

Lord of War 18

Chapter 18: .Dark Outpost

The Kingdom of Portoroa is a kingdom famous for its magical power in the north of the Marvel Continent. The magic of this country is extremely developed. Many of the many magics that exist in the world are researched by the magicians of this country.

Sean still remembers that the Magic Device Technology was jointly fought by the Kingdom of Portoroa and the Maggie Empire. It can even be said that these two countries pushed the entire Marvel Continent into the Magic Device Age. However, the development of Magic Device Technology is already the third expansion, and entering the era of Magic Device is the story of the fifth expansion. It is still a long way from the era in which Sean is now.

However, when Sean looks at the present from the perspective of a future man, he can see the shadow of some magical device technology.

For example, in this outpost of Baldoroa, there are some magical devices.

The magic tower in the outpost is slightly different from the ordinary magic tower. Usually, the operation of the magic tower requires the joint operation of several official magicians. However, the scale of the two magic towers in front of them can only accommodate two magicians each, and there is no engraved magic circle on the top of the tower, but a metal ball is set up, passing Cecilia's Observation is very judgmental, she can conclude that such a magic tower only needs two magicians to exert the destructive power that can only be exerted by ten magicians in the past.

This reminded Shaun of the Magic Cannon.

A magic cannon that only requires an ordinary person to operate. Its power is roughly equivalent to a four-level range of magic damage.

However, everyone did not stay here for too long, and Du Luen was only slightly surprised, but he and Harley did not forget their mission, so the team quickly walked into the outpost camp. In fact, if it hadn't been for Sean's constant emphasis on letting everyone go slowly, coupled with the influence of Sean along the way, they simply couldn't wait to cross this outpost to leave this terrible place quickly.

At least, no one would be afraid of this outpost now—there are a few houses along the way, they have checked in, but there is no one inside, and judging from the dust in the house, it has been at least a hundred years old. No one entered.

But Sean would not think so, because he was so familiar with the copy right now.

Dark outpost camp.

This entire camp, like a small town, is actually a customs clearance copy of the Starfall Forest to the Kingdom of Portoroa. Only through this dungeon can you leave the Starfall Forest and go to the Kingdom of Portoroa, because I do not know whether it is the original setting of the game or other reasons. The fog surrounding the Starfall Forest to the Kingdom of Portoroa can interfere with the direction and perception. With the ability, anyone who tries to pass through these dense fog will be completely lost in it and eventually become a corpse.

Similarly, anyone in the Kingdom of Portoroa who wants to enter the Forest of Starfall must pass this instance.

At this moment, the dungeon monster has not come out. It is not that it has been cleaned up, but that Xiao En and others have not entered the attack range.

Everyone, seeing Sean look like an enemy, naturally they dare not care.

The facts on the road proved that as long as Sean showed such an expression, it meant that the next trip would definitely be very troublesome—at least when they entered the black soil, they did not see Sean show such a look. But now in this outpost, there is not even a shadow of an enemy. Why does Sean show such a look? Is the enemy really that terrible?

The outpost is huge, and it is estimated to be bigger than any small town that Sean has seen since he came to this world. This made Sean quite emotional. At the beginning, it took only a few minutes for this outpost in the game to walk from start to finish, but now it has been more than ten minutes and I haven't seen the head yet. From the visual distance, I can see that it's even three. If you haven't finished one part of it, you will naturally feel that the people in the Kingdom of Portoroa are really rich and powerful, and an outpost can get such a scale.

In fact, this is a bit wrong to the Kingdom of Puerto Rico.

When we competed with the Kingdom of Selian for this forest, this was the frontline command battalion of the army of the Kingdom of Portoroa, which was very different from the so-called "outposts" of ordinary countries. The magician has always liked luxury, so it is reasonable to build a front-line command base to be larger and more luxurious. At least looking at Du Luen's proud and appreciative look, we can know that he is really doing it for himself as Portoroa. People of the kingdom are proud.

As the team was advancing, everyone on the road only heard a "pop", everyone was startled, but when they looked back, they saw a guard suddenly fell to the ground.

Everyone couldn't help but smile.

It seems that the guard fell to the ground because he stumbled on something. At this moment, he got up and cursed.

But Xiao En's face changed suddenly, and he shouted: "Be careful!"

Before everyone could react, they saw that Sean had already waved the long sword in his hand and rushed towards the guard with a stride. Without the slightest hesitation, the long sword in his hand plunged into the ground on the edge of the guard's right foot, and a strange sound of broken bones came out from the ground, so crisp that even the people standing a little farther away. All of them heard clearly, and suddenly everyone's complexion changed.

After doing all this, Sean quickly ran to the side, pulling Cecilia back immediately, and at the same time not forgetting to remind: "Everyone is scattered, run, don't stay still!"

In fact, except for Harley, a fat businessman who has no combat experience at all, everyone else does not need Sean's reminder at all, they have already moved.

Among them, the archer who didn't shoot an arrow during this trip was the most sensitive. He was just a sprint. This man ran towards a house, and then jumped up and stepped on the wall of the house. The wall was kicked up, and then jumped and grabbed the corner of the eaves. With the help of the force, he jumped to the roof.

There is no doubt that this shooter is the smartest thing to do, because since the enemy comes from the ground, it is safe to stand high, especially when he is a shooter, being condescending is more conducive to his strength. , Although he didn't know why Sean didn't let him waste an arrow along the way, but he was not a stupid person, he must have occupied a favorable position as soon as the battle broke out.

In addition to the sharpest response of the shooter, Du Luen and Old Peter also reacted extremely quickly. One left and the other quickly retreated towards the two sides. Old Peter even glared wide. When he retreated quickly, he threw the spear in his hand violently. Within a short distance of one meter, the spear fired. The thunderous whistling sound plunged into the ground so violently, at least half way down.

In an instant, there was also a crisp sound from under the ground, and something seemed to break apart.

The reaction of the three guards was slightly slower, but it was only relative to the others. They grabbed Harley, who was still in a daze, and quickly pulled him away from this area. Seeing the three of them using their hands and feet together, this scene was a bit like catching one while hunting on the mountain and was still jumping and trying. Wild boar running away.

Of course at this time, no one dared to laugh out loud.

Because in the second when everyone retreated, hundreds of hands suddenly rushed out of the black mud cover, and protruded from the ground.

Looking around, countless arms moved on the black soil, making a faint creak, fine and clear, and everyone couldn't help but feel a chill.

Hundreds of corpses just crawled out of the ground. They didn't have weapons on their hands, but their sharp and narrow nails surpassed many weapons. Almost all of these corpses were wearing half-length armor, but the style was There are two kinds. Everyone present knew that this was the standard armor of the regular army of the Kingdom of Serian and the Kingdom of Portoroa, but these armors were already rusty, and they were probably not much useful.

Although the scenes of these corpses were a bit shocking, when everyone saw it was just a corpse with a distorted face and a dry skin like leather, their faces couldn't help but look a little relaxed.

In the cognition of normal people, corpse-type undead creatures are stronger than skeletons, but they are also very limited. Creatures such as walking corpses and zombies have not been killed less. After all, the Kingdom of Celian is not a safe place here, and occasionally some undead creatures may be messed up.

Only Xiao En's face, still solemn, but a little bit more surprised inside.

The number of these corpses is more than he expected. According to this number, this copy is already an abyss level of difficulty.

This discovery made Sean a little puzzled. Why is "Wandering Darkness" a regular difficulty, but "Dark Outpost" is an abyss difficulty?

But he also knows that now is not the time to investigate these things.

"Be careful, these are not walking corpses or zombies you take for granted." Sean said in a deep voice, "They are corpses!"

When they heard the corpse monster, Du Luen and Cecilia frowned slightly, obviously they knew the difficulty of these undead creatures. But the others showed doubts on their faces. They obviously didn't know the difference between corpses, walking zombs, and zombies. They just understood the solemn expression of Sean, that's these corpses. It should be a very difficult monster.

"Mr. Harley, you and Old Peter hurry up on the roof. Let's cover you for the time being." Sean soon began to issue combat orders. "You go up too, protect Mr. Harley and Old Peter. We need Their bow and arrow support... Cecilia, you should also hurry up."

Shaun ordered a guard and asked him to go on the roof to help. And the shooter showed excitement after hearing what Shaun said. He almost seemed a little redundant along the way, which made him feel a little uncomfortable, and now it's finally time to show his strength.

"What do we need to do?" Compared to the excitement of the shooter, Old Peter was worthy of being a veteran and asked calmly.

"We are responsible for these corpses. You only need to do one thing." Sean glanced at these corpses. They had opened their eyes mixed with frenzy and savagery, revealing the jaggedness. Teeth, "Find a corpse wearing a red costume and shoot all the arrows on it. In any case, you must let it go to your troubles, and it's best to make it raging."

As soon as Sean's words fell, hundreds of corpses roared with unknown meaning, and then rushed towards Sean and the others like an agile cheetah.

A guard stood up, trying to block a corpse that was rushing faster, so that Harley had enough time to climb the roof. But just as he raised the shield in his hand, the corpse monster had already rushed in front of him, and a dull crash sounded, the guard retreated a few steps, but the corpse monster only shook its head. , Seemed a little confused-to hit the shield with his head, obviously even the corpse demon would not feel good.

At this moment, everyone finally understands the difference between corpses and ordinary walking corpses and zombies: both power and speed are far superior to slow-moving zombies and zombies!