

Lord of War 49

Chapter 49: .Go to Anrolla City

The setting sun in the distance reflects a strange red.

A brown carriage was driving forward under the sunset. The driver was an old man. Although he looked a little old, his eyes were not muddy. Two old horses are pulling the cart. The so-called old horse knows the way is not just a joke, because this old man almost doesn't need to control the whole process. He just occasionally pulls on the reins to make the two horses move in the wrong direction. If possible, avoid unevenness on the ground.

For a professional driver like him, the only thing to do is to make the customer comfortable. Especially, the two people in the carriage are obviously not ordinary small characters, so the old man is not careful.

Sean and Cecilia are sitting in the carriage.

Two days have passed since the battle at the kobold gathering place.

At this time, Xiao En changed into a clean black suit, and the well-trimmed suit better brought out Xiao En's figure, making him even more vigorous. His hair was not trimmed, it was simply combed and tied together, hanging behind his head, which made his face a little softer. The Charles Sabre on his waist has been replaced with a scabbard—the black magic shark skin has been polished, and it has a magic circle that seals the aura, which can better hide the aura emitted by the magic weapon.

From beginning to end, Sean's outfit is worth at least more than a hundred Portoroa gold coins. This is the real noble outfit.

And Cecilia, of course, is no exception.

Silver long skirt, jet black hot stamping, no lace pattern or other excessive embellishment, but this long skirt gives people a luxurious feeling. Especially after wearing it on Cecilia, it makes her aristocratic-born temperament more perfect and perfect. Just a simple look and a movement adds a taste of family heritage.

The saying that people depend on clothing is probably the most logical saying no matter where it is.

So when Sean offered to hire a carriage to Anrolla City, the owner of the car dealer immediately asked the best driver in the shop to drive. In addition to making money, on the one hand, this is purely because of the aristocratic temperament shown by Sean and Cecilia—the city of Arthur and Anrolla are open to traffic on a regular basis, back and forth every day. Each class can take up to eight people, and each person only needs 20 copper coins.

And Sean, in order to save some trouble and time, he just throws out a Portoroa gold coin. This price is not small, but it is not too much, which is equivalent to the money earned in three days with a full load.

"What else are you unhappy?" Cecilia looked at Sean who was still glum, and said with some confusion, "Hasn't the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce compensated it?"

Shaun took out five pieces of hard paper about five centimeters in length.

These papers are milky white as a whole, with the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce logo printed on the front and back, surrounded by long golden lines, which seem to be scattered but are actually composed of one stroke. The middle of the paper is written with the Arabic numeral one thousand. No matter how the paper is folded and rubbed, once it is unfolded for more than three seconds, the paper will return to its original neat appearance without the slightest wrinkle.

This is the gold exchange voucher of the Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce. The minimum denomination is 1,000 gold coins. You can exchange gold coins at any Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce bank on the mainland.

Originally, Sean and the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce negotiated a reward of 3,000 pan-continental gold coins. This is a very high reward, mainly because Ron acquiesced to Hank's provocation before, and they knew they were at a loss, so for this The offer does not mean bargaining. After that, after the black hand of Jim destroyed the magic ring that Shaun wanted most, he was naturally annoyed. For some considerations, Ron gave Shaun another two thousand pan-continental gold rolls.

That's why he will have five such one-thousand denomination gold coupons in his hand.

Only from the market price, the lowest price of the magic ring is indeed two thousand pan-continental gold coins, and then depending on the magic of the magic ring, there will be different value-added. Ron took out two thousand pan-continental gold coins to make up for Sean's loss. This is already considered a very kind behavior. Of course, for Sean, he doesn't think so. You must know the magic with the "air barrier" magic. Rings can be sold for tens of thousands of gold, or even more expensive.

However, that ring has lost its magic power, and no one can prepare to explain whether the ring is an air barrier. Moreover, the loss of magic power is a very common phenomenon in Miracle Continent, so even if the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce did not compensate, they did not have any fault.

But from the perspective of Sean's player thinking, he still feels unhappy: Is it true that Lao Tzu is born lucky? Is it a passive effect? Destined to miss this ring for life?

Eight years!

Forget it if you don't get it in the game. Now you actually miss the reality. How can Xiao En's depression be compensated by a mere five thousand pan-continental gold coins!

"No." Xiao En put away three of the gold coupons, "My loss and depression, can this mere two thousand gold coupons be compensated for!?"

Cecilia gave Sean a blank look, and said in a lazy voice: "Even if they don't give it to you, it's reasonable. If you are willing to give it to you, it will be a good character."

In the end, Sean could only sigh helplessly: "These two thousand gold rolls, but they are a bit hot. That little guy, the young man, just like his old treacherous cunning, thought that these two thousand gold rolls would buy me. ,Humph."

"If your hand is hot, you still have it." Cecilia really didn't like the shameless appearance of Sean, "and it sounds like you know his father."

"Don't take the white, don't take it." Xiao En curled his lips, "But I really don't know his father, but I know the Black Cat Chamber of Commerce better than his father."

Cecilia decided not to continue discussing with Sean on this topic. Ever since he said that he was a magic stick, Cecilia felt that Sean was a bit crazy. Although many of his statements and judgments are accurate enough to make people feel terrible, but people may think that Sean is very god, but after being with Sean for so long, Cecilia is very clear that it is actually Sean. Well-arranged language traps.

However, it is precisely because of being together for too long that even Cecilia has overlooked a fact: Where did Sean get so much information?

"Speaking of which, what shall we do in Anrolla City now?" Cecilia changed the subject very cleverly.

"Oh, there are actually some things that can be done." Xiao En said lightly, and at the same time absently assigned all the experience points to the career of the scholar.

【Scholar (first-order profession): Scholars are not strictly a profession, but an identity. There are many people in the world who want to achieve this status, but very few people can truly achieve this status. In this regard, you are undoubtedly a successful person. But now you have also discovered that the identity of a scholar is just the beginning, and your future path is still long. 】

[Inauguration Reward—Identity: Scholars are a respected identity. There are scholars in many places. You find that this seems to be a very useful excuse (allowing to enter any non-security area); Knowledge: You are eager to acquire With all kinds of knowledge, this also gives you a lot of insight. Using wisdom is your motto (strength limit +2, endurance +1, endurance limit +3, agility limit +2, wisdom +2, wisdom limit +7, will +2, will limit +6)]

[Inauguration penalty-lack of exercise: Long-term mental activity makes you neglect physical exercise, which makes your physical fitness worse than ordinary people (the rate of decline in physical strength is 1.5 times that of normal); new employment penalty: erudite It's not a bad thing, but you obviously don't have so much energy to do well (the experience required to upgrade the academic profession is 3.5 times)]

In the profession of Scholar, the "identity" of the inaugural award is a very useful passive skill. Sean can use this identity to enter places like some large libraries where ordinary people are forbidden to enter. And if you specialize in [Spellcasting] occupations, the "lack of exercise" in the inaugural punishment is actually not terrible, but it is a pity that Sean is a [physics] combat occupation, so the drop in this physical strength It's a bit troublesome, and it's also destined to end the battle as soon as possible in the future battles.

And the "new employment penalty" is something that every part-time and new player will have. In comparison, Sean only needs three levels of scholars. This issue is not very important.

Before in the kobold gathering place, Sean had already gained a lot of experience. Later, when he "handed over the task" to Ron, he also received a lot of experience rewards. Now that he assigns all his experience to scholars, his career level is already more than half of the second level, just need to invest some more experience to make [Scholar] rise to the third level, and Sean can assign all the experience points to [Warrior] again.

"We are going to Anrolla City to transfer to a small village nearby." After Xiao En allocated the experience points, there were two more proficiency points in the personal column, including the two gained by the [Scholar] when he was promoted. There are four proficiency points, and now there are four more proficiency points.

"Go to a small village nearby?" Cecilia looked blank, "What are you going to do there? Is there any benefit?"

"There are benefits." Xiao En's expression was rare and serious. "The magic ring of the air barrier is gone if it is gone. I am a little bit depressed at best. But what I want next, can be It's true that it's inevitable."

"What is it?" Seeing Sean so serious, Cecilia became a little curious.

"Bavarian Armguards."

"What!" Cecilia exclaimed.

"Keep it down." Sean made a silent gesture, "It's just a failed defective product, not even an imitation. But this is not the most important thing. The important thing is that there is a real Drawings for the production of the Bavarian armguards."

"You...how did you know this news?"

"Didn't I tell you, I'm a magic stick." Sean's triumphant look made Cecilia really want to take a bite. "But before that, our purpose of going to the small village was to find one New companion."

"Companion?" Cecilia blinked.

"Well, I hope he can join us." Xiao En's gaze became a little deeper.

The future * of war, Alfred.