

Lord of War 25

Chapter 25: .Strengthening equipment (1)

How to trouble him?

Cecilia was a good question, but Sean just said it casually. Of course, it is impossible to really trouble him, unless he does not intend to obtain this task-he knows how to obtain this task. What a weird thing. The previous few words with the other party were nothing more than a familiar face. The next action really depends on whether he can get a task from him.

But now, Sean has more important things to deal with.

Opened his personal panel, directly selected the skill item, skipped the previous combat skills, and turned his attention to the life skill column.

Sean's life profession in the game was a blacksmith, and most warrior ranks would choose this life profession. After all, after a fierce battle, the repair cost of equipment is not low. If he is a blacksmith, then Only need to consume some raw materials to repair it yourself. And the benefits of the blacksmith are far more than that, as long as the skill proficiency burns up, let alone magical equipment, even legendary equipment can be created.

But it stops at the lowest legendary equipment.

In the game, in addition to artifacts, the three types of equipment such as casting, demonization, and legendary equipment have more detailed distinctions. For example, the common, refined, high-quality, and bronze, silver, and gold in the casting category and the magical category. Of course, there are three more detailed distinctions in the legend category: legend, epic, and myth. But starting from the epic level, players cannot The things that are manufactured, even the manufacturing of legendary equipment is not that simple.

Under normal circumstances, gold-level equipment is the pinnacle that players can reach.

As a team leader, Xiao En, of course, has many priorities, so he has not fallen behind as a blacksmith. At this moment, opening the skill panel of the life profession is to activate the life skills above.

Although the skills of life professions are not as rich as those of combat professions, it also has its own set of skill systems. It is not just smelting minerals into abrasive tools, and then hitting them casually, like this one. The basic steps include five steps: smelting, purification, beating, quenching, and cooling. Of course, it's okay if you don't learn such basic steps, but you can only do it by your own feeling when forging, and you won't get any system prompts and assistance; but if you learn these five skills, then When forging, there will be a spectrum bar, players can refer to this spectrum bar to operate, so as to achieve perfect forging.

These are just basic skills, and there are many other related skills.

After some consideration, Sean spent five proficiency points to activate all the five skills.

After transferring the fighters in the Starfall Forest, he raised the fighter's level to level 5 by killing those corpses and gained ten proficiency points. Together with the remaining three in the previous level, he has 13 proficiency. Point, after consuming five at this time, only eight are left.

But this only seems to be a basic step.

Sean soon put his proficiency points into life skills again, and activated [Magic Knowledge (Bronze)], [Magic Casting (Bronze)], [Equipment Magic (Bronze)], and [Compound Magic] Knowledge (Bronze)] These four necessary skills for forging magic equipment, so all the proficiency points are consumed.

【Magic Knowledge (Bronze): The relevant knowledge that must be mastered for casting magic equipment (Bronze). Blacksmith casting, level 35, proficiency 0%. 】

[Magic Casting (Bronze): You can cast weak magical equipment (bronze), blacksmith casting, level 25, proficiency 0%, limit: skill master must first learn level 1 "Magic Knowledge (Bronze) to improve skills Level 3 "Magic Knowledge (Bronze) is required, and the next level can cast medium-effect magic equipment (Bronze). 】

[Equipment Infusion (Bronze): Magical equipment (bronze) can be condensed, and the highest can be upgraded to weak magic equipment (bronze), blacksmith casting, level 25, proficiency 0%, restriction: skills must be mastered first To learn level 2 "Magic Knowledge (Bronze, level 3 "Magic Casting (Bronze) is required to increase the skill level. 】

[Composite Magic Knowledge (Bronze): Allows to inject two elemental powers into magic equipment (Bronze), blacksmith casting, level 15, proficiency 0%, restriction: skill master must first learn level 3 "Magic Knowledge (Bronze) , to upgrade the skill level, level 2 "Equipment Infusion (Bronze is required.]

After activating all the relevant skills, Sean cleaned up the materials on the table that needed to be used, and then asked Cecilia not to run around, and left the hotel by himself.

Although Charles's saber is a magic weapon, it is not enough to satisfy Sean's needs with only minor effects of magic. He has collected a lot of materials in the Forest of Starfall, plus he bought it from Arthur City. These materials are for the purpose of upgrading Charles' saber to weak demonization. If the proficiency is not enough, Sean even wants to use all these life skills and directly strengthen the weapon to medium effect. Demonize.

As for the strengthening route of the weapon, he had already thought about it.

Walking on the streets of Arthur City, Sean carried a backpack full of various materials, not wandering aimlessly, but toward a blacksmith shop in the south of the city.

This blacksmith shop has a long history, and it is quite famous throughout the Kingdom of Puerto Rico. The main sales items are sophisticated equipment, and occasionally there are high-quality equipment for sale. It was originally the Kingdom of Puerto Rico in the game. The most advanced blacksmith shop that the players of the early days can come into contact with.

Du Luen's high-quality equipment comes from this blacksmith shop.

However, Sean came to this blacksmith shop on this trip because only this blacksmith shop has blacksmith facilities such as a leased furnace, and because the old shop owner has the habit of accepting apprentices and performing craftsmanship, he is relatively private behind the blacksmith shop. The room, these are the purpose of Sean's trip.

Being in this world for more than a month, Sean has gradually figured out some conditions about this world.

If it's in a game, it's not a big deal for the player to know how to make magic equipment, and the NPCs in the game have nothing to do with the player. But now in the real world, these situations will be different. Sean just has a small-effect bronze-level magical equipment, no one will doubt anything. After all, this thing can still be done as long as there is enough money. I bought it in the auction houses of some chambers of commerce, but if people know that Sean knows how to make magic equipment, even the bronze-level magic equipment with minor effects, he will soon be "pleased" to leave.

So, Sean did not dare to strengthen in front of everyone so blatantly.

paid a silver coin to the old shopkeeper, and he obtained the right to use the old shopkeeper's private room for the next day. Of course, it also includes a leather scabbard personally given to him by the old shopkeeper—the subtle bronze magic weapon is not enough to arouse the old shopkeeper's interest, but the right to use the room doesn't need to be so expensive. The old shopkeeper just Think of Sean as a noble boy trying to learn the skills of blacksmithing.

...

In the room, everything from furnaces, anvils to millstones, sinks and other equipment is complete, and even many different types of hammers and molds are also available. From these equipment, it can be seen that this blacksmith shop is indeed a well-deserved name. Time-honored shop.

Without the slightest jerky or hesitation, Sean quickly poured out all the materials in the package. There was no panic in the movement of his hand, but he sorted all these materials with a serious expression, and then took out a dozen black stones about the size of an adult's fist. These stones were very smooth and large in size. It's also very average. If you are not familiar with this way, you would never think that these cobblestones are ore.

Quenching magic iron ore.

This is a very common and cheap special ore. It has a relatively high melting point. It usually takes more than ten hours to smelt in a fierce fire before it melts. Once cooled, it will become very hard. Most equipment will be used to strengthen defenses. Add some demonic iron ore.

But at this time, what Sean needs is another characteristic of it.

Magic fit.

Xiao En threw all these ore into an iron bucket, took out a bottle of combustion aid and poured it into the iron bucket, and then put a small piece of crushed flint in the iron bucket. In an instant, the flames erupted from the iron bucket, and then Xiao Well, through mechanical operation, the iron bucket was moved to the furnace to start the smelting operation.

The biggest feature of the player is that he likes to drill camp. If according to the normal way, it will take at least several days for Sean to upgrade Charles' saber weapon, but according to his approach, it only takes an hour. Melt the quenched iron ore into a liquid state.

And Sean did not waste the next hour.

He first picked up the smell of wind flowers collected from the Forest of Starfall on the table, grind it into a powder, and then took out a green fruit, squeezed out the juice inside, poured it into the powder and stirred until it was light green. The sap became viscous before it stopped. A refreshing coolness radiated from this viscous liquid, and there was also a very light sweetness in it, which seemed to be the original taste of the fruit. If Cecilia was here, you would definitely be able to feel the rich wind inside. element.

After completing this step, Sean applied the viscous liquid evenly to the body of Charles Sabre. In an instant, the light blue fluorescence that had been radiating from the sword became stronger again, and there were still some tiny spots of light shining faintly.

However, this is not the end. Sean quickly took out a bottle with a pale yellow liquid, which was an alchemy potion extracted by an alchemist.

Rock potion.

A special medicine that can make the skin rocky and improve its physical resistance. It is expensive.

In the elemental world, the wind attribute has always restrained the earth attribute, but attribute restraint is not absolute. Many complex types of magic have elemental powers that completely restrain each other, and only magicians who have mastered the knowledge of complex magic can display such complexes. Type of magic. And what Sean has to do now is to pour the potion onto the Charles Sabre. This is why Sean activates the skill [Compound Magic Knowledge (Bronze)]. If this skill is not activated, Then this approach will directly destroy the weapon, but even if it is activated, it is not absolutely successful.

This one step is one of the two biggest risks that need to be faced to strengthen the magic equipment!

