

Lord of War Vol 3-31

Chapter 31: .Shadow Ghost Report [Third more]

Just when Sean and Saloki Xuefeng reached a secret agreement, the two sides confirmed a win-win further strategic alliance plan, located in a castle in the Tonys territory, at this time, it also ushered in a dull like before the storm. breath. .

This castle is not a war-like castle. After all, in front of it is the Fortress of Tonys, which is said to never fall. In addition, the direction of Fort Tonys heading south is now all Lane-in fact, it is located in the southern continent Broken Dragon The valley and the surrounding mountains are still under the control of Darbion's 3rd Garrison, but this unit, formerly known as Darbion's strongest army, is still being swept up by the wild beasts. Hold it, so Ryan simply ignored the ownership of this area- so a castle like this in a relatively safe area really didn't need to be built into a war fortress, because the viewing surname is really not high.

This newly built castle naturally belongs to the private residence of the popular official next to King Ryan: Marquis Floris Hellmann.

This is nominally the Supervisor of the Seventh Army in Tonys Fortress, but is actually the real controller of the entire Tonys leader. At this time, he is in the study on the second floor of his newly completed castle.

This study, which can activate the soundproof magic circle as long as the door is closed, was built by a magician next to him at the beginning.

Even Floris has to admit that the magician does have deep knowledge in magic circles. If he is carefully cultivated, let's not say where his potential can make him grow, but he will become a magic circle in the future. The master of the field is absolutely competent. In simpler words, this magician is indeed a talent worthy of the investment and training of the Marquis of Floris, but there is still a big gap between the real genius.

It's just a pity that this talent made a fatal mistake that Flores could not tolerate: greed for life and fear of death.

As far as Floris is concerned, he can tolerate all kinds of problems and problems with people under his command. After all, the industry he operates is destined to be absolutely not normal for the talents under his command. But the only point of "greed for life and fear of death" is what Floris cannot bear, because in his opinion, once such a person falls into the hands of the enemy, it is very likely that such a person will do some stupid things to survive.

In order to prevent these stupid things that may damage his interests or reputation from leaking out, once he finds a person with the problem of "greed for life and fear of death", Flores usually chooses to treat him as abandoned son or cannon fodder. If he didn't die, then he had to take the other party by himself.

The magician who was once valued by Floris, it was under such circumstances that suddenly disappeared from the world a few days ago.

Looking at the faint brilliance that flickered in this room from time to time, Floris sighed softly: "It's really a pity.... If you knew this would happen, it wouldn't be impossible to keep him for a few more days. of."

The Marquis of Floris reluctantly sat back on the chair, and then lit a document in his hand.

Although this document is only one page, the content written on it only occupies half a page. But if any upper Ryan nobleman were to see what was written on this piece of paper, then they would definitely re-examine the relationship with Sean.

There is no other reason.

The content written on this piece of paper is about a hole card used by Sean on the southern battlefield.

Regarding the specific implementation plan of the beheading tactics that caused the siege to break completely and even pushed the Nugus family into the abyss.

Although the person who wrote this half of the paper did not see it with his own eyes, everything was inferred by him through clues and some intelligence. However, if Sean could see the content written on this paper, he would be surprised, because except for a few detailed issues that are unclear because they can't be inferred, other places are almost like being there in person. The environment is average.

It's just that, in order to obtain this piece of information, the Marquis of Floris broke a full twelve Black Feather Nightingales.

As the behind-the-scenes man who controlled nearly one-third of the entire underground intelligence network and work of Ryan, the intelligence system of the Marquis of Floris was naturally very developed. Under his command, there is a nightingale organization specializing in assassination, hunting, stealth and other tasks. Among them, the highest level is the Black Feather Nightingale-in the entire organization, there are only less than 30 Black Feather Nightingales, and they are responsible for the leadership. The three members of this organization are called the "Three Shadows", and they are also the three most trusted cards of the Marquis of Floris.

For this piece of information, the price paid by the Marquis of Floris was really high.

But it was this confrontation that gave Floris a more accurate judgment on the intelligence organization of the Nether: It was a powerful intelligence organization that was hardly under his Nightingale organization.

After watching the paper in his hand burn to ashes, Floris poured the ashes into a cup of water, and then kept shaking it until the cup of water completely turned black, and even the ashes were almost dissolved in the water, before he lifted it. He drank from a glass of water. After this, the Marquis of Flores took out a new blank paper and began to write on it. Although these contents were similar to those on the paper that Florence held just now, if you are careful. If you look at it, you will find that all the content of this new writing has been confirmed and confirmed, and almost all the ambiguities have been eliminated.

After writing this letter paper, Floris carefully put it into an envelope, and then sealed it with paint.

Just looking at the design of the seal, this is an urgent letter sent to the royal family.

After finishing all this, Floris stopped, and then suddenly said: "Shadow Ghost, is that you?"

"Yes, my lord." From the void, there was a voice responding, but the voice sounded a bit weak.

Floris raised his eyebrows, "Are you injured?"

"Small injury, it won't get in the way." The shadow ghost replied respectfully.

Now Floris was really shocked.

Although the Shadow Ghost is a person who is specially responsible for tracking, lurking and spying on the Three Shadows, he is not very good at fighting, but this is only compared to the one who is best at fighting among the Three Shadows. If compared to the Nightingales, Even if the thirty Black Feather Nightingales all go together, it may not be possible to cause the Shadow Ghost to be injured. But this time, the Shadow Ghost was actually injured. Although it was only a minor injury, it was enough to shock Floris.

"What the * happened?"

"I can already confirm that the person who killed the old man is the lord of Pandaren, Sean Connery." The Shadow Ghost replied in a deep voice, "He was accompanied by two people on this trip. One of them should be him. My sister, Cecilia... But I don't know the identity of the other one, and I haven't even seen it herself, but the breath on the other person is very terrifying, I don't dare to get too close for fear of being discovered by the other person. "

"Horrible?" Floris quickly thought about the information about Sean, but unfortunately because he didn't pay enough attention to Sean before, so his knowledge of his intelligence is really limited. "How terrible is it?"

"Hmm..." This time, the Shadow Ghost did not answer immediately, but fell into a short silence before speaking, "At least the level of the quasi-sanctuary powerhouse.... And not only this person is strong, I found that one. The lord's perception is also very keen, because I was almost spotted by him once before. If it hadn't been for someone to challenge him and distract him a little, plus my decisive retreat, I'm afraid I would have been spotted. "

"Challenge?" Flores suddenly felt that things had become a little beyond his imagination, "Who challenged him?"

"The female sword dancer from the Pofeng tribe, but... the duel doesn't seem to have started, but..."

"On the contrary?"

"On the contrary, the female elf sword dancer and the lord have come together." The shadow ghost said, "It seems to have surrendered to the lord."

"So that's the case." Floris snorted, "The barbarians of the Pofeng tribe are really wrong. They wanted to release a new mission here two days ago. The content is to catch the female elf sword dancer. Life and death.... Let's talk about it, what's the matter with your injury."

When he heard Floris' cold snort, the Shadow Ghost didn't say anything, but only when he asked about himself, he replied, "Because I saw the female elf sword dancer and Sean and the others come together. , And the other party has a powerful person, so I don't dare to get too close, and I don't know their specific situation very well. Therefore, I deliberately instigated a vanilla plain guard to trouble them, thinking I took the opportunity to investigate the situation, and it turned out that before I approached, all the patrolling soldiers had been brought down, and I found that... the lord seemed to have become stronger."

"Is it stronger?" Floris let out another surprise.

"Yes, I don't know exactly what the situation is, but I can feel it." The Shadow Ghost said, "Because I carefully investigated the injuries of the wounded soldiers, and then proceeded with the injuries of the old man and others. By comparison, the conclusion reached is that the lord has indeed become stronger. Although it is not obvious, this is an undeniable fact.... Later, when I wanted to venture closer to the investigation, I found that the lord was beside him again. There are more people. It is obvious that it is an extremely well-trained and elite army based on the scale. Although the number is only 30, I have evaluated that even if the two hundred guards in the castle conflict with these 30 people, I am afraid It was also our defeat."

Floris' pupils shrank suddenly.

"And the one who is in charge of these people is another elf.... I don't know where this elf came from, but his ability just restrained me, so when I found him, he had already asked I launched an attack. My injury was left behind by the other party. After that, the lord and the female elf sword dancer also appeared and made reinforcements, so I chose to abandon continuing to track and collect intelligence and return to report to the adults."

"I see." Floris's voice was a little low, "Then where are they now?"

"I am heading to the Royal Capital of Lane."

"You prepare the Shadow Demon, and this time go to the royal capital with me. I have urgent items that must be sent to your majesty as soon as possible."

When heard the name Shadow Demon, the Shadow Demon gave a faint cry, and immediately responded in a deep voice: "Yes."

Chapter 32: .Unrest [first more]

Royal Capital of Ryan is a city with a permanent population of 200,000, and the surrounding incidental population flow generated by the operation of this city is more than 100,000. Therefore, the actual active population of Royal Capital of Ryan is usually Around 300,000.

In the territories of those big kingdoms and empires, a city like King Ryan can only be regarded as a big city, but Ryan is already the most populous city in the entire territory. Even the second largest city has an active population of only 200,000-basically, after the active population of a city has grown to 100,000, it will be very difficult to increase it.

Even if it was designed and planned by Neal himself to meet the 100,000 permanent population of the Void City, there are only 50,000 to 60,000 people so far. This is still included in the data of the active population flow. In fact, the resident population is only more than 40,000. people.

So the scale of the Royal Capital of Ryan can be imagined.

At this time, a huge horse-drawn carriage with a unique shape, surrounded by thirty guards, slowly passed the Evergreen Suspension Bridge of the Royal Capital-this suspension bridge is a jump bridge located outside the main city gate of Leyburns, and was built by itself. This suspension bridge has never been raised, and it is now covered with green plants, so it is also called the Evergreen Suspension Bridge by the residents of the royal capital.

Under normal circumstances, there will be a team of about 30 guards standing guard here at the Changqing Suspension Bridge.

However, it is a special period at this time, so now there are at least a hundred soldiers in charge of guarding.

But even if the manpower has been added to the main city gate, in fact, it can only barely maintain order. In most cases, there will still be some confusion. After all, the people who went to the capital at this time were either the nobles with territories, or the powerhouses with certain strength trying to come here to try their luck. On the whole, the kings at this time were more mixed than ever.

Fortunately. These guards have never encountered a fool so far, so even if there is occasional chaos, they can basically maintain rational restraint. And for most nobles, quarreling at the gate of the royal capital is really detrimental to their identity; as for the strong, they disdain for any conflict with ordinary soldiers, not to mention the main city gate where the Evergreen Suspension Bridge is located. The sanctuary powerhouse sitting in the tower is not just in a daze.

The commander in charge of the team in charge of the Changqing Suspension Bridge today is a veteran who is already a little old.

Since joining the army, he has spent ten years in the army until now. He has also participated in several wars of a certain scale. The most recent war was with the Kingdom of Darbion a few years ago. Because of his outstanding performance in that war, he has been promoted from the local army to the royal army since that war. The army level alone has been upgraded by a big level, not to mention that he is still a capable The captain in charge of hundreds of soldiers.

Old Wood was very satisfied with this.

But if you have to say something is unsatisfactory. Probably because the national celebrations are getting closer, the work he is now responsible for is also more stressful.

Because if he does the job well, he may be praised or rewarded when he is happy, but if he does not do well and unexpected situations occur, then it is a trivial matter to be dismissed. Once things get serious, you might even have to sacrifice your life for it. At least he saw it with his own eyes. A colleague who was drinking with him a few days ago had an accident the next day because he was in charge of guarding the Evergreen Suspension Bridge. As a result, he is still in prison.

When he went to visit this colleague yesterday, he found that the other party had only half his life left, and now he is being taken care of by a "good" meal in prison.

This made Old Wood more cautious and more serious about his work.

The team passing the Evergreen Suspension Bridge from the city gate is slowly moving forward.

Looking at this situation, Old Wood was full of relief. He raised his head and glanced at the sky, and the team that would change shifts would come over in a little while, and then he would have two days of rest—the closer it came to an end. The more dangerous it is for a military veteran churros like Old Wood, so this kind of rare rest naturally makes people feel particularly excited and excited.

He only needs to pray that there will be no accidents at this last moment.

only. Today, the goddess of luck does not seem to be on his side.

A riot sounded from the suspension bridge and began to expand gradually.

Old Wood was shocked immediately, because in his eyes, the team that was originally like a long black dragon shivered off countless dragon scales like a serious injury. Dozens of guards next to each other also showed fright, because the results of the riot a few days ago are still vivid, and before the Captain Old Wood spoke, more than a dozen people immediately stepped forward to prepare. Stop the spread of this riot.

"What's the matter!" a soldier shouted.

More than a dozen soldiers have clenched Chang Ge in their hands, ready to fight at any time—in fact, this so-called battle is simply a kind of killing. Facing ordinary people, they are naturally a sure chance to win, even if they are facing a mercenary group or other teams, as long as the strength is not very strong or the number of people is not large, they can also rely on military tactics to suppress.

But if you encounter those real strong opponents, then they are the one to be slaughtered.

So this so-called battle is simply a way of bullying the weak.

Pushing away the chaotic crowd, the dozen or so soldiers were stunned on the spot.

Because in front of them, an unusually large and robust black earth travel dragon was restlessly venting something, and there was a woman next to him constantly calming down. However, what really shocked them was not this unusual earth travel dragon and the young women who were comforting it next to it, but it was surrounded by the horse carriage pulled by the earth travel dragon in a circle. Those thirty guards in cloaks.

From the location of these people around them and the iron-blooded breath exuding from their bodies, these dozen or so soldiers knew that these people were soldiers just like them. And I'm afraid it is a force far more elite than them, just looking at it from a distance. The dozen or so soldiers already knew that if any conflict broke out between the two sides, the team they were responsible for maintaining the order of the Evergreen Suspension Bridge would definitely not be the opponent's opponent.

It is not easy for people in this carriage to have such an elite force to act as an escort.

certainly. After these soldiers looked at the special carriage, they became more determined about this conjecture. Because from this carriage, they saw a lot of strong and strong military characteristics, and this military characteristic is usually a high-end goods that can only be obtained in more intense war zones.

The soldiers who were still threatening the civilians who were going to enter the city, faced such a group of obviously extraordinary people, they didn't even dare to get out of the air.

At exactly this time, Old Wood finally brought other people to catch up—the order in front had been stabilized by him again. From this point of view, Old Wood's ability is indeed quite good. In catching up with this meeting, he has also set about arranging some people to maintain the riots spreading to the rear. As for the small part of the commotion in the middle, facing the soldiers who were gradually gathering around, they finally stopped commotion.

Many times, for these civilians who have little strength or background. When they see the local army in the royal capital, they can still give them a stronger sense of security.

Only this time. These civilians did not notice the constant sweat that came out of the forehead of the commander, Old Wood.

Even the veterans under his men could see the extraordinary master of this carriage. How could he, a veteran who had participated in many wars, fail to see it?

So he didn't dare to be too tough. At this time, he was getting closer to the national celebrations, and many of the visitors became more and more noble. If he accidentally offended a big man, then his results can be imagined. Therefore, after a brief silence, Old Wood finally plucked up the courage to step forward. He had to ask what was going on. Of course the most important point is that he can't let this riot continue.

But Old Wood has just taken a step. He felt a gloomy chill, which almost completely freezes him.

What a strong murderous look!

Old Wood, who had been in the army for ten years, felt stunned, and he became more affirmed that these soldiers are not simple.

This carriage is naturally the one that Sean requisitioned.

Sitting in the carriage, Sean glanced at the soldier who was walking towards him. From his body, Sean saw the traces of many veterans in the army, and by looking at the appearance of the soldiers around, Sean also knew. This veteran is the leader of this group. It's just that his mood isn't very good at this time, and of course he won't show the other side a good face.

As far as the people in the royal capital are concerned, they all think that they are higher than the people in other places. So when I first saw that the dragons in this place were a little bit different, although most people felt a little scary, it was just for that kind of hypocrisy. The face of the people made them try their best to keep calm. But this calm does not mean that they are really not afraid, especially since the carriage looks rich and expensive, and there are so many intimidating guards.

In fact, all this is not such a big problem, after all, both sides have maintained a certain degree of restraint. But it wasn't until the appearance of a bear child that these things finally deteriorated- the sub-dragon individual like the earth travel dragon is extremely energetic and so excited by nature. Under normal circumstances, it is not that you want to let them stay quietly. An easy thing, if it hadn't been for Blackstone now to have a master, no one would be able to stop this easily anxious behemoth.

Since the beginning, Sean did not think about showing any privileges, so he naturally followed the crowd in line. Although other citizens were a little scared, they did not let this fear turn into restlessness, until a brave bear child appeared.

This bear kid actually threw a stone at the black stone!

Heishi, who could only move slowly on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge because of the huge crowd, seemed very anxious. As a result, after the child threw a stone like this, Heishi would run away on the spot, and bite after a roar. If it weren't for Rena to stop, the bear kid and his family would definitely not survive, but even if there was no blood splashed on the spot, the family would be a little scared.

At this time, after the commander came over, the family had begun to add fuel and jealousy to exaggerate Heishi's wickedness and terror as well as his fierceness, and even tried to arouse public opinion pressure.

Looking at these clown-like behaviors, Sean's brows wrinkled more and more tightly.

Chapter 33: Liwei [second more]

Xiao En wrinkled, and the cold breath became more obvious.

Since he gradually mastered the dance of the breaking wind, Xiao En and others have not wasted time during the two months of this journey: every day at the two points in the morning and at night, he will train, and the main training direction is It is the control of the Dance of Breaking Wind and the training of swordsmanship to calm the soul. Of course, occasionally, he would meditate like a magician, and then completely radiate his perception, in this way to get acquainted with his unknown fragment of law.

The entire two months of training did not completely reinvent Sean, but at least he did learn a lot of content, especially from Winia, he learned a lot of combat experience that was impossible to learn in the game. . Of course, the Xuefeng tribe expert named Marton also taught Sean a lot of things, and these things and the talents and abilities he learned when he first became a mercenary can be said to be a perfect match.

Only based on this, in the mountains and forests, Sean can be said to have a home-like advantage.

So when Sean frowned and let out his breath completely, there was a vague field covering the surrounding ten meters. Everyone within this range could clearly feel the cold killing intent emanating from Xiao En, which almost made the veteran seem to be back on the battlefield.

"This, my lord..." Old Wood ignored the clamor of the family behind him, but walked carefully toward the carriage.

At this time, the closer he got to the carriage, the more shocked he was at the hiddenness of the carriage.

Although Old Wood's personal strength is not particularly outstanding, he is still at the level of a low-level silver. Moreover, he has participated in so many wars, and he is an old fried dough stick in the army, so he is naturally extremely sensitive to the judgment of aura. Coupled with the gathering of all kinds of big shots and strong men since the recent period of time. Old Wood, even a blind man, knew who could provoke and who could not provoke.

Not to mention that the breath that Sean exudes at this moment is particularly strong and intimidating. Only the young woman next to the carriage who is calming the dragon, made Old Wood feel frightened. Although her dress was simple and simple, and at first glance, it seemed to be no different from an ordinary maid, but Old Wood could feel how violent the restrained aura of this young woman was.

And more than this one, in the poor perception of Old Wood. At this time, the entire carriage was almost like a dormant beast, and the cold breath exuding fragments made people panic enough to just want to escape here desperately. Because in addition to this young woman and the person in the carriage exuding a strong murderous intent, he also felt a few other powerful auras that were not under these two people at all.

But Old Wood knew. If he really turned around and fled, let alone whether the people in the carriage would let him go, at least he would never want to go home alive today.

The supervising army in Wangdu Li is not vegetarian.

So Old Wood had no choice but to bite his head and parked about half a meter away from the carriage.

But it's just such a distance. Old Wood felt as if countless sharp knives were piercing him. Almost all exposed skin has a fiery tingling sensation, which is the cold murderous aura from the owner of the carriage. And the back of his clothes was soaked quickly at a speed visible to the naked eye, and the whole person seemed as wet as if he had just been fished out of the water.

"This lord...isn't there any misunderstanding?" Old Wood finally asked bitterly.

is like a wedge in a novel or the opening narration of a stage play. There must always be a beginning before the story can continue. So it doesn't matter what Old Wood's words are saying. What's important is that what the owner of this carriage is about to say is what he is going to deal with and execute next.

Sean naturally knew the subtext of this veteran's sentence, but he did not give Old Wood this step.

"Humph."

A cold snort. Sounded from inside the carriage.

Old Wood swallowed hard, and some did not know how to answer the conversation.

He is just a soldier. He was not a politician. Although he looked like an old fritters, he still had a strong military aura after all, so he didn't know how to answer the conversation to satisfy the owner in the carriage. If it's normal, of course he can unscrupulously grab the chattering family behind him, but now it's just as the national celebration is being held, and many people are staring here, so of course he can't be arrogant and chaotic. Come.

At least, one count must be charged.

It's just that Sean didn't open his mouth to give him this step, and he was indeed somewhat unsustainable.

Rina patted the thick neck of Heishi and finally calmed down the big guy who was almost violent. The white snort spurting from its nostrils, just like the mist from a steam-powered engine, in an instant. A large circle of white hazy smoke surrounds, and the temperature is not low. Many civilians around immediately began to subconsciously stay away from the smoke, fearing that it might be a toxic gas.

"You guards, why didn't you arrest them quickly!?" The middle-aged man in that family was full of anger, his loud voice continued to yell, and it seemed that he had just stepped forward to Old Wood without ordering Xiao to arrest Xiao. En and others felt unusually dissatisfied, "This is the royal capital! It is the most important place in our Lane Kingdom! Do you still want to allow this cannibalistic beast to enter the city? Even if it is the place raised by Lord Setins Xinglong absolutely dare not be so presumptuous!"

Old Wood's heart shrank suddenly.

Suddenly thanked her for being cautious.

As for the nobility's name taboo, ordinary people naturally dare not talk about it at will. Therefore, if you dare to talk about the name of the nobleman, it must be that the family has some relationship or involvement, at least it is the nobleman's acquiescence that he dares to do so.

And Xiao En finally glanced sideways at the middle-aged man who was still clamoring.

didn't observe carefully just now, so Sean actually saw something not very real, so he observed carefully at this time. Xiao En realized that the family was obviously not ordinary people. Although their dresses are very simple, if you observe in this way, you can find that the clothes on these people are very close to the body, and they are very elegant in many details such as collars, sleeves, trousers, and plackets. Every needle, thread, eye and hole have reached the point of excellence.

A dress like this can cost 30 or 40 gold coins, which is the expenditure of ordinary families settled in the royal capital for nearly half a year. Although slightly more affluent families occasionally buy one or two clothes at this price to support the scene, it is never possible to wear such clothes at all times, at least if they want to leave the capital to go out of the city to do business, they will definitely not wear it. Expensive clothes.

Only those truly luxurious families who don't treat thirty or forty gold coins as money will do this.

But since ancient times, the phrase "the poor should not fight with the rich, and the rich should not fight with officials" has been very applicable no matter which world it is in.

If this family is really that kind of luxurious family, then it shouldn't be so lacking insight to fail to see the extraordinary of Sean and others. So after careful observation. Xiao En came to the conclusion that the family had clearly seen their identity, so they came to trouble them specifically. But Sean didn't understand. On the way, he didn't reveal his whereabouts at all, and even his family crest was not hung up. Where did he reveal his identity?

There are only five families in the Principality of Ryan that raise the dragons, and three of them are among the twelve nobles today. Although the other two did not win a seat in the House of Lords. But in the House of Lords, there are also superior nobles with important seats. However, among them, there are only two high-ranking nobles and one high-ranking noble in the mansion of the royal capital. The other two families are raising the dragons for fighting, not just for playing. .

Since this family dares to say this, then this "Master Setins" must be a member of the three families of King Ryan.

"Heh." Sean chuckled lightly, "Master Setins?...Which family is this adult?"

Old Wood raised his head in surprise and glanced at the people in the carriage. He was a little unsure whether this sentence was a mockery or a questioning. Because he really can't think of it, there are people who don't know the family of Lord Setins?

"Forget it." Sean said with some excitement.

"I know I'm scared!" The middle-aged man yelled again, "Tell you. The king is not a place where you outsiders can run rampant! You had better pay attention to it, otherwise it would be easy to offend yourself. No one knows!...If you apologize to us now. Then I can forgive you, if it's late..."

"If it's late, so what?" Sean asked lazily.

"Then I can't guarantee what will happen next." The other party's voice was as arrogant as ever.

"This way..."

Old Wood suddenly hit a spirit, and his eyes showed an incredible look, because at this moment he felt a stronger and stronger murderous aura. This kind of murderous aura, he had only felt once in the main general who had followed that year. It was a truly arrogant and awe-inspiring domineering, and at this moment, as an old fried dough stick in the army, he would never know that he was very It may have been caught in a battle of political confrontation.

"Which hand did the kid throw the stone with?"

"Right hand." Rena replied softly.

"Teach him a lesson he will never forget." Sean's voice was also understated, without even a trace of pity or sympathy. "The thing I hate the most is the bear child."

"Dare you!" The middle-aged man was a little far away from the carriage, so he didn't feel the intense murderous intent emanating from Sean's place at the beginning. It was not until Sean's order was given that he finally felt it. To the murderous intent that erupted from Rina, "Do you know..."

"Since you want to give me a smashing power, then I don't mind using your heads to build power." Sean's voice is very cold, and it can even be said to be almost emotionless. "If you don't have the courage to gamble on everything, Then it's best not to provoke me... So you don't need to tell me the identity of this child, because I will let him live, but you probably won't have the luck."

The middle-aged man's pupils shrank suddenly, and then he held the child about twelve or three years old without hesitation, a grudge burst out suddenly, and then rushed towards the main city gate. He knows that as long as he can rush through the gate of the main city gate of the Evergreen Suspension Bridge, then the adult sitting in the tower will definitely take action, but if he can't run over, then he is really likely to die here. .

This is an unwritten unspoken rule.

Looking at the strength that this middle-aged man exploded at this moment, Xiao En knew that this man had hidden himself before. But being able to conceal the perception of Xiao En and others is enough to prove that this middle-aged man is not simple. If a person like this acts as a killer or assassin, he is undoubtedly an extremely dangerous and terrifying enemy. It is a pity that he will continue There is no chance to threaten others.

Because Rina has caught up!

Chapter 34: .What about crossing boundaries? [Third more]

The middle-aged man's speed is extremely fast. Although the burst of strength is only inferior gold, he must be a person who is extremely proficient in assassination. Otherwise, it is impossible to have such a terrible speed. More importantly, his physical toughness is far beyond the imagination of ordinary people. After all, in such a rapid exercise, if the body is not cultivated very strong, then it is easy to be injured.

But in this kind of rush, not only did he not suffer any damage, but he could even protect the child in his hand. If it wasn't for his strength, then he had some extraordinary skills. However, this person is only the strength of the lower level gold. This kind of strength is naturally a powerful combat power for the local nobles, but for the upper nobles and upper-level nobles who can take root in the royal capital, it is inevitable that they are not enough.

So this middle-aged man is naturally a special person with extraordinary skills.

All of this, Sean naturally saw it.

If he took the shot himself, it would not be a problem to catch up with this person. After all, the speed ability alone would not necessarily win Sean even if it was a general high-ranking golden peak powerhouse. At the moment, this middle-aged man who is fleeing is at best able to compete with the average high-ranking gold powerhouse in terms of speed, and it is far from reaching the level of being able to win against anyone.

It's just that, if Sean personally takes the shot in this kind of situation now, then he will not reach the foundation of his prestige.

But for Rena, Sean also has very strong confidence.

A grey glow burst out suddenly from back to front.

Amidst the glory. There is a bright red light like blood.

This is Rina and Yan Lance Shattered Kong.

With Rena's strength, after activating the ancient dragon bloodline, she naturally experienced a physical baptism and strengthening. Therefore, even if it was a speed item that was not good at before, it has now been greatly increased and strengthened. Of course, in terms of the strength of Rina's upper golden peak, her speed is a weak point. It is also relative to other high-level golden peak powerhouses. Compared with this middle-aged man, Rina is naturally faster. .

Only this line is enough to cause shocking results.

Like a dragon flying close to the ground. Rena also rushed past the people who lined up to cross the bridge, and the squally wind that was rolled up by her actions swayed everyone around her. If it hadn't been for the fact that the Evergreen Suspension Bridge was already covered by green vegetation and the bridge body had been anchored, Rina's actions might still cause some damage at this time. However, the suspension bridge can be stabilized, but it does not mean that ordinary people with no strength can stand firmly. These people can only hold the bridge rails tightly to avoid being blown down the moat by the violent winds that Rina rolls up.

The middle-aged man felt the gust of wind behind him, and his heart was naturally more panicked.

He didn't expect it. The lord beyond the Great Wall was so bold and reckless. Dare to kill the killer directly outside the royal gate. At this moment, he can only hope to cross the dividing line that represents the unspoken rules as quickly as possible. Only in this way, the great man in the tower will lend a hand to him, otherwise he will only watch him. Death, after all, in essence, is his own power to provoke those who are stronger than him.

So, he deserves to be punished.

Looking at the boundary line only a few steps away from him, the middle-aged man gritted his teeth. He did not hesitate to lose his own essence and blood and potential to forcefully urge the vindictive energy in his body, causing this vindictive energy to erupt even more violently. In this way, he can naturally increase his speed by a few points again. But as a price, he might have to rest for a few months because of this, and he might even face the painful price of a decline in his realm.

is just compared with his own life, this price is not much.

The boundary is getting closer and closer!

In the eyes of the middle-aged man, there seemed to be hope at last.

Three steps!

Two steps!

There is one last step!

But at this moment, a strong wind suddenly pounced from behind him and swept past him.

The shadow of death completely shrouded him in an instant!

At this moment, the middle-aged man had a split heart, and he couldn't raise any thoughts of fighting at all. All he had in his heart was to escape far away. If time could return, then he would definitely not come here to trouble Shaun.

In the last step, the middle-aged man made a leap and jumped forward.

There is a red fire shining.

The middle-aged man who flew up finally fell heavily on the ground. Although he fell like a dog chewing mud, he still jumped over the dividing line that represents life and death. The panic in his heart was finally relieved a little. He glanced at the child he was protecting and saw that his eyes were filled with fear, but there was no physical damage. The middle-aged man finally relaxed. Sighed.

"Master, it's okay." The middle-aged man whispered.

But behind him, the sound of "stepping" and "stepping" slowly sounded.

The middle-aged man's mind that finally loosened up was shocked again, and then the whole person got up and hugged the child and left. But when his consciousness started to act, his body did not keep up with the reaction. He was still lying on the ground motionless, which made him feel a little puzzled, but the child under him looked terrified. Back and withdraw quickly.

The sound of footsteps is getting closer and closer.

The middle-aged man finally couldn't help but looked back, but this glance caused him to completely collapse in an instant.

In his eyes, his body has been completely cut in half!

The part from below the waist fell on the Changqing Suspension Bridge at this time; but above the waist, he flew out three or four meters, and landed heavily on the gate of the city, blood and dirty. The instrument spilled over this short distance of three or four meters, adding a rich and * scene to the picture of the main city gate.

The severe pain of the belated waist cut finally passed from the nerves back to his brain, and a tragic wailing sound came from his mouth.

The civilians who witnessed this scene. His complexion became abnormally pale.

And Old Wood, at this time, his mind became blank with a thud, and the only remaining thought was that he was dead this time. He can already predict it. A few days ago, the fate of that colleague was his future, and it might be worse than that person—because that day, a * conflict broke out at the Changqing Suspension Bridge too, but the scene was far less * than today.

Rina carried the Yan Gun to Shatter the Air, and slowly walked to the middle-aged man who was still wailing, and with a slight movement of her right hand, the spear penetrated the man's throat. Completely ended all his pain.

"Roar!"

Seeing Rina's behavior, Black Stone let out a roar to show her cheer.

Afterwards. Rina looked at the young child, but her face was unbearable.

As a person who has been instilled in the spirit of chivalry since childhood, it is really difficult for Rena to wield a butcher knife against enemies like children. Although Sean gave her the order to cut off the child's right hand. But at that time, her full pursuit was only because of the reflex of the middle-aged man's violent retreat. So after beheading the middle-aged man at this time, Rena also hesitated.

"Please... please, don't, don't kill me..." The child saw Rena's expression, and he immediately begged for mercy, "I, I was just playful, I... I'm really not Deliberately going to provoke the gangster. Please...please. I, I...I know I'm wrong."

But just then. Someone reached out and patted Rina's left shoulder.

There is blood permeating out.

But the person who came did not have the slightest hostility, so Rina did not fight back.

Turning her head, Rena saw Vinya standing beside her. However, the blood on the dagger she was holding in her right hand was dripping slowly along the blade. The * aura that Rina had smelled just now radiated from this dagger. Casting her gaze into the distance, Rena saw the woman and two other men who were with the middle-aged man and the child right now. At this time, she had collapsed on the side of the Evergreen Suspension Bridge.

There is no doubt that the deaths of those three people are absolutely inseparable from Winia.

Wars often break out in the Wildlands, and it is not just fighting against the various teams that have the idea of the Wildlands. Even in the Wildlands, many tribes themselves have disputes with each other, so annexing other tribes or even destroying other tribes It's normal in the wild. And as a native of a fighting nation in the wilderness, not to mention just beheading a child's hand, even if she swung a butcher knife, she wouldn't feel the slightest softness.

"There is such a saying in my tribe." Winia said, "The kindness to the enemy is the cruelty to oneself."

Rina's body shook slightly.

"I'm coming." Winia said in a deep voice.

"No need." Rina shook her head, "This is the task the Lord Lord has ordered me, and I will complete it."

Venia glanced at Rina, and didn't say anything, just waved the wind ghost blade in his hand, waved off the blood on the blade, and then retracted the sword back to its sheath. Although she believes that she is only a collaborator with Sean, but in fact, what she has done recently is no different from being a follower of Sean, but the most important thing is that she is not very repulsive. Sean's orders.

Otherwise, she wouldn't attack the other three just now.

It's just that people didn't expect that there were more than a dozen guards who were responsible for protecting these people. The sudden outbreak of these people really surprised Sean, because watching the orderly movements of these guards and the set of combined combat skills, it is obvious that they have undergone a certain degree of military training. If it weren't for Sean, there are 30 snowmen around him. As for Wind Warrior, these people might actually be able to force Sean to take action.

So when Rena caught up with the middle-aged man, another short and fierce battle broke out on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge. It was just as sudden as the outbreak of these secret guards, and the end of the battle also seemed abnormal. Suddenly-when Vinia swung his sword to kill the other three, Marton also shot and killed a middle-aged man who seemed to be a commander, and then thirty snow wind guards opened his body at the same time. The cloak, drew out the short javelins on his back and threw them all in one round, and all the dozen guards were nailed to the Evergreen Suspension Bridge.

When the veteran and surrounding soldiers in the royal capital and the people reacted, the battle was over.

After that, thirty snow wind fighters immediately guarded the carriage and placed a standard defensive formation to prevent anyone from approaching. If it weren't for these people who didn't make any shots again, and the * scene behind Rena, I'm afraid the chaos on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge would spread to a larger scale-it's not that these civilians don't look like running, but they're scared. This will cause some other misunderstandings, leading to manslaughter.

Sometimes, if the panic does not spread, the chain reaction will naturally not occur.

Rina looked back at the child again, her eyes already had firmness.

"No...Don't..." The child backed away in horror.

But Rina did not hesitate anymore, the scarlet spear in her hand suddenly waved to cut off the child's right hand.

But all this, just as Rina's spear moved, there was a dull metal transfer sound suddenly exploded.

In front of Rina, a heavy broad-bladed sword descended from the sky and blocked a shot she was swinging, keeping the child from breaking a right hand.

The figure like an iron tower suddenly fell from the sky.

With a loud roar, the figure fell beside the epee.

This is a brawny man who is more than two meters tall. His upper body is wearing a breastplate, but judging from the thickness of the breastplate, this is almost a heavy armor. On the right hand, there is a thick armguard that matches the breastplate. This armguard and the breastplate seem to be integrated. The shoulderplate on the right shoulder has terrifying spikes, but there is nothing on the left hand. And he didn't wear any armor on his lower body, just a pair of coarse trousers like Rena, and he didn't even wear any boots on his feet.

I saw the brawny man stretch out his right hand to hold the hilt of the sword, and pull the epee with slight force, but he did not hang it back on his body again, but held it with one hand. At the same time, as if to demonstrate his identity, a strong and terrifying aura instantly rose from the brawny man, the ground instantly cracked and collapsed by an inch, and the fragmented sand and stones were dragged by his aura. Suspended a few inches from the ground.

When they felt this momentum, the expressions of Rina and Winia changed in an instant, because they only felt that their net weight seemed to be increasing, and their actions became a little difficult.

At this moment, not only Winia and Rena, but even the people on the carriage changed their colors.

The brawny man who is more than two meters tall is a real sanctuary powerhouse!

"Young people, they provoke you without knowing how to advance or retreat. It's nothing wrong with you to punish you." The brawny man said, "But there is a rule here. Killing is forbidden under the city gate.... Just now, your person was on the other side. The hand that jumped up at that instant, so I will forget about the blood-stained city gate, but now you still want to make a move, this is a move of crossing the boundary."

"Boundary?" Xiao En didn't reply in the carriage this time, but got out of the carriage. He still has to give some respect to the sanctuary strong, "That kid, must pay for his behavior... I have been very kind to leave a right arm."

"There are some things, it's better to follow the rules, young man....So, you better not cross the line."

"Even if I cross the boundary, what about it?"

Chapter 35: .The power of the sanctuary [fourth more]

Hearing Xiao En's arrogant and arrogant words, the face of the sanctuary powerhouse finally showed anger.

As a powerhouse of his level, he is respected no matter where he goes. Has anyone ever been choked by a small silver person like today? This sanctuary powerhouse became angry at this time, and he was afraid that his aura would completely explode. As a result, the domain radiated by him naturally became extremely terrifying, and Winia and Rina were the closest to him. Naturally, Shi would also take the lead to endure the monstrous anger of this sanctuary powerhouse.

Rina is better. After all, the body has been transformed by the blood of the ancient dragon, so she can still persist in this kind of pressure field. But Winia's situation is a bit horrible. Although her strength and talent are indeed extraordinary, she is definitely not something she can easily bear in the face of the furious Sanctuary powerhouse, so she immediately spit out blood, the whole People also staggered back a few steps.

The strong man took a step forward.

In his domain, the pressure emitted by the force field has become more intense.

Venya's body can already be faintly heard the sound of bones being squeezed, and this time even Rina began to feel a little uncomfortable, there is a feeling of vomiting blood. On the contrary, the child behind this brawny man, just like an okay person, seems to be totally unaffected by this terrifying force field.

Everyone knows that this is the power display of the Sanctuary powerhouse!

In his domain, he can freely manipulate the world laws he has understood. At this moment, he used the power of this law to put pressure on Rina and Winia. And allow that child to move freely within his domain.

Naturally, this child is not a fool.

He grew up in a noble family, of course he knows something, no matter whether this sanctuary powerhouse is really saving him. But this moment is indeed the best time for him to escape. Therefore, there was no hesitation. After feeling that the strong man did not put pressure on him, the child immediately got up and fled towards the city without thinking about it. He already regretted that he ran out with someone today.

Looking at the child's movements, Marton, who received a signal from Sean, immediately opened his bow and arrows again, and then aimed at the child.

The next second, a roar of thunder suddenly exploded.

"Looking for death!" This sanctuary powerhouse did not expect. The other party actually dared to continue to attack so boldly, this is simply provoking his authority.

The next moment, this brawny man fully expanded his domain. The law he manipulated should suddenly be suppressed by Rina and Winia with a thunderous might. At the same time, with the expansion of the brawny man's position, the silver-white streamer formed by the arrow shot by Marton would naturally inevitably enter the envelope of his domain.

Almost as soon as this streamer entered, the rapid momentum was immediately stopped. It just moved forward about one meter again. He would completely lose his momentum, and was completely imprisoned in the air as if he had suffered some fixation technique, revealing the true body of this stream of light.

A silver-white feather arrow.

Then, the burly man swung the epee in his hand suddenly, and a strong wind that seemed to be no less inferior to Rina's full-speed sprint burst out of the air, blowing the hairs of Vinia and Rina completely messed up. There is even a faint momentum that the center of gravity deviates and is about to be blown away. But the real horror was that the white feather arrow that was fixed in the air instantly reflected back towards Marton with a more terrifying speed.

A sharper and fiercer thunder and howling almost formed a broken sound. Everyone saw a flash of white light.

The next second, a roar and explosion suddenly sounded.

But this special carriage that Sean borrowed from Broad was directly hit by this arrow. It exploded into fragments on the spot and splashed around. Several Snow Wind fighters who were unable to dodge were immediately scratched by these fragments, but although the injuries looked a bit terrifying, at least they would not endanger their lives and would not reduce their future combat power. This is unfortunate. Fortunately in.

And Marton, who was standing on the top of the carriage before, was naturally unharmed at this time, because the moment he saw the sanctuary powerhouse swinging the heavy sword, he had already leapt and avoided, so naturally he avoided this. Nearly a blow. When it comes to dynamic vision, it is difficult for humans to compare with the elves, especially elves like Marton who are very good at long-range shooting.

But the people in the carriage are a little bit worse.

Fortunately, Xuefanio has always stayed in the carriage, so when the white feathered arrow that was swept back by the opponent's sanctuary powerhouse burst into the carriage, Xuefanio also performed shelter magic in time. She and Cecilia were protected, so neither of them suffered any damage.

But after seeing this scene, Sean's face is not so good.

It's just that Sean is very clear about his strength. If he can master the power of the sixteen-body power of the Dance of Breaking Wind like Winia, then he would dare to fight against the opponent, the strong sanctuary. But at this moment, facing this sanctuary powerhouse, he has absolutely no chance of winning, so of course he will not rush forward recklessly, it will be disadvantageous instead.

And among those present, only Xuefanio has the ability to fight against it.

"Snowfanio, can you deal with it?" Sean asked in a deep voice.

"You can give it a try." Xuefaniao glanced at the opponent, and she was also a little angry with the arrow just now, so at this time, when Sean asked, she was also full of fighting spirit.

Of course, the most important thing that drove her to this situation is that she is now a quasi-sanctuary-level powerhouse. Although the realm only comprehends the rudiment, she also felt it when subduing Rina who was in a violent state. Regarding the application skills in the field, she really can't wait to fight against the real sanctuary powerhouse at this time, to see if she has any shortcomings. And as a priest with a knife, Xuefaniao is not a simple melee professional. She uses magical skills, coupled with her sword skills and the artifact-level weapon in her hand, she does have the ability to compete with ordinary The power of the sanctuary strong.

"Venia. Rina, come back." When Xuefaniao said this, Sean also shouted in a deep voice.

Without the slightest hesitation. The two immediately withdrew and retreated. Although being in the domain of the sanctuary powerhouse made their figure and speed a bit heavy and slow, they can still do it if they want to escape under the full struggle, of course, the premise is that the sanctuary is strong. The person did not make a move.

But, will this sanctuary powerhouse just let Vinia and Rina leave?

At this moment, he felt that his majesty had been scorned by the opponent's Zenus boy. Seeing the two followers of each other withdraw, the brawny man naturally waved his knife without hesitation, and the whole person was like a cheetah to slaughter Winia and Rina-Domain . This is a field radiated by the sanctuary powerhouse, and all the rules in this field will be changed by his will, so when the sanctuary powerhouse takes action. The range of the field will naturally move because of this, so as long as the brawny man moves, the two of Weinia and Rina will still be unable to leave the range of their field.

But at this moment, there was a person who did not retreat but entered this area.

The azure blue brilliance shines on both Rena and Winia at the same time. This is a unique magical technique belonging to Xuefaniao. And these two people after receiving the effect of ice armor. When I feel that my own pressure seems to be slightly reduced, this is naturally an extremely important ability improvement for Winia and Rina, so the speed of the two retreats suddenly doubled, this kind of moment The resulting change caused this sanctuary powerhouse to slash the sword immediately.

It's just that even if it cuts through the sky with a single knife, the strong wind still breaks through the sky, like a magic wind tearing through the sky, sweeping through the two of them.

Venia and Rena's ice armor immediately appeared large-scale cracks, and it was completely broken in the next instant. Such a heavy change once again changed the two of them. The power of the sanctuary powerhouse finally gave these two people a thorough and comprehensive understanding. Although they still have a long way to go from the realm of Sanctuary, this short confrontation has allowed them to learn too much valuable experience.

Before the sanctuary powerhouse swung his sword to kill Venia and Rena again, Xuefanio had already crashed into his domain alone, emitting a faint blue halo all over. This halo has an extremely strong divine power, and at the same time it contains a trace of Xuefanio's understanding of the rules of ice and snow. Although these abilities are not complete, they are enough to make Xuefanio here. The domain will not be completely suppressed by the opponent's sanctuary powerhouse.

Both sides are barely at the same level!

The interaction between the heavy sword and the light sword sprayed a bright and eye-catching spark in the air.

If you simply compete for power, Xuefanio will definitely not be the opponent of this sanctuary powerhouse. After all, the power gap between the two parties is very large, especially since this sanctuary powerhouse is obviously still a power-type occupation.

But in fact, in this confrontation, Xuefanio's body flashed five or six times in succession. Each flash of brilliance was accompanied by the emission of a divine power. She was actually at the moment of the confrontation. Several divine arts are superimposed. In this way, Xuefanio is barely able to compare with this sanctuary powerhouse in strength, but if it is so stalemate, it will definitely be gradually overtaken by the opponent in the end.

But even so, a hint of horror flashed in the eyes of this sanctuary powerhouse. With his violent and ferocious power, he didn't get any benefits at all. How could this keep him from being surprised?

Hearing a roar from this powerful sanctuary, the body of the epee in his hand suddenly had black lines on it, and a terrifying magical power instantly radiated from the sword and then flowed into his hand. In an instant this name There was an extremely terrifying aura on the body of the sanctuary powerhouse, and this aura was a bit like the devilish energy of the abyss! At the next moment, I saw this sanctuary powerhouse suddenly step forward, and at the same time, both hands were pressed hard, a strong wind exploded from the sword, completely shaking Xuefanio back.

And Xuefanio didn't harden it. At the same time as she was shaken back, her figure quickly jumped back, and then hit the ground several times before finally unloading this huge and terrifying force. But judging from the points where Xuefanio landed, it was obvious that the force was so strong the first time he landed, so there was a spider web crack close to a foot in diameter on the ground.

At this time, if you observe carefully, it is not difficult to find that the skin of this sanctuary powerhouse is entwined with a faint black aura, and the whole person is more magical.

Xuefanio's expression looked very solemn.

On the Evergreen Suspension Bridge, when Xiao En, who was watching the battle, saw this scene, his brows were completely frowned. As an alchemy blacksmith, he also possesses real eyes and vast knowledge that transcends this world. When the black texture flashed on the epee, Sean knew that the epee was definitely a weapon above the legendary level. It is not good or even an epic weapon, and the magical power of the epee is so strong, it is obvious that this sword is by no means a natural product in this world.

Maybe, it is very likely that it is a weapon of an alien plane just like the dead bone.

More unfortunately, this sanctuary powerhouse is obviously very familiar with the weapon in his hand, otherwise he would not be able to activate the power of the epee.

Sanctuary powerhouse, really is not an existence that ordinary people can handle.

Chapter 36: .The shadow of the famous tree [Fifth more]

"There are not many weapons with magical power in this world." Sean said in a deep voice. At this time, Rena and Winia had already withdrawn from each other's domain control area. "And those who can really control this type of weapon, Even less... If this sanctuary powerhouse is not very strong-willed, then he has some special control skills that can suppress the demon power of this murderous soldier."

"Is that epee terrible?" Cecilia had walked to Sean's side for some time, and then asked.

Marshmallow was right next to her. There was a blood mark on this guy, which was obviously the injury caused by the broken carriage just now, which made it very dissatisfied with the sanctuary powerhouse. It's okay to bully ordinary people in the Bronze Realm with its current strength. It is almost not threatening to face the lower silver masters, not to mention the sanctuary strong that can crush it with just one finger. The author.

"The weapon is indeed terrible, but it depends on who it falls on. Unless the opponent is willing to completely fall under the control of that weapon and become a sword slave, otherwise he will not be able to exert the true power of that weapon." Sean With a sneer, he was not optimistic about the opponent's sanctuary powerhouse. "Xue Fa was only blocked because the opponent unexpectedly stimulated the weapon's power. Now he knows the ability of the opponent's weapon. This is for Xue Fa. It's not a problem....Don't forget that Xue Fa is also a servant of God anyway, and their system has special bonus effects against creatures in the abyss and hell."

"You mean..." Cecilia was taken aback.

"No matter what, we still have this." Sean put his hand into his belt. Then he took out a golden ball.

When Guru is motionless, no one can tell that it is a creature, and will only treat it as a ball. But in fact, Gulu has extremely strong light attribute fluctuations. Sean has always believed that the origin of Gulu is probably only known by the Chenguang Church, but he also has an inexplicable intuition in his heart, that is, once the Chenguang Church sees it Gulu's words will definitely cause trouble and disaster, so even if he is curious about Gulu's identity and origin, Sean doesn't plan to use Gulu to ask people from Chenguang Church.

But anyway. It is absolutely true that Guru has an extremely powerful restraint ability against all abyss and * creatures.

Once Xuefanio falls into a hard fight, then Sean will throw Guru over without hesitation. Anyway, this guy also has his own force field. Therefore, there is no need to be afraid of the interference of the opponent's sanctuary powerhouse's force field, and as long as there is a Guru to create some time for Xuefanio, whether it is withdrawing or fighting, Xuefanio will take the initiative from passive. This is the terrible thing about priests with swords.

At this moment. The second round of confrontation between that sanctuary powerhouse and Xuefanio has also begun again.

As Sean expected, as a priest with a knife, Xuefanio has a special restraint effect on dealing with demonic creatures. If this sanctuary powerhouse does not activate the magic sword, then although he cannot perfectly and completely suppress Xuefanio, at least he will not make the situation worse and embarrassing as it is now. Because this sanctuary powerhouse had already understood that he had summoned the power of the magic sword at the moment he lost his mind, but instead he was used by a saint professional.

This is definitely a thing that makes him feel more humiliated than Sean's contempt for him.

Under the main city gate, thick smoke and dust billowed.

This is another encounter between the Sanctuary powerhouse and Xuefanio. Inadvertently chopped up a trace of a corner of the city gate-Wang is an ancient city with a history of nearly three hundred years, so many buildings appear unusually dilapidated without renovation. Therefore, the extremely fierce fighting between the two men, no matter where they were hit, would naturally cause a burst of smoke and dust.

However, many people have already understood the situation of the strong sanctuary being completely restrained by Xuefanio at this time.

Although Xuefanio's battle with this sanctuary powerhouse is somewhat tricky, but with the strength of a quasi-sanctuary, he can deal with a sanctuary powerhouse, and Xuefanio's strength is indeed true. Enough to make many people admire it. After all, not everyone can possess the tyrannical combat power and combat experience of Xuefanio, so Xuefanio has no intention of being merciful in the confrontation.

As the battle between the two sides became more intense, Xuefanio's shots increased, and she had a somewhat dominant position, which made the sanctuary powerhouse impatient. However, whenever he wielded the magic sword to make a move, Xuefanio would use the power of divinity to purify the part that belonged to the magic. Is gradually weakening, but the opponent's breath is gradually strengthening.

This sanctuary powerhouse also understands that if he continues to trade with each other, even though he can eventually fight with his physical strength, it is impossible to win easily. And if a sanctuary powerhouse is dealing with a quasi-sanctuary powerhouse and can't easily win, then he probably won't be able to stay here anymore, so in any case, he must win, and Also win beautiful.

This is the end of being tired of being famous.

"Venya!" At this moment, this sanctuary powerhouse wants to use all his mind to deal with Xuefanio. Therefore, he must narrow the maintenance range of the domain. Only in this way can he reduce his consumption. Venia and Rina, who had previously withdrawn from their domain, became idlers.

Hearing Sean's shout, Vinia turned his head and looked at Sean.

"That kid!" Sean shouted coldly.

In an instant, Winia immediately turned around and jumped out.

As an elves, no matter which group of elves they are, they have a great advantage in speed, and at this time, the fight between the sanctuary strong and Xuefanio is only a short period of one or two minutes. The child who flees in desperation will naturally not be able to run too far, so it is naturally not a problem to catch up with that child at the speed of Winia. For Vinia. Human beings are enemies after all, they are aliens who are not of the same race, so she doesn't have the slightest psychological burden on such a child.

And for Sean. As soon as he arrived in Wangdu, someone provoked positively. If he said that all this was just a coincidence, he would not believe it anyway, how could it be such a coincidence. So Xiao En was sure that someone had mastered his whereabouts, and therefore set such a trap here, because for those nobles. They expected that Sean would not dare to make trouble here in the capital.

It's a pity that Sean has never been the kind of person who is afraid of trouble and dare not make trouble.

For him, since both sides have made it clear from the beginning that they are enemies. Then he will never show mercy to the enemy. Even if this is just a child, Sean has to let his enemies see his attitude clearly. If he is not mentally prepared to kill him, then it is best not to provoke him. Otherwise, no matter who it is, he will not let it go.

"You are so arrogant!" Seeing Winia bypassing her pretentiously, she went to hunt down the child again. This sanctuary powerhouse uttered an angry roar, "I will let you know today, what a sanctuary is!"

When the words fell, the sanctuary powerhouse once again urged the power of the magic sword, and a greater magical aura immediately radiated from the epee, and then surrounded the body of the sanctuary powerhouse, and his eyes were in a blink of an eye. It became red, and the muscles on his body swelled even more. There are extremely distinct meridians protruding from the muscles, and the whole person feels more than swollen. But the aura on his body became more and more terrifying.

Seeing the aura of the sanctuary powerhouse in front of him, Xiao En's brows furrowed, because he could feel that the aura of the sanctuary powerhouse now began to transform into demonization. In this case, normal humans will begin to blur their consciousness, and in the end they will even become sword slaves, becoming monsters that only know * but are unconscious. But now, although the aura of this sanctuary powerhouse has become extremely terrifying, Xiao En did not feel that the other party loses his mind, which surprised Xiao En a little.

However, after the aura of this sanctuary powerhouse broke out completely, he did not have any entanglement with Xuefanio at all. He swung a deep black sword wind to force her back—this black sword wind even almost killed Xue. Fanio's divine aura was blown out, and at this moment, with Xuefanio's strength, the sanctuary powerhouse could no longer be suppressed—later, the sanctuary powerhouse turned his head and headed towards Vinia. Killed the past.

Obviously, in the eyes of this sanctuary powerhouse, if Venia was allowed to really scrap the right hand of the child, then he would really lose face. Therefore, in a rage, he naturally wanted to get rid of Xuefanio and directly use Vinia to perform the operation. Anyway, as long as he can kill Vinia, he is not too embarrassed, at least there is no need to lose his face. Was forced to leave the Kingdom of Lane.

Shaun's right hand has been squeezed into Gollum, ready to throw it out.

With Xuefanio alone, I am afraid that there is no way to suppress the magic of this sanctuary powerhouse. Although the power of the divine can suppress or even restrain the power of the magic, it is only in the case of equality, once the magic is strong enough. If it is enough to overwhelm the power of divine nature, then it is impossible to suppress it at all. So at this time, as long as Guru joins the battle, then if Guru and Xuefanio join forces, they can still suppress the demon nature of this sanctuary powerhouse.

However, just as Xiao En was about to throw Gollum, a figure jumped from the city wall, stopped in front of the sanctuary powerhouse, and then waved his hand to block the sanctuary powerhouse's footsteps.

This sudden change made everyone present stunned.

Even this sanctuary powerhouse was stunned at this time.

"Stop it for me." The person who blocked the sanctuary powerhouse said softly, and his voice revealed a kind of supreme majesty. Obviously this is a person who has been in the high position for a long time, but he can block the demon. The power of the sanctuary in the state of transformation, presumably the strength of this person is by no means simple.

But what surprised Sean even more was that after hearing this person's words, the demonized sanctuary powerhouse was able to relieve the demon power in the first place, and his face even showed awe to almost fear. The expression didn't dare to refute the slightest.

At this time, a child's horrible howl suddenly sounded, and it was obvious that Vinia had succeeded. Then, everyone saw Vinia holding the child's right hand back to Sean's side, and Xuefanio saw that the other party had lifted the demon power and obviously had no idea of fighting again, so naturally she and Rena Retreating to Sean's side together, the two sides formed a confrontation for a while.

"My lord..." the strong sanctuary said to this person later.

But before he could finish his words, the newly arrived middle-aged man had already raised his left hand to stop the sanctuary powerhouse beside him. He just looked back at the child who had fallen in a pool of blood. At this time, several people had already stepped forward to treat the bleeding, and it seemed that there was no life-threatening danger. So he turned his head and looked at Xiao En, and said softly: "Xiao En-sir, are you out of anger?"

"Who are you?" Sean raised his brow.

The newly-appearing person is obviously more powerful than the sanctuary powerhouse, but Sean can't feel a trace of aura fluctuations in him. He looks like an ordinary person. If he hadn't just seen him understatement. Blocking the steps of the sanctuary powerhouse, Xiao En might really be blinded by the appearance of this person. So at this moment, the less he can feel the other's momentum, the more cautious Sean appears.

"Wings Wilvarge here." The middle-aged man bowed slightly, his every move was full of noble courtesy.

But Sean, the moment when he heard the middle-aged man report his family, the expression on his face was not calm at all. Even the surrounding people had a stir and an uproar. Obviously no one expected to see the most legendary figure of Ryan here, and the legendary figure actually came to meet Sean in person. In the minds of civilians, people who have been equated with the mob.

Wings Wilvarge, a figure who has been famous for nearly a hundred years, he is the town power of the Principality of Lane, the only middle-ranked sanctuary in the Principality of Lane!

Perhaps for those veteran big countries or powerful kingdoms and empires, the middle sanctuary is nothing at all, but this is a real town powerhouse in Ryan. If he had not been holding the middle-ranked sanctuary powerhouse of Darbion Kingdom, Darbion would have been able to destroy Ryan easily in the face of high-end combat power, so the existence of this power is for all Ryan people. In terms of it is the real spiritual pillar.

In the face of such a big man, Sean finally put away the arrogance he deliberately put on his face, and returned to pay tribute to Wengers Wilvac with a standard aristocratic etiquette.

"Master Shaun, if you have nothing else to do next, please let me go to the palace with me. Your Majesty the King is really waiting for you."

Chapter 37: . Sean's confidence

Ledthon City, this city named after the first King Ryan was established about three hundred years ago. .

This city, which has been built for more than ten years, spans the era of the two Kings of Ryan-beginning with the second King Ryan and ending with the third King Ryan. From the moment the construction was completed, this city was the capital of the Kingdom of Lane-even if the Kingdom of Lane was forced to be demoted to a principality due to the fourth King of Lane and became a subject of the Millennium Covenant Empire, Leide Stern still stood tall. Above this land.

Now, the Principality of Ryan is finally about to regain its dominance of the kingdom under the hands of the sixth King Ryan. This is definitely a blessing for the residents of Rydstone. Not to mention anything else, at least in terms of superiority, these royal capital residents can achieve great satisfaction.

A luxuriously decorated black carriage slowly traversed the central axis of the entire Lydesen City.

There were twelve horses in front of the carriage. These cavalymen were wearing silver-white light armor, and even the waistcoats of the horses under the hips were silver. When the sun shone down, it was a dazzling and dazzling brilliance. And behind the carriage, there was a team of thirty infantrymen wearing silver and red light armor and holding halberds trotting on. Rather than saying that these people are guarding and protecting the carriage, it is better to say that these people are providing the carriage with a luxurious pomp.

Residents along the central axis in Ledesen City saw the carriage slowly passing by in such a luxurious ostentation, they all took off their hats and bowed their heads to express themselves. Respect for this carriage.

Of course, there is also respect for the characters in the carriage.

In Ryan, twelve royal knights opened the way and accompanied by thirty royal guards to defend, it is the highest standard of royal welcoming. Under normal circumstances, only the envoys of the Millennium Covenant Empire, or those who have made significant and outstanding contributions to Ryan, can be greeted by this standard.

In recent years, apart from the imperial envoys who have had this kind of honor during their visits, the last Ryan person to receive this kind of honor is Asuna G. Evans.

However, after the end of the national war with the Kingdom of Darbion, two people have so far won this honor.

They are Asuna G. Evans, and the commander-in-chief who fought against Darbion this time, Devin Sodell Saber, who is known as the Sword of Ryan.

And now, this is the third place.

Sean Connery.

With the title of mere baron, he became one of the commanders of the three major war zones against Darbion. He had an extremely brilliant feat in this war: he was not only the first one of the three major war zones to end all wars in the war zone under his command. The commander of, at the same time, has an indelible aid to the other two theaters.

Although people don't know much about this pioneering knight under Asuna, this does not prevent him from having a strong interest and interest in him since the battle.

Even in the privacy of the kingdom, many people call him the God of War, a third person who can be compared to such big figures as the Sword of Ryan and the Shield of Ryan. Especially the conflicts and quarrels at the gate of the Evergreen Suspension Bridge this morning, which was almost a one-sided condemnation of Sean's no surname, but after learning of Sean's true identity, it turned into a murder against him. A decisive word of praise.

They praised that only lords and commanders like Sean were able to train the three invincible troops under his command that could conquer good combat. After this battle, the many news and intelligence that came back from the front lines had already made the entire Kingdom of Ryan. Everyone knows how powerful the three main armies under Sean's command are. Although everyone knows that there must be a lot of water and falsehood in these news, but for the Principality of Lane, who was eager to win news at the time, they were very happy to see this situation.

So when the glorious fruits of victory have fully grown up, many things begin to change a bit.

This is the so-called reputation.

Under this prestigious reputation, as long as Sean does not betray Ryan, even Ryan royal family wants to make some actions against Sean, they have to take into account the possible outbreak of public grievances. Under such circumstances, Waiting if Xiao En had tightly grasped a life-saving talisman-and all of this was given to him by Asuna personally. In a way, Asuna did fulfill her promise to Sean at the beginning, and Sean did make Asuna achieve the feat of drinking horse Fengshen Lake.

Sitting in the carriage, Sean looked out from the window and saw the residents along the way. He felt a little bit in his heart.

Because he can feel that these people are truly respected from the heart, not because they are oppressed. For a country, its people are willing to express their inner respect and worship to a royal family. This is definitely a kingdom's blessing. At least Sean knows that, except for the Saint-Joles Empire, the other six empires It's a royal trip and there will never be such a concerted scene.

As for the respect and worship of the victor, it is not so much worshipping Sean himself, it is more worshipping the strength that Sean possesses.

This made Sean feel a little disappointed.

Because all of this is as Hela said, and is being realized one by one—including the arrogant and indifferent attitude on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge and the cruel and * approach to the child, all of which are derived from Hela's instruction . Just like what Shaun said before the departure of the future seventh general, Ryan's old-school aristocrats would never sit and watch Shaun like the sky, so there will definitely be a lot of sewage and other things splashing on Shaw. kindness.

And all Sean needs to do is to fight back with thunderous means.

Even if it is called cold-blooded, cruel, * and many other words, he can only do so. Once his performance makes people feel weak, then those nobles like jackals and wild dogs will rush to bite his flesh and blood, and now he is no longer alone, so whether he wants to, he All must be responsible for those who follow him.

Therefore, before getting on the carriage, he followed Hella's instructions and asked people to send a "gift" to Setins Ge. Sean knew that the entire king now has all nobles—whether it's the old nobles or emerging nobles, whether it's the foreign aristocrats or the Senei aristocrats, they are all staring at this place, and all he needs to do is to be in this king's capital. , Showing his fangs and claws.

If there are no accidents, probably when Sean arrives at the destination, the members of the Ge family will receive this gift.

When the time comes, they will surely be extremely pleasantly surprised.

But this has nothing to do with Sean, at least in Sean's view, the first person who jumped out to try to eat the crab has been eaten by the crab instead.

At this moment, he looked out from the car window, and as the line of sight extended, it was clear that at the end of the line of sight there was a white wall that was almost towering into the clouds.

That is the White Wall of Ledesen.

This city wall made of pure white stones is fifty meters high and surrounds the entire building complex of the Royal Palace in a circular shape. In this white wall, there are not only the palace complex where the royal family and important guests stayed, but also the well-equipped barracks and related military facilities, and the storage room excavated underground can even supply the entire white wall. The daily food expenses of tens of thousands of people in the wall for two years.

At the beginning, the Royal Palace of Lane, which was built with reference to the royal palace of the Millennium Covenant Empire and the kingdom of the Emilia Empire, took up half of the entire city of Ledesne.

As the carriage drew closer, Xiao En could feel the grandeur of the White Wall more and more.

The main entrance of the White Wall alone is ten meters high. The daily opening of the city gate is the same as the opening of the city gate of Tonis Fortress. It requires the activation of a steam-powered mechanical device. It is difficult to open this by relying solely on manpower. A city gate.

Passing through the shadow area of the White Wall gate, the twelve royal knights stopped. They tugged at the reins of the horses, and then lined up on both sides of the road, as the twelve knights drew their swords. Then he raised his sword and erected it on his right chest. The twelve hip mounts also lowered their horses' heads. Seeing this scene, Sean knew that these horses were no longer war horses, and even these so-called royal knights were no longer real knights. They were just ceremonial machines trained to satisfy the vanity of those nobles in a peaceful environment. .

A real war horse, how could it be so submissive that he would bow his head so submissively when he heard the knight draw his sword.

True horses must be trained to be completely unafraid of any battlefield sounds, and they can even enter a state of excitement when they hear the sound of trumpets. But for these so-called knight horses, Sean couldn't see the qualities of horses at all. Even the wild horses caught on the grassland are more like horses than these-if the only place to say they are like horses , Probably these horses are tall enough.

On the contrary, the thirty royal guards are more like warriors. At least the halberds in their hands are not like the long swords in the hands of those royal knights. The long swords are almost indistinguishable from the ceremonial swords. In the eyes of alchemists like Sean, he is very good at weapons and armors. With amazing intuition, in fact, this was once a reason for Sean's confusion.

Because he didn't know whether it was the mutation that occurred after he came to this world, or was it the "practice makes perfect" after he forged many weapons?

But sometimes, if he can't figure it out, then Sean won't waste time thinking about it, after all, this experience is of no use to him.

Thirty royal guards armed with halberds ran to both sides quickly, and then extended out from the formation of six knights on each side. Their standing posture is a bit more of a soldier's temperament than those so-called knights, but perhaps because the training in etiquette and standing posture is more than military training, so these royal guards are more or less contaminated with some honor guards. the taste of.

Shaun took his gaze back from these people. He knew that according to the royal etiquette, these royal knights and royal guards had completed the task by escorting the carriage here. Because with their status and rank, it is inconvenient to continue to lead the way in the palace, and from here on, another person will take over.

On the carriage, there was a slight tremor.

It seems that someone has loosened the reins of the horse pulling the cart, which makes Sean a little puzzled. However, before he waited long, there was another slight shaking, and there was also a neighing sound of horses. Obviously someone was replacing the horses, but this made Sean a little puzzled. Why is it so troublesome? But from the neighing of these horses, there are at least four horses, and they should all be rare horses.

After waiting for a while, the carriage finally set off again.

But this time, the carriage was moving very fast, and Sean only saw the scenery outside the window was going backwards at a crazy speed. But what surprised him was that under such a rapid speed, the situation in the carriage was very stable, and there was not even a trace of shaking, which made Sean extremely surprised. Usually in this case, either the coachman's skills are very good, or the carriage has some special anti-vibration device, but before getting on the carriage, Sean has carefully looked at it once, and it is clear that this carriage belongs to the former.

This time, without letting Sean sit for too long, the carriage stopped again.

"Master Shaun, it's already here." A voice came from outside the carriage. It was a low-sounding voice.

Shaun took a deep breath, then pushed open the door of the carriage and walked out of the carriage.

He looked up at the place where the carriage stopped. It appeared to be a side entrance of the palace fortress.

Lane Palace is not the architectural style of palaces, but the fortress architectural style of fortress, but in these three hundred years, some rectifications have been made due to excessive comfort, so that the architectural style of the palace has more ornamental qualities. However, perhaps because of the ancestral training, the successive kings of Lane made changes without touching some of the core buildings of the fortress. Although it is difficult to make the entire palace beautiful, at least it can achieve A degree is better than nothing.

But the most important point is that after countless changes in the palace, many internal structures have become indistinguishable from the maze. Unless it is an extremely senior servant, it is difficult to find a correct path in the palace.

Led by the groom wearing white servant costumes, Sean walked in the corridors of the palace while admiring the interior decoration style. Of course, his gaze did not leave the groom's body, because from just now, Sean could feel a very restrained aura in the coachman's body. Although it is not very obvious, it can at least prove it. The driver is not an ordinary person.

Led by the coachman, Sean came behind a gate.

When he pushed the door, Xiao En saw that it was a small study room, but it was full of personal style in terms of layout, and it was obviously a relatively private study room.

Shaun's gaze fell on the two people in the room.

An old man with white hair and silver cream, but not very old from the face, on the contrary, there is a kind of restrained light and wisdom. He just sits casually on a chair in the study, and he gives people an invisible and huge coercion, which is a coercion that can be accumulated by talents who have been in a high position for a long time, so the identity of this person can be imagined. And know. .

The sixth king of Lane, Ingus Lane.

The other person in the room is a middle-aged man.

Although he looked plain and unremarkable, the first time Sean saw the other person, it was like seeing a thick darkness.

Although under the awe-inspiring coercion of King Ryan, this middle-aged man has completely reduced this dark aura, but for a person like Sean who is extremely sensitive to aura, it is almost like shining in the night. The lights are so dazzling, it's impossible to ignore it. The two parties just glanced at each other, and Xiao En clearly saw each other showing a friendly smile, but in Xiao En's perception, it seemed to see the fangs of a beast.

This is a terrible person.

If it were not for the majestic aura of King Ryan, this middle-aged man would definitely have an aura no weaker than King Ryan.

In the entire Lane, there is only one person who will still dare not presume in front of King Lane even after possessing such a deep and terrifying dark aura.

Florius. Marquis of Heilmann.

"Are you Sean Connery?" After seeing Sean enter, King Ryan gave a friendly smile, "Sure enough, he is an excellent genius. Floris was still praising you just now. In the southern theater, win beautifully."

The King Ryan focused on the word "win", and his voice was suppressed, which obviously meant something.

Sean knew immediately.

Obviously, the "decapitation tactics" that I used in the southern theater may not last long, because since even Ryan can detect it so clearly, then naturally it will not be a secret for those great empires. Fortunately, Xiao En never thought of concealing this technology from the beginning. After all, the promotion of Teleportation Magic Array in the entire Marvel Continent was an inevitable trend that could not be stopped.

Because this can not only reduce the time consumption of the travel distance, but in the long run, it can even reduce the problem of trade costs. At the same time, it can also greatly increase the types of trade, thereby speeding up the development of various kingdoms and empires. Of course, this is not without harm, because once the role of the teleportation magic circle is developed and used in trade and military, the traditional strategic terrain role will be reduced, so that the defense lines of various countries will be completely extended. , But the relative vertical depth will be reduced, which is naturally a disaster for countries with vast territories but not strong national power.

In addition, there is a bigger disaster.

That is the production of special products and special objects.

Because of the increase in types of trade and the decrease in trade costs, traditional trade methods will also be greatly impacted. In the future, the competition for trade will be the professional surnames of commodities and the diversified surnames of commodities. Therefore, places where special products or special items can be produced will naturally become some battlefields. Therefore, wars will only become more frequent, and it can even be said. It is complicated.

So, before the teleportation magic circle is completely popularized, whoever can obtain the knowledge about the teleportation magic circle in advance will naturally walk in the forefront of the times.

In the game, the Maggie Empire was at the forefront of the times, followed by the Zenus Empire, the Millennium Covenant Empire, and the Emilia Empire, which obtained relevant knowledge through secret means, and then the Kingdom of Portoroa. Then it began to spread out in the northern continent.

Now, history clearly has new changes.

If the Lion Kingdom can master this technology in the first time, it can at least become a first-class kingdom if it is used well in the future. After all, the Kingdom of Lane now sits on the territory of the Kingdom of Darbion, so it can make up for a large part of the gap in special products. As for the issue of troops, the only thing that needs to be worried is from three directions, namely, the Kingdom of France, the Millennium Covenant Empire, and the Barren Lands. It can be said that it also occupies a great advantage in terms of geography. More importantly, Ryan is not weak in terms of national power alone.

Therefore, whoever masters this technology that is capable of changing the world will have a certain right to speak in the future.

At present, if Ryan wants to obtain this technology, then they must start with Sean.

So don't say that Sean is just arrogant on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge, even if he asks for a duke title now, King Ryan will not hesitate to agree.

This is Sean's confidence.

Chapter 38: .The caution of the nobles

The fact that Sean was showing his power on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge quickly spread throughout the capital through the vivid descriptions of the civilians who entered the capital. .Almost just less than an hour, the whole king is full of all the nobles-no matter it is the old nobles or the emerging nobles, even those who have just returned to Ryan and have determined that they can obtain or retain the titles and identities of the nobles, all They all looked at a nobleman.

Ge family.

The Principality of Lane, which was still a kingdom before the fourth King of Lane, had two houses of upper and lower houses at that time. Until the fourth King Ryan was defeated in a major war, which caused the Kingdom of Ryan to become a subject of the Millennium Covenant Empire, the establishment of the House of Lords was revoked and only one House of Commons remained. It's just a shame for the Lane people, so although the House of Lords was abolished, the Lane House of Commons is actually a direct copy of the size and system of the House of Lords, and the only change is the name.

Lane House.

For this kind of behavior, the Millennium Covenant Empire naturally turned one eye and closed one eye, and did not say anything.

In this way, the power and status of the Ryan House of Lords are retained, and therefore the corresponding mechanism scale is derived: for example, twelve one-vote seats, fourteen important seats, and forty-one auditor seats.

It is not an easy task to obtain these seats. Like twelve one-vote seats, only the twelve upper-ranking nobles can obtain; and the fourteen important seats can only be obtained by the upper-ranking nobles; as for the rest Forty-one auditor seats, at the very least, people with the title of earl or above must be able to obtain it. Others are viscounts and barons, they don't even have the qualifications to enter the House of Lords.

In fact, voting on many important matters in the Lane House is usually controlled by the upper nobles.

Although under normal circumstances, all proposals put forward by the Lane House will be voted by the nobles of the 14 important seats. They will judge with their voting power to decide whether the proposal is passed or rejected, if they support or oppose it. If the votes are unanimous, then the proposal will be temporarily frozen and will be discussed later. But if it is still tied three times in a row, then the proposal will be handed over to twelve high-ranking nobles for review and judgment. If the votes are still tied under such circumstances, it will be handed over to 41 observer seats. The nobles voted.

The reason why ranks forty-one is to prevent the recurrence of the same situation.

However, since it is said that voting on important matters is controlled by the upper nobles, the situation here is naturally slightly different and complicated: the normal voting rights of the proposals are in the hands of the nobles of the 14 important seats, but this is not the case. The high-ranking nobles with one seat on behalf of them can only watch, and they can completely intervene in voting on these proposals anytime and anywhere.

Once a nobleman with one seat intervenes, the subsequent voting will have nothing to do with the nobleman with fourteen important seats. All the process will enter a special stage: 11 noble seats with one vote will vote. As long as the high-ranking noble who intervened in the proposal can get the support of the other six high-ranking nobles, then the proposal will naturally be determined by the attitude of the noble before intervening, which is the same as the mechanism of the forty-one observer seats. .

And the Ge family is one of the fourteen upper-level nobles with important seats.

This is a family that once relied on military exploits to become famous, but the political stance of the family itself was biased towards the Evans family two generations ago. But for some unknown reason, when the  family passed down to today, this family completely broke away from the faction of the Evans family, and instead came closer to the Fenlistine family, one of the twelve upper nobles.

In the information provided by Broad, the  family is the mainstay of the noble faction in Sené.

And Setin  Ge, is now one of the five people in the Kingdom of Ryan who has the title of Earth Traveling Dragon Knight. But in fact, all the nobles in the entire royal capital are very clear: the name of this earth travel dragon knight is just a virtual title, because no one has ever seen him ride an earth travel dragon before even fighting. Once, in the manor of the Ge Family, the Earth Dragon is not so much a monster, it is more appropriate to watch an animal with the last name.

However, no matter how unpleasant or impractical the reputation of this earth travel dragon knight is, as long as his surname is still the family name with Ge, then no one dares to underestimate him. In the same way, many royal nobles know that this young man is also one of the strongest candidates for heir to the  family.

So, one can imagine.

This time the Evergreen Suspension Bridge incident must have been caused by the young nobleman's eager performance.

However, Sean did not believe that the current patriarch of the Ge family would not know what his son was planning. The reason why he didn't stop it was probably because he wanted to test Sean's reaction. Of course, there must also be nobles' thoughts about the heirs of the school—for the Ge family, perhaps this is an opportunity to kill two birds with one stone.

It's a pity that they shot the wrong shot.

Shaun's counterattack was not only strong and powerful, it could even be said to be a kind of almost rude and rude resistance.

is nothing like the feminine characteristic of aristocrats.

Regarding Sean's evaluation, the vast majority of the nobles in the royal capital maintained a mentality of watching the show, and of course, they also ridiculed such words as "I really am a barbarian". Of course, it is more contempt for the title of Sean's title. After all, the title of Baron does not even have the qualifications to enter the House of Lords. It's just that they will be so mocking. Most of them are incompetent nobles. The real high-ranking nobles and the more powerful nobles have known it for a long time. This time the name Sean Connery is destined to blind a group of people. Noble's dog eyes.

It's just that everyone didn't expect that this opportunity to blind the dog's eyes would come so quickly.

Two hours after Sean entered the city, the carriage representing the highest courtesy of the royal family stopped outside the hotel where Sean was staying, and then...

There is no more.

More than half of the little nobles who are not eligible to join the Sené noble faction have already begun to think about whether to go to Sean and get a face. For those who have had an offensive and defensive alliance agreement with Sean, this is an exciting thing. After all, as a member of their alliance, if the higher the status they can obtain, it will naturally be for them. The more advantageous.

Therefore, many of the activities that had been prepared for Sean were completely melted away in the sunshine of the royal capital.

At least at this moment, no one dares to take this risk.

However, the roar from the Ge family still resounded on the Kingdom's Seventh Avenue.

Because the gift from Sean has been delivered.

That is.....

The right hand of the child who was chopped by Vinia in the morning.

However, this right hand was completely frozen into a crystal by Xuefanio's Frozen Divine Art. Using Sean's words, that is, the vitality on this right hand is only frozen, and there is no loss. If the priest of the Life Church is asked to perform magic arts, it can still be taken back, and it can be guaranteed to be intact. But in fact, everyone knows that using divine art to fight divine art is a very dangerous move. At the very least, we must find a priest of the Life Church whose divine power is comparable to Xuefanio to perform.

Not to mention whether there will be such a priest willing to make a move. The price that needs to be paid for this ceremony is enough to make the Ge family feel the pain.

After the people from the Sené noble faction inquired about the roar of the Go family, a series of true big names of the Sené noble faction, including Fenlistine, Aite, and Cebalox, all chose silence. Because they would never have imagined that Sean's initial counterattack was so * and tragic, which can almost be said to be second only to blood relatives' revenge.

In other words, if they want to continue to deal with Sean, they must pay the price of revenge for blood relatives.

And this price is usually the situation of endless death.

Unless they are sure that Sean can't leave the capital alive.

But seeing that today, the royal family actually sent out the highest greeting etiquette to pick Sean into the palace. How could these nobles who have lived in Lane's political circle for so many years fail to understand what that majesty meant? Who is going to trouble Sean at this sensitive time, then who is tantamount to provoking the royal family, and who dares to do so?

More importantly, they are really not sure that Xiao En will not be able to leave the capital.

And once any action against Sean goes bankrupt, then you have to be prepared for hemorrhage. This barbarian who was ignored by them, when he first came to the royal capital, used the Ge family as a stepping stone, so that the entire royal capital could see how strong and * his revenge was. And this price is usually an endless situation.

Unless they are sure that Sean can't leave the capital alive.

But seeing that today, the royal family actually sent out the highest greeting etiquette to pick Sean into the palace. How could these nobles who have lived in Lane's political circle for so many years fail to understand what that majesty meant? Who is going to trouble Sean at this sensitive time, then who is tantamount to provoking the royal family, and who dares to do so?

More importantly, they are really not sure that Xiao En will not be able to leave the capital.

And once any action against Sean goes bankrupt, then you have to be prepared for hemorrhage. This barbarian who was ignored by them, when he first came to the royal capital, used the Ge family as a stepping stone, so that the entire royal capital could see how strong and * his revenge was.

Chapter 39: .The Duke of Void

After hearing this news, almost all the Sené noble factions in the whole king fell into a dull degree of dullness. Although many people in the old Darby expensive clans who have been divided into the extra-Serbia noble faction are equally unbelievable and even shocked, what these people are really surprised is the "one-vote seat" honorable status that Sean has obtained, because Now all the nobles outside the Great Wall are very clear that there are only twelve people who can hold this seat.

And Sean Connery is already one of the twelve.

It's just different from the representative status of the "one-vote seat" that the nobles outside of Senegal valued. All the factions of the nobles in Senei are more concerned about the symbolic meaning of Sean's canonization.

Sean Connery is the first duke officially canonized and recognized in the Kingdom of Lane!

Moreover, the noble title he obtained is not just a lifelong life system with a false title, but the hereditary duke with the most valuable and powerful status, which is a world away from the "marquis" as everyone knows. difference!

Lifelong knighthood is just a kind of honor in the name, in fact, there is no much value and status at all, because all this will end with the death of the canonizer. Of course, if you have to say something of value, then you can probably receive a decent salary from the royal family every month.

But hereditary knighthood, the symbolic meaning is completely different.

Not to mention that this title can be passed on to future generations forever, just a matter that can be reported to the royal family for the title canonization of its followers is enough to make many lifelong nobles feel extremely envied. Of course, if it's just a title like a baron or a viscount. Then the so-called knighting of followers is a concept that is better than nothing. But if you rise to earl, marquis, or even duke, then the meaning is completely different.

Especially the gap between the Marquis and the Duke.

In Lane. Marquis can only get the canonization of five viscounts at most, and even earls are not allowed to be canonized by the marquis.

But the Duke is completely different.

The nobles with this duke title can not only canonize earls, but also have the qualifications of two hereditary marquis and one life marquis. However, the territories owned by the nobles who are canonized by the duke must naturally be borne by the duke. The kingdom will only recognize the legitimacy of the Marquis, and will not reward other territories as feudal vassals. But even so, this is still a manifestation of supreme power.

And it's more shocking than that.

Lane's royal family not only canonized Sean as duke. At the same time, it also announced the recognition of the territorial division submitted by Sean Connery, and officially changed its name to the Void Territory. This also means that a total of seven old territories, including Pandan, Yedby, Berbish, Chilaf, Dayi, Suoan, Tinkiin, etc., will all belong to the old territories. Under the name of Sean Connery. Formally became his feudal town-Void Neck.

These seven territories have far exceeded the size of a normal duchy in terms of their extent of area. Although under normal circumstances, the size of the territory owned by a real nobleman who owns a territory is usually proportional to his ability, but under normal circumstances, this unspoken rule-based approach will not be so blatant. Generally, even if they occupy larger territories, they all adopt the method of naming. It will not really merge into its own territory.

You should know that the void collar that Sean currently has is actually composed of one earl collar, three viscount collars, and three baron collars. Among them, the Earl, Viscount Berbis, Viscount Yedby, and Baron Panda are all unconventional knightdoms. The size of these four territories alone has exceeded the size of a duchy, so Sean is now The area of the territory it owns can basically be equal to the size of two dukes.

Now in the entire Kingdom of Lane, the extent of the territory currently owned by Sean is the third person after the Royal Family of Lane and Asuna G. Evans.

Generally speaking, such a vast territory. Naturally, the military power that needs to be invested is also enormous. So usually if there is not enough strength, no lord will take over such a large area of territory. This is another benefit of the named territory-nominally this territory belongs to another lord, so if someone has the idea of hitting this territory, then the nominal lord of this territory must fight back for the sake of face.

So if there is any nobleman who is so overpowered, then other noblemen like wolves will teach each other how to behave every minute. At least, the coercion of force is enough to force the other party to subdue. After all, as long as the benefits are sufficient, the nobles don't mind to unite.

However, when the nobles heard that Sean had such a vast territory, no one tried to intimidate Sean by force.

The reason is simple.

In terms of war attitude, the incident that happened on the Evergreen Suspension Bridge this morning let them know that Sean is definitely a person who must be reported, and that even children will not let it go. This shows that the other party does not care about fighting blood revenge. So if you want to force Sean to submit by force, then you must do a good job in an endless war with Sean.

Once you enter a state of war, there are four key factors that determine the outcome of the war.

The first is high-end force.

After the misfortune of the Dovigo family appeared, people already knew that Sean had a real powerhouse who could face the sanctuary level. Basically, apart from those big families that are deep enough and also have sanctuary powerhouses, few families can compete with Sean in terms of high-end force.

Since there is no way to contend with high-end force, these nobles can naturally only think about whether they can suppress Sean from other aspects.

The second key factor that determines the outcome of a war is military power.

It's just that the moment this idea emerged from the minds of the nobles, they directly suppressed this idea.

Just kidding, when it comes to military power, can anyone compare to Sean?

During the war against Darbion, Sean's thunder lion, steel wings, and Cecilia's guards, the three major legions, have already gained enough reputation. Not only the many nobles of Darbion knew the terribleness of these three legions, even the nobles of Lane knew. Especially the Thunder Lion and Steel Wings, these two legions have a brilliant record of defeating the Mountain Lion Legion and the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion on the frontal battlefield; and the Cecilia Guards. It is even more famous because of the direct acceptance of the soldiers of the Fourth Army of Darbion.

Although the war has just ended, Sean's territorial army is definitely still being reorganized. If a war is launched, it may not be able to respond. But this point is the same for other nobles, especially those nobles who participated in the Northwest War Zone. Their losses were so heavy that they were inexhaustible. Compared with Sean, it was only important, and when they were reorganized. . It is estimated that Sean's army has also been reorganized.

At this time, who would dare to continue to compete with Sean for military power?

Neither the first nor the second factor can suppress Sean, as the third most critical and important factor in determining the war situation. That's enough to silence more people.

Because the third element is the question of generals.

Before the annexation of Darbion, the Principality of Ryan had only three generals recognized as the strongest.

Devin Sodell Sabre, known as the "Sword of Lane", and Roald G. Evans, honored as the "Shield of Lane", and their glory in the first war against Darbion Asuna G. Evans. As for the powerful generals of other military control departments or the private generals raised by the nobles, there is still a huge gap between these three.

And after annexing Darbion. Ryan now has a few new players.

For example, the old Duke of Hatch Boulder and the Duke of Kos Hobson, the former Duke of Darbion. There are also Ronnis Holder, the former Marquis of Darbion, and Menso Helian, a follower of the pioneering knight Florence Wiles under the command of the original Asuna. Of course, there is also William Yale, the military commander under Sean Connery, whom Ryan's many nobles don't want to admit at all.

Almost every one of these new heroes has something to do with Sean. How can these people deal with Sean? What's more, Asuna G. Evans is also undoubtedly on Sean's side; and Roald G. Evans must also sit in the Fortress of St. Drones. He is not allowed unless ordered by the royal family. Leaving this fortress without authorization; as for Devin Sodell Sabre, who is known as the "Sword of Lane", he still maintains a neutral attitude, at least until he has a clear statement, he will definitely not be Sean produces any conflicts.

therefore. In the competition of famous generals, the nobles also had to admit. They are still not Sean's opponents.

The last remaining decisive factor is resources.

The location of the Void Nation is east of the Fortress of Tonys, which is the land of the original Kingdom of Darbion. Here, the influence of their former Laing nobles can be said to be minimal, even if they want to implement the so-called economic planting, trade blockade, etc., it is impossible. And even if they join forces to deal with Sean like this, will the other party be afraid?

This person even dared to provoke and declare war by the Chamber of Commerce Alliance, and even completely ransacked the resources of the Chamber of Commerce Alliance. What Shaun did in the Black Market of Gray Shadow, even though some secrecy and the blockade of the Chamber of Commerce after the event were carried out. For some high-ranking nobles, it is not a secret, so they not only know about Sean's behavior, but also a list of some of the items that Sean looted.

is just this list of some of the missing items, enough to make many nobles greedy.

Furthermore, after owning the three territories of Tinkiin, Yedby, and Berbish, Sean basically has no shortage of resources. Besides, he also controls a passage to the wild land. Therefore, it is almost conceivable that, as long as he is given enough time, Sean Connery will become the most powerful duke in the entire Ryan-but this is exactly where all the nobles are helpless.

In the current situation, all the Lion nobles have no good way to restrain the development of Sean.

Unless they want to start civil unrest.

However, starting civil unrest without a suitable excuse is beyond the tolerance of the royal family, so they don't know whether the civil unrest was launched by them, but they will definitely become the first victims of this civil unrest. This kind of business, which can be said to be at a loss, is impossible for any nobleman to do, unless it is really reaching the stage of blood revenge, then other noblemen may find an excuse to intervene.

In this way, the problem is back to the original point: the Dovigo family.

Currently, only the Dovigo family has enough excuses to declare war on Sean. After all, Sean cut off a right hand of Setins Dovigo's own brother, and then sent the right hand back in an extremely humiliating manner. So if the Dovigo family uses this as an excuse, then they can initiate a round of blame on Sean, but no one can guarantee what the final result will be.

After all, what Shaun thinks, none of them knows.

Therefore, the nobles of the Sené nobles, at this time, are waiting for the decision made by their leader.

But for the upper nobles, their minds are no longer on Sean's body at this moment.

They have already felt the urgency of the reshuffle of the nobility class.

Because at the same time as this nationwide celebration is held, there is also the canonization of new nobles. After all, Ryan's promotion from the principality to the kingdom means that many nobles have the opportunity to stand up. Like those marquis, it is possible to be promoted to duke. This is already the highest honor and title in a kingdom. If you can go one step further, then of course you can get complete independence, and then it will be the country. The country is the so-called prototype of the duchy.

However, for a kingdom, the division of the duke must not be too many people, because this is not just a kind of honor and privilege.

At the same time, they must also take care of the so-called vanity and face of the nobility.

If there are too many dukes in a kingdom, then the title is worthless.

So according to the secret investigation of these nobles, it is understood that after Ryan is upgraded to the kingdom, there will be seven dukes.

In order to appease the surrendering nobles of Darbion, this time there will be three dukes assigned to Darbion's nobles, and these three are Hatch Boulder, Kos Hopson and one. The man named Roha Karchi. Among the remaining four duchy titles, there is no doubt that Asuna G. Evans, Roald G. Evans, and Devon Soder Sabre will share three of them.

So the remaining dozens of marquis all stared at the last duke.

But no one thought that this last one was actually taken away by Sean Connery!

.....

At this moment, in a luxurious mansion on Lane Seventh Avenue, it is in a busy scene.

Not far away, there are several carriages slowly approaching this mansion.

Chapter 40: .Shock

Lane Seventh Avenue, originally named Kingdom Seventh Avenue, but after the Lion Kingdom surrendered to the Millennium Covenant Empire and was reduced to a principality, this street would naturally be renamed. Although the name was later changed to Lane Seventh Avenue by the envoy of the Millennium Covenant Empire with a swipe of a pen-it is said that this was a high price paid by the Royal Family of Lane. Otherwise, even the word "big" would not be able to keep-it's just that In the eyes of many Lane people who settled in the royal capital, this street is still known as the Seventh Avenue of the Kingdom.

In this regard, the people of the Millennium Covenant Empire turned a blind eye.

But today, when the Principality of Lane decided to become a kingdom, this street finally restored its original name.

The Seventh Avenue of the Kingdom.

This road is one of the main arterial roads, so it is spacious enough to accommodate four large horse-drawn carriages. And this street is only one block away from the Royal Palace of Ryan, so in terms of the defense area of the royal capital, it is directly included in the patrol area of the Royal Guards of the Royal Palace.

The people living in the mansions on both sides of this street, and even the residents walking on this street, can see the well-dressed elite soldiers passing by with their heads raised from time to time. In this way, this street will naturally become the street with the highest land price in the capital of Lane-whether it is a safe surname or a degree of vanity, it can satisfy those who have a strong bondage.

But I don't know since when, the scale of the mansions on this street has gradually become larger and larger, and even later, if there is no certain level and identity, it is impossible to get a mansion here.

Looking at the people who can live on this street are either marquis of strength, marquis of real power, or the like of powerful earls, you can imagine.

The closer to the east, the more honorable the identity of the owner of the mansion.

And on the east side of this street, a mansion that has been unoccupied for at least ten years, also ushered in a new owner yesterday.

The Void Duke from the Void Neck, Sean Connery.

At this point, those nobles who once doubted whether they had heard the rumors wrong finally had to pinch their noses and admit that this guy who was only Asuna and a watchdog before finally made it to the sky and became a standing in the whole Lane. A great figure at the peak of power- even if the Duke is not in any department of Ryan, everyone knows that the recognized prefix of the Duke in the aristocratic circle will be "strength".

And it will only be strength.

Power Duke.

Such a title alone is enough for any nobles who still want to find Sean's troubles to weigh their own weight.

At least, a veteran nobleman with a solid foundation and superior strength like  Ge, this time has to swallow his breath- of course, is it in the king's capital, or is it really the mind to continue to trouble Sean, that is who Can't make it clear. Perhaps, only those Sené nobles who are on the same front with the  will know the next actions of the  family.

Before, the nobles of Sené had to win a noble who also had the title of duke to join.

It's just that the four dukes like Boulder, Hopson, and the two of the Evans family are obviously impossible, so almost on this day, the entire Seventh Avenue became lively, almost nothing at all. The nobles who contacted and communicated with each other held many banquets, and invited nobles from various circles. In name, it was to celebrate the nationwide celebration and to advance the hot field, and to allow the surrendering nobles of Dabion to better integrate into the noble circle of Ryan, but in fact, it was the nobles of Sené who made their minds. Ha Karchi and Devin Soder Saber, two big figures who are destined to earn the title of duke.

Originally, such a lively atmosphere, even if someone came to Sean at this time, it probably wouldn't be very noticeable.

It's just that the mansion on the east of Seventh Avenue that has not been inhabited for more than ten years and only left a few servants to clean, was once controlled by a certain prince of the royal family, so the reputation of this mansion is really too great. Coupled with Sean's current stay, it is impossible for people not to pay attention. Therefore, when four carriages entered from the main entrance of this mansion, and then stopped in front of the main building, it instantly attracted the attention of all the nobles on the entire Seventh Avenue.

And when they recognized the identities of the people who got off the carriage, the nobles with lower titles all let out a sigh of relief.

The person who got off the first carriage was Asuna G. Evans.

This woman who was once called a demon in Darbion, even if the kingdom of Darbion has been completely destroyed, but in the eyes of those surviving nobles, Asuna's deterrence has only increased. Especially this morning in the list of titles officially conferred by the Royal Family of Lane, this woman officially became the Duke of the Kingdom of Lane-Duke Garrod, named after the Garrod Fortress, which is known as the never-falling gateway to the Kingdom of Darbion.

This is basically announcing that the area from Garrod's fortress, almost close to the four standard duchies, is named Garrod.

For many nobles who still have deep feelings for the Kingdom of Darbion, the existence of Asuna is undoubtedly a natural hatred attractor.

There is no doubt that, in the next life, Asuna will face those diehards who are eager to restore Darbion. However, these are not things that the Royal Family needs to consider. Of course, it is not something that needs to be considered for Asuna. Perhaps as a woman, Asuna's surname is a bit delicate and sensitive, but the same is about treating the enemy. On the one hand, Asuna has never been soft-hearted.

After the battle with Darbion, the number of reactionaries who died under the butcher knife of Asuna was not fifty thousand but thirty thousand. It is even said that in a small city with tens of thousands of people close to the old capital of Darbion, it was ordered by Asuna overnight, and the reason is that more than 70% of the people in this small city are kings of Darbion. It was unrealistic for members of the party's diehard loyalists to want people in this small town to identify them, so Asuna directly ordered the police.

Despite cruelty, this is the best medicine for Garrod, who is desperately in need of stability.

So, when Asuna appeared from the carriage, people who were slightly stronger or very sensitive to aura could feel a suffocating aura surrounding her even if they were far apart.

Compared to Sean, Asuna's murderous aura is more important.

The person who got in and out of the second carriage was in the same position as Asuna in the first carriage.

The former Duke of Darbyan Tequila, now the Duke of Lane Tequila, Hatch Boulder.

Although compared with the agave collar of the Darbion period, the agave collar of today has shrunk greatly. In the canonization ceremony this morning, the entire Boulder family, except for Hatch, who won the title of hereditary duke, Only one other person got the title of a hereditary marquis. The other marquis and earls of the field, who originally occupied a place in the agave collar of the Dabion period, have now become life-long marquis and earls, with all their titles. Have been cancelled.

But for this result, neither the old Duke of Hatch nor other members of the Boulder family raised any objections. In fact, the members of the Boulder family are quite satisfied with this result. After all, it is indeed not easy for the party of the defeated country to retain this kind of treatment, and in some respects, Bol The German family should be considered stronger than before.

After all, the shrinking of the territory means that the future territory that needs to be governed and defended will not be too large, so the heavy losses caused in this war will need to be repaired much less.

The old man with mottled white hair may look a little old, but his awe-inspiring aura is only important to Biasna. Only after years of baptism, the hostility and blood of the time when he opened up the territory has long been gone, but among the old nobles of Dabion, this old man still has a deep prestige.

Old Duke Hatch and Asuna have got out of the car, and after looking at each other, there are some unknown smiles in their eyes.

At this time, the door of the third carriage was also opened, and those who were constantly watching finally focused on the third carriage.

Then this time, the sound of a cold breath was a little heavy.

Because the person who got off the third carriage is also a duke!

Duke of Mandala, Kos Hopson.

The duke with the black mandala flower as his family crest was the former commander-in-chief of the frontier army of the Kingdom of Darbian who was responsible for resisting the kingdom of fascism. If you look carefully, you will find that those few victories have caused the Kingdom of France to suffer heavy losses. Moreover, the Hobson Guards under its command is an elite force that is very good at mountain warfare, defensive warfare, and jungle warfare. Several infiltration battles planned by the border troops of the Kingdom of France were defeated under the defense line guarded by this elite force. .

People who don't know why may despise this middle-aged man, but only the nobles of the southeast faction of Darbian will know that this infamous duke may be among the many generals in Darbian. None of the top ten can be ranked, but in terms of defensive warfare, if he recognizes second, no one would dare to recognize first. If it weren't the case, when the war between Darbian and Ryan broke out. The King of Bion would not let Kos defend the entire Darbian-Fascist line.

The three dukes appear together. If you count the one in this mansion at the moment, then the four dukes have met!

You must know that there are only seven dukes in Ryan now, but four of them have gathered in this mansion at this moment. What a shocking news!

But what made everyone more stunned was the one who got off the fourth carriage.

This is a thin old man. He looks a bit wobbly even when he walks. It seems that as long as a gust of wind blows, the old man will be blown away.

However, in the entire royal capital, even if it is the Royal Family, they dare not despise this old man.

Because he has an extremely prominent identity.

The special envoy of the Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce in Lane.