

Lord of War Vol 4-11

Chapter 11: .casualties

Although the Touch of Cruise has been directly obliterated by Kozilek, the damage and impact it caused is also huge.

At least, almost one-fifth of the wild fortresses were directly destroyed by it.

Sean doesn't care about the internal integrity of this fortress. What he needs is only the two walls of this fortress. Of course, in addition to the walls that can withstand the undead creatures, Sean is more concerned about the materials left in the warehouses in the fortress-but now, there are a large amount of materials destroyed by Cruise's Touch and Kozilek. In the battle between, Sean's heart was dripping blood.

It's just that, even if Cruise's Touch has been wiped out by Kozilek, the battle does not end there.

A large number of skeleton cannon fodder is still rampant in the fortress.

Although these skeletons cannot pose any threat to Sean and others, if they are not resolved, it will always be a trouble. After all, this number is really outrageous, at least over 100,000 in scale. Even if these are all cannon fodder, once it floods into the wild land, it can still bring great threats to the wild land. destroy.

Shaun took Gollum out of his pocket. This little guy was obviously still a little unhappy.

Although it does not have any time requirements for sleep, basically if there is nothing to do, it will fall into a state of deep sleep. In addition to being able to preserve its physical strength, on the other hand, it is also its evolutionary needs. According to Andrew, Gollum probably sleeps for a few hundred years before it can enter the next stage of growth. If in this process it Too much energy is consumed. For example, when Sean took him to "throw" Edward last time, this sleep time will not only increase, but it may even be life-threatening.

Yes, Sean basically offers this product as a mascot now. Not much will be used.

Of course, part of the reason is because Xiao En's current strength can be regarded as one of the top powerhouses in the Marvel Continent, so there is no need to borrow the power of Gulu. At least when facing the strong above the sanctuary, the value that Gulu can exert is extremely limited, while facing the strong below the sanctuary. Sean is naturally able to solve his opponent easily.

But now. Shaun took out Guru, naturally not expecting it to deal with the skull cannon fodder full of fortresses.

But treat it as your own eyes.

Guru flying high in the sky, quickly established contact with Sean through the soul contract, which is equivalent to giving Sean the ability to overlook the entire fortress. In this way, he is equivalent to being able to control the entire game: he can clearly see the movements of all the skeletons in the entire fortress, which is naturally beneficial to his next command.

In fact. It was exactly as Sean expected.

A picture of the situation presented in the entire high-altitude bird's-eye view. Sean easily distinguished the most dangerous place in the wild fortress right now.

The first place to bear the brunt is the military district where Kozilek and Cruz's Touch meet.

The Military District suffered extremely severe damage. Basically, all remaining fortifications were destroyed. Most of the remaining personnel were clerks and staff officers, lacking combat capability, so the situation was extremely dangerous. And the biggest problem doesn't stop there. The adventurer squad that Rilitha belongs to also suffered heavy casualties, when Sean gave Rilitha and the others a task. I also considered that their mission was not too difficult and dangerous, so Reyes was also entrusted to them for protection. But I didn't expect to encounter such trouble as Cruise's Touch.

Therefore, after a battle, Rilitha was not only injured himself, but his teammates were also missing, and even Reyce suffered a leg injury.

Under pressure, Rilitha could only take Reyce to hide in the building where the military affairs were still intact, so as to resist the attack of the Skeleton Tide.

Secondly, the greater danger lies in another battlefield.

Where Angel is.

The pure cannon fodder army composed of skeletons does not actually have much self-awareness. Many times they acted on the basis of their hatred for the living and their own attacking instincts, and only because of their excessive numbers would they cause trouble for many adventurers. But right now, in these undead army composed of skeletons and bones, there is obviously a commander, so their combat effectiveness is not improved by a small amount.

Although Angel's strength can completely ignore them, but this also refers to the limited number of circumstances.

Not to mention that there are tens of thousands of undead army in the fortress right now, even these 30,000 to 40,000 skeletons are gathered to deal with a sanctuary strong, and it is enough to make this sanctuary strong think of retreat. After all, the undead army has no idea of morale. Unlike a normal human army, if the casualties reach a certain level, it will be directly defeated. Therefore, even if the sanctuary powerhouse is facing an extremely large undead army, they will not Will choose to fight hard.

Xiao En did not know where the ice sword in Angel's hand came from, but watching her dance a frosty air, freezing all the nearby skeletons into ice sculptures, it can be seen that her physical fitness has not been reduced too much. But this is obviously also a kind of secret technique that Angel owns, so she naturally can't use it infinitely. If she hadn't taken care of Tini behind her, I'm afraid Angel would never sit here and wait for death.

Soon, Sean made a decision.

"Cecilia, you go find Rena, and rush to the military area side with her. Reyce and Reilista are now there. The whereabouts of the others are unknown, so try to explore as much as possible during the rescue. "Sean turned his head and said to Cecilia who was following him, "In this situation, you don't need to worry about anything anymore, just let go of your hands and feet.... I'll go to Angel's side."

"Okay." Cecilia nodded, and then added, "Be careful."

"I see." Sean nodded, and at the same time turned around and rushed towards Angel, and gave an order to Kozilek: "Alexis is obviously in trouble, Kozilek, please go and help her. Just a moment..."

Now the situation in the fortress is of no use even if you stay, but as long as you hold on for a while, the Frost Legion will arrive, and these skeletons will not be a problem at that time."

Kozilei, who was suspended in mid-air, heard Sean's order. He didn't make any answer either, just turned around and felt Alexis's position a little bit, and then broke through the air immediately.

In fact, with the strength of Kozilek, if you want to solve these skeletons in the fortress. It's not that there is no way.

He only needs to drop directly with a sword. You can completely razing the entire fortress to the ground.

But this is obviously not the result that Sean wants, and Kozilek's shot method will also harm other people. Sean also intends to occupy the fortress and use it as a reliance to open up the road connection with Utopia. Naturally, he does not want the fortress to be destroyed in this way-at least when it is not impossible to do anything. If the time comes when there is nothing to do, then Sean will of course not care about it.

After the soldiers were divided into three groups, although the skeleton army in the fortress could not be eliminated immediately, it could at least prevent the situation from deteriorating.

It's just that. When Sean rushed to Angel's side. His heart couldn't help but sink completely.

Because Dini's breath has completely disappeared.

When Angel arrived, Dini still had a sigh of relief. Perhaps she was also expressing her unwillingness and longing for life in her own way. But unfortunately, in this battlefield right now, the breath of death is too strong. These breaths are eroding Tini's body all the time. In addition, she lacks adequate treatment methods and is so injured. It is simply impossible to sustain it for long.

If it weren't for her being a member of the battle priest herself. I'm afraid that when he was shot flying by Cruise's touch, he was already dead.

Feel the passing of Dini's life. After Xiao En was taken aback for a while, he finally suppressed the sadness in his heart.

This is his second follower to die after Anno. Although in name Tini is a fighting priest who belongs to the Church of Frozen and Winter, but in fact Tini and Xuefanio and the goddess of Frozen and Winter are very clear about their relationship with each other. .

And when Dini's breath of life completely disappeared, Xuefanio, who was thousands of miles away, also sensed it at the same time.

Although Xuefanio has rarely shown a smile for a long time, most of the time she has a cold face, but she has never given a domineering cold feeling. But at this moment, she suddenly exudes an icy breath that no one else should enter, just like the cold wind suddenly broke out without warning.

"What's the matter?" William felt the change in Xuefanio's breath and couldn't help asking.

"Tini...has been called by God to go to the Kingdom of God." Xuefanio sighed softly.

"Tini... isn't she with Sean?" William's face changed suddenly, "What's the situation? Is it that Sean and the others are in danger?"

"I don't know." Xuefanio shook her head, but her gaze was on Noro who was aside.

But seeing Noro just smiled bitterly, and said helplessly: "Don't look at me like this, my host didn't make any contact with me, I don't know anything at all.... But if even Tini died in the battle, I'm afraid the current situation is indeed... very bad."

William took a deep breath, his eyes suddenly become cold: "hasn't the rectification of those tribal coalition forces finished yet?"

"Looking at their situation, I am afraid that without ten days and a half months, it is impossible to start the call."

"Very good." William said coldly, "It's time to let them know who is the real commander of this team.... Killing someone, isn't it a problem?"

"As long as the two old monsters don't take action, the other strong men will not be my opponents to Noro." Xuefanio knew what William meant, and even replied, "Even if the two old monsters take action, it doesn't matter. , God descends, unless it is a strong like Kozilek, it will not be my opponent."

William nodded, then got up and put on the uniform with the mark of the highest military commander of the Void Duchy, and walked towards the camp where the allied forces of the wild tribes were stationed.

Chapter 12: .plan

The Frost Legion is Angel's private legion.

Although this legion was judged to be a fifth-level legion, the real combat power is actually as high as quasi-sixth level—if Angel is personally commanded, it can even break into a real sixth-level legion. It's just like the standard judgments in this world's legion battles. Level 6 is the strongest level of combat power that the regular army can achieve. To become a level 7 legion, all soldiers in the entire legion must be upgraded. .

The seventh and eighth legions in the major empires and super-class kingdoms were finally formed after countless years of panning. This can be seen only from the fact that the reserve soldiers of these regiments are all selected from the fifth and sixth ranks to join.

This is the so-called heritage.

And when the Frost Legion finally arrived at the Wild Fortress, it was four days after Sean and the others entered the Wild Fortress, which was much longer than Angel's initial assistance time. Therefore, the trap war launched by the undead army in the wild fortress is basically nearing its end.

After solving the Touch of Cruise, the remaining skeleton soldiers in the fortress are huge, but they are basically not a big threat to Sean and others. Especially with the two veritable war machines, Kozilek and Cecilia, it is even more difficult for these skeletons to exert their due combat power, and even completely lose the meaning of cannon fodder. Of course, for ordinary soldiers in the fortress, it is still very threatening.

Because it had received Angel's instructions before, the Frost Legion did not panic after entering the wild fortress. Instead, it quickly entered a state of combat. It quickly expanded its formation and began to advance a little bit. All skeletons are completely annihilated.

This kind of steady and steady strategy similar to the way of positional warfare is used in the offensive and defensive of the fortress at this time. It's rare to feel a bit just right.

Coupled with the extremely powerful combat power of the Frost Legion, the skeletons in the fortress can hardly cause any trouble to the Frost Legion soldiers, but they are constantly annihilated in this type of advancement. From this point of view, it can be seen that the Frost Legion does have some genuine combat effectiveness and strategic awareness. It is not the kind of head-to-head assault army that blindly relies on its own combat power regardless of casualties.

also serves as an all-round army that can adapt to all terrain and the environment. The Cecilia Guards led by Clover were much inferior to the Frost Legion.

Because Clover's Cecilia Guards-in the eyes of Sean and William, perhaps called the death squad more appropriately-had the highest casualty rate in the entire void duchy, compared to being good at gnawing hard bones and fighting hard fights. The lion of thunder fighting to death is even more outrageous: after every battle is over, at least nearly three-quarters of it will die. However, at the price of such a high mortality rate, the soldiers of the Cecilia Guards who survived the war can be greatly improved in strength.

This is also the fundamental reason why the Cecilia's Guards have been able to maintain the level of combat strength at level five, but it is that William and Neal have to worry about the source of troops every time.

After all, the Cecilia Guards are a pure human army. Unlike steel wings, which are made up of barbarians. It's not like the Lion of Thunder and Wings of Conviction are all composed of multiple races. Moreover, the Cecilia Guards also has a special factor, that is, they require the fearless heart to die for Cecilia. Based on the above, the Cecilia Guards are the most difficult in the Void Principality. The corps supplemented by the source of troops, not to mention the expansion.

After the Frost Legion arrived in the wild fortress and joined with Angel, Sean and others, the sweeping work of the entire fortress was much easier.

Following Angel's order, the Frost Legion quickly divided into several teams. Instead, they adopted guerrilla tactics of encirclement and annihilation, and at the same time they started to search for various materials and reserves in various buildings. After all, the Frost Legion did not allow the logistics and reserve forces to be dispatched at the same time because of the combat plan this time. Therefore, in terms of food and grass, naturally they can only rely on the residual materials in the wild fortress to supplement, in order to insist on the arrival of Sean's Void Principality reinforcements.

However, with the sharp decline in the number of skeleton cannon fodder, many higher-level skeletons quickly disappeared from everyone's sight. After all, the scale of the wild fortress is not small, and the manpower of Sean and others is indeed limited. It is basically impossible to search the entire fortress thoroughly. In addition, at the beginning, Sean and the others did not find this trap, so once the skeletons were allowed to escape completely, they could be hidden again, and they would suddenly appear to cause trouble for Sean and the others in the future.

Originally, this is a nearly unsolvable problem.

It's just that after Sean threw Guru into the sky, this unsolvable problem was quickly solved.

With Guru's current strength, it is basically impossible to play a role in the battle to help Sean. However, conducting similar investigations and surveillance activities is not a problem. After all, there is a soul contract between Sean and Gollum. As long as Gollum can see and feel, it means that Sean can also see and feel. .

With the dual energy attributes of sacred and dark that Gollum possesses, it is basically impossible to conceal its perception unless it is the presence of Rek or a great witch of the same level. Under such tacit cooperation, they received highly targeted orders and mobilization. These skeleton cannon fodder were naturally invisible, and they were quickly found out by Sean, and then completely annihilated.

"The combat effectiveness of the Frost Legion is indeed well-deserved." Sean stood on a tall building and guided a small group of soldiers from the Frost Legion around the road to an escape point of skeleton cannon fodder in advance, and then directly launched an ambush. Victory was easily won.

"You have such outstanding eyes, I'm afraid that the name of the future military * will fall on you." An Qier stood beside Xiao En, looked up at a little golden light in the sky, and then said in a deep voice. "Any ambush, trap, I'm afraid it won't have any effect on you."

"I don't dare to bear the name of a military god. Gulu is still subject to a lot of control." Xiao En said lightly. He didn't mind letting Angel know some of his methods and secrets, because even Angel said that he had broken away from the royal family of the Millennium Covenant Empire. , But in fact she still has high loyalty to the Millennium Covenant Empire, and only in this way can the "Millennium Covenant Empire" better recognize its own strength and avoid some fearless confrontations.

The last thing Sean wants. It was at this time that he had a confrontation with the Millennium Covenant Empire. He still needed some time to plan, so he said: "This is the same effect as your Star Tower."

Hearing this, Angel's heart was helplessly grinning.

The Star Tower has long been damaged, otherwise the wild fortress would not even be broken by the enemy. To know. The Star Tower can monitor all areas within the Millennium Covenant Empire. This is also the real reason why the Millennium Covenant Empire has always been not afraid of any invaders. After all, under the protection of the Star Tower, the Millennium Covenant Empire has the right time and place and these three factors. Therefore, even the military  of the Zenas Empire personally The army can't get any benefits when it comes to attack.

However, only the few high-level leaders of the Millennium Covenant Empire know about the damage to the Star Tower at present, and others do not know, let alone outsiders.

Hearing what Shaun said, Angel knew that Shaun still had some scruples about the Star Tower. only. Angel did not expect it. Sean has been carrying that golden ball of light, but he actually possesses such outstanding ability. In some respects, it is indeed equivalent to the role of the Star Tower, and in some special moments, it can even be stronger than the Star Tower. The effect, because the Star Tower can only illuminate the territory of the Millennium Covenant Empire after all, and it will be completely useless if it leaves the territory of the Millennium Covenant Empire.

While grunt, you can carry it with you and use it directly at any place. Form a similar monitoring and detection effect. But it is true that as Xiao En said, Gulu still has a big limitation: once you encounter a legendary powerhouse. Guru will not be able to monitor and probe. Even if the legendary powerhouse did not specifically target Guru, the mere impact of the energy dissipated from the battle was enough to make Guru unable to eat.

"When will the reinforcements of the Void Principality arrive?" Angel changed the subject, although it was a bit stiff, it was better than continuing to entangle the Star Tower and other topics. "The harvest of food is far less than we thought. The previous fortress Soldiers in "have already collected a lot, but they were basically destroyed in the battle just now.... And most of the remaining uncollected, and more than half of them are contaminated and cannot be eaten at all."

Angel's meaning is already very obvious. If the reinforcements of the Void Principality cannot arrive as soon as possible, then they will have to abandon the wild fortress.

"It's coming soon." Sean closed his eyes and got in touch with Noro, then the corner of his mouth raised slightly, "At most ten days."

"Ten days?" Angel whispered, "How could it be so fast..."

The energy consumption of the teleportation array is too expensive, so the current normal march is still the normal way of marching, and because Shaun's previous beheading operations were too successful, now that the teleportation magic array is officially released, there are related means of resistance. Therefore, according to normal circumstances, even if the reinforcements from the Void Principality are marching in a hurry, only the minimum rest time is reserved, it will take more than 20 days to arrive.

Because Angel had just received news from the Frost Legion, the previous plan to annihilate the rebels jointly with William was a great success, and then William and the army class division. Calculating from time, it should have completely returned to the base camp of the Void Principality. So at this moment, I was so shocked when I heard that it took only ten days to hear Sean's news, because if calculated from the distance, the only evidence can only show that William did not lead the army back to the base camp of the Void Principality.

In this way, how to solve the logistics and food problems?

If this problem is not solved, it will be meaningless to continue to occupy the wild fortresses. On the contrary, it will accelerate the consumption of food and grass due to the arrival of the Void Principality's reinforcements.

"Don't worry about the food and grass, everything is ready, maybe we will arrive one step ahead of the reinforcements." Sean seemed to see Angel's doubts, so he smiled and replied, "If the wild fortress is lost, it will be for the wild fortress. The tribes in the land are not a good thing, so they will naturally help...The problem of food and grass is that they will be responsible for the transportation first. After that, William will arrive at the wild fortress with the allied forces of the wild tribes, and the subsequent fortifications and Related matters can also be carried out smoothly as scheduled, at least... the wild fortress will never fall into the hands of the undead again."

Angel frowned slightly, and her instinct told her that this matter was definitely not as simple as Sean said on the surface.

But now, Sean is obviously avoiding the most important and answering questions, with content that he obviously doesn't want to tell him. With Angel's ingenuity. Naturally, it is not difficult to produce some detailed loopholes, but because of lack of sufficient information, she can't analyze the specific situation, and can only acquiesce to Sean's statement.

In fact, Sean is really evasive to answer Angel's question.

The truth is not as simple as Sean said.

According to the information returned by Noro just now. After feeling Dini's death. Both William and Xuefanio were angry.

These two, one is ten generals, and the other is a divine envoy. The consequences of instigating anger are absolutely conceivable. In addition, at this time, William has Noro, Alfred, Clough, and Dwight beside him. And so on, a series of powerful men and generals, as well as powerful legions such as the Wings of Conviction, the Black Wings, the Steel Wings, the Lion of Thunder, the Scarlet Knights, and the Cecilia Guards, can be called powerful and powerful.

So facing the sudden anger and preemptive action of these two big men. The coalition forces of the wild tribes simply did not prepare accordingly. Several generals sent by the tribes who were dissatisfied with the Void Principality before were beheaded by Noro on the spot, which naturally caused a mutiny in the tribal coalition forces. However, this mutiny only broke out for less than three hours, and was completely suppressed by William with extremely tough means-in the process, except for the army led by Alfred and Clover, they launched a terrible assault force, as well as snow. In addition to the main reasons such as Fanio and Noro's successive shots, other tribes that had already secretly signed the empire contract chose to stand by and watch.

With such bad news from the coalition forces in the front, Neil and Hela, who were sitting in the rear, simply launched the final stage of the Void Empire plan without stopping, completely taking down the entire wild tribe. In this process, in addition to Oriana and the silver sideburns' rapid mobile combat plan. The power and performance displayed by Hina is also an extremely important factor-the Crypt Cold Spider Queen has grown up for so many years, but it is more than just a display.

So far. The early stage of the Void Empire plan has been completely completed, and some of the remaining problems cannot be solved quickly in a short while.

Especially the distribution of benefits.

After all, the current "Empire of the Void" cannot be regarded as one of Sean's words. At least the power and voice of the wild tribes must be completely integrated before it can be called a real Void Empire. Otherwise, just a semi-federal and semi-parliamentary empire has no practical help or meaning for Sean-even if it can't become a dictatorship, at least it must make these wild tribes unable to resist and betray any. Thoughts.

In a sense, this time the undead catastrophe broke out, in fact, it bought a lot of time for Sean.

Because of this, the strategic value of the wild fortress has been unprecedentedly promoted-only by completely controlling the fortress can Sean be able to buy more time for himself. And only enough time can he completely recover the wild tribes one by one, and this naturally requires stability in the front.

After all the adjustments and arrangements were over, Sean and Angel parted ways: Angel had to deal with military affairs such as the Frost Legion and the defenders and civilians in the fortress. After all, this is the affairs of the Millennium Covenant Empire, even now for the fortress. The nominal commander is Sean, and it is not convenient for him to intervene in these matters.

Watching Sean and Angel parting ways, Cecilia, with a few more stains on her delicate face, brought Kozilek to greet her.

However, at this time, the space near Sean suddenly had a twist.

A beautiful shadow, Shi Shiran, stepped out of it.

"How?" Shaun turned his head and looked at Alexis who stepped out of the void.

"Let him run away." Alexis's tone was full of regrets, "If it weren't for a touch of Cruise to block it, it would be impossible for Lucas to fully recover the strength from my hands. Escape."

"The second touch of Cruise?" Sean was a little surprised. "It's only a few days, how can they summon a second touch of Cruise... This is not an ordinary sacrifice, at least Get blood on a sufficient scale.... What is the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire doing? Having the monitoring of the Star Tower not only allows the undead to conquer the wild fortress and complete the first sacrifice, but now even the second touch of Cruise has been destroyed. Summoned."

"Perhaps... What's wrong with the Star Tower?" Cecilia said with some uncertainty, "Didn't the Millennium Covenant Empire almost win it? The rebels won an important reversal victory... I doubt that time. It is because the Star Tower has a problem, otherwise, the Millennium Covenant Empire, which has the right time and place and the three important elements, cannot always be unable to take down the rebels."

"It's very likely." Sean nodded. Then he turned his head and looked at Alexis, "Is your injury okay?"

He knows that the Lucas mentioned by Alexis is one of the thirteen undead kings. Lucas, commonly known as the Great Lucas on the plane of the bones, is the brother of the little Lucas. Although what Alexis said at this time was an understatement, from the beginning, Alexis didn't have time to give Sean a detailed reminder. Just let him watch this point carefully. That big Lucas is not an enemy that can be easily solved.

"It may take a few days off. The power used this time is a bit big. If you step into the legend, then there won't be so much trouble." Alexis said softly, speaking naturally to Sean again. Some contempt, "Your strength has been improved too slowly, I have never seen a guy as useless as you.... That fellow Rick said you are nonsense. You are really right."

"Sean has worked very hard!" I heard Alexis belittle Sean so much. Cecilia was not happy. "He has no blood power at all. It is not easy to attack the legend. It is possible to have the current strength in just a few years, Sean... Sean has already It's amazing!"

Alexis glanced at Cecilia. Although there was no hostility or malice in the eyes, as a powerhouse up to the eighteenth rank, it was enough to make Cecilia feel the trembling from the soul. It's just that, even if that's the case. Cecilia didn't mean to give in at all, just gritted her teeth so stubbornly. And Alexis stared at each other until Kozilek suddenly took a step towards the intersection of their eyes, blocking Cecilia behind him.

This move caused Alexis to be stunned for a moment, and immediately showed a smile that was not a smile.

As a result, Kozilek changed his face immediately and backed away in a panic.

For this killer Wu Ji, not only the external domain name is loud, but the "guard" like Kozilek is also not inferior.

"Ahem." At this time, Xiao En finally said, "I have one thing to deliver to you. Only you can do it, and I don't worry about other people.... You can just take a rest while solving these troubles. ."

"What's the matter?" Alexis raised an eyebrow, "You should know my temperament."

"I promise, this thing is absolutely in line with your appetite." Sean smiled. Of course he knows what Alexis's interests are. "The only thing that is not certain is whether those guys have the ability to make you Fight with all your strength."

Hearing Sean's words, Alexis's eyes lit up, but she glowed with an extremely charming radiance: "Have a fight?"

"Yes." Sean nodded, and then gave a brief account of what Noro had said before and the situation of the wild tribe now, "...probably this is the situation, and there will definitely be many people over there who are not convinced. Yes. Maybe they don't dare to make trouble directly, but they will definitely not stop doing some small actions secretly. I basically don't have time to clean up them now, so I can only ask you to sit there and give them some deterrence... As for the overall situation, there is Hela and Neil are sitting here, you don't need to think about it, just do it according to your liking."

"Can you kill?" Alexis laughed.

"Even if you don't tell me, I will ask for it. It is always necessary to solve a few more thorny guys, so that those guys can become submissive." The corners of Xiao En's mouth raised slightly, and his voice seemed calm and calm. But the killing intent in the words is particularly awe-inspiring, "Moreover, I believe there will always be some guys who don't have a sense of crisis trying to pick things...After all, some places are really too far from the battlefield here."

"I understand what you mean." Alexis nodded, "No limit?"

"As long as it's not a slaughter city, it doesn't matter even if the blood flows into a river." Xiao En replied, "Hela has filled out a list before, and there are several tribes on it that are destined to be removed.... But the other tribes that are not on the list, It's best not to be cruel, otherwise the situation in the rear may get out of control, which is not what I want."

"It's interesting." Alexis gave a murderous smile, "Then I'll go back for vacation.... You can rest assured with me."

After all, Alexis didn't wait for Sean's answer, and directly through the induction in the soul contract, one stepped to forcibly tore the void barrier, escaped into it and disappeared completely.

Looking at Alexis who was hurriedly coming and going, Sean sighed helplessly: "I'm not relieved because you are there."

Killing Wu Ji, this name is not a joke.

Shaun is really afraid that Alexis will overkill, and he will completely open the killing mode regardless. If it wasn't because Kozilek was too rigid to communicate with others, Sean really didn't want Alexis to go back to help Hela with the "surgical plan"-this was the first strategic deployment plan of the Nether Empire. The one-stage plan means to eliminate all those cancerous tribes who are disobedient, have rebellious thoughts, and hate humans and non-savage people.

Only in this way can the Void Principality truly sublime into an empire, rather than changing the fundamental position of the country.

Chapter 13: .layout

Shaun exhaled a turbid breath softly.

In the sky, there is a faint golden light shining down, a bit like it is raining golden light, the coverage of this light rain is huge, not just confined to the wild fortress. According to Sean's visual observation, it probably also included an area of about two kilometers near the wild fortress.

This golden rain-like light curtain is the surveillance range that Guru can cover.

In a certain way, it is really good to prevent the enemy's secret infiltration. However, if it is only used as a warning, it is obviously not enough. After all, the scope of investigation and surveillance carried out by professional investigators is more than ten miles outside the wild fortress.

"Next, we still have a lot of things to be busy." Sean retracted his gaze, and then said to Cecilia with a light smile, "The matter in the fortress has been resolved, but I don't know what is on the Millennium Empire. situation."

"The Millennium Covenant Empire will definitely not sit back and watch the wild fortress fall into our hands." Cecilia frowned. "The fall of the wild fortress may not be transmitted to the Imperial Ministry of Military Affairs in a short time, but It's been almost half a month now, I am afraid that even if it is blocked by news of the death wave of the undead, it should be known over there, right?"

"Not necessarily." Xiao En shook his head, and then said, "If, as you said, the Star Tower has a problem and cannot monitor the entire territory, then the loss of the wild fortress is likely to be unsuccessful. What they found. But..."

"But in this way, we will have more trouble." How clever Cecilia, when Sean said, she immediately understood the meaning, "If the fortress has clearly fallen, then they will definitely Choose to shrink the defensive line and give up here temporarily. But if you still don't know that you have lost it..."

"I am afraid we will soon face pressure from the Duke of Nandern." Sean sighed. "The name of the "Dern" of the Millennium Covenant Empire is not a decoration or a false name in the Millennium Covenant Empire. It is truly enduring. Synonymous with countless trials of strength, no Duke of Dern is not a weak person. In other words, the weak cannot win the title. Just like Duke Popocas of East Dern. He is on the list of famous players in this issue. Ranked fourth, higher than the rankings of William and Hella. As for the Duke of North Dern, although he mainly guards against invasions from the Emilia Empire, few wars have been spread, but if I remember correctly, the famous players in the previous issue He is ranked 17th in the list, but he fell out of the top 20 in this issue, but I don't think his ability will be weakened because of this."

"After all, the list of famous generals is also a place that relies on war to speak. If a general has few rumors of record. If the intelligence collection is not accurate, it is really difficult to guarantee the accuracy of this ranking." Cecilia said, "But I always feel that ...This seems to be something that military * deliberately concealed."

"It's nothing more than the problem caused by the tragedy caused by the first time the famous rankings are ranked. He is seeking inner self-comfort and redemption." Xiao En's eyes showed an inexplicable color, and after a long time he sighed again. "As for Puhuus, who is about to take over as the Duke of Nandern, his last shot was thirty years ago, and the famous list appeared twenty years ago. So he was not included in the list. ...But I believe that this old duke may be able to rank in the top 20. Even the top 15 level.... I can't tell, there may even be a hidden ten generals."

Cecilia whispered: "He is eighty-five years old this year..."

"Older is stronger." Xiao En smiled, "But fortunately, we prepared a card early in the morning, and now we can barely use it."

"You mean... Hasas?"

"There is no one else except him." Sean nodded, "If this guy is lucky enough, he should have returned to the territory of the Zoanton family by now."

"What if you have bad luck?" Cecilia asked.

When William assisted Hasas to win, he chose the class teacher, and Hasas also chose to pass through the wild fortress to return to the family territory of Zoanton. From the time point of view, there had not yet been a wave of undead deaths at that time, so there was the sentence of Sean if everything went well. However, the eruption of the wave of undead death was too sudden, and many villages and cities were not prepared at all. This is also the main reason why the millennium covenant empire was quickly annexed by many villages and towns before it was too late to unfold.

To summon the Touch of Cruise, it is not an easy task.

Counting the Cruise's touch in the Wild Fortress, Sean estimates that within a few days, the Millennium Covenant Empire should have lost almost half a million people.

However, at this moment, when Cecilia asked, "If you have bad luck," Sean was also a little dumbfounded.

Immediately, Xiao En's face seemed a little painful: "Oh, I thought I could take a short rest here, but I didn't expect...I had to find someone. This guy can't die now, otherwise we'll just It's really very possible that you will have a fight with the Duke of Nandern."

"Aren't we still with Angel?" Cecilia didn't understand. Of course, her greater instinct was that she didn't want Sean to leave after arriving in the Wild Fortress.

"Angel's card is not used here." Sean shook his head, and then reached out and stroked Cecilia's head. "The position of the Patriarch of Hasas has been determined. If he is dead, then we All previous actions were in vain. And if he is alive, then he will be the next Duke of Nandern.... Adding the Angel card by then, we and the Millennium Covenant Empire will have a lot of room for maneuver. "

At this point, Sean saw that Cecilia seemed to be going to say something again, so he spoke again: "I know what you want to say. Now Angel is on our side, if we really encounter Duke Nandern. , We can also avoid a human civil war based on this. Even if there is a war, in order to open the road to the wild fortress, the Duke of Nandern will lose a lot, and it is difficult to win us in a short time, but... This prevents us from having close talks with the Millennium Covenant Empire."

"Because... the face of the empire, right."

is not an interrogative sentence, but a declarative sentence.

Sean nodded: "It's about the face of an empire. Once a battle breaks out, then things will become very complicated. But if you change the way of solving it... I personally took action to ensure the safety of Hasas. .And inform the Duke of Nandern about the specific situation of the wild fortress now, then we have the possibility of further cooperation with the Millennium Covenant Empire. Then through Angel, we can reach some agreements with the Millennium Covenant Empire, and thus win the wild fortress. "

"As a relative price, the Millennium Covenant Empire will retreat its borders. It will divide the area and scope covered by the entire Black Earth. It will become a land of no ownership, and the key defense areas will be concentrated in the more rear territory. This allows their defensive strategies to be better focused and avoid the need to face greater pressure in the future outbreak of death tides." Wen Xian Ge knows the elegant meaning, Sean just said that, as Sisi who knows Sean's overall strategy Leah immediately reacted, "...After all. After the Millennium Covenant Empire has shrunk its borders and range of activities. The Wild Fortress has become the closest human activity area to the Black Earth, so if the tide of death erupts at that time, it will be most needed. Instead, we are worried, not the Millennium Covenant Empire."

"Not to mention the future void empire, even in today's situation, the wild land is no longer the back garden of the major empires and principalities. The importance of the wild fortress is naturally not as good as before, and it can even be said that it is a loss. Trading. After all, the annual maintenance cost is not low. So without losing any face, and getting some benefits and getting rid of the troubles from the long-term death wave. The only thing that the Millennium Covenant Empire needs to do is to only guard against us, so it is normal. I will not refuse the secret agreement led by Angel." Sean added Cecilia's words, "And because of this fact, the Millennium Covenant Empire will not guess our layout."

"On the surface, we won the Wild Fortress just to prevent the Millennium Covenant Empire from directly entering the gateway to the Wild Land. This is a state of mutual protection. But in fact, our real goal is to purify and recover the black soil. Land." Cecilia nodded clearly, "But this way...they will surely guess the changes that have taken place in the Wild Land, and will even judge the plan of the 'Void Empire' because of this."

"The so-called layout is to hide the true purpose of oneself." Xiao En said lightly, "For this, one or even multiple false purposes must be prepared, a false information that is not easy for people to obtain, and a wrong guide but Clues that are really enough to make people reason and convince. And... one or more inducement traps."

"So, taking the Wild Fortress is the first false goal." Cecilia thought for a while, and then said, "And the secret talks obtained through Angel and the Millennium Covenant Empire are to convey, 'We want the Wild Fortress. This false information that is not easy for people to obtain. The Millennium Covenant Empire will judge the "wild fortress is very important to us" as the first inducement trap.'

As Cecilia's thinking became clearer and clearer, her words became more fluid: "With such an important clue, they will contact you to protect the return of Hasas, and use the word "wild The fortress used as a clue and began to collect targeted intelligence. In this targeted intelligence collection, all the preparations we made regarding the Void Empire plan could not be concealed by the interested people, and then they would fall into more inducements. The trap, and the wrong reasoning logic that led us to it, finally concluded that we would get rid of the Kingdom of Lane and become the eighth empire."

"But they would never think that we have already launched the Void Empire plan, and now it is just thrown out as a second false purpose hidden under the first false purpose... But this is because it is them. The intelligence department of the United States analyzed the results themselves, so they will be very convinced of this, and as long as we did not show any purposeful actions in the black soil at the beginning, they will not guess at all."

Sean smiled and nodded, with appreciation in his eyes.

This strategic chess game layout was learned by Sean from his original president. It is said that his president deployed a two-year-long double agent strategy, which completely defeated him. Competitors. It's just that Sean used this for the second time. The previous time was to lay the foundation for the Void Empire plan. For this reason, he had to fight to become a lord, but the Void Empire plan later was in Neal and Sisi. The combination of Leah, William, and Hela did a better job than Shaun had originally conceived.

"And there is one most obvious place in this layout." Sean smiled, and then added, "After the Millennium Covenant Empire discovers this, they will immediately start a new round of fortress construction to prevent us. After truly becoming an empire, there may be subsequent attacks, aggression, harassment, etc. This can to a large extent consume the resources of the millennium covenant empire, thus ensuring that when they discover our true purpose, they will no longer be able to stop it. And contend."

"But...this requires us to have sufficient strength, otherwise the Millennium Covenant Empire can send troops to us and prevent us from becoming an empire."

"Any layout requires a certain level of strength." Xiao En said, "Whether it is taking advantage of the situation or own strength, at least you must have the ability to compete with other players, otherwise any layout is just a joke. ... Hela has always been doing this. The only time she failed was that she did not expect us to have such a tough means to break the game."

"But... if we want to establish an empire, even if we are taking advantage of this death wave, the peace council and death thorns will not attack us due to contract restrictions, but there are still so many big countries around the wild land... .."

"I know." Sean nodded, his face rarely appeared solemn, "Kozilek and Alexis alone are still a bit short. After all, where we are now, it's not just a thousand-year covenant. The empire is such a staring opponent, and there are other great kingdoms around, and even the Chenas Empire is not very far away from us. Maybe the military  can't catch up, but the super strong may still be fine."

"Then the number of super powers may be able to compete with the super powers of the two empires, but for those legendary powers, we probably don't have so many numbers to compete, even if we count those surrendered wild tribes today."

"So this time I go out, I plan to drop by to visit a hidden world powerhouse." Xiao En said in a deep voice, "Because I don't know the specific location and situation very well, so I plan to set off by myself, because I am waiting for William. When all the people arrive, it doesn't matter to me that there is one missing, but if Rena, you, Kozilek and others are not here, then there is likely to be a problem."

"But..." Cecilia bit her lower lip, still a little hesitant on her face.

"I will be careful." Xiao En laughed, "And I promise you that if things can't be violated, I will give up immediately, not too reluctant."

Chapter 14: .Eroded empire situation

The millennium covenant empire may have really responded to the saying that misfortunes do not come singly, and the troubles encountered one after another, one after another.

With the strong enthronement of the tyrant Budris Dern, the interior of the empire is no longer an iron plate. After all, the emperor's ascension actually damaged the interests of a large part of the nobility. Only due to the strength and coercion of the pure white emperor, those old noble forces only dared to be angry but did not dare to speak. Of course, some small movements behind their backs naturally did not stop, and it was precisely because of this that they strengthened the new emperor. Determined to eradicate the empire's cancer and make the Millennium Covenant Empire a true dictatorship.

There is naturally no simple role to be able to ascend the throne of God.

Originally, according to Budris's plan, at most it only caused some twists and turns. After all, the reputation of the Star Tower is not just a joke. But what he didn't expect was that this was supposed to be a sort of unrest cleanup, but it was accompanied by the sudden collapse of the Star Tower, which caused the situation to become corrupted. Had it not been for the two dukes of East Deen and North Deen, Budris would have been very upset, but this still made him feel very annoyed, and even had to let Phughes Zoranton take charge of reorganizing the South. Situation.

Originally, Budris thought that everything should come to an end. He just added a Duke of Nanden in the empire, but considering the qualifications and experience of the veteran Puhuus, he was not dissatisfied. .

But at this time, the undead disaster happened to erupt, and this was not a normal undead disaster, but the door to the eccentric plane of the bone plane was opened.

Budris' anger can be imagined.

What made him feel more angry and helpless is that the undead army that ran out of the plane of the bones is no longer as easy to deal with as the brainless idiots when the death wave broke out. As a result, in less than half a month, the entire empire's South Convenience lost nearly one-seventh of its territory, with more than 800,000 casualties, and all connections with the wild fortress and its surrounding territories were also interrupted. .

At present, the Imperial Military Department is making a mess.

But from the noisy noise, Budris probably heard clearly that it was divided into three groups.

The first faction. Occupying the largest number of people, the advocated opinion is to abandon the internal strife of the empire and let those rebellious parties return to the imperial banner of the Millennium Covenant. Their reason is also very simple, that is, the current situation is no longer suitable for continuing infighting, because this time the undead army is too fast. Far beyond their expectations. There were more than 800,000 casualties in less than half a month.

And it is obvious that Puhuose Zoranton, who had been promoted to the Duke of Nanden a few days ago, was also caught off guard in this death wave.

At that time, he was encircling an important rebel stronghold in the south of the empire. The battle between the two sides has basically come to an end. For the Duke of Nanden, the fruits of victory are already at hand. But I didn't expect that at this time, an army of undead cavalry suddenly broke out, and the result not only caused the fruit to fly. Even the army under the Duke of Nandern was hit hard. Even the battlefield that was once the melee of the three armies has now become an absolute dead place—the rebels and Purhus both withdrew thirty miles overnight.

Now, that part of the rebels has naturally survived because of this, and they have not been truly annihilated, but their situation is not very good, basically it can be said that they are trapped in a circle of encirclement. But no matter what the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire thinks, the three provinces of the empire in the south along with this rebel army are trapped in a circle of encirclement. This is a population of millions of people—the last battle between Puhuus and the rebels. The battlefield is nowhere else, it just happens to be the only transportation hub between the three provinces in the south of the empire and other provinces in the south of the empire.

same. This pivot point is also one of the key travel points leading to the wild fortress.

In this way, they agreed with the people of the second faction on a certain point of view: rescue the wild fortress.

The people of the first faction advocate abandoning infighting. They believe that the current situation requires the whole empire to unite, and that the rebellion of the rebels can be exempted from the death penalty, but they must also redeem their merits. After retaking the three southern provinces of the empire and the outside transportation hub, they immediately organized it. A vanguard army set out to the wild fortress.

The people of the second faction and the third faction agreed on some points of view: they believe that the rebels are a group of dissidents, especially when the empire is facing a major crisis, such a group of unpredictable people must not be left behind. Let alone accept their submission.

It's just that the people of the third faction think that since even the transportation hubs of the three southern provinces have been captured, it is obvious that the barren fortress must have been taken down. Only when the wild fortress is lost can the undead cavalry army join the battlefield between Puhuus and the rebels, causing heavy damage to both sides.

Therefore, their proposal is to immediately abandon the rescue of the wild fortresses north, and let the Duke of Nandern immediately build a new line of defense in the south of the empire. Regarding the construction plan of the defensive line, they believe that abandoning the three southern provinces is the best choice. Anyway, when there is only one import and export restriction, it is only a matter of time before the death of the three southern provinces, including the rebels hiding in it, is a matter of time. Maybe at this meeting of their meeting, the people in the three southern provinces have already died.

The second faction, although it also believed that it could not re-accept the rebels, but believed that rescuing the three southern provinces and the wild fortresses was a very important strategic plan—mainly because the three southern provinces were food bases in the southern part of the empire, including the wild fortresses. A large part of the southern territory depends on the provision of food from the three southern provinces. If the three southern provinces are lost, then the entire south will soon fall into a state of food shortage. If it is transported from other parts of the empire, this supply line will be extended, and the consumption of the empire's military resources can be imagined.

Except that the third faction has the least supporters, the speech supporters of the first and second factions are almost the same.

The main reason for this situation is that the speaker of the first faction is the newly promoted Duke of Nandern, Puhuus Zoranton.

After the veteran suffered heavy damage from the Undead Cavalry Corps and the excessive erosion of the situation in the south, his current situation can be described as a bit bad. And most importantly, the undead army is still raging everywhere south of the south, cutting many provinces into enclaves. Can only barely stay alone, there is a mode of raising animals in captivity. Therefore, out of the idea of uniting all available forces, this famous veteran naturally hopes to allow the rebels to join his camp. Only in this way can he immediately form a counterattack situation and prevent the situation from getting worse. .

But it's a pity. Support the opinions of the second faction. However, regardless of fame, strength, status, etc., they are not weaker than the veteran Duke of East Deen and the fourth-ranked commander-in-chief of Popocus Hantinier.

Originally, he should immediately take over the command of Phughes and inflict a heavy blow on the rebels, so as to completely resolve the situation of the rebels. However, he didn't expect that before he arrived on the battlefield, the eastern part of the empire was attacked by a wave of monsters, and there were also extremely tragic casualties. Even the passages between the eastern, central, and southern parts of the empire were cut off by the undead army. For this reason, he had to rush to the east to take command. Finally, before the situation was completely deteriorated, the tide of monsters was restrained, and the road to the rear was reopened.

Just in this way, he even more hoped that the Duke of Nandern could push the battle line forward, thus forming a horn with him and reducing considerable pressure. In this way, the advancement of the front line is also inevitable, so the recovery of the wild fortress is a very important key point, and because the empire is about to open two fronts. There may even be third-line and fourth-line operations, so the three southern provinces as food bases must be recovered as soon as possible.

To some extent. Among the three most outstanding generals of the Millennium Covenant Empire, two have the same thinking and ideas at the strategic level.

It's just that Popocas, Duke of East Deen, didn't trust the rebels—this time if it weren't for a small group of rebels in the eastern part of the empire, the undead army that erupted in the death wave would not be able to intercept the eastern and southern parts of the empire. Between the roads. And if it were not for this reason, the loss of the Duke of East Deen would have been reduced by at least half, so based on this consideration, Popocas' aversion to the rebels can be imagined.

Budris rubbed his temples with a headache, and then suddenly said, "Is there any news about Angel?"

His voice is not loud, but it can reverberate well in the whole chamber, resounding in everyone's ears.

The original noisy voice suddenly fell silent.

A short while later, a man with a small beard got up and said: "According to the whereabouts of Her Royal Highness Angel, he should have gone to the wild land. And a month before the death wave erupted, the wild fortress paid back, Han The main force of the Frost Legion entered the wild land through the fortress, and launched a defensive position, seeming to be intercepting something.... According to the information collected by our intelligence department, only the rebels were likely to pass the wild fortress during that time period. One of the secret logistics forces of China."

"Find her!" Budris said in a deep voice.

Suddenly, everyone in the whole chamber knew Budris's plan.

The third group of people was silent for a while, and immediately turned to support the opinion of Popocas, the commander of the Millennium Covenant Empire, so the pressure on Puhughes naturally increased.

The recapture of the three southern provinces is the top priority, so counterattack against the transportation hub is the first thing the Duke of Nanden has to do.

At this point, there is nothing worth discussing and arguing about.

The only difference is how to deal with the rebel army currently hiding in the three southern provinces.

"Duke Puhuus, can you guarantee that you can persuade the rebel's surrender?" Budris spoke again, his voice was very low, but there was an indisputable majesty.

"I can't guarantee, but I am willing to do my best." Puhuus thought for a moment, and then said, "The current situation in the South is too erosive. There is absolutely no time for reinforcements. At least I can't organize a counterattack of a sufficient scale in a short time....According to my experience over the years, if I cannot have a counterattack of a sufficient scale, then it is equivalent to growing the tide of death. That's it."

"What if the rebels don't know what is good or bad?"

"Then I will never show mercy." Duke Purhus Zoranton said in a deep voice, "I know the unity of decision-making in war, so I will never make a mistake in this regard."

"Then do it as you want." Budris waved his hand, "But if you fail, you have to pay the price of accepting punishment."

"Yes, Your Majesty!" Puhuus immediately got up and saluted.

The people in the chamber saw that this controversial discussion finally ended, so they immediately started the next topic. However, the following topics have nothing to do with the Duke of Nandern. They basically involve matters in the east and north of the empire, including dealing with neighboring countries, and receiving reinforcements from all sides.

At this moment, the spirit of the Duke of Nandern was somewhat relaxed.

No one knew, Puhugh's hand under the table couldn't help clenching a little bit.

He will fight against the crowd, and always insist on organizing a large-scale counterattack immediately in a short period of time. He is not only worried about the erosion of the situation in the south. In the same way, he was also worried about the future of the Zoanton family: Not to mention that the current Nandeenling fell into the hands of the Undead Legion, and even the future heir of the Zoanton family is now unknown.

Hassas's great success has been known by Puhughes, so his heir order is naturally mentioned first. As for his two most powerful competitors before, they naturally fell into the second and third sequences. Originally, if the whereabouts of Hasas is currently unknown, then the heirs with the second and third picks are also in line with Puhugh's vision, and it is not impossible to promote them, anyway, it is for the Zoanton family.

But on the contrary, these three heirs all went to the wild land because of sniping on the secret reinforcements of the rebels. As a result, the death wave broke out so suddenly and blocked the road. As a result, the whereabouts of the three heirs were also unknown at the same time. At present, apart from these three heirs, the Zoanton family is not to mention other generations of heirs. Even Phughes's sons and daughters are not able to handle the work, so this has prompted him to work in the short term. Regain lost ground within time.

At least, the road between the family territory of Zoanton and the wild fortress should be opened up.

Because Puhughes knows very well that he, who is already eighty-five years old, may really be alive within a few years. Whether he can see the end of this wave of death is still unknown. Therefore, at this time, he would never allow the Zoanton family to fall into the situation of a group of dragons without a leader. For this reason, he even did not hesitate to challenge Popocas.

Chapter 15: .Borderlands

Shaun followed the comprehensive clues given before in the void.

The scale of the Void Realm is now completely on the right track. Almost as long as the power coverage of the Void Principality is covered, there will be intelligence personnel in the Void Realm. It was the rupiah, one of the three small giants in the void, who was responsible for contacting Cecilia and others who had penetrated into the millennium covenant empire. However, because Cecilia and others entered the forest of sighs, the rupiah was only Can helplessly stop following.

However, as Sean and others returned to the Wild Fortress and returned to control of the Wild Fortress, Ruby naturally got in touch with Sean and others.

After enquiring later, Sean discovered that as early as when the Void Empire Project was launched, William had already arranged a group of personnel to enter the wild fortress, and even used it as a hub base to radiate into the territory of the Millennium Covenant Empire. It's just that the undead army attacked the wild fortress too suddenly, so Ruby and others did not react immediately, so that the intelligence could not be transmitted, and they were restricted to live in the wild fortress.

And this battle really caused the Void Realm to suffer heavy losses in the stronghold of the Wild Fortress.

Similarly, because the undead army blocked the traffic roads in the southern part of the Millennium Covenant Empire, the intelligence communication between the Voidland and other places has also been interrupted.

However, after the battle was over, Hasas took his group of men to leave through the wild fortress, so this news was still noticed by the people in the void, so naturally he made a note. At this time, after learning that Sean needed, Ruby took out the information and analyzed it with Cecilia, Sean and others, and finally came up with two possible paths of action for Hasas.

No matter which of these two roads, the final meeting point is at the transportation hub leading to the three southern provinces.

The Millennium Covenant Empire originally built a fortress here as a fortification and frontline defense point. But with the subsequent millennium covenant empire's several frontier wars. Finally opened the scope of the frontier to the south. Not only did the territory of almost thirteen provinces in the southern part of the empire once again lay down, but even large fortresses such as wild fortresses were built. It was only because of the black soil. In the end, it was impossible to take that much wider territory.

In this way, this transportation hub naturally loses the meaning of defense. Therefore, several expansions and reforms followed. In the end, this fortress was transformed into a prosperous trading city—the thirteen provinces further south, the three provinces that were originally known as food bases, and the slaves and treasures from the wilds, all sourced continuously shipped to this city.

At this time, Sean is walking on one of the routes.

The Millennium Covenant Empire referred to this route as the "Golden Left Road".

After the Millennium Covenant Empire continued to go south through the transportation hub "Mean Fortress", it took the Golden Left Road as the first forward route, and laid down two major provinces equivalent to the Marquis. Then built a wild fortress at the entrance and exit of the wild land. Since then. The Mei'an Fortress was in a semi-destroyed state, and it was precisely because this road was opened that the Mei'an Fortress laid the foundation of a prosperous trading city—that is, the current Mei'an commercial city.

After that, because the wild fortresses completely gained a foothold and successfully blocked the threat from the wilds, the Millennium Covenant Empire finally had the energy to march northward, and completely incorporated the larger territory of the southern part of the empire into the empire's territory, as well as the eastern part of the empire. The territory of the country formed a momentum of horns. Hold the dead tide and deterioration of the black soil.

And this road that goes north and south at the same time is called "Nuggets Road".

This is a multi-line passage that can traverse eleven provinces of different sizes south of the commercial city of Mei'an. You can also start from the wild fortress north and cross three and a half provinces and then take the road to the west to reach the Mei'an commercial city.

The former is the famous Nugget Road—it is said that it takes about half a year to eight months to complete a trip, and there will be dangers such as robbery along the way, but if there is enough cargo, it can be done at one time. The income is tens of thousands of gold coins; the latter is the gold selling cave known as the "Little Nuggets Road" and the "Golden Right Road". Although the income is not as generous as the Nuggets Road, there are many casinos and slave markets. And the salon club.

From the itinerary, the Golden Left Road will take about two months. If it is a day and night journey, it will take almost a month. On the Golden Right Road, it takes as long as four and a half months, even if it is a day and night journey, it takes nearly three months to reach Mei'an Commercial City.

According to normal logic, it is unlikely that Hasas will take the golden right. But unfortunately, there is a corps beside him that William judges to be a mob, and the golden right road just needs to go through a mercenary guild—according to normal procedures, after the mercenary group helps the employer complete the commission, the employer needs to return to the guild. Relevant data registration and evaluation can be performed in this way, so that it can be regarded as a real completion of the commission.

After all, many mercenary groups will become a group of bandits and bandits once they are transformed. Therefore, relying only on their own statements, the mercenary guild will naturally not adopt it, and the employer must be present.

This is also the reason why Cecilia and Ruby think that Hasas will move here. Because the number of members of that legion is really quite large, William did not intend to use them as cannon fodder to die, so the organization is still relatively well preserved. If all members use the teleportation array to transmit, the cost is not low. .

Of course, even if you want to use the teleportation array, there is no way in the wild fortress.

Because since the teleportation array technology came out, all border fortresses have no teleportation array, in order to prevent some unnecessary situations.

The closest teleportation formation to the wild fortress, whether it is the golden left or right, has a journey of about ten days. In other words, if Hasas had moved faster, they could probably just reach a city with a teleportation array and make the first teleportation. After that, due to the negative energy impact generated by the opening of the door of bones, the entire magic network in the southern part of the Millennium Covenant Empire will be destroyed, and all teleportation arrays will be on strike.

Xiao En walked quickly on the official road of the Golden Left Road, because he was alone on the road, so he did not need to worry too much. He could travel day and night, and at his speed, it would only take five days to reach the first city with a teleportation array. This was because he couldn't fly through the air for a long time. If he could fly through the air as near-unrestricted as the upper sanctuary powerhouse, he would probably be able to arrive in less than three days.

If it reaches the realm of legend. Master the relevant spatial laws. Even like Alexis and Andrew, they can directly tear open space for ultra-long-distance teleportation.

Shaun stood outside the city and stared at the first city he saw indifferently.

This city may have been very lively. After all, it is the city with a teleportation array that is the closest to the wild fortress on the Golden Left Road. It is also the first supply point to take the Golden Left Road after leaving the wild fortress.

But at this moment, the four walls of the city are down two and a half. The only one that is well-preserved is the wall on the north side, and the other half is on the west side.

The undead army that erupted from the wave of death, coming from the southeast. So it is understandable to pinch both directions in the southeast at the same time. As for the west. It is estimated that there should be a large number of citizens trying to flee, and the result was discovered by the undead army and encountered an interception, and then a large-scale tragic death battle broke out, which eventually caused the collapse of two-thirds of the west wall.

Sean just glanced briefly, and basically had a clear judgment about the battle that broke out here.

And judging from the situation in this city, it is estimated that there should not be many living people. After all, this is the first city to be attacked after the wild fortress. The undead army's offensive is definitely very fierce. So even if some people escaped by chance, there won't be too many.

The whole area has become a dead land of ghosts. There is a very strong death spirit everywhere here, even if the lost ground is regained in the future, it is not an easy task to completely eradicate the death spirit in this area. And if death cannot be completely eradicated, ordinary people living in this environment will easily get sick or even go crazy. Even the Bronze Realm can only go crazy later than ordinary people. Only a silver master with a grudge can barely resist the guarantee. Physical health.

At this time, with such a strong life, Sean, a living person who has stayed here for a long time, will definitely cause a chain reaction in the area, and there may be many undead chasing him by then. Xiao En, who understood these key factors, would naturally not stay here for too long. After confirming that there were no living people in the city, he immediately got up and drove forward.

Shaun was extremely fast, and hardly did any stay or rest, so he quickly left this very lifeless place.

After that, Xiao En drove for three days in a row, passing many towns and villages along the way, and all he saw was a horrible look like hell—no matter whether it was a city, a small town or a village, basically there was nothing. Any living person, and most of the buildings, have become dilapidated, as if the tide of death did not just erupt recently, but that all places have been abandoned for hundreds of years.

Sean knew that if the life spirit was too strong, it would indeed cause this kind of decay-like situation, but he did not expect that it would only take more than half a month to have such an obvious effect. This is obviously not a normal phenomenon. Even Xiao En felt a little bit of power that was not part of order. It seemed that these places had been completely transformed by the dark power, and they were almost chaotic, with a trace of black soil.

All of this comes from the induction of Sean's Son of the Plane. If it were an ordinary person, it would not be so keenly aware of this.

Looking at the borderless land in front of him, Xiao En sighed with some emotion.

He knew that the bone disaster this time was extraordinary, but he did not expect that the bone disaster power formed by the seven witch-level witches was so terrible, it even meant to break the order. At this time, Xiao En was also thankful that he and the others were not slow in their actions, and quickly took down the wild fortress. Otherwise, if the undead army enters the wild land, I am afraid that the whole wild land will be completely polluted.

And judging from the vastness of the wild land, it is estimated that it is impossible to defend, and the loss will not be known how heavy it will be.

But even if it successfully prevented the undead army from going south into the wild land, but now looking at this unowned land in front of him, Xiao En's face is indeed not pretty. Especially for the safety of Hassas, I am even less confident, because based on William's evaluation of the Hassas mercenary group, I am afraid that there is absolutely no way to resist the power of this undead army, and at the expense of it. After more towns and villages, the size of this undead army may have expanded to a more alarming level.

But anyway, since Xiao En has already set off, he can't give up halfway until the matter gets a clear answer, so he rests for a while, and then feels the death movement in the air. , He immediately set off again, avoiding the crisis of encirclement and suppression by the undead army.

In the next two days, what Xiao En saw was basically similar to what he had seen before.

For a whole week, a province was almost traversed by Sean, but what he saw was nothing but the ruin and tragic ruin of Borders, and it even gave him a kind of province like this. Completely out of touch with this world.

Sean knew that this was the power of chaos devouring this area. Once the power of chaos completely swallows this area, this province will completely become a land of black soil. At that time, fire will be needed to completely purify it. It is impossible to get rid of it by ordinary purification methods.

When crossing the first province, Sean in the four cities deliberately ran to take a look, and there was basically no whereabouts of any living people.

In the case of Hasas, unless he uses the teleportation magic circle to leave first when he arrives in the first city, then it is possible that the magic teleportation circle will leave the first one before the negative energy impact when the door of bones is opened. Be careful, otherwise, I am afraid that I have already become a member of the undead army.

Sean doesn't even bother to think about life and death, because it's impossible.

Eleven days after leaving the wild fortress, Sean has crossed the first province and entered the second province border on the Golden Left Road.

But as soon as he stepped into this place, Xiao En's face was a little surprised.

It's not that the situation here is worse than in the first province. Although I feel that the dead aura in the area is already extremely strong, and whether it's flowers, trees, or anything else, it's completely decayed, and it's still completely unowned. The look of the land. However, Sean felt a strong vitality that was still resisting fiercely in it. Although Sean could not express this feeling clearly, his instinct was telling him that this province had not yet completely fallen.

In other words, there are some places in this province where the living are resisting the undead army from the tide of death.

Chapter 16: .Rescue mission

As the son of the plane, Sean can more or less possess some special perception abilities.

This kind of perception is very subtle, even Sean himself doesn't know what's going on, but once it appears, Sean's mind can instantly wake up to the influence and judgment brought about by this perception. .

Like now.

The surrounding situation still looks like a barren dead land. Both the land and the weeds and trees have lost their vitality due to the erosion of death, and there are even signs of death, just like the piece that Sean saw in the forest of sighs. The same as the trees. No matter how you look at it, the situation in front of you is no different from the first province that Sean traversed before.

However, Sean can only feel the vitality and vitality that still exists in this area.

At least this proves that this area has not completely fallen, there are still people fighting, struggling, and working hard.

Understanding this, Sean did not continue to delay, but immediately went on the road.

He followed the intuitive guidance and hurried away in one direction.

One day later, Sean saw a city completely destroyed.

The scale of this city is not as big as the giant cities that Shaun saw in the previous province, let alone the wild fortresses. However, according to Xiao En's rough judgment, this city can probably maintain a population of about 50,000.

But now, the city has been completely destroyed: whether it is the city walls or other buildings in the city, they are basically not intact. This shows how fierce battles took place in this city when facing the attack of the undead army. Probably because I heard the description of those who escaped from the first province, the residents and defenders in the city also knew the brutality of the undead army, so they held on here with the belief that they would die.

Xiao En did not feel the dark atmosphere in the city, so after a little hesitation, he chose to enter the city to find some clues.

soon. Sean discovered something unusual.

All the cities and towns encountered in the front were basically forcibly broken by the undead army with an unstoppable force, and there were few survivors. Even if some survivors were lucky enough to escape, they couldn't survive in the face of such a large and tireless army of undead. I'm afraid there are only strong people above the golden realm. It is possible to barely find a chance to escape without being trapped.

But this time is different.

Shaun felt an unprecedented "active" in this almost ruined city.

It was a kind of joy that was close to winning a battle.

"We won the battle, but the whole city is still destroyed?" Sean muttered to himself rather strangely.

But soon, Sean realized that this triumphant cheer did not necessarily occur at the moment the city was destroyed, but should have occurred earlier.

For example, when the undead army launched the first wave of offensive, it defeated the undead army.

is the only way. Only then can the joy of victory burst out that is enough to make the earth deeply feel and remember. Of course the war that happened later. It is still dumping on the deteriorating side of the situation. After all, the undead army is inexhaustible and inexhaustible. Then the second wave of offensive will definitely be more violent, and there may even be third and fourth waves. Only in this way can the entire city be nearly razed to the ground.

Sean slowly got up, and then found more traces and clues.

After the undead army captured the city, it did not continue advancing as unmatched as before. Instead, it divided into three different tributaries and moved in three directions: north, west, and northwest.

This can be seen. At that time, many survivors left here alive after the city was broken. And fled in three directions.

Although this has indeed played the effect of weakening the undead army to some extent, the same human forces that have been diverted are also weakened, which is equivalent to saying that the situation has not changed or improved significantly.

unless.....

Xiao En's frowning brows finally stretched out: These guys still have something to prepare!

Compared with the undead army, human beings as a side of the intelligent race have very high flexibility and can even take some highly targeted measures to fight. Unless the undead army is commanded by undead creatures with high-level intelligence, it basically acts according to instinct. The current practice of chasing humans in a diversion proves that the opponent has at least a few undead commanders in the middle level.

is also a sixth-order undead creature similar to the bone demon.

After understanding this, Sean chose a direction and quickly caught up.

It's been less than a month since this undead catastrophe erupted, so this still counts Sean's ten-day journey. Judging from the traces left on the scene, the undead army should have penetrated this fortress five to seven days ago. Although judging from the strength of the undead army, if there is no preparation or corresponding defensive methods, this time is enough. Those human survivors have become the same kind.

But seeing those human survivors daring to diverge and flee, presumably they should have some special means and backhands, which gave Sean a little more confidence in the survival of these people.

Quickly chasing up along the clues, Sean hardly made any stops or rests.

His speed is not comparable to ordinary people. Maybe others have fled for four or five days, but for Sean, it is only a day or so. So when Sean saw that a city in the distance was still swaying with fire, he knew that the human survivor who fled in this direction might really have survived.

Just looking at the situation in the city ahead, it is clear that the situation is not good at this time, it is only a matter of time before it is breached.

At this time, Xiao En did not immediately step forward to rescue, but sat in place to rest and eat.

The rush for several days in a row is not too light for Sean. Although the reduction in combat effectiveness is not large, in this kind of rescue battle that is close to war conditions, if you can't maintain the peak state, then it is easy to fall into exhaustion because of being trapped in an encirclement.

This is not what Sean wanted.

And Sean saw that the city would not fall completely for a while, so naturally he would not blindly shoot. Of course, the increase in casualties is certain. But Sean didn't have the kind of idea of taking his own life in order to save these people, so of course he had to be fully prepared before making the move.

But just as Sean was recovering quickly, there was a sudden burst of electronic sound in his mind.

"Special task node detected."

"Judging..."

"The mission has been activated."

"Special mission: Savior."

"Task requirements: rescue humans in trouble."

"Mission description: The city of Hagens is currently in a state of isolation and helplessness. Although they have repelled three waves of attacks from the undead army, they have also paid a very heavy price. From the current situation. . They may only be able to hold on for one more day. So they desperately hope that a savior can save them from the present danger."

"Task reward: unknown."

"Failure penalty: forcibly erase an item from one's body, and be in a state of doom for 72 hours."

"Special mission restrictions: If you do not enter a combat state within an hour and are discovered by the guards of Hagens City, you will be judged as a mission failure."

Hearing the prompt sound from the system, Sean yelled directly.

It's not that he hasn't encountered the pitfalls of this system before, but it is really the first time that Sean has encountered such a pitfall as it is now.

At this moment, he really regretted coming here a little bit.

Originally, Sean's idea was very simple. It is nothing more than finding some living people. Then come to get clues about Hasas. After all, whether Hasas is dead or alive, he still needs to get an exact answer so that Sean can better plan for the next step. And besides that, the main purpose of Sean's action this time was not on Hashas, but in a single-player adventure.

In the game, Sean heard people talk about the legend about this dungeon in the forum, but because the dungeon is quite difficult, and the pre-tasks are more cumbersome, and it is unique in nature. Therefore, it was judged to be extremely difficult to tackle at the time. Naturally, they will not be stingy with regard to rewards. At least some people are very satisfied with the rewards they received after a lot of effort-even though the other party did not disclose what rewards they received. However, based on other people's observations and speculations, it is guessed that the other party has acquired an extremely powerful entourage.

The so-called entourage is the guard.

And what Shaun lacks most at the moment is naturally the guard.

No matter what type of guard it is, as long as the strength can reach above the sanctuary, it is a boost for the current Sean.

But I didn't expect that, because of a moment's thought, this would be involved in an extremely complicated task.

Breathing out gently, Xiao En reluctantly took out the Black King. Things have become like this now, and he naturally has nothing to hold back.

The next moment, Sean stepped forward to charge.

At the beginning, it was just a step-by-step sprint, and then it quickly became that every step of the step could go forward more than ten meters. With the shocking aura began to burst out of him, Sean's charge quickly became like a one. Like the fired cannonball, it rushed over at an astonishing speed that split the air. And the surrounding space, accompanied by Xiao En's sprint, even began to faintly vibrate.

Soon, the guards who were fighting on the wall found Sean.

There is no way, the powerful aura that erupted from the power of the sanctuary powerhouse can not be concealed at all. Especially since the two law forces that Sean came into contact with after stepping into the sanctuary were the two upper laws of space and time, the momentum that caused the resonance was even more terrifying.

When Shaun rushed into the camp of these undead army, within a three-meter radius with Shaun as the core, all the undead creatures suddenly encountered some extremely sharp and terrible attack, and they were all cut into countless pieces. Even the soul fire in their bodies was completely extinguished by this abnormal twisting force, and it was impossible to reorganize them again.

Cutting force field.

This is a semi-finished realm that Sean has explored through the power of the law of space when he is attacking the upper sanctuary realm.

This field has not yet been recognized by the system, so Sean is not very clear about the specific functions and capabilities. Unlike his vain field, all the functional effects are already very obvious. Therefore, Sean can only use this semi-finished field derived from the power of the law of space, even if it is in a situation where there are more people in the melee, Sean would not dare to use it.

There is no other reason. The current field of the cutting force field is not like [Wandering]. It can distinguish between enemy and self according to Sean's will. It is purely a field in which the enemy and self are not distinguished. Some are like the force field owned by Guru himself.

However, when used in the current battle to break through the blockade, it seems to complement each other.

It seems that the enemy had not expected such a strong reinforcement, and the undead army's offensive was soon stagnated.

At this time, the shortcomings of the lack of command of high-level intelligent undead creatures broke out completely.

Those undead creatures of the commander type of only Tier 5 and Tier 6 obviously do not know how to deal with the current situation, so the command and order from different subordinates lost their unified mobilization, and a chaos soon fell within this undead force. It spread in the middle: the undead who had already boarded the city wall and were struggling to attack the city received the order to besiege Shaun, so they began to turn around, regardless of the broken city wall that was obviously about to be taken.

However, the undead creatures in the middle did not receive the order to besiege Shaun. They are still faithfully executing the order to attack the city wall, and even the hollow eye sockets are burning with the fire of desire for flesh and blood. In this way, the undead creatures that are turning around in the front are naturally blocked, and the two sides instantly become the part that interferes with each other. Although the undead army has no formation at all, but the chaos and conflicts that occur within this kind of Still let this undead army spread out more broadly.

And this chaos is more than that.

After receiving the order, some skeleton archers immediately began to lock the main attack target on Sean, and then one after another shot the arrows in their hands.

But Sean's speed is so fast, these arrows naturally fall behind Sean without exception.

Although the scope of influence that Sean can strangle is six meters in diameter, there are still a large number of other undead creatures around him, such as corpses such as zombies, walking corpses, and zombies. They are no more than skeletons, even if they are shot by arrows, they don't feel much, and they bounce off. These corpse-like undead creatures were quickly wiped out by the attacks from the undead army's own people, which virtually alleviated the pressure on the defenders in the city.

After discovering this, it was naturally even more impossible for Sean to run directly on the wall.

He is very aware of his own situation. This cutting force field is not a realm. At present, the mental consumption for him is not small, even if he is impacting the upper sanctuary realm, he cannot maintain it for long. So soon Xiao En had an idea in his heart: he wanted to take advantage of the fact that this force field was still there to create greater chaos, and to select those undead commanders to start, as long as the number of these undead commanders was eliminated even if it was only three points. One is enough to make this undead army produce greater chaos.

At that time, it will be easier to destroy these undead creatures.

This is as simple as performing follow-up cleaning work in the wild fortress.

Chapter 17: .clue

The black shadow of the sword fell all over the sky. It was obviously just a long sword, but it opened and closed like a heavy sword in Xiao En's hand.

All undead creatures, whether they are of the skeleton type or the zombie type, and even the several black warriors and necromancers mixed in it, basically as long as they are wiped by this sword light, even if they are not dismembered on the spot, they will definitely lose everything. Action ability, let alone combat ability.

Seeing Sean who was like a  descending, the people in the city immediately uttered an excited cheer, and immediately launched a counterattack.

People who dare to stand on the wall to resist the invasion of the undead army naturally no longer fear death.

Because they all know that in the face of the attack of the undead army, there will be no concept of surrender at all. These undead will only make them into the same kind, and then destroy more humans. Therefore, facing the attack of the undead army, there is no second choice except desperately. Therefore, as long as the two or three undead can be completely destroyed, even if they are made into undead after death, it will still be a weakening of the undead army. Maybe it can help future generations.

However, this kind of thinking is beautiful, but the cruel reality can easily make them feel desperate and collapsed.

Basically, only when the combat power of the regular army reaches the third level can it be said that one can be exchanged for two or three. Like a second-level army, one change is basically the limit, not to mention that it can only be regarded as the first-level level of recruits and ordinary civilians who basically have no combat ability.

In a city with a population of 50,000, the conventional garrison will generally be maintained at between 5,000 and 10,000, and the level of combat power is probably level two to level three.

Counting the belief support of deadly battles, it is generally possible to eliminate a dead army of 20,000 to 30,000 in size. Of course, this loss rate is based on the premise that the undead army is basically composed of cannon fodder or low-level undead. If it is composed of a real elite and middle-level undead, it can cause battle damage of about 10,000. Good level.

But for the undead army, this kind of battle damage can be ignored at all.

City with a population of 50,000. For the undead army, it is the material of fifty thousand corpses, which means that fifty thousand new undead cannon fodder can be formed. Even if you use some special techniques for compression production, you can generally harvest 20,000 to 30,000 more advanced materials.

Therefore, for the undead army, it is basically equivalent to no loss-or rather. Use 20,000 to 30,000 cannon fodder for 20,000 to 30,000 more advanced corpse materials. This deal was made by the army of the undead.

After all, for the undead army, as long as they have enough materials, they can piece together more powerful undead creatures.

However, this kind of war situation can only be limited to the small fights of the low-level undead.

If an extremely powerful man like Sean intervenes in a battle, then this situation will soon be completely overturned. And usually. The undead army will not be in the absence of high-level undead creatures to command. Fighting against the city where these powerful men are seated, because it will make the undead army outweigh the gains-every time a wave of death erupts, the reason why the undead army chooses to invade the most densely populated area is to create more materials. Extend the disaster situation.

This is also the reason why Puhughes was able to stop the outbreak of the death wave at a very small cost in the later period: he invested a number of strong men in every densely populated area, and even used his combat power to surpass it. An elite army of the undead army level. So that before the undead army grows up, these dangers can be completely stifled.

at this time. The appearance of Sean played this crucial point.

When his space-cutting force field officially ended, he had already solved more than one-third of the commanders of this undead army, and completely spread the chaos of the undead army. Although there are still two-thirds of the undead commanders still in control, the chaos is completely unavoidable. Coupled with the defenseless counterattack of the soldiers, it is even more chaotic for this undead army. Become bigger.

The triumphant Libra, from the moment Sean rushed into this undead army, it had already started to tilt.

However, even if it is as strong as Sean, there is no way to completely annihilate this undead army of at least 50,000 in size with one person. If his strength has reached the level of legend, then facing this undead army that is roughly equivalent to the third or fourth level of combat strength, he can naturally let it be destroyed easily, but it is a pity that Sean's strength has not yet reached. This degree.

So, to block 20,000 skeletons, cannon fodder and undead with one person's power, it is necessary to make him pay almost all of his power.

Even if these skull cannon fodder were basically taken by him, his physical stamina was also rapidly depleting.

Before stepping into the legend, although the sanctuary strong can use the power of the law to fight, but in the final analysis, it is only borrowed. These laws do not belong to the sanctuary strong itself, so naturally they cannot use the power of the law to quickly recover. Physical fitness. The Legendary Powerhouse has stronger combat capabilities than the Sanctuary Powerhouse. In addition to the fact that they can modify the manifestation of the law within their own domain, more of it is that the law is already part of their own composition, so They can use the power of the law to quickly regain their physical stamina, so as to be more supportive of longer battles.

As for the super powers of the sixteenth order, one sentence can explain their strength: the law is him, and he is the law.

This is the origin of the saying "Only the super strong can deal with the super strong".

As for the strengths and weaknesses of the super strong, only people in their field can understand.

Fortunately, the defenders in the city did not flinch and dared to counterattack. Otherwise, Sean would really have to consider another way of fighting-the limit of the mission, so Sean could not choose to retreat all over. Generally, when encountering this kind of encirclement type of battle, even if the sanctuary powerhouse is unable to fight, it will not be consumed here, but will withdraw and leave before the encirclement is completely closed, and then use harassment or sneak attack to continue the fight, avoiding as much as possible. Encountered too many sniper combat.

But it's a pity that Sean's mission time is limited, and the purpose of the mission is very clear, so he has no way to slowly deal with these undead creatures.

seems to have been infected by Sean's same violent attack, and more and more people are starting to join the battle. This even includes ordinary civilians who are completely incapable of combat in peacetime.

Holding horse forks, rakes, and even some long sticks, they also launched a counterattack.

Of course, these people are very aware of their own abilities, and instinctively they are still somewhat afraid of these undead creatures. Therefore, they did not rush into the undead army like those regular soldiers. Instead, relying on a section of the city wall that had collapsed to reveal a gap, a small part of the zombies that had fallen into a state of chaos were directly dragged down, and then they were divided into five horses with the tools in their hands.

As for things like skeleton soldiers, although there is no way to solve them by the method of dismembering the dead, as residents who dare to resist the dead, and they are not too unfamiliar with the undead creatures of the tide of death, they also have some combat methods. Although not as easy to deal with as zombies and walking zombies. But at least it didn't make them feel completely irresistible despair.

It is precisely because of the actions of these soldiers and residents. Sean's pressure began to gradually weaken, and he even had a little more energy to start paying attention to the situation of the whole battle, giving some assistance to those soldiers who accidentally fell into death surrounded, so that they could avoid being killed as material. As a result, it greatly lifted everyone's mood and made their counterattack and fighting more fierce.

This battle, which I don't know how long it has started, finally ushered in the real dawn three hours after Sean joined the battle.

All the undead commanders have basically been solved by Sean. And without the dispatch and control of these undead commanders, these undead still attacked the target except for some of the last orders they issued. A large number of other undead have already begun to act according to their instincts.

The instinct of the undead is the desire for the flesh and blood of the living.

They will desperately attack all living beings within their sight, and then devour their flesh and soul. Some of the more special undead creatures have their own special effects. For example, zombies will assimilate the dead into lower-level walking corpses, while ghouls will turn the bitten dead into zombies or corpse slaves, some of which are more powerful. Will be changed to ghouls and so on.

As for the most common skeleton system, the Necromancer's assistance is needed. This part tests the Necromancer's own rank and strength.

But because they lose control and restraint, the undead who only pursue instincts will become more terrible. They generally do not conflict or hinder. Such a wave of undead will be even more terrifying for ordinary people. It's just that in this case, few materials are preserved, and they will basically become food for this wave of undead. This is a scene that Lake and others don't want to see. The undead legion arranges commanders to restrict it.

It's just that the more dangerous situation for ordinary people is much easier for Sean.

He no longer needs to work hard to deal with those undead's coordinated attack methods. After losing control, the threat of the undead will increase, but their attack actions will also become much monotonous. Especially the low-level undead with only second and third tiers, any regular soldier can easily solve them in one-on-one battles, not to mention the masters of the silver realm.

So this is the true light of the hope of victory for the defenders in the city!

The battle was officially over soon.

Unlike the previous situation where they only repelled the undead army, this time they really wiped out the entire undead army.

Either the defenders in the city or the civilians, all of them showed incredible expressions on their faces. After a long time, there was an extremely exciting cheering, which was accompanied by a lot of weeping, and many people looked like they were relieved.

Xiao En squeezed his sword and panted slightly. The physical energy consumption of the battle just now was very large for him, and he almost couldn't support it at all.

Several guards quickly surrounded a sturdy middle-aged man walking towards Sean.

"Thank you very much for your help." The sturdy middle-aged man said with a sincere face, "If we don't have you today, I'm afraid we won't see the sun tomorrow. I don't know how you call your Excellency. But the reinforcements sent by the empire?"

Sean shook his head, and then said in a deep voice, "No, I just passed by here to find someone."

This sturdy middle-aged man showed a bit of disappointment on his face, but soon he smiled again: "But how can I say, I really appreciate your assistance."

It seems that Sean did not intend to say his name. The middle-aged man tacitly stopped mentioning this matter.

The strength of the middle-aged man in front of him is only inferior gold, and the other guard soldiers are basically only bronze. Some of them should be similar to the captain and have the strength of inferior silver, but that's all. As for some adventurers and mercenaries with combat capabilities, they are all hovering between silver and gold. As far as Sean has seen so far. There are only three people with the strength of the Golden Realm, and there are more than 50 people in the Silver Realm, and the rest are all Bronze Realm.

At this level, it is naturally extremely unrealistic to defend against an undead army of 50,000 people. It would be impossible for them to see the sun the next day if it had not been for Sean to take action.

Shaun glanced around, after understanding the situation in general. No longer continue this topic. Instead, he told about some of the situation of Hasas in order to inquire about the whereabouts of Hasas.

But it is a pity that people in this city have never seen Hasas, and even those who fled from the small town before have no impression. This makes Sean's brows slightly frowned.

To be honest, Sean didn't want Hasas to die like this. After all, Sean had a lot of investment in him. If Hashas died like this, it would be of no benefit to the future void empire. It's just that under the general trend of undead catastrophe, some things can't be guaranteed.

And through communication with this middle-aged man. Sean also roughly understood some of the current situation in this southern province.

The small city in front of it really resisted the undead army for a long time. It was not until the entire southern city wall was completely destroyed that the residents and soldiers in the city began to choose an orderly retreat. Two groups of relatively weak residents retreated to the west and north respectively under the protection of some soldiers and guards. The small city in front of us was formed by the gathering of villages and villages in the west of the province and the flow of retreating people.

Of course, the process of retreating was not smooth. Many brave fighters died on this road, and the flow of people who were able to withdraw to this city was only one-tenth of what they were when they fled. And the undead army, which was solved with the assistance of Sean just now, was finally formed through constant cannibalization on this road. Only because of the lack of high-level undead creatures to sit in the town, it will fight against the people in the small town. There was a confrontation that lasted for several days.

The undead army, as Shaun expected, did send some high-level undead creatures to take command.

It's just that in the previous offensive and defensive battle of the small city, because of the sudden help of the strong, several high-level undead were also killed one after another. For this reason, the Millennium Covenant Empire also paid a very heavy price. However, in order to create escape opportunities for more residents, the remaining three sanctuary powerhouses led a small group of residents and soldiers to evacuate to the northwest, attracting nearly two-thirds of the undead army to pursue them.

Hearing this, Xiao En's frowning brows finally relaxed slightly.

He clearly remembered that there was a high-ranking sanctuary powerhouse beside Hassas. At present, all the sanctuary powerhouses in this southern province have all gathered together and retreated to the large city Boulder in the northwest. In other words, if Hasas is still alive, he will definitely be in this city, and if he and his follower are not in this city, then there are only two possibilities: Either they evacuated to the golden right road, or Hasas is dead.

However, in the eleven provinces on the Nuggets Road, there are high-end powerhouses sent by the empire to support them. The battle is not only fierce but also in a stalemate. According to the information currently known to Sean, both Lake and Lucas seem to be in command there personally. It can be said that the danger is much higher than here. Without Kozilek or Alexis following them, Sean didn't dare to go rashly.

After a few moments of thinking, Sean decided to leave immediately to Boulder to take a look at the situation.

If Hassas is indeed not in this city, then he will first go to the single-player instance to see the situation, and then decide whether to go to the Nuggets Road.

The current situation has passed the initial chaos and erosion, and it has gradually become clear. Church reinforcements from various temples have also entered the Southern Continent one after another, and are rushing towards the Millennium Covenant Empire, so Sean knew that he did not need to do it. The hero, after all, he has passed the stage where he needs to fight for his fame. What he needs most now is low-key development and growth of his own power to deal with the siege from all sides after the end of the undead disaster.

As for this undead catastrophe, Sean knows that it is dangerous and that it will be very difficult, but as a son of the plane, he also knows very well that as long as he does not die for one day, these undead creatures will not be able to absorb the world's original power and completely destroy it. Plane.

In other words, the fire will never go out, and there will always be the possibility of turning defeat into victory.

Chapter 18: .Variety

An undead army that can reach 50,000 in size, how can there be hundreds of undead creatures with a certain amount of wisdom as command nodes.

This is the same as in a corps, there will inevitably be a middle-level commander and the captains of each squad, and the sub-team leader will assist the corps leader to command and fight fortified battles.

This is the so-called command system.

Like the current Void Duchy, William is the supreme existence of this system. He personally formulates the tactics and sends them to the commanders of the various legions, such as Alfred, Clough, etc. And they have to complete their tasks in accordance with the tactics formulated by William. Of course, in this process, it is up to them to arrange according to the situation and situation of the battlefield.

But even for them, it is impossible for them to complete the deployment and deployment of the entire army in an instant with one person. Therefore, all they need to do is to issue their own orders to the commanders of the units and sub-groups, and they are responsible for them. Carry out the final coordination and unified operations.

The hundreds of undead commanders who were wiped out by Sean before, played such a role.

Naturally, these undead commanders with such an important role can not be sacrificed as cannon fodder. Almost every such undead creature will have its own soul fire connected with the higher-level undead creature. Therefore, when all the hundreds of undead commanders who were in charge of sitting and commanding were eliminated, the high-level undead creatures who were in charge of controlling these undead commanders naturally felt a little bit.

At this time, in an undead army in the northwest, several undead creatures suddenly looked at each other.

The composition of these undead creatures is extremely mixed, including black knights of the sixth order, bone demons of the same rank, and even the necromantic generals of the seventh order.

seems to be aware that these undead subordinates who have formed wisdom under his command are different, one of them is dressed in a black robe. But it was the undead who was full of lifeless spirits and turned their heads to look at these subordinates.

Generally speaking, the undead creatures of rank 7 and above belong to high-level undead creatures, but usually only the undead creatures of rank 8 will give birth to the corresponding intelligence, which can be regarded as intelligent creatures.

But this kind of thing is not absolute.

The production process of the undead is usually born by mixing the corpse material and the soul. Therefore, occasionally there will be some high-level undead creatures with stronger corpse materials but weaker souls, which will eventually lead to strong power but no intelligence; but if it is Undead with stronger souls. But it is also possible that wisdom will be born at a relatively low level. So as to get rid of the image of the undead monster and officially become a member of the undead clan.

For now, this can only be regarded as an intermediate-level black knight and a skeletal monster, because their soul power is too strong, so they will form their own wisdom at this stage, and thus become a real undead, rather than an immortal that can be sacrificed and consumed. monster. And because of the wisdom born in advance, it is destined that their future growth will never be limited to Tier VI. At least this black knight's future growth path is bound to become an undead knight of Tier 10.

In the undead clan. This kind of wise undead that can give birth to spiritual wisdom is not very common, so it is generally considered more important.

This point can be seen from the attitude of this person wearing a black robe, but the whole body is full of lifelessness, and from time to time there are some undead who diffused in black mist.

Yes, this is a fog spirit.

Furthermore, the Wuling is quite powerful, only judging from its aura. I'm afraid it also has the powerful combat power of the middle sanctuary. If you consider him as the commander of an army, he has some characteristics of undead creatures. I am afraid that it will be able to exert a terrifying combat power close to the upper sanctuary.

"What's wrong with that team in the west?" The Wuling asked, with a hoarse and low voice, a bit like a broken gong, and a bit like the squeak of a snake.

The strength of the Undead Legion is, of course, because the command ability is only between the upper undead's thoughts, but this kind of control and control between the thoughts also requires extremely large mental power and soul power. Even if it is the thirteen kings and the seven witches of the Bone Plane, it is impossible to divide the spirit imprints to contact these undead creatures indefinitely, so as to achieve the degree of control like an arm, so naturally it is inevitable to need those who can act as commanders. The low- and middle-level undead of the character comes as a transmission node.

This Wuling is the commander-in-chief of the undead army responsible for the invasion of these two southern provinces, but his strength is not even comparable to the death knight, and even the undead at the level of the seven witches need to use the transmission node , Let alone him? Therefore, the only thing he needs is to connect his spiritual brand with these high-level undead creatures under his command. As for the lower-level undead creatures and commanders, they are the high-level undead being responsible.

At this time, these undead groups who had unusual mood swings were the undead army that was responsible for chasing after the diversion to the west.

Originally, these undead also needed to go to the west together, but the group of human survivors he was chasing after was too powerful, so he also brought them together, so that he could control more undead. Just in order to prevent problems with the undead troops chasing and fleeing to the west, so the spiritual imprints of hundreds of undead commanders were spread evenly on these undead, so that the pressure on them would not be too great.

And now seeing their emotions produce weird fluctuations, this Wuling immediately realized that something was wrong.

After several undead looked at each other, the black knight in a black armor spoke, "All the nodes in the west seem to be... completely destroyed."

"Extinction?" The mist on Wuling's body suddenly spewed out, and the already decayed ground seemed to be corroded more intensely for a moment, almost turning into a puddle of mud. "The size of the western army is close. Fifty thousand?"

"The pursuit and filling in the past few days has exceeded 50,000. If we had captured that small city and there were no opponents to the west of the province, the final scale would be expanded to 100,000." It was a bone frame. , But this skeleton is larger than a normal skeleton, and there is a vague magical aura fluctuating on its body, "But...when the spiritual brand is cleared, the actual scale of control is about 50,000."

"A strong sanctuary has intervened in the battle in the West." The Wuling's voice became cold.

Since the defeat of the war that day, this Wuling naturally paid a very heavy price, and finally won the first city in this province. Forcing these human survivors to escape in three groups. As a commander with real wisdom, how could he fail to see the tactics of those humans, but his idea at the time was to do everything, anyway, if it was to delay time, it would be their undead who would have the advantage in the end.

After all, the greatest advantage of the dead tide of the undead. As the war became more fierce and cruel. The size of their corps will become larger and larger.

Especially in the battlefield where the powerhouse lacks sufficient strength, the expansion speed of an undead army can definitely be said to be astonishing. If it were not for him to be the only undead with the strength of the sanctuary here, this Wuling would naturally not need to be trapped here as it is now, and form a confrontation with the humans in this province. It swept the entire province with an unparalleled huge advantage, and then rushed to the Mei'an Fortress for reinforcements.

At first, it was possible to take down this fortress at a very fast speed, except for the reason of taking advantage of the internal conflict of human forces. The Legion of Undead is not without paying the price. But this fortress happens to be an extremely important strategic location. So despite paying a heavy price and even letting the entire second province of humanity know about the death tide crisis, it is also of great benefit to the undead.

However, after taking the fortress, the next actions are naturally very important.

After all, this time, they are not a wave of death, but they actually invaded from the plane of bones, wanting to completely assimilate and swallow this plane. Therefore, the strategic layout must of course be carefully and carefully considered. It is precisely because of this that the task of this Wuling is to assimilate all the living people in the two provinces of Jin Zuo Dao into undead. Then rushed to the Mei'an Fortress for reinforcements.

Lake and Little Lucas are very clear that this powerful empire will never let Me'an Fortress fall into the hands of their undead, so a battle will erupt with Me'an Fortress as a * point soon.

According to the previous task given to the undead legions that are now invading the Millennium Covenant Empire, the task of this Wuling is to immediately go to the Mei'an Fortress as the first batch of reinforcements after solving the two provinces. Afterwards, during the invasion of eleven provinces on the Nuggets Road, when Lake and Lucas opened the situation, the second undead army reinforcements that resolved the Golden Right Road would arrive immediately. Later, after the Nuggets Road situation was opened for one-half, little Lucas will personally lead the third undead army to arrive.

All these strategic plans will be completed within three to five months.

Now a month has passed, and the Mei'an Fortress plan has failed to achieve even one-third of the process, which made this Wuling naturally feel anxious.

But he also knows that the resistance in this province still exists, and the strength is quite strong. There are at least four sanctuary powerhouses, although one of them was seriously injured after he was attacked yesterday. There are only three people who have the power to fight, but he didn't fight to the death. His original intention was to wait for the two undead forces that went to the west and the north to kill off the enemies on both sides, and after expanding to 200,000 in size, they would rejoin his own mid-road army, and then become extremely strong. The posture of the man rushed towards the last stronghold of this mankind.

Relying on the undead creatures' unfailing human tactics, forcing the three sanctuary powerhouses to break through, at least it would be enough to make them pay a heavy price. And if the opponent does not break through, but chooses to fight hard, then this is more to his liking. At least under the tide of more than 400,000 undeads, he does not think that these three already scarred sanctuary powerhouses can survive. Come down.

Even if the army of four hundred thousand undead is sacrificed, the corpses of four sanctuary powerhouses can be harvested as material, and its value is definitely greater than the cannon fodder of four hundred thousand undead.

But now, the undead unit in the west has been completely annihilated. This mister does not think that the undead unit will survive. Once all the command nodes are eliminated, the undead unit that is only a cannon fodder will end. How is completely conceivable-this is tantamount to completely bankrupt the plan that Wu Ling had thought before.

"My lord, then we next..."

"Let the northern troop withdraw, there is no need to continue to disperse." Wu Ling said in a deep voice, "Humans are really cunning, and I have already taken care of it without notice. It seems that I can only solve these enemies as soon as possible... cost."

The eyes of several undead commanders suddenly lit up with a  meaning full of evil spirits.

And that night, this undead army, which had besieged a fortress in the northwest of the province for many days, immediately launched a wave of extremely fierce assaults, and this place seemed extremely tragic in an instant. However, because there are still three sanctuary powerhouses sitting in town, even if the human side has suffered heavy casualties, the undead army has also paid a considerable price, but the final result is that the human side suffers a greater loss.

Because even if the corpses of all the dead humans are burned, the undead army cannot obtain the corpse materials, but they can still obtain the souls of these war dead.

.....

At this time, Xiao En didn't know what kind of change he was forced to bring to Liangshan's mission.

He only knew that after finishing the communication with the middle-aged man, the system prompts him to complete the task.

But before he got the reward, the system task gave a new reminder.

"The first phase of the mission has been completed, and the mission rewards have been accumulated."

"The second phase of the mission opens."

"Detecting special task data points."

"The task is out of order and is being corrected."

"The second phase of the task is judged to be completed, and the task rewards have been accumulated."

"The third phase of the mission opens."

A line of cold system sounds quickly sounded in Sean's mind.

Not waiting for Sean to figure out what "task rewards have been accumulated" and "the second phase of the task has been opened", he heard the phrase "task disorder", and when he was still thinking about what it meant, the system unexpectedly Telling him that "the second phase of the mission has been completed" makes him even more baffling.

But soon, the third phase task given by the system immediately gave Sean a guess.

"Task requirements: rush to the Green Castle to help humans resist the invasion of the Second Army of the Undead."

"Mission description: The soldiers of the Second Undead Legion tried to completely eliminate the vital forces in the province. However, because of your horizontal intervention, the western invasion plan of the Second Undead Army has failed. At this time, the opponent has recalled the points that are invading the north. The Legion is preparing to concentrate its efforts to completely eliminate all the active forces in the Green Fort. At this time, the Green Fort has fallen into the greatest crisis of destruction. Please rush to the rescue immediately."

"Task Reward: Choose one of three random data reinforcement rewards."

"Failure penalty: unknown."

After listening to the description of the mission, Sean finally knew why his second phase mission announced that he was completed. It turned out that the commander of the Second Undead Army withdrew to the northern branch and prepared to concentrate all the forces of the Undead Army. Solve the sanctuary powerhouse on the green castle side. Because as long as all the powerhouses in this green castle are resolved, then there will probably be no one in the entire province who can resist this second undead army.

This is naturally bad news for Sean.

What's more, there may be Hasas in that so-called Green Castle.

So after Xiao En, who was about to go to Green Castle, heard the request of this mission, he immediately set off and started rushing to the northwest. At this moment, he only hoped that he would still have time to rush to the Green Fort, but don't wait until he feels that the Green Fort has been breached. Although this mission did not explain what the punishment for mission failure was, but looking at the first phase of the mission failure penalty, Sean wanted to know that it was definitely not a loss that he could bear or was willing to bear.

Of course, Sean is also very interested in this "data enhancement reward", because this is the first reward that Sean has seen since coming to this world for so long.

Chapter 19: .Green Castle

In the southern part of the Millennium Covenant Empire, there were originally only six provinces and eleven aristocratic dominions, and further south is a primitive land. The emperor of the fourth millennium covenant empire was so happy that he exhausted all the resources of the treasury and built four huge armies, attacking in four directions, southeast, northwest, and trying to dominate the entire southern continent. This was the commander of the four legions at the beginning. He was the first four Duke of Sidden.

At the beginning, the war went smoothly, but not long after, the Four Route Army encountered troubles one after another, which caused the imperial territory expansion to be unable to be carried out smoothly.

For example, the Northern Legion was sniped secretly from the Emilia Empire; while the Eastern Legion was frustrated by the war in the Warcraft Canyon; the Western Legion encountered Satagastan, who already had a dragon knight seated at the time. The entire Principality fought back.

However, it is the Southern Army that suffered the most damage.

The Southern Legion, the Duke of Nandern at the time, went all the way south, and it was quite smooth at first, but after passing through the commercial city of Mei'an, it encountered desperate volleys from various indigenous tribes in the south, and even some fierce people from the wild tribes at the time. The tribe orcs also ran out to join in the fun, it can be said to have suffered heavy casualties. But this is not over yet. When the southward offensive has become an extravagant hope to retreat, the retreat is being ambushed by the indigenous tribes from the three southern provinces now, and the entire southern legion is so thoroughly explained here.

After , the Emperor of the Millennium Covenant was furious, and he even spent huge sums of money to launch a counterattack.

After the whole country launched an all-out war, the Mei'an area was finally taken at a great price, and the Mei'an Fortress was built here. Then, troops were sent to the three southern provinces. At that time, all men, whether children, adults, or old people, were slaughtered in the southern land that had not yet formed the size of the three provinces. Women were taken away as war trophies. It also laid a hidden line for the first civil strife in the empire of the Millennium Covenant.

This civil turmoil broke out in the late term of the sixth emperor and lasted for nearly a hundred years. At that time, almost the entire southern part of the empire was caught in a state of war. It was quite a chaotic era of tribal melee-three southern provinces, six old places. A total of 72 anti-flags were raised by the province and eleven aristocratic dominions.

The battle lasted until the ninth emperor succeeded for twenty years before finally being put down-the short-lived seventh emperor died in the assassination of the assassins sent by the nobles of the southern civil strife within three years of his succession. The eighth emperor reigned for nearly 70 years. The greatest contribution to the civil strife in the South was the annihilation of the army of forty of the rebellious nobles, and the significant weakening of the military power of the other 32 rebellious nobles.

After the ninth emperor put down the war, the remaining rebellious nobles crossed the Mei'an Fortress and fled further south, many of them even fled into the wilderness.

It seems to be deeply aware of the damage and impact this incident has brought to the empire. Since the ninth emperor, he has continuously sent troops out of Mei'an to continue south. Until the mid-term of the twelfth emperor's reign. Finally, the thirteen provinces south of the Mei'an Fortress were finally laid down, and the entire southern territory was now owned, and a wild fortress was even built.

However, because of the division of interests in previous wars and many other factors, the entire southern empire was not monolithic.

With Mei'an Fortress as the demarcation point, the provinces that have existed since the establishment of the six thousand-year covenant empires to the north are called the six provinces of the old south, and the 18 nobles who have settled in this land-since the South Rebellion for a hundred years. After the end, the eleven aristocratic dominions became eighteen aristocratic dominions-also known as the Old South Eighteen Clan, which included the current Zoan Dun family.

And the three provinces south of the Mayan Fortress. Known as the three southern provinces, this is also the most important food base of the Millennium Covenant Empire. Although there are no noble fiefs, there are seven great nobles in the three southern provinces that can be called first-rate in the empire, so these seven families are also known as the seven great families in the south. The head of these seven families is the family of Marquis Demon Snake Antas. It is precisely because he has been secretly supporting all the old nobles that this empire civil strife will last for so long.

The southeast of the Mei'an Fortress, which is the 13 provinces formed by the Golden Left Road and the Nugget Road, is called the Golden Thirteen Provinces, together with 21 of the 13 provinces. The family is also known as the golden family. However, this kind of addressing, to put it bluntly, is just a kind of self-proclaimed one that raises one's worth, and only in the southern part of the empire there is this way of addressing-of course, the most important thing is to distinguish their respective positions.

Gold Twenty One, Thirteen Golden Provinces, Seven Southern Provinces, Three Southern Provinces, Old South Eighteen Clan, and Old South Six Provinces constitute the southern structure of the entire Millennium Covenant Empire.

However, with the fall of the Mei'an Fortress, the tripartite pattern is now truly cut apart.

In terms of overall strength, the Golden Twenty-one, which holds the true voice of the Thirteen Golden Provinces, is undoubtedly the strongest. Therefore, even in the face of small Lucas and Lake's strong offensive and fierce attack, it will not be completely fallen for a while, but with the passage of time, it will only be a matter of time.

The second strongest in terms of strength are the six old southern provinces and eighteen aristocratic dominions. However, as Purhus Zoranton became the Duke of Nandern, the six old southern provinces and the eighteenth nobles of the old southern must all obey the orders of the duke. In addition, the old duke did have unique skills, so after integrating all the forces in the old south, it became the strongest existence in the south of the empire.

If it weren't for this old duke's amazing skills, and he did not hesitate to immediately launch a fierce attack on the Mei'an commercial city, I'm afraid the three southern provinces, which are the weakest in terms of apparent strength and true strength, would have long been smashed by the army of the undead.

After all, although there are seven families in the three southern provinces that can be called first-class, in fact, only the Marquis of Demon Snake is the only one who really possesses extraordinary background and strength.

Because of the onslaught launched by Puhughes, the army of the undead, which is going deep into the three southern provinces, had to withdraw to the Mei'an commercial city to resist.

The counterattack speed from the human empire is slightly faster than what Rek and Lucas expected.

The progress of the Second Undead Army was also much slower than expected. In addition to some factors due to the fact that there are several sanctuary powerhouses in the province, which prevented the defeat of the first battle from being able to sweep through the general situation, it was also another key reason that Sean's cross-handing caused the loss of 50,000 dead souls. .

All these changes in the situation have caused the current situation in the southern part of the Millennium Covenant Empire to appear unusually weird.

.....

Green Fort was originally an outpost-shaped acropolis built to cooperate with Mei'an Fortress.

However, after the war value of Mayan Fortress was changed, this fortress was gradually abandoned. It was not until the prosperity of the Golden Left Road, when the status of this province was formally established, that a large nobleman privately funded the repair and reconstruction.

The entire green castle covers an area of about 32,000 to 35,000 square meters. The specific area is no longer known because it has been repaired and rebuilt many times. Some additions and deletions have been made to the original design drawings. In addition to the reinforcement of the city walls. The number of arrow stacks has also been increased, but the arrow towers have been slightly reduced. At the same time, the greening in the green castle has also been added a lot, taking into account the beauty of the castle.

As we all know, there are five very famous castles in the southern continent.

This Emerald Castle-commonly known as the Green Castle, is one of the five largest castles in the Southern Continent that is as famous as the Black Swan Castle in the Void Duchy and the Black Rose Castle in the Kingdom of Fascism. The other two castles are the Dragon Castle in the Duchy of Satagastan. And Liuyeling Castle in the Principality of Ekiri.

The Emerald Castle is built on the forest. Although it does not rely on the mountain, it also only built three towering walls. The side surrounding the forest was not built. Mainly because this forest is a virgin forest. Not only is the area extremely vast, but the terrain is also very complicated, and there are even natural and dangerous places such as bottomless swamps and poisonous mists, and there are even many extremely tyrannical beasts, so It doesn't really matter whether the city wall is built or not.

certainly. The location of the castle is here, so naturally the locations of these dangerous places are used. It is absolutely impossible to rely on going deep into the forest and detouring to the back of the Emerald Castle to attack the castle through this side where there is no wall. And this side of relying on the forest is actually the original owner who built the castle in order to prevent the castle from being besieged and unable to break through from the front, so he deliberately left such an escape route for the defenders in the castle to retreat.

At this time, a team of neatly arranged teams gathered in front of this virgin forest.

Most of these people are elderly people and children. Their faces still have a look of fear, and many people are shivering—not cold, but frightened. If it weren't for the fact that there are still many military-looking guards in the castle who are in charge, I'm afraid these people don't know what they're going to be in a panic. The atmosphere is still condensed but not scattered.

And the various screams of killing from time to time still in the distance, but also showed the situation of Green Castle at this time.

A middle-aged man with a scar on his face looked like a scar of a fierce centipede and glanced at the woodland with a worried look. Then he looked back and said in a deep voice: "These people, I'm afraid that few of them can pass through this piece of land. Dead."

The scar on the man's face fell straight from his forehead to his right cheek, with his right eye in the middle, so he had only one left eye to observe things. And this scar was slightly red at this time, and blood was overflowing from time to time. It was obviously a new wound, probably not more than ten days old. It stands to reason that in this case, there will be abnormal pain, which is unbearable by most people, but this middle-aged man seems to have no injuries on his face, giving people a sense of calmness.

"We tried our best, and the rest can only be resigned." The person who responded was a middle-aged man with slightly grey hair. His age was obviously only middle-aged, but the hair was so obvious that it was not that at a glance. Kind of silvery white, but similar to the grayish white that the spirit of the spirit has come to an end, "Although the right side is also extremely dangerous, but after all, there are still many strong people sitting in town. If they can successfully cross this forest, at least they have the hope of living. It's much bigger than here."

The two were talking like this, but they heard a bang suddenly.

This voice resembled the thunder and anger, and it suddenly sounded. I am afraid it will be shocked at first glance.

But this sound has sounded two or three times in one night, so not only the two on the wall did not respond, but even the team at the edge of the forest was numb. Of course, many people still look at a certain section of the smoke-filled city wall with a little worry, because their relatives are fighting there bravely at this time, in order to fight for their incompetent elderly and children. A time to escape, avoid becoming the end of the undead army's material.

"It's time for me to go." The middle-aged man with scars on his face said in a deep voice, "When the left city wall collapsed, it was Mr. Moro who turned the tide. It's too possible. Now the right city wall collapses, and there is the main force of the undead army, I'm afraid I still have to sit down and solve it.... It's the fog spirit, I'm afraid I will find a chance to attack you soon."

"I can still use the death spell once more." The gray-haired man said faintly, his voice calm and calm, "But it's the last time."

The middle-aged man with scars on his face was silent, but he sighed helplessly: "I don't know what the madness of this group of undeads is. After a sudden attack last night, they have been fighting to the present, even if the loss is more than half. Retreat, this makes it impossible for us to burn the corpses of our dead companions, but instead restores their manpower resources."

"They are in a hurry, I'm afraid something has happened." The gray-haired middle-aged man said softly, "Neither you nor Mr. Moro are his opponents. Now General Hanwens is seriously injured. We must send him as soon as possible. On the right side, there is at least one Great Sacrifice Hall of the Temple of Life, which may be able to heal General Hanwens. So the only one who can fight the mist spirit is me who can perform desperate spells. NS."

"but....."

"I'm ready to die with him." The gray-haired middle-aged man interrupted his companion. "You should hurry up and reinforce it. Otherwise, the pressure will be over there. If the undead army is allowed to rush and kill. Come in, I'm afraid that when the old people and children want to escape, they won't be able to escape, so we will not be able to secretly send General Huwens away."

"Hey." The middle-aged man with a hideous scar on his face gave a chuckle, and immediately lifted the spear next to him, then turned and walked toward the smoke-filled city wall, and he walked tens of meters away in just one step. "It is an honor for me to be able to fight alongside you.... If I die in battle, I will explode myself with the domain and prevent them from using my body to create any monsters to kill."

Looking at the back of the middle-aged man leaving, the gray-haired man sighed, "Me too."

After , he turned his head and looked at the midair not far away.

Because there, a black robe that is constantly emitting a thick black mist on the hood, cuffs and hem of the robe is rising in the sky.

Chapter 20: .Come prepared

Mist is floating above the undead army, with awe-inspiring killing intent.

For ordinary people, they may only feel cold, but in front of the real powerhouse, they can see a real black and red aura continuously hovering around Wuling. This is the so-called murderous aura.

However, the middle-aged man with white hair is not afraid.

He sneered, and immediately raised his right hand, a spear hovered abruptly on his palm, and gently held it.

This long gun is somewhat different from the one held by the middle-aged man with scars before: the barrel of this long gun is slightly shorter, and the whole body is silver full of a metallic texture, and it can be felt just by sight. Feeling heavy. But at the tip of the gun, there was a black diamond-shaped tip, which was slightly longer than the tip of a normal spear, and it exuded an extremely cold and dangerous aura.

Whether it is this Wuling or this gray-haired middle-aged man, the two sides have not played once or twice, so they know each other well. It's just that since the beginning of the city offensive and defensive battle, the human side has been suppressing the undead in absolute strength because of the four sanctuary powerhouses. Therefore, although the battle is fierce, it is the undead who has been at a disadvantage for a long time. .

But a few days ago, after this Wuling played a trick to inflict a heavy blow on a sanctuary powerhouse, the combat effectiveness of the human side only declined.

After all, the undead army led and commanded is not a cannon fodder. There are not only middle-level elite undead soldiers such as black warriors and black knights, but also many bone mages and those who can touch the threshold of high-level elite undead soldiers. Necromancer.

The combat effectiveness of this undead soldier is so powerful that it is far from what the soldiers in the city can stop right now. Therefore, if there were no other two sanctuary powerhouses to fight the fire, all the humans in the entire city would have been slaughtered long ago. Of course, it is not to say that no one can escape, at least these few sanctuary powerhouses and some golden realm powerhouses can still escape. It's just that in the situation where Mei'an Fortress is still in the hands of the undead army, even if they can escape from this siege, they will definitely not be able to escape the end of death, so it is better to fight here.

The high-end combat power confrontation between the two sides quickly broke out.

The gray-haired middle-aged man is extremely powerful with pistol skills. And because the spear in his hand was obviously specially forged. The way of fighting is also slightly different.

Long spear, as a long weapon, the fighting style is usually based on wide opening and closing, and it is especially good at showing its characteristics in group battles. After all, long weapons such as long spears and long swords are mostly battlefield weapons, unlike swords and knives. kind.

But this gray-haired middle-aged man does not have the kind of unconcerned opening and closing with spear skills. Instead, it gives people a feeling of careful planning. A spear is in his hand. It actually danced no different from a long sword, especially the black micro-long spear tip. Every time it shook, there was even a faint bright spot of light shining, leaving a long trace of silver light in the air.

These long marks look a bit like a galaxy, like the starry sky under the night, exuding a kind of weirdness.

The Wuling didn't dare to approach these long starlight marks at all, let alone let the gray-haired middle-aged attack him.

Fortunately, there is no space restriction on the battlefield in the sky, so the two sides have moved around for a long time, but there is no substantial collision and bombardment. At most, it is some influence formed by the energy impact between each other. However, even if there is a height limit, the energy impact formed by the two mid-level sanctuary powerhouses who are about to step into the upper realm. It is far from what the undead below can bear.

Not long, the dense undead army lineup on the ground has a few more blank areas.

For this result, the gray-haired middle-aged man naturally does not feel any problem. Not to mention the opposing faction relationship between each other, just to say that the hatred of undead creatures is enough to make anyone never show mercy. Especially that Wuling has always been tossing around on the head of the undead army to dodge, ignoring the undead army underneath, which is more in line with the meaning of this middle-aged man.

He fought fiercely with the enemy commander here. The greater the damage caused and the more undead creatures killed, the less pressure the defenders of the city have to face. Of course, if this Wuling can be killed here, then this gray-haired middle-aged man will naturally not mind. It's just that he and this Wuling have fought a lot of times, so he also knows that this is impossible, at least for the moment the two sides have not exploded the real hole cards.

And most importantly, his desperate spell can only be performed once.

This is a very special secret technique that can forcibly stimulate the potential of the body and gain a short-term increase in strength, but it has a very serious loss to the body. In the past, this middle-aged man rarely used it, even if he used it, it would reverse the situation in a short time, and then he would return to his country to recuperate and condition for several years to minimize the burden on the body.

But this time, because the death wave erupted too suddenly, and the force of the undead army was too strong, so in this short period of more than a month, he had to rely on the eruption of the deadly art to kill a blood path, even more. Secondly, turn the tide to stop the decline of the human side. It is precisely because of this that the middle-aged man's beautiful and shiny blond hair has also become the pale white appearance it is now.

And if it weren't for the presence of this middle-aged man, this army of undead would have taken the second province of the Golden Left Road, completely wiped out all the lives in the entire province, and then would fight with the undead of Mei'an Fortress. The first legion has completed its reunion. It's just that even if this middle-aged man has exploded many times at the expense of his life, but now it can only form a barely balanced situation, but as long as the middle-aged man falls, the victory will be immediately. Will lean towards the side of the undead army.

It is precisely because of this that, in the previous raid to lure the enemy, this Wuling, as the commander of the undead army, chose to seriously wound the real commander of the human army, and even paid for it. Some quite disastrous price. The facts have also proved that his choice is undoubtedly correct. At least after that, the resistance of the human side has become very weak, and even only a small part of the force needs to be differentiated from different directions to launch a death attack to a large extent. The above restricts the other two sanctuary powerhouses on the human side, thus making the situation more favorable for the undead army.

According to the original plan. On the contrary, this Wuling is not in a hurry to destroy these humans. He has to wait for a large enough momentum to defeat them in one fell swoop, so that the undead army can obtain greater benefits.

It's a pity that the appearance of Sean ruined this Wuling's plan.

At this time, this Wuling also seemed a little surprised.

He originally thought. The army that I deployed in the western part of this province. It was annihilated by a certain sanctuary powerhouse in this city who secretly slipped out, so he immediately launched a fierce attack on this city, just to take this opportunity to turn all these humans into members of the undead army, so The 50,000 dead souls that came to lose were nothing. But he didn't expect that as soon as this onslaught was launched, he already realized that there was something wrong with the problem, because there were quite a few sanctuary powerhouses in the city.

at this time. He just found out. It was the enemy who came secretly for reinforcements.

As a result, he even dared not keep his hands. This was the reason that the tens of thousands of undead army was doing the day and night onslaught regardless of the fact that it lasted for nearly two days and one night without any sign of giving up. It is precisely because of this that the defenders in the city were forced to make a decision to allow some wounded and a small number of capable people to cross the virgin forest with the old, the weak and the sick, hoping to try their luck on the right side of the golden road.

The remaining people in the small town are naturally prepared to sacrifice.

seems to have made up some determination. He had been dodging Wuling who was attacked by the middle-aged man with a spear. Suddenly he changed his fighting style and no longer blindly dodge. On the contrary, a forward rush passed the spear and was close to the middle-aged man's side, and a strong death burst out suddenly.

In an instant, a gray sphere with a radius of more than ten meters appeared in the sky.

This sphere seems to be made up of countless gray particles, a bit of smog, but the rich and dead air it exudes is particularly amazing. Especially the undead army on the entire battlefield had such a momentary pause at this moment. They all turned their heads to look at the huge sphere, and their eyes exuded a bit of fierce desire, even if they were caught at this moment. The human army counterattacked, and there is no meaning of counterattack at all.

It was the commander-level undead who were in charge of commanding the first to react, and immediately suppressed the instinct of these undead with powerful consciousness and coercion, and then once again counterattacked the human army. However, the human army who originally wanted to take advantage of the undead army's own problems to kill a wave, but also because the charge was slightly higher, in this case, it actually plunged itself into a greater crisis.

The two sanctuary powerhouses who were responsible for assisting in fending off the two gaps also broke out in the spherical gray haze, turning their heads and looking into the sky, their faces also showing worries. Because they are the same sanctuary powerhouses, they are naturally more sensitive to the power of the law, so they can perceive the power of the law of death that is almost manifested on this spherical body, which has almost a tyrannical aura that completely destroys all vitality.

It was also until this time that they, who were floating in the air, did not notice that the core of the outbreak where their companions and the misty spirits were fighting was actually in a magic circle.

During the fierce battle before, they hadn't noticed each other, but after a little pause at this moment, they immediately discovered this restriction.

The original undead army's noisy assault attack by the whole army, the formation is naturally messy. Although the undead army can form a considerable degree of formation after having a high-level commander, but most of the time the undead army's offensive is carried out in a swarming manner, so naturally everyone did not find any problems at the beginning.

But I did not expect that the key point here was actually the meeting where the Wuling and the middle-aged man broke out in fierce battle-the destruction caused by the strong energy impact, each time it was able to clear a blank area in the undead army. , And these countless blank areas have undergone some subtle changes, and immediately formed a magic circle composed of countless undead army.

At the core of this magic circle, is the spherical body that the Wuling burst out.

The entire magic circle is emitting a faint light at this time, and strands of gray energy are constantly pouring into the gray sphere at the core in a visible form, which makes the dead spirit inside become more and more vigorous. As a result, the spherical body, which was slightly able to see the internal situation at the beginning, suddenly became darker and darker. Aside from being able to feel the strong death aura and the fearful aura of the coercive force from the upper law, it was completely impossible. Saw anything.

In this way, as long as people with a slightly normal mind, they can naturally see the problem.

The two sanctuary powerhouses deliberately want to rescue them, and at least try to destroy them. But they only had a slight idea. The hole where the two assisted in the defense immediately killed a team of black knights, and directly cut into the army of human forces with a very tyrannical posture, and it was completely drilled in a short time. Passed through the formation, and slew towards the escape team at the back of the Green Castle.

The middle-aged man with a spear only hesitated for a second, then he gritted his teeth and turned around to kill the black knight team that had merged from left to right into a powerful cavalry force. The spear in his hand burst out from mid-air with a dazzling cold light like bright stars, arousing smoke and dust in the sky, and directly crucified dozens of black knights together with their mounts in place, successfully blocking this black knight army. Advance.

The other, a high-ranking sanctuary powerhouse holding a long sword, was also blocked by several undead powerhouses who suddenly rose up into the sky.

The strength of these undead powerhouses is only 7th or 8th rank, and at most it is equivalent to the Golden Realm. With their personal strength, let alone blocking the strong man in the sanctuary holding a long sword, even if they want to hold his blow, it is impossible. After all, the gap between the upper sanctuary and the upper gold is more than just It's just as simple as a big realm.

But I don't know why, this high-ranking sanctuary powerhouse holding a long sword did not attack rashly, but looked solemnly at the six undead creatures of various forms in front of him. He could clearly feel that the law of death power emanating from that very special magic circle not only acts on the spherical body at the core, but also allows several undead creatures that are blocking him to be manipulated. Part of the power of the law, so naturally he couldn't easily deal with it.

Thinking of this, the two sanctuary powerhouses naturally knew that the opposing army of the undead was really prepared this time.