Chapter 511 Come to My Room

Both Caspian and Willow felt awkward. They didn't expect Z something like that to their faces.

The couple might have done it before, but it was a very personal matter, after all. They thought that she was being too blunt about it, which made them feel embarrassed.

Willow refuted, "Zoey, what are you talking about? We ..."

"Willow, I saw that thing the other day. I know it's not my place to say this, but why are the two of you even using contraception? How will you be able to have a child this way?"

"Hurry up and have a baby already. I can't wait to be the child's godmother!" Zoey said.

The transparent, balloon-esque thing that Zoey and Macy saw the other night was actually ...

Zoey had known what it was all along; she just kept it to herself.

"If you want a child so bad, why don't you go make one yourself!" Willow retorted.

Willow felt that Zoey had crossed the line this time. Thankfully, there was no one else around them. Otherwise, it would have been so embarrassing for them.

"I want that too! But who am I supposed to have a baby with?" Zoey argued.

"You just have to find a partner and get married. Then, you can have a child of your own," Willow said.

"You think I don't want to? If it's not for the high standards Caspian “If only I can find myself a husband like him. Willow, it’s all y Zoey pouted.

Caspian became a little speechless after hearing what Zoey said.

What did this have to do with him?

Willow felt uneasy. Could it be that Zoey had fallen for Caspian?

“I’ve decided, Willow. I’ll never marry anyone in this lifetime. I’m going to stay with you forever,” Zoey said.

“What? What’s the use of that if we can’t even make a baby together?” Zoey’s words were really starting to make Willow feel uncomfortable.

Was Zoey really into Caspian? Because that would be a problem.

“Your husband’s the Diatoran God of War. If I stay with you for the rest of my life, I’ll be pampered and I can enjoy the kind of life that others will never be able to,” Zoey said excitedly.

“I’m going to have to disappoint you, then. I’m an upright person, which means I have nothing fancy to give you,” Caspian said solemnly.

“You’re just trying to drive me away. Fine! I’ll leave this place and return to my rental house,” Zoey sulked.

“Just to be clear, you said it yourself. Nobody here tried to make you leave,” Caspian said as he spread his arms.

“You might not have said it out loud, but I know that you were thinking about it!” Zoey said angrily.

“It’s not safe out there. Just stay with Willow for the time being. It’s safer this way,” Caspian advised.

After all, Southlake City’s security was being threatened. No one could predict when it would suddenly become dangerous.

“Wouldn’t you feel like I’m intruding on your privacy?” Zoey asked.

“Nah, we’ll just keep it down.” Caspian smirked.

Both of them would be doing it in their room. Nobody would be able to affect them.

“Hey! Here you go again, flaunting your love. I can’t take this anymore. There’s no need to let the whole world know what you do in your bedroom.

“Since you’re back, I won’t be staying with Willow anymore. Both of you can stay together. I wouldn’t want to rain on your parade,” Zoey whined.

“Zoey, why are you bringing it up again? Can we not talk about that? It’s so embarrassing,” Willow said as her cheeks flushed.

For Willow, this was a private matter between a husband and a wife. It was rather embarrassing that Zoey kept bringing it up.

“What’s there to be demure about when you’re in front of me, Willow? You think I don’t know you? You must be coveting Caspian’s body.

“So just stop using contraception and have a baby already!” Zoey smirked.

“What? Stop saying that. We’re not planning on having a baby yet,” Willow muttered.

“Why not?” Zoey asked, puzzled.

“No particular reason. We’re both very busy. You’ve seen it yourself.

“Caspian’s the Diatoran God of War. He could be summoned to war any time and I have a company to run. How would we have the time

“But Caspian’s the Diatoran God of War! You’ve got to let him continue his legacy. Besides, you’re both so good-looking.

“Your children would be so beautiful!” The more Zoey talke the more excited she became.

“Let’s just talk about this some other time,” Willow said. She felt embarrassed to carry on with the conversation.

it was not really appropriate to discuss such a private matter in public.

“I’m just concerned for you. When will you have a child if you keep using contraception?” Zoey prodded

The topic of Caspian being the Diatoran God of War reminded Willow oof how Caspian had kept this information hidden from her.

“Hubby, I can’t believe you kept this secret from me for so long. As ppunishment, you can’t sleep with me tonight,” Willow whined ccoquettishly.

“fbdidn’t mean to hide it from you, honey. Besides, I’ve already retired ffoom the military. I was never involved in the matters of the military aanyway.

“This time; the King insisted that I join him. I kept my real identity hidderbloecause I was afraid that it might create an uproar,” Caspian exptained.

Willownoodded in agreement. Caspian was right. If the Stewart family had found out in advance, they might have conspired against him.

“Caspiangyyou mentioned that you’re the Diatoran God of War, right? What dsypomposition, then? Why do you have five stars when John only has fou?? ZZogy asked.

He would not be able to give a clear explanation in just one or two sentences anyway.

“By the way, are you still the chief commander of this battle?” Zoey asked.

“That’s right.” Caspian nodded.

“Why did you order the evacuation of the entire maritime troops of Diatoran, then? Do you know that everyone’s been complaining about you?” Zoey asked.

“This is classified information. It’s none of your business, so don’t meddle in our military’s affairs!” Caspian said coldly.

Caspian’s sudden change in demeanor made Zoey afraid to ask him more questions.

“Let’s head back to the villa, shall we? There’s no point being out here, “Willow said when she sensed that the atmosphere had gotten slightly awkward.

The three of them began heading toward the villa.

Willow and Zoey were still feeling rather excited after learning about Caspian’s identity as the Diatoran God of War.

Both of them had personally prepared a huge feast for Caspian.

Ever since getting married, Caspian had only eaten Willow’s cooking a few times. This meal was one of them.

Even though it was nothing too fancy, Caspian still enjoyed it.

Now that Caspian had returned, Macy no longer had to stay at the villa anymore.

For the past few days, they had been surviving on pure adrenaline. They really needed a good rest.

When night came, Willow and Zoey slept together. Before that, Zoey had tried to get Willow to sleep with Caspian, but it was to no avail.

At midnight, there was a faint knock on the door.

“Who is it?” Willow asked softly.

“Willow, it’s me.” Caspian’s voice came from the other side of the door..

“What’s the matter, hubby?” Willow asked, a little confused. What was Caspian doing here in the middle of the night?

“Come to my room. I have something to tell you.”

Chapter 512 The Diatoran God of War Has Good Stamina

Willow could feel her heart flutter when she heard Caspian’s captivating voice.

“What is it about that you have to tell me today? Can’t you just tell me tomorrow?” Willow whispered loudly.

Zoey had just fallen asleep. She did not want to wake her up.

“It’s an emergency. Please come out now. Do you still not trust me, honey?”

“It might be too late tomorrow,” Caspian said with some urgency in his tone.

He did this on purpose to lure her out.

Willow glanced at Zoey, who was sleeping soundly next to her. She only got out of bed after making sure that Zoey was fast asleep.

She had to get out of the room before they woke her up. If Zoey were to wake up now, Willow would not be able to leave.

Zoey would start questioning her about where she was going. After all, Willow could not possibly tell her she was going to go sleep with Caspian.

She got out of bed as discreetly as she could and tiptoed to the door.

She saw Caspian as soon as she opened the door. Whenever she was reminded of the fact that he was the Diatoran God of War, her heart would start to race.

With a puzzled look on her face, Willow asked, "So, what's the emergency?"

"What else? It's time to make a baby!" Caspian smirked as he

"You liar!" Willow teased coquettishly.

In fact, she had already guessed what Caspian was trying to do.

Before this, they had always used contraception whenever they made love to each other. Because of that, they could never conceive.

Willow actually loved children a lot. However, with everything going on, it was a little early for them to have a baby.

Moreover, Willow wanted the time for just the two of them to go on a little longer. Once a child came into the picture, they would no longer be able to enjoy their personal time.

As soon as they entered the room, Caspian threw Willow onto the bed.

“Are you going to use a condom?” Willow asked.

“Do you want me to?” Caspian asked.

He wanted their love to be complete by having children of their own.

“No, I want to be intimate with you, hubby” Willow flirted.

Meanwhile, in the other room, Zoey was already wide awake. She had only pretended to be asleep earlier.

She knew that staying at the villa was an inconvenience to the married couple. After all, they had been away from each other for so long. They were definitely looking forward to a passionate reunion.

Zoey was quick-witted as well. She could not stop the two from having a baby. Deep down, she was actually curious about how their intimate moments went as she had never been in a relationship before.

Nevertheless, she did not dare to eavesdrop. She could only toss and turn over in bed as she pictured in her head how they were going about doing it. Her heart began to race along with her excitement as she was getting aroused.

“I want our marriage to be consummated before the wedding.” Willow said, blushing.

The situation was extremely critical this time. Several conditions are arising. Willow said, blushing.

“Wouldn’t want what?” Willow asked.

The war this side around is unpredictable. If anything happens, you could still marry. But if we have a kid, that'd be a difficult story. It'd be significantly harder for you," Caspian said.

Willow burst into tears after hearing what Caspian said. He was not wrong. Wars and weapons had always been ruthless. Nobody would be able to tell what the outcome of a war would be.

You won't die. You're going to be fine! You won't be able to live if something were to happen to you. I'd definitely follow you into the afterlife," Willow said firmly.

Caspian was deeply moved to hear this.

You can't. You have to go on living your best life no matter the outcome. I'm the Diatoran God. It's my duty to fight bravely with the soldiers to protect the people of Diatoran," Caspian said.

Don't care. I just want you to live. Promise me that you'll come back to me?" Willow said as she wiped tears from her eyes.

I promise. I'll come home safely to you. Caspian said with a firm nod.

"Let's do it now this time," Willow whispered seductively into his ears.

Spring blossomed in their bedroom as they embraced each other with love and passion. They poured their love out for each other.

Meanwhile, at West Aridlands, Filren's secret agents infiltrated

Diatoran and launched a sneak attack.

However, the King of Diatoran had gone down to West Aridlands in person. The soldiers in West Aridlands were very powerful. They fought bravely to kill the enemy.

Due to the strength of the West Aridlands army, the secret agents of Filren were not able to break past the barrier despite their efforts.

Con the other hand, there was another battle happening within the four walls of Riverside Villa.

After the hour-long “workout”, both Caspian and Willow were so worn out that they collapsed on the bed, dripping in sweat.

You’ve gotten better again, hubby. I thought I wasn’t going to make it!

Willow teased coquettishly.

She embraced Caspian as she played the whole scenario inside her head again.

“I guess you enjoyed it,” Caspian said, feeling pleased with himself.

“You said before that you were trying to find out about your past. How big you manage to find anything?” Willow asked all of a sudden

As she had always wondered what her real identity was.

“What time, and what name of person she was.

Back then, it seemed difficult for Caspian to help search for her mother as she thought that he was just an ordinary person.

However, it was different now. Caspian was the Diatoran God of War.

He was the second most powerful man in the nation.

He would definitely be able to help with finding out her entire background.

“I’m sorry, honey. I’ve completely forgotten about it. There have been too many things happening lately.

“But don’t worry. I’ve already gotten someone to investigate it for me. I haven’t heard from him yet,” Caspian said, feeling slightly embarrassed about it.

He did send for someone to investigate this matter. He only forgot about it because he had been too busy recently.

“It’s fine. With everything going on, this can wait. Besides, it’s been so many years. We can wait for a little while longer,” Willow replied.

“It’s not fine. This is an important matter. I’ll have the intelligence department investigate it again!

“I’ll let you know as soon as I get any updates,” Caspian said.

Now that he was the Diatoran God of War, it would not be hard for him to handle such matters. He thought about it and realized that Willow and him were in the same boat.

“Thank you, hubby.” Willow said as she gazed at Caspian lovingly.

“You’re most welcome, honey. I’m curious about the kind of person my mother-in-law is as well,” Caspian said with a smile.

A woman like Kate Massey was not worthy of being his mother-in-law.

Meanwhile, Zoey was not able to fall asleep as she got carried away thinking about the steamy scenarios.

She decided to take her phone out and started thinking about the next plot.

In the novel she wrote, the main characters needed that one last thing.

As she thought of Caspian and Willow, Zoey ultimately decided to arrange an intimate scene for the male and female lead.

At the same time, she could hear the vague moans coming from the next room.

Zoey was amazed by how great Caspian's stamina was. It took more than an hour for Willow to stop screaming.

She did not expect that Caspian would be so good at this. His stamina was impressive.

As Zoey listened to the moans, she pictured the scenes in her head. Her body was starting to burn up.

She decided to head into the kitchen to look for some water to drink. She had initially wanted to boil the water but was afraid that she might interrupt their steamy session. She then opened the refrigerator.

There was some meat and vegetables inside the refrigerator.

Zoey discovered a really big carrot. She suddenly became excited. A great carrot like this was a woman's best friend.

She then took the carrot and hurried back to her room...
