verge of dying so he threw her away of the floor making her cough out loudly. He didn't pay any attention to her and turned to the other two woman now standing beside his brothers who made no efforts to protect them.

Taking out his gun he cocked at them with a furious expression making them tremble like a leaf thinking if this man in front of them has gone mad but little did they know that this is complete normal for them and this was no where near anger.

"La próxima vez que nos faltes el respeto, dispararé todas las balas entre tus ojos. ¿Entiendo?!" he threatened both of them with angry expressions making them immediately nod in yes. Joaquin talked with him through his eyes and told it was enough to scare them. So he put his gun back in his holster.

(Translation: Next time you disrespect us, I will shoot all the bullets between your eyes. Got it?!)

Kayla stood up from the ground and came towards Natasha and Brittany. The three of them stood in the corner fearing of the brothers. They were regretting that they came at this time that they were angry. Alejandro came towards them and stopped in front of them with his hands inside his pants pockets.

"¿Por qué vinieron todos aquí?" he asked them making them gulp and look at each other. He was looking all calm but he was no where calm but wanted to send them away as soon as possible before his brother could send three corpses out of this office.

(Translation: Why did you all come here?)

"Vinimos aquí para invitarte a la inauguración de la nueva boutique de Kayla hoy." Brittany said to him making him smirk at her reply because he knew that they couldn't come here until they want something from them.

(Translation: We came here to invite you on the inauguration of Kayla's new boutique today.)

He tilted his head side to side like a maniac and then take a look at them. He turned around walking towards his desk and lifted the glass of whiskey chugging it down his throat in a go. Then he again turned towards them and walked to Kayla. Handing the empty glass to her he lifted her chin making her gulp audibly.

"¿Cogiste la cita para invitarnos? ¡Que seas nuestro prometido no significa que puedas venir cuando quieras y pedirnos que vayamos a donde quieras como un maldito perro!" he spat at her making their eyes widen.

(Translation: Did you take the appointment for inviting us? Just because you are our fiances doesn't mean you can come whenever you want and ask us come wherever you want like a damn dog!)

"Ahora ve y pide cita. Cuando después de muchos meses les llegue la oportunidad nos plantearemos si queremos venir o no. ¡AHORA DISPONIBLE!" he instructed them and showed them the way out of their office.

(Translation: Now go and take appointment. When after many months your chance will come then we will consider if we want to come or not. NOW OUT!)

 +15 BONUS

The three of them flinched and decided to scurry out of the office as soon as possible because they know they are very dangerous and one thing wrong in front of them and they will be dead under six feet under the ground, fiance or not. They three of them didn't even bid them goodbyes and exited their office making the three of them smirk because at the end of the day they breathe of people's fear. They love the immense fear in people of them.

SURPRISE GIFT: 100 BONUS FREE FOR YOU

 GET IT

 Comments

 Vote (133) 