

Lord of War Vol 3-311

Chapter 311: .The truth about the mermaid

Beth slowly walked to the guardian spirit. ☆ → top☆ → dot☆ → small☆ → say,

As an undead creature, Beth can feel the loss of life force.

I don't know how this guardian heroic spirit was made. There is an unusually active symbol of vitality in the body. It's just that the vitality of this guardian hero is madly losing at this time. At this level, I am afraid that even Hitley will not be able to save it.

"The life bag is broken." Beth glanced at the guardian hero, and then said, "Do you have any last wishes?"

Hearing what Bass said, the guardian heroic expression was taken aback, then he raised his head and looked at Bass. At this moment, the gradually sluggish look of the Guardian Heroic Spirit finally brought on a little anger, and his eyes were full of shock.

"You...you are..." The guardian spirit's eyes gradually revealed a joyful look, "Beth...sir..."

"Hmm." Beth nodded slightly, his cold face, which was as cold as ice, and a rare smile appeared at this time.

"Beth...sir." The guardian spirit said with some surprises, "Wang...Is it okay?"

The king mentioned by the guardian spirit does not mean Andrew.

But Nanali.

Nanali Lampelucci.

The establishment of the mermaid tribe back then was only the product of an unintentional magic experiment by Nanali, so in fact there are big flaws in the blood of these mermaid tribes. This is the real reason why they can never become a legend-mermaid. It's not that there are no strong people in the clan who can become legendary, but once they dare to cross that boundary, then they will be unable to withstand the pressure of the will of the world. And complete destruction.

And this defect was left deliberately by Andrew.

because of them. After all, they are not people who belong to this world, and this world has developed very well. They do not intend to intervene and interfere too much. So for anything that shouldn't belong to this world, Andrew didn't dare to risk leaving a clue—he didn't want to be assimilated by the rules of this world just because of the belief of the inhabitants of this world.

To put it simply, Andrew doesn't want to be a god.

In this world, people think that everything is created by God—this concept can't be said to be wrong. Because the initial establishment of a plane was indeed laid by a strong person, then there were gradually extending and perfecting rules and various creatures born from it—for the natives of this plane, this The creator is the * of creation. But for Beth and others who know the truth about this world. There is no secret in the history of this world.

"It's okay." Beth actually doesn't know where Nanali is now, because each of them received different orders before Andrew fell asleep, but the only thing Beth can know is that Nanali is still there. Alive, so he just hesitated for a while, and then nodded, "Your * king. She's still alive and kicking now. So you can rest assured that she has nothing to do."

It seems that she thought of the appearance of Nana, and this guardian spirit also showed a rare smile.

Beth squatted beside the guardian spirit, whispering—if Enkos or Andrew could see it. Will definitely see if the sun rises from the west, because Beth actually has such a gentle side-saying: "Tell me, why...you become like this?"

"Summoning ceremony. Failed..." The guardian hero gave a wry smile, with some guilt in his eyes. "Sorry, we didn't follow Lord Andrew's advice... So. I think I should stay here and continue to guard and suppress this place in another form to make sure that the demon will not reappear.... It's just that I didn't expect her. 'S strength is far beyond my expectation..."

"It's okay, Enkos will solve the trouble." Beth shook his head, and reached out and patted the guardian spirit gently on the shoulder. "In fact, even if you didn't try that summoning ritual, the world won't be there in the end. Any changes. Twilight of the gods is approaching at that time, and war is unavoidable, but I didn't expect that the target of your summoning ceremony would actually be the devil, not the devil."

Devil and demons, although both are heretical creatures, their personalities are completely different.

At least the devil will follow the summoning cost and agreement, but the devil will not take care of all this. So it's not difficult to imagine what the outcome would be after Elken was summoned out of the seven devil kings, greed, lust, gluttony and gluttony may still have the possibility of negotiation, but the other four It is that there is no possibility of negotiation at all, especially the lord of arrogance.

No one can command the Lord of Pride, even the Great Devil.

"Among us, there were traitors at that time, and the Summoning Array was moved by the people..." The Guardian Hero said with some difficulty, "And at that time, Elken was also seriously injured. We thought we could try to control..."

Control arrogance?

Beth shook his head, even in the plane world he was in, no one would do such a thing. I really don't know whether to say that these guys are courageous, or that they have no brains. But considering these people, they are all Nanaly's dependents, so Beth didn't say any more important words.

"At least you did not escape the responsibility for this failure. You still proved your courage." Beth said softly, "Your * king will be very happy if he knows it."

"Wang is not happy to let us call her the King of God..." The guardian hero smiled, but soon caused a violent cough.

Nanali is a * and a king to the mermaid tribe of the entire miracle continent. So at that time, the mermaid clan always called her the king of gods, but this name made Nanaly very unhappy, so the mermaid clan later called her king.

However, although Nanali is not happy that these guys call him the King of Gods, she has repeatedly said that she will not care about their lives.

But when the first mermaid empire fell, Nanali still protected these guys so that they could successfully establish the second mermaid empire. Otherwise, with the fighting ability of the mermaid tribe, how could it be possible to survive the twilight war of the gods that affected the entire continent. Even when the Second Mermaid Empire was attacked, Nanaly almost shot. If Andrew hadn't subdued Nanaly, no one would be sure that the queen of the deep sea would have given the entire miracle continent because of her anger for a while. Flooded.

Later because of this, Nanali and Andrew had a awkward affair for ten thousand years.

They can only watch the changes in this world silently, like recorders and bystanders, and cannot interfere in the affairs of this world.

This is an order from Andrew.

So, facing Lake, they can take action.

In the face of Elken, the lord of arrogance, they can also take action.

Only when facing the people, things, and things that exist in the world itself, they can't take action at will, they can only take advantage of loopholes in the rules.

This is also the reason why the Mermaid tribe will have survivors later-it is because of the loopholes in the rules that they rescued some survivors of the Mermaid tribe, instead of directly protecting many people like when the First Mermaid Empire was destroyed. Leave.

This is already Andrew's biggest concession. Because at that time, according to Andrew's speculation, the will of the world is likely to directly destroy all the mermaid tribes, including these technological forces left behind by the merman tribe-this is not a force belonging to this world, at least it is impossible to develop it in this era. .

Since then, they have been trying their best to avoid unnecessary emotional entanglements with any creature in this world. For this reason, even the usual meal money is earned bit by bit by Andrew, Nanaly, Ablis, and Dex, who open the tavern, and in order to avoid the occurrence of "acquaintances". , They never stay in one place for a long time, but will keep moving.

"Nanali has always been duplicity. In fact, when you call her the king, she has always been very happy."

If you want to say that Andrew and others have feelings for creatures in this world, then it must be the non-mermaid race. After all, this is a race created by Nana inadvertently, and they have always been in the most glorious period of this world. They all live with these guys. Even if it was the elf who could be regarded as the son of Castile, Andrew and the others just took care of it easily, and did not say that it was because of him.

"Master Beth..." The guardian hero smiled, and then seemed to want to say something.

"The two little guys are okay." Beth knew what the guardian spirit wanted to say, and he said directly, "If it weren't for a storm teleportation array under the altar, it would provide us with more accurate coordinates and channel entrances. , We can't come over so quickly....So, you can rest in peace. With me, no one can take your soul."

"Master Beth, I have another request." The guardian spirit said suddenly.

"Say." Beth nodded, "As long as I can do it, and it doesn't go against the will of the world."

"Please erase my consciousness." The guardian spirit said, "If I hadn't insisted on performing the summoning ritual at the beginning, there would be no later things. No matter how the world is now, this responsibility will finally make me feel Very guilty.... I always feel uneasy for the return of my soul, so... Please erase my consciousness."

"You have to be clear, erasing your consciousness does not mean being reborn." Beth frowned, "but disappeared completely."

"I know." The guardian hero nodded, "But I don't regret it. This is my decision.... I, but the king's guard, I can't discredit the king."

"It's done well enough," Beth said in a deep voice.

"Master Beth, this is my last request."

Chapter 312: .Magic Soul

"Huohuo gone?" Enkos asked while looking at the bass who was standing in front of the guardian hero. ↩top ↩dot ↩small ↩say,

"Go." Beth nodded silently.

"Nanali will be very sad if I know." Enkos curled his lips. "This guy is her favorite. When the survivors moved away, they couldn't find this guy, and Nana was still sad. It's been a while... I didn't expect this guy to come here."

"He is to guard Elken." Beth said in a deep voice, and glanced at Elken's body. Beth's eyes looked very ugly, "No demon is good."

Enkos suddenly shouted: "I am also a demon!"

"So you are not a good product." Beth snorted coldly.

"Do you want to fight!" Enkos suddenly roared, and already started rolling up his sleeves, ready to start the fight, "I will give you a hand!"

In this world, he can play up to the twenty-second level, but the bass can only play the twenty-level. Like them, the existence of the same level, let alone the second-tier gap, even the half-tier strength gap, the final result will be very different. So if you start a fight here, Enkos can finally say to Bass very boldly what he wanted to say for tens of thousands of years.

Just, is Bass like such a stupid person?

"Haha." Beth sneered, and then walked towards the high platform again without looking back, "How is the plane passage matter handled?"

"Oh, those guys have promised to close." After being so bluntly changed the subject, Enkos really forgot to continue clamoring and fighting with Beth, and his attention was suddenly shifted to the smoothness of the plane channel closed. superior. Thinking of those guys hearing what Beth said, they immediately decided to close the plane channel. Enkos felt unhappy, and once he was unhappy. I don't think much about talking to Beth.

Beth was also happy to shut up Enkos. Of course he knew why the closure of the plane channel would be so smooth.

With him and Enkos here, if the big devil hadn't been kicked by the donkey in his head, he would definitely not come over and make trouble. After all, the channel of the plane coordinate points here, as long as they still enable that coordinate, then the plane portal will only appear here. Enkos and Bess stood in front of the door, and they didn't have many demons, unless it was a demon of Enkos's level. And there must be more than four.

Beth glanced at Enkos who looked a little glum. He knew Enkos's head, and he certainly wouldn't understand why those guys would suddenly give up the invasion.

"What are you holding in your hand?" Enkos, who couldn't help himself when he saw Beth not talking, suddenly spoke again.

"Magic soul." Beth replied faintly, "Huohuo asked me to erase his meaning instead of letting him rather let his soul explode.... I used a tricky method to turn his soul into a magic soul, this It can be regarded as allowing him to be preserved in another form."

"This will consume you a lot of pale flames." Enkos said.

Beth did not answer, but continued to walk quietly.

Enkos shrugged. Nothing more.

The two people walked to the high platform in silence, and then followed the closed passage that was destroyed by Enkos's magic flame, and continued to walk down. Neither of them had any interest in talking along the way, they just moved forward quietly. The air could only hear the footsteps of the two as they moved forward, pattering on the steps, but it was different from the spatial vibrating resonance that Elken stepped on deliberately like a show. Enkos and Beth seem very natural.

The passage is actually not particularly long, so the two quickly reached the bottom.

As Beth said before. At the bottom end of this passage is a huge altar.

I didn't know what it was used for. But it can be seen that the altar is very luxurious and exquisite, and there is a female statue on the altar. The sculpture of this female statue is not someone else, it is Nanali, and this altar was used to enshrine Nanali in the past-not in the traditional sense, but made by the mermaid to show respect This altar.

In the center of the altar is a portal of pure energy form.

Around the portal is a light green air stream that continuously rotates. These air currents form an existence similar to a standing mirror. What can be seen through the front and back of the portal is also completely different. However, in the inner space of this green air current, you can see the black air current swimming, and from time to time there are red and deeper black lightning.

Storm portal.

A very dangerous ultra-long-distance portal. What is different from the portals on the Marvel Continent today is that this portal also has the function of fixed-point coordinates.

Just now, it was through this teleportation that Sean and Noro passed the coordinate points to Beth and Enkos, so that Enkos could tear the space barrier at an extremely fast speed, and then rushed to the two of Sean and Noro. However, the breath that radiated when the space barrier was torn apart was also exceptionally violent, so even Noro and Sean were injured by that breath, and the two of them were resting here at this time.

"The movement is quite big." Sean looked pale at Bass and Enkos, and then smiled weakly.

"I really didn't understand, you would be forced to use up the Phoenix Stone by that kind of little guy." Enkos saw Sean and cursed at the beginning, "I thought it was a big devil, but I didn't expect it to be arrogant. ...This kind of little guy is not even an appetizer."

Shaun curled his lips.

I thought that he was not a super power, let alone one of the Seven Demon Kings, even if it was a demon with the status of a regular legion, he would run for his life. The two sides are not at the same level at all, how to fight? Xiao En thinks that his strength is indeed stronger now, but he is not strong enough to fight against the existence of one of the Seven Demon Kings. That is not bravery, it is completely seeking death.

"He is not an arrogant opponent." Beth interrupted Enkos's mutter.

In a sense, Sean is also a disciple of Beth, so he still has to come forward to help Sean. However, Xiao En's growth did surprise Beth a little bit—this plane is no better than the plane he is in. It's not easy for the martial artist to grow in strength, especially when it comes to martial arts, combat experience, The growth of consciousness and so on, this is even more difficult.

In the eyes of Beth, Shawn may not have strong understanding of sword skills, and can only be regarded as a so-so level, not even an average. But he does have his own merits. How many years has he not encountered this kind of balanced growth that can go hand in hand in many aspects? And most importantly, in Sean's body, Beth can clearly feel that Sean's insight into swordsmanship has reached a very high level.

"Here, here you are." Beth walked up to Sean and handed him a box.

Sean rarely sees Bass showing a serious and cautious scene, so at this time he naturally took the wooden box with some sincerity, fearing that it would fall off accidentally. What makes Bass take so seriously must be very important in Sean's view, so he can't help but take it seriously.

"What is this...?" Sean asked cautiously, but didn't dare to open it easily.

"Magic soul." Beth said softly.

But these words shocked Sean, and almost threw the box out.

Magic soul!

This thing is an essential material for the artifact!

Anything that wants to become a divine tool must nurture a magical soul from it, so that it can comprehensively transform the defects of a piece of equipment and make it grow automatically. Only in this way can a piece of equipment be able to break away from the category of "man-made" and thus truly reach the ranks of "artifacts".

Shaun remembers that in the dawn and dusk times, the blacksmiths at that time had the special ability to hunt souls, which allowed them to artificially create magic souls. And at that time, it was also the era of the proliferation of artifacts-when you were away, you were embarrassed to greet people without a artifact. Later, when the gods erupted in the twilight, the reason why the people had the ability to kill the gods was also because they held the artifact.

When the war ended, the gods declared that the soul was the domain of the gods in order to prevent this mass murder, and no one in this world could study the soul. As a result, those who have the ability to capture souls will gradually disappear and die. Now, if you want to create artifacts, you can only produce a trace of spirituality from the equipment itself, and thus give birth to magic souls. Artifact.

Since the Age of Ashes to the present tens of thousands of years, there are only three pieces of equipment that have become artifacts due to the spirituality of the equipment.

Sean looked at the magic soul in his hand, the expression on his face looked very excited.

He has been looking for the most suitable materials for the Black King. If he has this magic soul, as long as he can collect some other rare materials, and there are no mistakes in the forging process, there will be a hundred There is a 40/40 chance that an artifact can be successfully born!

Artifact!

In the game, the most coveted thing for all players who learn to forge is to be able to successfully forge an artifact! Because although the game restricts players from making equipment above the legendary level, it does not restrict players from continuing to study forging skills. According to the official tone, as long as you have special materials, it is possible to forge one. Pieces of artifact equipment.

Later, after many inquiries, the player finally knew that this special material is the magic soul!

At this moment, Sean can't wait to return to the Void Duchy immediately, and then start his journey of forging the Black King!

Is there anything more exciting than forging an artifact?

Shaun couldn't think of anything else.

Chapter 313: .Egg of Gods and Demons

"Don't be too happy. 𐄂 Top 𐄂 Dian 𐄂 Xiao 𐄂 said," Beth said faintly when he saw Sean's joy. Allows you to incorporate the magic soul into the equipment."

"That..." Sean was taken aback, and then said, "Then what flame do I use?"

"Abyss fire,  fire, anything will do." Enkos suddenly smiled, looking very happy.

But after hearing Enkos's words, Sean's face instantly became difficult to look.

These two kinds of flames simply cannot exist in this material world. Even if he can really enter the abyss plane or  plane, will those demons and demons honestly let him build artifacts? Even if they could, but the energy fluctuations generated when the artifact was born, it is impossible to hide those demons and demons, even in the material world, as long as people with sufficient strength can sense it.

Not to mention those two terrifying planes, maybe there will be strong players on the main material plane to  them.

"If you don't make trouble, you will die?" Beth glanced at Enkos, and then said, "The fire in the center of the earth is also possible.... In the Age of Dawn and Ashes, those blacksmiths used the center of the earth when they made artifacts and equipment. Fire...This kind of flame can still be found on the Marvel Continent today, but it is not easy to borrow it. You can consider the Silver Coast Empire of the Gray Dwarves, the Gunfire Empire on the West Continent, If it doesn't work anymore, the Legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce also has a geocentric lava furnace....If it doesn't work, you can only go to the underground world. It's much easier to find the fire in the underground world than on the surface."

Listen to Beth. Sean silently remembered all these places.

However, the legendary fire hammer is over there. Sean didn't count on it.

Now he is already a dark household in the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance. As long as he dares to go to the trading capital, then the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance will definitely deal with him. So the only things that can be considered are the Silver Coast Empire and the Gunfire Empire. It's just that the reputation of the gray dwarves has not been very good, and the silver coast empire is not all gray dwarves who have the final say. The polar dwarves also have a large dominant position. Maybe they know that Sean is going to forge the artifact, but instead Will take action to * it.

"Can I only go to the Gunfire Empire, or go to the underground world to try my luck?" Sean frowned slightly. For a while, I was a little undecided.

Underground world, he intends to go.

But on the Western Continent, he didn't plan to go.

There is a real war-torn place.

Dwarves, orcs, and elves are basically concentrated in the Western Continent, where humans have always been at a disadvantage. Moreover, even human beings are not united in themselves. The outbreak of conflicts between countries is considered normal behavior. Even if it is a battle in three or five days, it can be treated as a military training. The real biggest problem is that there are more than 30 gods on the Western Continent. Therefore, from time to time, there will be wars of God-wars of this scale, but will affect the survival of several countries, and sometimes even involve dwarves, orcs, and elves.

Thinking of the Western Continent, Sean suddenly thought of Elsie. I don't know how Elsie is now.

Looking at Sean's sudden loss of consciousness, Beth gave a light cough, which caused Sean's spirit to be pulled back again.

He raised his head and looked at Beth. I saw Beth glance at Sean, and then said again: "I know your current situation is not very good. So I am afraid it will be a bit troublesome to collect materials, I also left a heart of the arrogant lord for you outside. ... You want to use it yourself. Or use it as a forging material, whatever you like."

Enkos curled his mouth, the heart was obviously just forgotten to squeeze, but now it is actually used by Bass as a favor. However, I want to return to thinking, but now I am dismantling the bass, Enkos is not so shameless, although the two of them often dislike each other, but on the whole, when facing outsiders, they can still maintain a unity and unity.

It's like, when Enkos can't find Rek to be furious, Beth will come out to reassure him.

And when the Lord of Pride provokes Enkos, Beth will also have the idea of tearing Elken to pieces.

They are a group.

"I'll still be the material." Sean thought for a while, then said.

If Sean had the blood of a demon, then he wouldn't mind absorbing the blood of the Seven Demon Kings. In this way, he could also increase his strength very much, maybe even touch the side of the legend in one breath. You know, the power of the devil is all concentrated on the main heart, so Sean guessed that the main heart that can be left by Beth and others must be this main heart.

It's just that he doesn't have the blood of a demon—at least Sean doesn't think he has the blood of a demon. So unless he is willing to become a demon, then he can use the power of this demon's heart, otherwise this heart is just a piece of material for him. Under normal circumstances, Sean might take the risk to obtain the blood of the upper demon, but under the limitation of the bloodline ability of the real eye, Sean does not want to take the risk. Who knows that after becoming a demon, this is true. The power of the eye cannot yet exist.

"It's up to you." Beth shrugged, "There is one more thing, I want to tell you."

"What?" Sean asked.

"If you don't reach the strength of the sanctuary, don't take the risk." Beth said, "the temperature of the fire in the heart of the earth is extremely high. It is impossible for a body like you to approach and forge. The strength of the domain is good."

Hearing what Beth said, Sean was a little dumbfounded.

To build a piece of equipment, does this Nima need the strength of Sanctuary? But seeing Bass was not joking at all, Sean thought for a while, and decided that it would be better to follow Bass's instructions, after all, Bass would not harm him. If he waits for him to find the fire in the heart of the earth, but finds that he can't get close or forge it, then he will really want to cry without tears.

Just in this way, he must change his next itinerary.

Originally, Sean planned to go to the Millennium Covenant Empire first. Now it seems that you still have to improve your own strength first.

After experiencing this time, Sean's mentality has also changed a bit. Before this, Shaun always believed that as long as his strength was not thrown too far away by his enemies. Then there is no need to rush to improve, but to control the situation as much as possible and form your own momentum, so that you can have a greater living space—after all, he is a lord, not a hero, and his subordinates have a strong enough is enough.

But now, Sean doesn't look like that.

If your own strength becomes stronger, then it will cooperate with the national strength of the Void Principality. Oneself will form a greater momentum. Moreover, his enemies can no longer take action against him, and the shackles on Sean will become less, so he has more room and leeway for what he wants to do. At least, if he had the strength not inferior to Elken today, then he would not be forced by this demon king to use the precious Phoenix Stone.

That is a life-saving item left by Andrew, which can only be used once!

But he used this precious opportunity here, and Sean felt a little regretful—he had originally planned to use it for the recovery of Utopia.

"I see." Sean nodded, his eyes became firm. He has made a choice.

"Very good." Beth nodded, "The Phoenix Stone has already been used by you, so next... Even if you have something, it will be difficult for us to come and support you as soon as possible. Do you know that?"

Shaun nodded.

Beth thought for a while, and then said: "Since you also know, then take advantage of it now. Ask everything you want to ask, and I will give you a clear answer all at once.... This way you also have new goals and directions. . I don't know what I am going to do next."

"Thank you!" Xiao En sincerely thanked him.

Then, Sean explained all the troubles he encountered in practicing swordsmanship. Among them are some of the problems of requiem and calming souls. Faced with these problems of Sean, Beth was also surprised to find that Sean had gone so far on the road of swordsmanship, which has far exceeded Beth's expectations. Perhaps among those disciples who received before bass, Sean is not very good, at least in the mastery of the seven forms of soul, Sean behaves stupidly.

However, on the road of Juggernaut, Sean is better than those of his disciples, and many of them are only encountered when they have to walk the path of God.

And Sean had already met at this time, so this shows that if Sean wants to embark on the road of the sword emperor in the future, he will be more smooth sailing.

The answering time is actually not long, because Sean's foundation is pretty good, and many of the questions are in fact analogous, so after Bass answered a few larger questions, Sean was able to deal with those small questions. Own understanding.

In fact, this kind of understanding of one's own answers is the real mastery.

"Are there any questions?" Beth seemed to be satisfied with Sean, so his attitude at this time was unusually mild.

Sean thought about it very seriously, then opened the bag that had been tied to his belt, and took out Gollum: "Mr. Beth, do you know what this is?"

Guru has been in deep sleep for several years. Only once did he tremble when he met a pastor of the Morning Light Church, and then he was silent again. As for Sean, his instincts have always told him that this thing must never be encountered by the people of Chenguang Church, so Xiao En dare not take it out, and even go to the people of Chenguang Church. At this moment, when seeing the well-informed bass, Sean finally couldn't help taking it out, because he was so worried that something would happen to Guru, because even the marshmallows had evolved. NS.

"God's egg!" Beth's face changed suddenly when he saw Gollum, "Where did you get this stuff?"

Seeing Beth's face changed drastically, Sean immediately realized the seriousness of the problem. It's just that he couldn't tell Beth about his system, so he had to make up an excuse to deal with it, but fortunately, Beth's attention was completely focused on this "egg of the gods and devil" at this time, and he did not notice Xiao. En's weird look flashed in just a moment, so he didn't really pay attention to this excuse that Sean said.

After listening to Sean's general story, Beth sighed, and then said: "This thing... is very special, not ordinary.... Basically, the egg of the * and devil can grow into any creature, no one Knowing what it will become in the end, because this kind of growth is determined by what he encountered before he became an adult."

"That is to say... if it decides not fast enough before it becomes transformed, it is likely to have very fast ability after transformation. And if it needs four legs, then it is likely to be able to Four legs grow out.... It is very possible to grow wings, grow huge body, or simply become a person, because no one knows what this thing will become in the end."

"Then... Mr. Beth, do you know why... he is doing this now?"

"I have absorbed too much magical power, and my body is out of balance, so I fell into a deep sleep." Beth said with a complicated expression, "You can find someone, maybe he can help you... But you It's best to move fast, because you've wasted a lot of time. This little guy will probably be alive within a few years."

Chapter 314: .Teach [\[first more\]](#)

Beth looked at the thing in Sean's hand with a somewhat complicated expression. ○

This is not the first time he has seen Gollum.

It's just that when we saw him that time, he didn't recognize Gulu's true identity. At that time, he simply thought that Guru was just a light spirit. After all, the divine power that Guru radiated was the purest power of light. As a bass who had been to the realm of light, he naturally mistakenly believed that this stuff was. The young soul of light, also known as the light spirit.

As long as there is sufficient light's original power, this thing can quickly transform and evolve into an angel. Therefore, in the light realm, the light elves are also the basis for maintaining the development of the entire light realm, and the angels evolved from it are the most important power in the entire light realm. Like the Lord of Morning Light, Legzain, his priesthood and godhood are actually related to the laws of the realm of light. In a sense, he is the legal representative of the creation * of the realm of light on different planes. Therefore, He is also qualified to order and dispatch an army of angels.

If Shaun's thing is really a light spirit, then it's not a problem to eventually cultivate a seraph.

This is also the reason Beth said before that Sean got a good thing.

But now, after feeling the incomparable magical power in Gollum, Beth knew that he had guessed the identity of Gollum wrong before.

Light elves, dark elves, and eggs of gods and devils are extremely similar. If you are not a very professional and authoritative scholar in this field, it is impossible to distinguish the difference between the three at a glance. Of course, most people don't even know what the Egg of the God and Demon is—at least Beth is not very clear about what it is, the information about the Egg of the God and Demon. He also heard it from Andrew, and the only thing he knew was that this kind of thing was a creature of a higher latitude space plane.

Now. Beth finally knew why Gollum was afraid of himself.

Magic and death, these are two completely different energies.

The eggs of gods and demons can absorb demonic nature. But it repels death—basically, all living creatures repel death.

"The devilish energy in his body is too strong now that it disrupts his body balance. In order to ensure his own safety, he can only fall asleep." Beth said in a deep voice, "But...somewhat strange."

"What's weird?" Sean carefully put Gulu away, and then asked.

"This magical aura is already very powerful, at least far beyond the limit it can bear. Logically speaking, your little guy should not survive." Beth frowned slightly. He glanced at Enkos. Although Beth didn't want to admit it, in terms of magical nature, Enkos was actually more like an expert than him. He was good at necromantic aura.

"Normally, it would have been damned a few years ago." When Enkos saw Beth looking at him, he naturally knew what Beth was going to ask, so he replied directly, "But there is a force in it that protects his core. Let him not be swallowed by the huge magical power so soon.... But, at most, there will be only one or two years left, or even shorter. I am not an expert in this area. I don't know the specific situation. "

"Andrew once took Gollum away." After hesitating for a while, Sean still spoke.

Beth and Enkos glanced at each other, and then there was a clear look in their eyes.

If it was Andrew's hand. Then the reason why Guru is still alive has also been explained.

About this question. Beth and Enkos will be a little curious, but that's all. They will not go on asking questions too thoroughly. And as long as it involves Andrew's things, in the view of Beth and Enkos, these things are not a problem at all, and there is nothing in this world that Andrew can't do.

"Who is that person?" Sean asked.

"Hercules." Beth looked a little weird, "Well, speaking of... he is in the Kingdom of Lane now, but even I can't sense the specific position, but it is generally certain that The Roma steppe area."

Roma Steppe?

Shaun was taken aback.

This is a vast grassland in the hinterland of the Kingdom of Lane. It is not too far from the acorn grassland. It is probably separated by two earls. The straight-line border is about a week or so on horseback. Sean will know this place in detail, because if he wants to continue his sanctuary mission, he must go to Roma City and pick up a figure about the bronze body there. This city of Roma is the county town of Earl of Suen, and it is also one of the points of establishment of the magic circle network in the Kingdom of Lane this time. Now all the magic circles in the Kingdom of Lane are open to use, so this can leave a lot for Sean. Hurry up time.

"Is this guy, amazing?" Sean thought for a while, seeing that Beth's face was a little weird, so he asked.

"That guy...you try not to provoke him." Beth said, then took a piece of parchment from his body and handed it to Sean.

There is a picture of a teenager painted on this parchment. The teenager smiled very brightly, and showed two tiger teeth. However, underneath the portrait is a series of zeros. Sean could not understand the words written on the parchment. He guessed that it should not be the words of this world, but as long as a normal person can see it, this parchment is nothing but one. Wanted Zhang, the series of zeros below is definitely a bounty.

More than one billion bounty!

Sean can't imagine what kind of concept this is, but what is conceivable is that this person is definitely a very vicious guy.

Just don't know why, Sean always felt that this teenager seemed familiar.

But in this world, he hasn't seen many teenagers. If he really feels familiar, he must have encountered it in the game. It's just that the brain seems a bit messy now, so Sean can't remember the specific situation for a while. It's just that he knows that if he can make him feel familiar, they will definitely be more important characters in the game, and it is likely to involve some unnecessary troubles.

"Well, that's all I can say, the rest. You just work hard." Beth put the parchment away.

Sean keenly saw that when Beth hid the parchment in the lining of his dress. He saw several pieces of parchment. Both the material and the size are exactly the same as the one Beth was holding just now, which proves that the pile of parchment Beth just now must be a wanted order. It's just that Sean can't understand the text above. So it's not clear what the specific situation is, but if Beth can be so cautious, I'm afraid it should be a very powerful enemy.

And the thought of Beth asking himself to find such a vicious guy, and also telling him not to provoke him as much as possible, Sean felt a horror.

It's just that when he thought that Gulu would not fall into a deep sleep if it wasn't for himself, Sean felt uneasy.

So in any case, he must go to the Roma steppe. Look for this guy named Hercules.

"By the way, I think you seem to have learned about Requiem and Requiem." Beth doesn't know Sean's thoughts, so it is not too much of the lack of consciousness that Sean shows at this time. "Then I will teach you to pick it up. Two tricks to come down."

As soon as he heard that Beth was planning to teach himself the new Seven Soul Pose, Sean immediately became focused.

Requiem and soul-suppression are now his biggest killer sword skills.

It's just that Requiem is used to deal with high-level gold powerhouses, it seems a little powerless, and Requiem is used to deal with sanctuary-level powerhouses, only when the opponent does not pay special attention to themselves. And it must be a lower sanctuary. If it is a powerful sanctuary with a higher realm, the momentum change at the moment when the soul is shot, it is easy to be caught by the opponent, and thus quickly distanced from Sean. In this way, Sean will also lose the last resort to turn defeat into victory.

Therefore, for the Seven Forms of Soul, Sean has always been eager to learn the next trick.

And this time. Beth actually said that he wanted to teach himself two seven soul-calling styles, how could Sean not get excited.

"The first move. It's called Broken Soul." Beth drew out the sword of sealing, and then said lightly. "To be honest, as long as you have mastered the words of calming souls and requisite souls, soul-breaking is actually not too difficult for you, because to put it bluntly, it is just a sword swung after the power has been fully poured and concentrated."

While said so, Beth also quickly swung his sword down.

Hack.

is just the simplest action to hack.

Sean didn't even see any peculiarities. The only thing he could feel was that the speed of the bass movement was so fast that there was no sound when he swung it down. If he didn't see it with his own eyes, he couldn't feel it at all. Beth has shots.

But the next second, Sean was stunned.

He finally realized what was wrong!

It's too quiet!

Even if Sean is performing the downward slashing action, the long sword will make a whistling sound, because the weight of the weapon itself is impossible to eliminate, and the greater the power, the greater the increase in power generated when swinging the weapon, then it should be The resulting sound will also become louder-this is also the most common concept in martial arts, the louder the sound, the greater the power.

Seeing Sean's look, Beth knew that Sean already understood a little: "Understood?"

Sean nodded, then shook his head: "Generally speaking, I understand it, but...I can't explain it."

Beth seems to be very satisfied with Sean's reaction. This time his actions are indeed different from the previous careful teaching, which is mainly to test Sean. Seeing that Sean didn't know how to pretend to understand, Bass was still very satisfied, so his expression became a lot more friendly: "Then I will do it again, you look good."

This time, Beth's shot was really slow.

And Sean did not hesitate to open the Eye of Reality and he was promoted to the fourth level with the ability: energy detection.

Soon, Sean saw that when Beth swung down the long sword, with the long sword as the core, within a millimeter of radius around it, countless vindictive spirits were surging crazily. These fighting spirits turned into small whirlpools, covering everything around the long sword completely, like a black hole, not only swallowing the light, but also the sound, as if in this sword No matter what is blocking the front of the sword, it will be broken directly!

【Checked out the special sword skill "Soul Resurrection", learning skills requires strength 100, endurance 50, and agility 100. You have met the learning requirements because you have discovered the special mystery of sword skills, so the skill activation requires proficiency points to get the corresponding exemption. The current activation only requires 30 proficiency points. You have enough proficiency points, do you activate this skill? 】

"No!" Sean didn't even think about it. He refused directly.

He feels that he has mastered the essence of soul-breaking, and he does not need to consume proficiency points to activate soul-breaking. He intends to master the soul-breaking by his own efforts, just like he had learned to calm the soul. And these 30 proficiency points, Sean is also prepared to leave it to see through. This passive skill has now begun to gradually play a more important role, especially in the fight against the sanctuary powerhouse. Whether or not see through determines Sean. Can you succeed in breaking away from the killing of the sanctuary powerhouse?

With Sean's current strength, he naturally can't fight head-on with the sanctuary strong, so seeing through can bring him a great effect. As for the promotion to the sanctuary in the future, the value of seeing through will only be greater and cannot be reduced. After all, in addition to suppressing each other's domains, the battle between the sanctuary powerhouses is also how to make the battle end at a faster speed, so it is particularly important to see through this big killer.

"This time, do you understand?" Beth asked.

"Basically understand, as long as I work harder, I should be able to master it quickly." Xiao En's answer was full of confidence.

Beth didn't doubt the others either, he nodded, and then some mysteries of the soul was broken. In particular, the skills of exerting force have been mentioned, which, for Xiao En, will help to master the soul-breaking faster. You know, when I was teaching Requiem and Requiem before. Beth didn't say it in such detail, just casually explained and introduced it, and Sean took care of the rest.

at this time. Xiao En also understood that it turned out that the greatest value of breaking the soul. Not for attack, but for defense!

In front of Broken Soul. Whether it is magic, fighting spirit, enchantment, or other things, they can all be broken with a single sword. The innumerable tiny vortexes entwined with the sword are not only vindictive, but also include the power of the law-under the attack of the power of the law, there are not many things in this world that can stop it. If it can be blocked, then it is definitely not something that Sean can handle now, at least this can also prove that he is inferior to the opponent in the understanding of the law.

"The second trick is to kill the soul." Beth said briefly, then swung his sword again and fell.

This sword is exactly the same as the broken soul.

However, in the real eyes of Sean, he saw countless vindictive energy entwined on the sword body, and the law was the law that stretched out from the sword body.

Although this sword looks very similar to Soul Breaking, it actually represents two extremes of power.

Broken soul is to force the weak to break through all obstacles.

Soul Slashing is to defeat the strong by the weak and remove all flaws.

If you must say something, then the former is a manifestation of strength, while the latter is a manifestation of skill. Although the two swords seem to be the same, the usage is completely different. At least Soul Breaking is more like an attack technique used to defend, resist, and counterattack after dormant; while Soul Slashing is actually an offensive technique. There is no calmness and unparalleled speed of suppressing everything, nor the calm and calm atmosphere of Requiem and the inevitable despair that makes people feel unavoidable, but there is the kind that neither of them has. Give me the domineering aura.

Sean just watched Beth swing a sword, but the whole person exuded a very domineering aura.

Just watching from the side, Xiao En felt unable to look directly, the breath of his body was completely drawn up, and he did not dare to be an enemy at all. He couldn't imagine how he would feel if he stood in front of the boss at this time. But the only thing he knows is that if he is standing in front of Beth at this time, he will definitely be killed by Beth's sword.

[The special sword skill "Soul Slash" is checked. The learning skill requires strength 140, endurance 100, and Tier 9 occupation. If you do not meet the current learning conditions, this skill cannot be activated currently.]

Hearing the prompt sound from the system, Sean was taken aback for a moment.

He did not expect that Soul Slashing is a skill that needs the power of the domain as support!

In the game, all skills that can be learned by occupations of rank 9 and above must be skills that involve the power of law. These skills have one thing in common, that is, they have very powerful lethality, so they are also called " Sanctuary martial arts". In the beginning of the game, many players who have already reached the tenth and eleventh levels may not be able to learn the martial arts of the sanctuary, because the difficulty of acquiring such skills is too high.

After all, Miracle Continent is not an overpowering game. It is impossible to say that one person can dominate the whole world. Therefore, many skills and career advancement will have very strict restrictions. Of course, if you can master it, then it is also your ability. Of course, people with this ability will not hinder their growth. It's just that as far as Sean knows, there were no more than a hundred players who could master the martial arts of the sanctuary in the game.

According to Beth's seven forms of soul, there are a total of seven forms, and if the fourth form is already a sanctuary martial art, then the next three forms are probably stronger than one!

If you have a complete mastery of the seven types, this is probably the lowest level ten skill!

At this time, Sean really felt completely excited.

"Do you understand it?" Beth rehearsed in slow motion again, so that Sean could see Soul Slash better, and then asked.

"I already understand!" Xiao En nodded, "It's just that I don't feel I can master it yet. I think I should first become a sanctuary powerhouse before I can truly control this sword. "

In fact, the learning of Soul Slashing is much easier than that of Soul Slashing.

Its biggest problem is that it needs the support of the law, and there is nothing special besides it.

Chapter 315: .The desire for power [second more]

Beth and Enkos did not stay for too long, they quickly chose to leave, and at the same time told Sean how to leave the mermaid capital. 【,

Actually, this mermaid capital does not retain much.

Many things have been emptied when Lanster's grandparents first came here, and the remaining things that can't be moved are also not very important things. The reason why Lanster was allowed to come to the Mermaid Capital was only to allow Lanster to empty the library of the Mermaid Capital—that storage ring exists for this reason. After all, for the mermaid clan, knowledge It is very important content.

As for the five sacred treasures of the mermaid, Beth only knows the whereabouts of the Deep Sea Pearl, which is now in the ruins of Atlantis.

As for this ruin, Sean didn't have any idea. He didn't plan to open up wasteland at all. No matter it is now or in the future, no normal people can use the things that open up wasteland anyway. In the game, opening up wasteland is all for experience, blood, and other messy things, but Sean is not short of these things now, why does he even venture to open up wasteland for a ruin that will benefit the world?

The mermaid crown is worn on Huohuo's head. It is heard that there are fish people around Sean, but Beth left the crown to Sean and told Sean the secret of the crown.

Actually, the mermaid crown was made by Andrew, which is said to refer to the control center made by the puppet creature he encountered during an adventure. In addition to being a symbol of image status, the greater value of this holy crown lies in the manipulation of organ puppets. The mermaid wearing the mermaid holy crown has control over all organ puppets. This is also the secret used by successive emperors of the Mermaid Empire to suppress the riots.

Only, with the disappearance of the Mermaid Crown in the First Empire. The organ puppets developed during the Second Mermaid Empire have undergone some changes, and they are no longer controlled by the Mermaid Crown. Instead, a new set of magic array control system was used. Of course, because the construction template of the agency puppets is still the blueprint of the first mermaid empire, these agency puppets can still be controlled by the mermaid crown.

It's just that after Sean got the Mermaid Crown, he faced two problems.

First, only Lanster can use the mermaid crown function.

Secondly, Sean has no mechanism puppets—the mechanism puppets in the Mermaid City at this time have long been destroyed in the battle with the demon soldiers in the noise made by Elken just now. If it weren't for Enkos to let these demons roll back into the abyss. Now Sean might still have a headache to clean up these demons.

Therefore, unless Shaun creates a new organ puppet, the mermaid crown is basically worthless. And even if Sean intends to create an agency puppet army, it is required that the agency puppet army must obey his command and control, rather than obey the manipulation of this * mermaid holy crown.

So, the mermaid crown that Beth threw directly to Sean now only has a symbolic effect.

As for the other three mermaid sacred treasures, the heart of the mermaid is in Lanster's hands, and the trident and the sea * sword are truly missing.

However, these treasures are not artifacts anyway. No one can use it except for the mermaid, so Sean has no interest at all. Especially after knowing that there are no treasures in the Mermaid City, Sean even has nothing to explore. When Beth and Enkos left, Sean gave a piece of earth fragments full of the power of the eight-section rule and the bones of the deep sea goblin to Beth. If you count the material that Beth found himself and the one that Shaun gave before, Andrew's material list will only be missing nine materials.

Wait until Beth and Enkos leave, and Sean joins Harding, Hitley, Oriana and others. Everyone waited for Lanster to return.

Sure enough, it did not disappoint everyone's expectations. The first time Lanster woke up, he returned directly to the mermaid capital. Instead of leaving here to go back for help.

The next thing is easy to deal with.

With the direction Beth pointed out, Sean asked everyone to help Lanster. After emptied the entire collection of the Mermaid Capital Library, they set off to return to the surface-through a short-distance portal, everyone was very happy. He soon returned to the water demon secret store. Originally, Xiao En thought that this mermaid had a lot of treasures, so he emptied the storage ring, but he didn't expect it to be a white joy, so Xiao En was still a little unhappy.

Of course, if you want to say that there is no gain, that is not all.

Eight laws of the earth, the main heart of the seven demon kings, a complete magic soul, a mythical skill crystal, a mythical spear, a sanctuary martial art, a powerful defensive sword skill, and the way to wake up.

Any one of these gadgets is enough to say that it is a perfect harvest, let alone get them all at once.

But Sean is still a little dissatisfied.

After all, he is not in a situation where he is fed alone and the whole family is not hungry. What he has to consider is the entire Principality, but there is not much time for him to waste. In particular, the current situation of the Void Principality is not an exaggeration to say that it is trapped in the quagmire of a long war. The residents of the entire Principality are almost reaching the situation of ten households and five empty spaces, plus the massacre and lockdown of the city ordered by William before, for a short time. I am afraid that there will not be a large number of refugees moving into the Void Principality, so the source of troops will immediately become tense.

It is not a long-term solution to rely on the slaves of the trading capital to supplement.

Not to mention that Sean is now on the blacklist of the trading capital, it is strange that the trading capital is willing to engage in slave trade with him. Just say that he has agreed to the Wild Federation and no longer engages in the slave trade, then he and the Void Duchy must also lead by example.

Therefore, the development of the population is now completely one of the most annoying places for Sean.

After all, this is reality, and it is not a stand-alone game. If there is a shortage of people in the game, I can open a modifier to change it.

Shaun is really having a headache.

It's just no matter what the headache, this kind of policy that requires recuperation must not be able to prosper so quickly. According to Sean's speculation, there is no more than five or six years, and I am afraid that there is no way to enter the second period of vigorous development. Especially after the Void Principality established itself, no matter how good the welfare policy is, the continuous wars are enough to scare the refugees from migrating.

Furthermore, even if these refugees want to migrate, those noble lords will not let go, which is still a problem.

After all, population is an important foundation for the development of a territory.

If there is not a sufficient population, no matter how vast a territory is and no matter how rich its resources are, it is meaningless.

Sitting in the study, Xiao En looked through the window to the streets of the wild city, his expression very calm.

Wild City, this is the stronghold of the fortress that Maine built before, but now it has developed like a prosperous metropolis in Andre's hands. Sean has considered bringing the Savage Legion back here. After all, it is a relatively dangerous thing for such a prosperous city without a strong army. It's just that the Savage Legion is now in Hela's hands and has been sent to the front. Go, so it's not easy to deal with for the time being.

"Are you really going to leave?" Noro asked, standing at the door, frowning.

"Yes." Shaun said in a deep voice, "I thought for a long time. Before we have enough strength, it is meaningless to play any conspiracy and tricks....We can indeed take advantage of the Millennium Covenant Empire to take advantage of our time. At that time, quickly sent troops to force the Millennium Covenant Empire to agree to our requirements, but what will happen afterwards?... Once Utopia develops, no one will be jealous. With our current strength, it is impossible to hold it."

Nolo doesn't know what utopia is, but it's not a day or two since he came to this time. Of course, he knows what kind of country the Millennium Covenant Empire is.

Now, this empire is really in civil strife. The war that should have ended was dragged into the quagmire because of some accidents. Now, whether it is the Emperor's Army or the rebel army, it is in a dilemma. With the ambition of the Emperor of the Millennium Covenant, it is absolutely impossible to continue to allow these rebellious nobles to cause rebellion, so even if those noble rebels are willing to seek peace and are willing to return to the emperor's command, the emperor will not agree.

If at this time, Sean and the Wild Federation unite to push the Empire, then there will be two possibilities.

One is that the Millennium Covenant Empire abandons all internal contradictions and unites against Shaun's Void Duchy and the Wild Federation; the other is to agree to Sean's request to cede all the black land in the southern part of the empire and the millennium covenant area of the Wild Lands to Xiao kindness. It's just that, the second plan is a shame for the Millennium Covenant Empire, which may speed up the imperial emperor after sweeping up internal instability at all costs, looking for an excuse to start a war with Sean.

With the current situation of the Void Duchy, it is absolutely impossible to stop the army of the Millennium Covenant Empire.

As for the Wild Federation, Sean doesn't think these guys will help him with bad guys, after all, they are just cooperation agreements. Before absolute benefits, they can be the closest allies, partners, and friends, but once the Void Principality falls into a sign of decline, I am afraid they will become hungry wolves. Shaun can trust the Winter Tribe and the Wall Tribe. As well as the Big Red Fire tribe and Luo Xiluo, but they can't believe in the other tribes, especially the two dwarf tribes.

Because as long as the Principality of Void can be annexed, it is equivalent to opening a commercial export. At that time, they will not need to pass through the Principality of Void if they want to obtain any materials.

And to get rid of this predicament, then strength is needed.

Sean, needs a powerful force, enough to make people dare not easily rise up a rebellious heart.

"I have arranged everything." Sean said in a deep voice, "This time, I will travel by myself, and you will also have a chance to take a vacation.... Of course, if you don't mind the trouble, help William Remove all the bad blood, and then tell him to return to the Void Duchy as soon as possible. This time...I am afraid I will be away for a longer time."

Chapter 316: .Jason's curiosity [third more]

The emergence of Magic Teleportation Array benefits the entire miracle continent. ... \leq ,

It has greatly shortened the distance of the entire world, which makes the transportation of many lighter goods no longer so expensive and out of reach. Of course, large quantities of goods still have to travel by land or sea. After all, the transmission of the magic teleportation array is the consumption of magic power by weight. So if the amount of goods is too large or too much, using the magic teleportation array will be a loss-making business.

Of course, with the emergence of the Magic Transmission Array, the Magic Communication Network has also been covered and used on a large scale.

In the past, the magic communication crystal could only be used in an area with strong magic power, and there were also distance restrictions. But since the Magic Teleportation Array was laid, the communication distance of the Magic Communication Crystal has been increased by more than ten times. Now many battle reports and news can be transmitted in the first time-of course, if the two areas are in During the war, it is a different matter, because the magic teleportation array will definitely be closed during the war.

Void Grand Duke went deep into the Nugus family to carry out the decapitation tactics and then escaped thousands of miles away. This tactic has become a classic textbook case.

It is said that from May to August 1876, the topic of tactical explanations in the sessions of the Chenas Empire lecture hall was about Sean's decapitation tactics.

Chainas Empire Lecture Hall is a military institution founded by the miracle army  Jason.

is a school for everyone in the entire Chenas Empire, regardless of origin, status, or status, everyone can go to the lecture. Even put forward their own opinions, analysis and so on. This martial arts hall is the only shortcut for all the civilians of the Zenas Empire to enter the vision of the Imperial Ministry and climb to a higher position: as long as they can get the nod of the lecturers in this place. Then it will soon usher in a military transfer or promotion or invitation. If you are fortunate enough to get a comment from the miracle army  Jason, then this person will immediately become the target of the imperial nobles and military headquarters.

But it's a pity. Jason has served as a lecturer at Lecture Hall, one of the few times.

It's just that, during the three months from May to August 1876, a total of twelve lectures were given by Jason.

He analyzed in detail the entire battle of the Void Duchy in the southern theater of Darbion. If Sean, William, and Hella were here, they would definitely be shocked by Jason's perfection of their war plans and deductions. Except for a small number of details, from tactical plans to strategic objectives to war trends, all Jason's statements are exactly the same as the plans made by William and Hella.

Of course, the only thing that puzzled Jason. It was exactly how the sanctuary powerhouses of Darbion were killed at that time.

In Jason's analysis, even if these sanctuary powerhouses did not die, at most it would delay the destruction of the Kingdom of Darbion for two to three years. In fact, the result remained the same.

The result remains the same!

The evaluation of this sentence means that Jason truly recognized the military power of the Void Principality.

It was also at this moment that the Chenas Empire truly brought the Void Duchy into the vision of intelligence monitoring. You must know that before, even if it was the Principality of the Void, the Chenas Empire did not put this principality in its eyes—in fact. Even the Kingdom of Lane, the Empire of Zenas did not pay attention to it. A second-rate kingdom was not enough for the Empire of Zenus to give even a point of attention.

But it is precisely because of the excessive attention of the Zenas Empire. It was finally discovered that the counterintelligence ability of the Void Principality was exceptionally excellent, even the intelligence personnel trained by Jason himself. It is also difficult to infiltrate. At this moment, even Jason began to pay attention to this small principality. Therefore, all the subsequent movements of the Void Principality-including Anno's death in battle, the establishment of the Wild Federation, the blood flag revenge, the bad blood plan, etc., were all quickly sorted into corresponding intelligence. Placed in front of Jason.

And when Jason saw the information, his brows were also frowned.

"What the * does this Void Lord want to do?" Jason slowly closed an intelligence document.

This latest intelligence document shows that the bad blood plan that the Void Principality participated in is coming to an end. The final raid is underway, and logistics has begun to arrange routes one after another. Everything looks like it is about to retreat. And as the Void Principality is about to retreat, the other nobles who participated in the bad blood plan are also preparing to retreat.

If at this time, no one can see that these people are basically a unified action, then they are not qualified to be a nobleman.

"The Kingdom of Lion wants to regain control of Darbion's territory and spread the influence of the royal family. I can understand." Jason frowned, "But what good will the establishment of the Wild Federation do for you? ... In addition to The wild land is used as a springboard to launch an offensive to the surrounding areas, it is meaningless. And offensive...what can you do if you win an enclave?"

Jason didn't understand.

The plans made by William and Hela are all traceable, so Jason can reason out quickly.

So Jason can be sure that it was definitely not the work of these two people to promote the establishment of the Wild Federation and to form an alliance with it. And at this time, after Jason compared the data from when the Void Principality was just a small territory of Pandan a few years ago, Jason can be sure that Sean has already been preparing for the Wild Federation of the Wild Lands. NS. So afterwards the fall of the Kingdom of Darbion, the failure of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce's first and last snake plan, etc., are just a part of Sean's long plan.

For this man who can start layout many years ago, and then patiently wait for the opportunity to start harvesting little by little, Jason must be fake to say that he is not interested.

But no matter how Jason deduced, there are only two final results.

Either attack the Millennium Covenant Empire, or attack the Duchy of Ekiri.

"Attack the Millennium Covenant Empire?" Jason shook his head and laughed. Although these two options are 50 in 100 chances, he still doesn't think that the Void Duchy can bear the trouble of the Millennium Covenant Empire. "So... Urquili Is there anything in the Principality that deserves to be laid out by the Grand Duke a few years ago?"

Thinking of this, Jason rang the bell, and soon there was a knock on the door.

A middle-aged man in a tuxedo got Jason's permission and pushed in.

This person is the guardian around Jason and the steward of the entire mansion.

Many people say that he is the shadow of Jason, and neither Jason nor the housekeeper denies this.

"What is our Lord Void doing now, do you know?" Jason didn't have any serious appearance to this follower around him. He chuckled and said, his voice and expression are indescribable. random.

"According to the intelligence, we are currently dealing with some affairs in the capital of the Void Principality." The housekeeper said. In addition to protecting Jason's safety and managing the entire mansion, he also assists Jason in handling and analyzing intelligence. Responsibilities, it can be said that this steward is simply an all-round talent. "The Void Principality has been fighting for years, and the population has been reduced to a very dangerous level. Now it is barely enough to maintain the operation of the entire Principality. The frontline troops have lost a short period of time. It is estimated that it can't be added. It is said that the Void Principality is already considering cutting its army."

"It seems that the Void Principality seems to be in a very dangerous situation now." Jason chuckled lightly. "This bad blood plan of the Ryan Kingdom is done beautifully. ... Is Hayes's hand? That guy? , The battlefield command level is not good, but this kind of conspiracy and tricks are a set of tricks to play."

"With the power of the Big Three in the Void Principality, there is no reason to not see this conspiracy, but..."

"Do you think that compared to the Big Three, the Void Lord is not so good?" Jason saw that the follower who had followed him for many years didn't mention Sean, he suddenly laughed, and then asked.

For Jason, the housekeeper didn't feel ashamed, so he nodded simply.

"Then you are underestimating this Void Grand Duke." Jason smiled, "He can control the Big Three, do you really think he is nothing remarkable? ... I just compared the information from a few years ago. Later, I realized that even I underestimated the grand prince. There are not many people in this world who can hide my analysis.... In fact, the problem with this bad blood plan is not just that. The Big Three can see it, even the Void Grand Duke can see it."

"Then why..."

"For stability." Jason said in a deep voice, involuntarily a little helpless in his voice, "Many times, you have to do a lot of things, not depending on whether you like it or not, or whether you want it or not, but... You have to do it. If he doesn't do it, the royal family of the Ryan Kingdom will doubt his loyalty. Do you think how many nobles will respond to the crusade against the Void Duchy when the Void Duchy has just raised the blood flag for revenge. ... Even if the Void Principality's military strength is strong, it will not be able to sustain such a complete attack, not to mention... the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance is not easy to provoke."

Hearing what Jason said, the housekeeper immediately realized what he had overlooked.

"What is Luo doing now?" Jason asked suddenly.

"Master Luo..." The butler looked embarrassed, "He killed Miss Emily himself."

"I see." Jason nodded. He didn't say anything about this topic. "Let him take some people, go to Urquili, and investigate what's there.... Also, close. Pay attention to our Void Lord, I am really curious about what he wants to do."

"Don't worry, my lord, the Dragon Group is paying close attention. As long as there is any news about Lord Void, it will be passed back as soon as possible."

Chapter 317: .Into the city [fourth more]

There are two intelligence investigation departments in the Zenus Empire.

The Security Investigation and Research Committee of the Zenus Empire, referred to as Guoan, is the investigation department directly under the Ministry of Military Affairs of the Zenus Empire, and is appointed by the entire Zenus Empire Military Department. In addition to being responsible for security within the empire, they also included all espionage operations against outside the empire, even assassinations, and so on. However, due to the large workload, the quality is often uneven. Coupled with the power of the Imperial Army, it is difficult for this investigation department to play a big role. Basically, it is used for internal purposes. Various information processing.

In addition to this very long-named intelligence investigation department, there is also an intelligence collection and investigation department directly under Jason Wayne.

The dragon group of the Chaonas Empire.

In fact, the initial name of this department was "Dragon Clan" rather than "Dragon Group". However, no one knows how it became such a weird name later, but the only thing that can be known is that this investigative department controlled by Jason has excellent espionage capabilities, and they are all by Jason himself. It's trained, so it's very good in execution.

So far, it has only suffered in five places.

The infiltration of the Millennium Covenant Empire, the infiltration of the Emilia Empire, the infiltration of the Saint-Joles Empire, the infiltration of the Maggie Empire, and the most recent one.

Infiltration of the Void Duchy.

The penetration failure of the first four, Jason can understand, after all, it is also an old empire that is as famous as the Zenas Empire, neither in terms of strength nor foundation is necessarily weaker than the Zenas Empire, and even slightly stronger in some aspects. But for the Void Principality, Jason really couldn't understand it. Why could such a Principality with no background successfully prevent their infiltration?

However, in the end result, Jason still feels a little grateful.

That is, although the price has been paid more. But at least, the Void Grand Duke, Sean Connery, was successfully monitored.

But in fact, is it really the case?

The sunny sun is shining, and a city is looking vibrant. It is not noon yet. But the streets are already full of lively atmosphere of people coming and going.

A figure was accompanied by a white light, and then walked out of the magic circle.

This person has black hair and black pupils.

After the fame of the Void Lord, Sean Connery, many people in the Lane Kingdom like to dye their hair black. If it is not for changing the color of the pupils, you need to use alchemy potions. Moreover, the price is quite expensive and may cause damage to the eyesight. Many people also dye their eyes black.

Now, in Lane territory, people with black hair and black eyes are really not few.

But these guys, not necessarily all Zenas.

However, the real Zenas and Lane people are relatively easy to identify. Because the Zenas are a little thinner, their physiques are not particularly large, and their faces are slightly softer, unlike most of the Lane people who appear thicker. Even women are relatively tall and have very obvious facial features.

came out of the magic circle at this time. They are the purest Zenas people.

This person is naturally Sean.

Void Lord, Sean Connery.

When Jason thought his subordinates were watching Sean closely, in fact, Sean had already come to Roma City. He did not return to Void City at all. After arranging related affairs in the Wild City, Sean left alone. After that, he entered the Kingdom of Lane through the Magic Teleportation Array on the side of the Wind-Zhufeng Tribe Trade Point, and then took a rest. While teleporting to Roma City.

Sean knew very well that if he returned to the Void City, Cecilia would definitely follow him. This was not what Shaun wanted.

Leaving this time, Xiao En is also ready to attack the sanctuary.

He knows that it is not difficult to obtain a bronze body, but it is not easy to perfect the law. So Sean decided to have a good experience on his own, hoping to shape his own domain when completing the task of Bronze Body-in the game, if the player does not obtain the domain fragments, they can all be in the process of sainthood. In domain missions, gaining a low-level domain can be regarded as helping players formally enter the ninth-tier occupation.

However, unlike NPC's domain, the player's domain can be continuously upgraded and strengthened.

So even after completing the Sanctuary mission and the domain ability is relatively poor, you can complete the next series of missions to completely improve your domain and give yourself more powerful combat effectiveness. After all, after reaching the ninth level, even if the players in the game fight, they must rely on the assistance of the domain ability to fight, so whether a player's domain ability is strong or not is directly related to a player's combat ability.

In the game, there are no lack of professional players who were sharp before the eighth level. After reaching the ninth level, due to domain problems, some ordinary players with advanced domains were opposed to abuse.

Sean, don't want to be such a person.

This time in Roma City, Sean planned to take over the task of the Bronze Body from a master here in Roma City, and then, while completing the task of the Bronze Body, he would look for the Hercules. whereabouts.

Sean had already remembered the appearance of Hercules-but even though Sean had remembered it, he still couldn't remember why this guy felt familiar. But since he couldn't think about it clearly no matter what he thought, Xiao En simply ignored it. Anyway, when he saw it, he would see if he could receive other tasks. Maybe he would remember the identity of the other party.

However, this kind of behavior like finding a needle in a haystack still makes Sean quite helpless.

The entire Roma grassland area is very vast. It takes four days to ride a horse from east to west and three days from the north to the south. If you count the cities, towns, and villages bordering the Roma grassland, Sean is doing a good job. I have to spend my time here preparing for the next six months. After all, this matter is related to Guru's life and death, so it is not for Sean not to look for it seriously.

Of course, half a year, Sean did not intend to waste it.

Anyway, the task of the bronze body is to exercise your body, just follow the task steps to complete it. Sean had done this task once before, so he believed that this time it should be able to be solved quickly. Therefore, Sean did not feel that the two-pronged strategy was too wasteful of time. Only after the domain shaping, Sean got a little headache, because he didn't know how many fragments his domain had to collect, if he couldn't shape the domain all the time. Sean was really going to vomit blood. Because this means that his strength will never be improved again.

While thinking this way, Sean moved slowly among the queuing crowds-since the teleportation magic circle was built, the lord of many cities have built corresponding fortifications around the magic circle and sent people to garrison to prevent any accidents. As long as those who came out through the Magic Teleportation Array, they must also register for entry into the city, and even pay the entry fee of a gold coin-this fee is not fixed. It is completely formulated by the local lords. For instance, the Void Principality only needs to register, and there is no need to pay any entrance fee at all. Now the Void Principality can't wait for a large number of refugees to live in, how can it set entrance fees to reject these people.

The people who can use the magic teleportation array are all people with wealth and status, and they don't particularly care about the cost of entering the city.

Because the people who can use the magic teleportation array to enter and exit are all people with wealth status, so the recorder in charge of registration and the soldiers stationed here don't dare to be too arrogant. Who knows if someone will offend someone who doesn't pay attention. And those mercenaries and adventurers who don't care about such a small amount of transmission fee are generally very powerful. These soldiers are even less willing to offend easily.

Soon, it was Sean's turn.

"Name." The recorder didn't even look up. He said this sentence without emotional fluctuations-but as expected, he might have to say it hundreds of times a day, and there would be no feelings.

"Sean." Shaun didn't say his surname, otherwise it would be too shocking.

"Is the last name Connery?" The recorder still did not look up.

"What?" Sean was startled.

"Hey, I'm still a rookie." The recorder raised his head and glanced at Sean. There was a rare smile in his eyes, but it was not malicious, but a kind smile, "Black hair, black Hitomi, a light hunting outfit...you still have a sword missing. When you go out, turn right and there is a weapon shop, where there is an imitation version of the iron sword of the Void Lord, and a handle of five gold coins. You can use the teleportation magic circle, I think it's a little bit of money. Needless to say, it must be the young master who escaped from the little nobleman, right? Haha."

Listening to this recorder speaking like a self-familiar, Sean showed some embarrassment on the contrary.

"Don't be embarrassed, Ryan is basically like this now." Seeing Sean's embarrassment, the recorder smiled kindly, turned his record book upside down, and pointed the name on it to Sean. Look, "Look, you are already the forty-seventh person today who said that his name is Sean.... But you are not bad, you did not say that your surname is Connery, the forty-six in front of you Guys, they all say they are Sean Connery... These little guys are really courageous, knowing that it is a big crime to pretend to be a lord, not to mention that this is a grand prince, but those guys just don't care at all."

"You...didn't you catch it?" Xiao En was taken aback for a moment, and then asked.

"So, you are a rookie." The recorder smiled, "This is not in the territory of the Void Duchy. Those who can use the teleportation magic circle are not simple people. Who knows if there is any in it. Duke or Marquis's clansmen? Let alone Duke Marquis' clans, I can't afford to offend even the baron.... So now in Lane, as long as these people don't cause any trouble, it's a big deal. Most people open one eye and close one eye.... Besides, Duke Void didn't say anything, did he?"

"Yes." Sean thought for a while, but was relieved.

He is not a native of this world, so he doesn't think that this kind of pretense is a denigration of his honor. The young man, which is not fun, he still remembers that there were people pretending to be the president of his guild in the game. At that time, his president also laughed and said that it is a good thing for someone to pretend to be a good thing and prove that he is famous and powerful.

Sean put down three gold coins casually.

"You don't need so much." The recorder hurriedly stopped and pushed back two gold coins to Sean.

Sean smiled, and was quite satisfied with the law and order atmosphere in Roma City: "One is the entrance fee, and the other two, just as I thank you for your advice to me as a rookie just now, please give you money for drinking. ...It's hard work to do this every day."

Hearing what Shaun said, the recorder smiled, and his face was a little bit embarrassed: "Then...then I'm not welcome, thank you for your reward."

This recorder is quite good at acting.

Sean pretended to be deeply satisfied and nodded, then smiled and left.

After seeing Sean leave, a soldier next to him leaned forward: "My lord, that... is that Duke Sean really?"

The recorder stretched out his hand and knocked the soldier's head, and said with a smile: "You guys, it's still too young, don't always look higher than the top. These nobles, in fact, most of these nobles are not that bad in nature. ...It's okay, you don't need to flatter me, tell everyone, I will invite everyone to drink after get off work in the evening."

The soldier immediately beamed his eyes and hurried to inform his companions.

The recorder shook his head and laughed a few times before shouting at the magic circle: "Next!"

Chapter 318: .weapon shop

Leaves the hut of the magic teleportation array.

Sean thought for a while, and walked towards the smithy next to him according to what the recorder said.

The first weapon that Shaun used was the dead bone, the long sword with the ability to deform.

In fact, Sean still doesn't know what kind of weapon it is. He has tried, this weapon can be changed arbitrarily, as long as it is the type of weapon that Sean can imagine, it can be changed, even the strange weapon is also possible, but the data changes in the attributes are more comparable. Big.

Originally, Sean was thinking about the day when he was free, to complete this deadly weapon task. But it is a pity that for some reason, he melted the weapon, and rebuilt the weapon.

Black King.

In fact, the Black King is only a semi-finished product.

For a long time, Sean had the idea of trying to completely forge the Black King, but even afterwards, because of Anno's affairs, all the shops of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce in the Void Principality were wiped out, and he did not obtain much high-quality materials, so Sean has never done anything. But now, even if Sean wants to do it, there is no way, because he has a complete magic soul in his hand, and a master heart of the seven devil kings level. These materials need the fire of the heart of the earth to be able to forge. of.

Originally, after the black king killed a fear knight in the mystery of Rek, he absorbed the essence of its soul, which led to the birth of a magic soul among the black kings.

But this magic soul is still very weak, and the black king is only a semi-finished product. At least after the black king becomes a real finished product, the magic soul can grow. If you are lucky, maybe the Black King will become a divine weapon in a few years, but if you are not lucky enough. It may take several generations of efforts to make the Black King a magic weapon.

However, after Beth gave a complete magical soul, it became much easier.

As long as Sean can create the black king and successfully integrate into the magic soul, then the black king will inevitably be reborn as an artifact.

The two concepts. There is a fundamental difference.

certainly. In terms of growth, the first one is actually better.

Because the black king will grow up with the magic soul, the nature of the two will eventually become incomparably compatible, and some changes will be made with the user's martial arts. All in all, if the magic soul inside the Black King slowly grows up, then when the Black King becomes an artifact in the future, it will become more in line with Sean's abilities. And if it is to plug in a complete magic soul directly. Then although the black king will also become very powerful-after all, it is an artifact equipment. But this will become the need for Sean to adapt and master the black king again.

Just let Sean choose, now he will definitely choose the second one.

Because he does not have so much time.

The existence of a piece of artifact equipment will give Sean a great help.

Sean walked into the weapon shop that the recorder was referring to.

The name is quite ordinary: Lao Kui'an's blacksmith shop.

The wooden sign of the Blacksmith's shop looks a little shabby, and the paint on it has fallen off quite a bit, which is not very real.

But Sean suddenly admired the owner of this shop.

Because since the establishment of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance, shops like ordinary blacksmiths and pharmacies have basically no way to survive. Because such shops can never collect herbs and mine ore by themselves, and they cannot swallow large transactions if they buy them. Only some scattered resources can be collected, so the purchase price will naturally be slightly higher than those of large transactions. Coupled with the constraints of small shops, the things they make are not only time-consuming, but also the selling price can't be cheap.

But the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance is different.

Now their industry has quickly spread across the entire Miracle Continent, almost pervasive. They not only have a very complete purchase and distribution channels, but also a self-sufficient integrated policy within the chamber of commerce: the chamber of commerce specializing in forging business conducts bulk ore transactions from other chambers of commerce in charge of ore transactions, and then adopts an assembly line The method of forging is to make the ore into standard equipment and then sell it to other chambers of commerce engaged in equipment trading. These chambers of commerce only need to purchase at a lower price to control the price of the entire market.

High volume and low price, this is the advantage of Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance.

So those small handicraft shops have long been crowded with no living space.

Sean walked into this blacksmith shop.

It is said to be a blacksmith shop, but it is actually a home workshop style shop.

After entering from the main entrance, there is a lobby that is no different from a general weapon shop. The space here is quite spacious, with a field-shaped layout, surrounded by tall glass display counters. There are many high-quality weapons in these counters, from daggers, short swords to long swords, knight swords, meteor hammers, spears, halberds, etc. Almost all weapons are available, but Sean also noticed that there are many display stands. All are empty.

In addition to weapons and the like, there are also several armor stands in this weapon shop, which are basically light armor and leather armor, and the quality is not particularly good, just excellent. However, unlike the general weapon shops that Sean saw, these leather armors and light armors were complete sets-including replaceable and repairable armor pieces, matching weapons, luggage bags, and so on.

The suit-level sophisticated equipment, which made Sean a little curious, because he hadn't seen it before in the game. According to the definition of equipment in the game, although the quality of these equipment is only excellent, the complete set of equipment will be comparable to high quality in the future.

Sean took a quick glance and found that as long as it can be displayed, there is no one below the quality.

This blacksmith shop is not easy.

Sean heart said.

There are not too few people in the weapon shop, and many people are watching these exhibits in the weapon shop. These people are mercenaries or adventurers, and most people just take a look. Many people shook their heads and walked away after watching them. Very few people are really willing to pay for it.

Sean glanced at a movable door near the corner, where there were waves of hammers hitting the anvil, and the whirring of the bellows. I want to come to the real blacksmith shop behind this weapon shop, dedicated to forging weapons. As for the stairs leading to the second floor, Sean didn't see it in the weapon shop. It must be in the courtyard at the back. That should be the real tourists stopping.

Only glanced, Sean had a more accurate judgment on the environment of the entire store.

This store should be handed down by the family, and I am afraid it has a history of more than several decades, so the scale of the store is so large, and there is no need to worry about rent. And can forge so many high-quality equipment, as long as you can sell two pieces a month, then usually this month's camp will not be a problem. If you can sell more than three items, your life in the next month may also be slightly improved.

Sean has scanned the prices of those high-quality weapons. A high-quality dagger sells 30 gold coins, and a high-quality halberd sells 150 gold coins. This price cannot be said to be cheap, but it is not too expensive. degree. However, considering the finesse of the workmanship and the degree of choice of materials, Sean still believes that these weapons are indeed worthy of these prices-this is why the mercenaries and adventurers have no choice but to shake their heads.

The Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance dominates the market for low-end equipment, that is, equipment of ordinary quality.

Generally speaking, the whiteboard weapons forged by those small hand-crafted blacksmiths sell for the least five silver coins. Depending on the material, some ordinary weapons may even sell for three or five gold coins.

However, after the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance has an assembly line forging operation, this type of forging is much easier. In addition, the purchase of ore is also cheaper. Therefore, the whiteboard weapons produced by the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance usually only require two silver coins. Can buy a long sword. And if it requires a lot of materials like war halberd and heavy axe, at most it is only one gold coin plus five silver coins.

Compared to those small handicraft shops, it is half the price at least.

This is also the reason why the life bows and arrows of those small shops are completely squeezed.

However, if the forged equipment is upgraded to a high-quality level, then there will not be much savings, so the price is actually not much different from this weapon shop-of course, it must be cheaper to be cheaper. If it's like a dagger, it's usually about 20 gold coins, which is 10 gold coins cheaper than this shop. You know, this is the difference of one hundred silver coins.

From the perspective of Sean, if it were also a dagger, the thirty gold coins in this handle were definitely more valuable than the twenty.

Sean suddenly became interested to know who the owner of this blacksmith shop was.

It is not easy to forge so many high-quality weapons.

"Shaun?"

Suddenly, a soft cry sounded behind Xiao En.

This voice sounded rather strange, but the tone and attitude seemed to be familiar like an old friend, which made Xiao En stunned for a moment.

Then he turned his head and looked at a young man behind him.

This is a young man with his upper body naked and wearing only a pair of coarse trousers, but his physique is very strong, with a large piece of cowhide tied around his waist. This classic dress is obviously a blacksmith, but considering that the other party is quite young, he should be an apprentice blacksmith. At most, when it's not particularly busy, take into account the sales front desk of this weapon shop.

But the question is, Sean doesn't know this person, why would the other person know his name?

"Are you?"

Chapter 319: .Talk about business

Hearing Sean's questioning question, the young man smiled.

He has a kind of boldness unique to being a blacksmith.

This kind of character is found in many NPCs of the blacksmith profession in the game. What they hate most is that others play tricks with them. If you negotiate sincerely, most of the time they are willing to give players some discounts as long as you have an appetite. However, it is only limited to blacksmiths, like the weapons shop owners of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce, they are merchants, and every time you negotiate with them is no less than fighting a war.

The young man smiled and patted Sean on the shoulder—he was half a head taller than Sean, and he was a lap bigger than Sean. Although the two were about the same age, the industry of blacksmithing was inherently easy for people. He looks more vicissitudes of life, so he looks more like Xiao En's brother—and then he said: "I am the grandson of the owner of this shop, and my name is Xiao Kuian. I will inherit this shop someday. Shop, I'm Lao Kui'an, haha."

Sean can feel the joy of this man, although he still doesn't know who this person is: "Hello, my name is Sean."

"I know I know." The young man who claimed to be Xiao Quian nodded, "Black hair and black pupils are all called by this name.... Hey, come to find the Grand Duke's weapon?... Hey, it's over there. In the corner, a handful of five gold coins... Well, but I think you are quite pleasing to the eye, even if you have three gold coins, but you can't tell others."

Speaking of the end, Xiao Kui'an's voice has been suppressed very low, obviously because he is afraid that others will hear it.

But Xiao En understood at this moment, this guy who dares to love also regarded himself as those who pretended to be.

Shaun thought for a moment, and thought it was good. If the Kingdom of Lane had become this situation now, then it would be convenient for him to act, and there is no need to worry about what problems will be caused. And think so. Xiao En felt that maybe he should really buy a grandduke weapon, so he might as well see what the condition of the weapon was.

Before, Sean's attention was on those display stands, so he did not notice that there was a weapon barrel in the corner of the weapon store near the door wall—this kind of weapon barrel is different from ordinary weapon racks. They are the places where some relatively inferior weapons are stacked. However, many adventurers like to dig out those golden-spotted weapons in this weapon barrel. Because you can occasionally pick up a leak, you may be able to find a magic weapon that has lost its magic effect.

Just now, Xiao En noticed that there were a lot of adventurers gathered here, but he didn't pay attention to it at that time, so he didn't pay much attention to it. At this time, under the guidance of the blacksmith, he understood, but Xiao En felt amused when he saw the figures of the adventurers.

The owner of this smithy can forge so many high-quality weapons. Naturally, it is impossible for the vision to go badly. Surely there will be no good things that can make these digs out.

After [redacted] approached, Xiao En discovered that there was a weapon barrel full of dozens of black long swords, but there was no scabbard.

Just one glance, Xiao En was a little stunned, and then immediately reached out and took out a long sword.

This long sword is exactly the same as the black king on Sean!

[redacted] is not just about appearance. Including the length of the blade, the sharpness of the blade, the hilt, the pattern of the hilt, the scale of the handguard, the color, the texture of the blade, etc., they are all exactly the same. It's like a copy. If it hadn't been for Sean to know that his Black King was created by himself, and no drawings existed, he would have doubted whether someone had leaked his weapon forging drawings.

Of course, after starting, Sean discovered that there are still some differences.

This black king is lighter than his original one.

Weighed it a little, Sean estimated that it would not weigh more than three catties. Compared with the weight of the Black King, it was already a hundred catties, and it could be said to be a toy.

Glancing with a real eye, Sean quickly discovered all the relevant data about this weapon. As expected, this is a weapon of ordinary quality.

【Archduke's weapon, normal, hardness 7, piercing 13, sharp 9. 】

[Item Description: This is an imitation of the weapon used by the Void Lord, Sean Connery, made by Lao Kui An at the Old Kui An Blacksmith in Roma City. It is good in quality but not cheap.]

After another glance, Sean was roughly able to judge that the forging material of this weapon was made of three kinds of ores. As far as the level of craftsmanship is concerned, it is actually not too low. Coupled with the complexity of the materials used, the cost and labor alone are worth the least of two gold coins. When Xiao En heard that Xiaoquan seemed to sell himself only four gold coins, this proved that the other party did not earn much.

But after a little thought, Sean put the sword back.

Ordinary quality weapons do not mean that Sean cannot be used. He did not say that after becoming a Duke, his character becomes domineering or critical. It's just that this sword is too light for him, and it's not hard enough. It's more brittle than ordinary blacksmiths. Only the hardness is about the same as the light sword, but the piercing is not as good as the light sword. It can be said that apart from selling a shape, this sword is not a good weapon.

Looking at the adventurers around who were still trying to get something out of the weapon pile nearby, Sean turned and walked towards the counter of the weapon shop.

Xiao Kuian sat inside and yawned, looking a little bored. After seeing Xiao En coming over, he got up and said hello. But seeing that Xiao En didn't take the weapon, it seemed a little surprised: "Huh? Why don't you take the Grand Duke's weapon?... Your name is Xiao En."

"Do you have to take those weapons when you call Sean?" Sean shook his head and laughed.

"The people named Xiao En now have those weapons." Xiao Kuian was a little puzzled, "We have sold hundreds of them in just these two days."

Hearing this, Sean was taken aback.

A handful of hardware coins, hundreds of them, that is five hundred gold coins, if you deduct the cost and labor, I am afraid you can earn more than three hundred gold coins.

This money does not seem to make a lot of money, but you have to know that these weapons are just ordinary weapons, and this shop can manufacture so many imitations in batches, it must have mastered some kind of forging process similar to the assembly line. In this way, this is simply a very profitable means of making money!

"There are so many people buying?" Sean was a little surprised.

"A lot." Xiao Kuian might be qualified to be a blacksmith, but it was obviously not good to be a businessman at the time. Xiao En didn't use any means, so he poured it out like beans. "In the whole Ryan, only my grandfather can make it, so now many people named Sean come to us to buy it.... Some days ago, someone from the Chamber of Commerce Alliance came to my grandfather and wanted to buy out the patent business rights. ."

Hearing this, Sean let out a sneer.

It looks like the guys from the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance are cold-hearted. I included myself in the blacklist, refused to do business with myself, and even refused to sell my slaves, but when I saw such a big business opportunity in it, I immediately swam over like a shark that smelled of blood. .

"Your grandpa agreed?" Sean asked.

"That's not true." Xiao Kui'an shook his head, "Grandpa said those are not good people, so he didn't agree.... However, they don't seem to give up. Recently, they seem to have become less honest.... Grandpa asked me. Be careful, don't leave the city if you are okay. Fortunately, there are security patrols in the city. However, the price of the mineral materials needed to make these weapons has risen a little too much recently, so we only have this little stock left. "

"Just raise the price a little bit." Sean was a little curious.

The pricing standard of market prices is not just linked to raw materials. If the cost increases, the finished product will of course increase accordingly.

Unexpectedly, Xiao Kuian shook his head: "Grandpa said, these things are only very general quality, and even have to abandon some quality in order to pursue the appearance. The current level is the limit, and it is necessary to improve it. The materials are too precious and the price is not good.... Nowadays, the things of Duke Void can usually be sold at a good price, but there is also a limit. Those who are willing to consume for this are only for curiosity and vanity, not I'm really a fool, so if we raise the price, it will ruin our own reputation. It's better to sell these survivals and stop selling them."

After hearing this, Xiao En was a little surprised, but he did not expect that the old owner of this store was actually a sincere person. After a little thought, Sean asked; "Is your grandpa here now?"

"Yes, right in the backyard." Xiao Kuian nodded, but his expression was somewhat guarded, "What do you want to do?"

"Don't be nervous, I just want to ask your grandpa if he would like to make a deal with me." Xiao En laughed. He liked the family a little bit, "It won't hurt you....Anyway, there are many benefits. It's very, but this kind of thing involves a lot of things, you definitely can't be the master, so let your grandfather be the master."

"Who said I can't be the master." Xiao Kuian snorted, "Speak, no matter how big the business is, I will be the master."

"Millions of business." Xiao En asked with a smile.

At this moment, Xiao Kuian was really frightened, his eyes opened wide, and he looked at Xiao En in disbelief: "Up... millions...?"

"Specialized in the business of magic weapons." The corner of Xiao En's mouth raised slightly. Seeing Xiao Kuian, who had always been bold and unrestrained, showed such a surprise, Xiao En also found it interesting, "The magic weapon monopoly produced by Void Principality will be yours. How about coming here for full authority?"

"You...you..." Hearing Xiao En's words, he took a closer look at Xiao En's appearance, Xiao Kui'an is not a fool, how can he not guess Xiao En's identity, "...big... ...My lord, you...you you you...wait a moment, me, me..."

Listening to Xiao Kui'an stuttering, Sean laughed loudly, causing many people in the store to look over curiously, but Sean didn't care at all: "Go and ask your grandpa, I'll wait here. By the way, I will help you to see the store....With me, you can rest assured that no one can steal anything."

Chapter 320: .Win-win

Sean's current subordinate not only has a Cady Rack who has been officially promoted to the middle stage silversmith, but he also has a blacksmith team composed of hundreds of dwarves, goblins, and gnomes. These people are now considered important positions in the Void Principality. They are responsible for all the facilities of the research institute and the armament workshop, basically including the improvement of the impact shield, the development of new armor, etc., but more often, they are involved. The forging of magic weapons.

With such a highly professional team, the Void Principality is now able to successfully produce three to five bronze magic weapons or two silver magic weapons every month. However, the level of demonization is not high. It is basically a minor effect and a medium effect. There is only one strong effect by fluke, but even this has caused the Void Principality to converge tens of millions of pan-continental gold coins in the past few years-these are the only ones. The fundamental reason that supports the entire void Principality has been able to fight the war until now.

Of course, this is mainly because the Void Principality and the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance are in the honeymoon period, and all the magic equipment produced is sold by the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance-in fact, such a stable output is more than legendary. Hammers are much stronger. For this reason, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance has a stable sales route for magic weapons. Basically, both parties are in a win-win situation.

It's just that when Sean discovered that Anno's death and people from the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce were also involved, he didn't care whether it was meant by some people in the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce or the alliance's senior leaders. It's all in one go. As a result, the relationship between the two parties was officially broken once again-anyway, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance had already obtained the franchise to teleport the magic circle. Whether or not to maintain a good cooperative relationship with Sean is no longer important.

If Sean can produce golden-grade magical equipment steadily, then the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance may choose to swallow his breath.

Silver and bronze are not enough to make the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce alliance bow their heads.

Therefore, the Void Duchy now has a backlog of dozens of bronze and silver magic weapons-after the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce alliance blocked the Void Duchy's trade lines. Today's trading business in the Void Principality can be said to be difficult. Basically, those chambers of commerce that have the ability to eat so many magic weapons must be organizations that join the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance, and those who do not join can only eat one or two at most, and the bargaining price is still cut. Somewhat outrageous. So Shaun didn't sell it altogether.

Before Neil also thought about finding an agent. However, it is a pity that the Void Principality still has a weak foundation in these aspects of trade and economy. In terms of military and generals, it already possesses a level of foundation comparable to those of the old kingdoms. It's just that everyone knows that if you want to support such generals, troops, and powerful people, the cost is not small. If it weren't for these people, they have been fighting with Sean until now, and now Sean is still alive and well, the Void Principality Disintegrated from the inside a long time ago.

so. Here in the old Kui'an blacksmith's shop. Sean found a good agent.

He didn't wait long outside, and soon Xiao Kui An came to invite Xiao En in, but this time he looked respectful, and he no longer looked like he was casual and bold. And the one who is in charge of guarding the shop is another apprentice. He is much older than Xiao Kui An. He should be an old apprentice who has followed Lao Kui An for some time. He can let an apprentice manage the cash register. It is enough to prove the trust of Lao Kui An in this apprentice.

followed behind Xiao Kuian. After Xiao En walked through the movable door, he came to a courtyard.

The scale of this courtyard is small. But it was decorated very small and chic, and even opened up a mouthful of ground springs, leading the cold spring water to the side of the fire on the other side of the courtyard, forming a cold pool, which allows the forging blacksmith to be able to do it without having to go too far. Quickly cool down the forging equipment.

Sean took a casual glance, and then found that all the facilities in this blacksmith's workshop were very complete, and the layout was also very reasonable. There are only five furnaces, and there are as many as ten anvils. Although there is only one cooling fountain, the space is quite large, even if seven or eight people are surrounded to perform cooling work at the same time. At this time, after Xiao En came in, there were more than a dozen people who seemed to be apprentices who were working. The rhythm of their wielding hammers and beating the blades of the sword was very strong, and the clanging sound was unexpectedly formed. Kind of unique tune.

A hint of surprise flashed in Sean's eyes, this was actually a blacksmith shop with forging and inheriting skills.

Only those with relatively old forging skills can produce a sound with a strong sense of rhythm like a tune when ironing.

"Sir Xiao En?" An old man who looked very energetic greeted Xiao En.

The physique of this old man, like a violent bear, was actually a full circle bigger than Xiao Kui An, and his whole body was full of muscles. It was obvious that his strength value was not low. He is different from ordinary blacksmiths in that this old man not only has gray hair, but also has not shaved his beard, as if he is afraid that others don't know his age, and his eyes are not muddy at all, on the contrary. Full of sharpness.

"I am." Sean nodded.

"How to prove?" The old man was not at all polite, and asked directly, and the look of distrust appeared particularly obvious.

Shaun didn't talk nonsense, he flipped his hand directly, and took the real Black King in his hand.

The old man's pupils shrank suddenly, and then reached out to get the Black King, Sean did not remind him. Sure enough, the moment the old man picked up the Black King, his whole figure suddenly sank. Obviously, he did not accurately estimate the weight of the Black King.

But this old man is not easy.

Because the Black King was sinking the old man's body, he was lifted up by the old man before he touched the ground. It's just that he can hold it, but if he wants to wave the black king like Sean and Noro at will, it is really powerless.

"It really is the Duke's weapon!" The old hair exclaimed, "It's a perfect weapon...Whether it's weight or sharpness, sure enough... it can't be compared with the fakes I made.... This is out of the box. I am afraid that the chill that comes out has already drunk a lot of blood."

"This is still a semi-finished product." Sean smiled.

"What!?" The old hair exclaimed, and his gaze at the Black King looked incredulous, "This...how is this possible..."

"As far as quality is concerned. It's actually pretty good, but I'm not satisfied yet, so... he can only be considered a semi-finished product." Xiao En smiled.

"He?" The old man keenly noticed that Sean's word was not "it", but "he".

The meaning here is completely different.

But Sean does not intend to explain. Although the old man's face was reluctant to give up. It seems that he still wants to study for a while, but he still had to return the weapon to Sean: "Sorry, Lord Sean, I'm old Kui'an, the owner of this blacksmith shop.... I'm sorry about the weapons and selling them. But I think you should too, those guys from the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance..."

Imitate a grand prince's weapon. This kind of thing can be big or small.

If Sean really makes trouble. Then it is not impossible to demote Lao Kui's security family to slaves. Even their shop and everything in the shop will belong to Xiao En. But if Sean doesn't intend to pursue it, then this matter is actually fine. Even Earl Roma can't trouble the blacksmith's shop because he doesn't have any legitimate excuses.

When the Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce tried to swallow this shop, they went to Earl Roma, but it was a pity that Earl Roma could not find any excuses. So this matter can only be put on hold temporarily. They could have written to Sean and informed him. I was able to find an excuse to take down this store, but the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance and the Void Principality were also unhappy, and they wanted to swallow the store privately, so they did not send a letter to the Void Principality.

Unexpectedly, Sean would suddenly come to Roma City in person and discover these absurd things in Lane now.

"I can understand." Sean nodded, "But I didn't come to you to talk about this."

"I know." Old Kui'an's expression also became serious, "Master Shaun, you want us to help you sell those magic weapons..."

"It's not for me, but you are the agent." Xiao En smiled, "To be honest, I admire your craftsmanship, but after seeing your layout, I know one thing. You are a family with the inheritance of forging skills... logically speaking, you should also be able to forge demonized equipment..."

Hearing Xiao En's words, Lao Kui'an was shocked, but quickly shook his head and smiled bitterly: "Forging those high-quality equipment is my best effort. If I want to forge demonized equipment, how easy is it, and Not to mention that we don't have so many gold coins to buy materials...forging a bronze magic weapon, less costing hundreds of thousands of materials, this...so that we don't have enough money for ten years without eating or drinking. what."

Hearing what Old Kui An said, Xiao En understood a little bit.

This magical equipment was created from scratch, which of the materials needed is cheaper.

Not to mention the flaming lion fangs in Alfred's hand, just say that Rena's flame gun was broken. Sean still got it out after robbing a lot of materials from the black market of Gray Shadow. If it was purchased, Without one or two million, it will definitely not be made. Moreover, not every forger has the level and experience of Sean. A team of professionals like those in the Void Principality can train nearly ten weapons and materials each month, which is also a large expenditure.

And how much can a smithy make every year?

After wanting to understand this, Sean simply became solicitous. This grandfather and grandson have the inheritance of forging skills, and the help to Cadillac is not small. If they are allowed to learn from each other, and then Sean will provide the materials to practice hands, they may actually be able to make golden-grade magical equipment. , If it is really successful, then it doesn't matter whether there is a Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance or not. Sean can completely open his own auction in the Void Principality.

In this way, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance will no longer be able to pose any threat to the void Principality in economic and trade!

Thinking of this, Xiao En was not very polite, and directly expressed his thoughts to Old Kui An.

As for Old Kui'an, he was originally a very high-spirited person. Hearing what Shaun said, the two sides immediately hit it off. He didn't even plan to buy this shop, and he was going to move directly to Shaun's principality. It's just that Sean came to look for an agent, and what he fancied was the reputation of the old shop. Therefore, at the request of Sean, Old Quian finally agreed to cede the shop to Sean, who was sent by Sean. Come take care of and sell.