

Let me go, Mr. Hill Chapter 2678

Chapter 2678

.

Jewell's meeting room. More than ten shareholders took turns sitting.

Chester and his Father Hank Jewell sat at the front because they own the most shares, accounting for 40% of the company, followed by Director Dylan, Director Sullivan, and Director Dalton and the remaining shareholders. It only accounted for a few tenths of the shares, and the pattern has clearly changed since then.

"Have you heard that the shareholders of the company have changed?"

"Previously, someone wanted to buy my shares, but I didn't sell them. but Mr. Liu and the others didn't hold on. After all, the other party's price was too high.

"Me, too, before the company's stock price fluctuated and more than 100 billion vanished. I, too, was terrified."

Show your love with a Little Donation. Click Here

account for 10% of the shares, and it is expected that they will be able to join the board of directors." account for 10% of the shares, and it is expected that they will be able to join the board of directors.

"Her shares are identical to those of Dylan and others. I've heard she's a foreigner, and

I'm not sure how to handle it. I'm afraid the company will be in chaos if President Jewell can't keep it under control.

"Unfortunately, the company is no longer in business. It's already a shambles."

"..."

A small group of shareholders murmured below.
Hank Jewell said, frowning at the time, "It's only two minutes before 9 o'clock. Is this Reborn going to arrive soon?"
"After all, aren't the important people always the last to arrive?" Chester's sitting in the top position and was brushing the tea cover. His deep and secluded expression is light and making it difficult to understand.
Chairman Hank Jewell murmured. "It's only 10% of the shares. Could she possibly cause a stir in Jewell's family?"
Only 10% of Dylan, Sullivan, and other participants pursed their lips.
The sound of high heels could be heard outside the meeting room at precisely 9 o'clock.
Everyone was taken aback. Is this Reborn a female?
"I'm not late, everyone." The woman who walked in, as the sweet voice suggested, was in her early twenties, with dark and thick fluffy short hair. Outside the corridor, sunlight fell on her back and hair. A small and beautiful face appears to be pure, with only a pair of ladies' sunglasses hanging on the bridge of the nose and a little pink lipstick on the lips.
The simplest dress is like a magazine model walking down a gorgeous red carpet with a dazzling personality.
A blond woman and two burly and tall bodyguards followed her. When the young lady entered the meeting room, she turned around and told the two bodyguards,
"Yes." Gage stood obediently at the outside of meeting room door.
Charity entered with Della, sat in a leather seat, and removed her sunglasses, revealing a pair of dark and bright eyes with a cold and beautiful light. And Della stood behind her, holding the document, her body sexy and enticing. Everyone turned to look at them both. A pair of dark pupils, including Chester, stared at Charity, as if to poke a hole in her body. A violent commotion broke out in the meeting room shortly after this. Della and the others had never met before, but Eliza had met anyone. This Eliza was the one who complained to the outside world about Chester forcing her on the Internet. Since Chester's arrest, there has been a flood of information about Eliza on the Internet. They've all seen that look before it turns to ash. How could it possibly be her?

← Previous Post Next Post →

|