

Lord of War Vol 4-61

Chapter 61: .New combat form (1)

The war in the Southern Continent, like a sudden storm, broke out abruptly when no one had expected it.

In other words, no one expected Sean's determination-perhaps this statement is wrong, it should be that most people did not expect that Sean really had the determination to go to war, even most of the nobles of the fascist kingdom. The only people who are ready for war are the Wiles family and some garrison nobles on the border of the Fascist kingdom.

As for the others, in the other three regions outside of the Wildlands, the surrounding kingdoms showed some signs of being ready to move. Many people believed that Sean's posture of war would eventually be abandoned because of this. After all, with the retreat of the Ekiri Kingdom, the Ellison area has completely fallen into the hands of the Void Principality, and the majority of people are still inexplicably falling into the Millennium Covenant Zone in the hands of Shaun and from In the Great Rift Valley area that was occupied from the beginning, Sean now controls the normal import and export of the three wild lands.

Many lords, nobles, even powerful ministers, and people sitting on the throne do not think that the Void Lordship will start the war at this time.

Sturdy first and then the second is the top priority.

But in fact it is not the case.

After William led the army to occupy the Ellison area, leaving a troop stationed here and building fortifications, William directly dispatched the vanguard to cooperate with the shortcut route left by the Void Realm and directly attacked the Kingdom of Fascism.

This vanguard army is made up of leopards, werewolves, and centaur as the main combat forces, with a small number of cats, bunnymen, and highland elves as the cooperation.

The size of the troops is small, only about 30,000, of which about 15,000 are centaur, 5,000 cats, highland elves, and rabbit people, and 10,000 leopards and werewolves. In addition to highland elves and cats, both centaur, werewolf, and leopard are all proficient in running and fighting races: in short-range running and fighting, the leopard people have a unique combat advantage. Their rapid reaction ability and combat response are among the strongest tribes of the Orcs; and in terms of long-distance raids, the werewolves have a greater advantage than the leopards, coupled with sufficient strength and good response. Ability, making this race has always been one of the strongest war races in the orc race.

As for the centaur, these guys are well-deserved bugs.

Strong arm strength. The ability to move like wind. Accurate mid-range and long-range strike capabilities, long endurance, these conditions have kept the Centaur tribe in the list of the strongest orc tribe all year round. If you can't kill the centaur in a sudden attack, once you get a sufficient distance away, let alone orcs like werewolves and leopards, even lions and tigers that can be compared with centaur Willing to go to war with the Centaur.

That is simply a one-sided killing!

Fortunately, the extremely low fertility of the Centaur has restricted the development of this race—all the tribes in the entire wilderness are unified. The centaur race does not exceed 200,000. Among them, there are only a hundred thousand who can actually go on the battlefield.

This time, William brought 50,000 centaur soldiers. In this vanguard alone, there were 15,000 centaur. One can imagine how strong this vanguard is in reality. For this reason, William had to assign one thousand cat women, one thousand rabbit girls, and three thousand highland elves to join this vanguard army, responsible for the melee safety of the centaur clan—the centaur has a strong arm, but theirs The melee level is really horrible.

Catwoman. This is the cat race, which is a matrilineal society. Basically, those who can act as fighters are women. Although their personal combat abilities are extremely low, Catwoman is usually used as a guard and patrol unit. Where Catwoman is present, it is difficult for the enemy to launch raids and night attacks because they can smell as far away as several kilometers. Outside odors, especially those that are extremely sensitive to human odors.

The bunny people, or commonly known as the bunny girl, are the same social group as the cat girl. However, compared to Catwoman, they have no fighting awareness and combat ability, and they are not even qualified to serve as a patrol unit. However, in the orc army, the Bunny has always lived with Catwoman as a companion of the guard, and cooperates with the cat. The female can smell the smell from a few kilometers away, and the rabbit girl can hear the movement from a few kilometers away, and can prevent sneak attacks from all tactics.

As for the highland elves, they are best at swordsmanship, so they are the personal protectors of the centaur to prevent the centaur from being dragged into the quagmire of melee combat. Although the scale of Three Thousand is small, as long as it is not besieged by the army, the Three Thousand Highland Elves are enough to block a charge of around 10,000 human warriors, giving the Centaur enough time to open the distance.

Once the centaur is opened enough distance, it will be a  carnival.

This vanguard is not only well-matched, but also has excellent short-distance, long-distance, and pursuit capabilities, and even has a very comprehensive medium and long-range strike method. It also has sufficient capabilities to prevent sneak attacks, night attacks, and close combat. Level of response.

William, has thoroughly brought out the excellent abilities of the race in the Wildlands-this is still less than half a month after he took over the 300,000 troops in the Wildlands. If William is given more time to train and understand these wildlands The troops in the land, then the power he can exert may be even more terrifying. After all, just talking about tactics and adaptability, William can definitely rank in the top five of the ten generals.

When this vanguard force officially entered the border of the Fascist Kingdom after three days and two nights, it also meant a real  storm came.

Vangesberg is a fortress of the Kingdom of Fascism on the edge of the Rios Forest, and it is also the first border guarding point on the border with the Duchy of Ekili. Under normal circumstances, the fascist kingdom enters the wild land through the Ellison region, and will make the final supply at this border fortress. Once the slave trapping team belonging to the fascist kingdom leaves the Ellison region and returns to the fascist kingdom, they will also be in the fascist kingdom. After the supply is carried out here, it can be said that this fortress is the final and initial supply site for the Fascist Kingdom to go to the Wildlands. Even the team going to the Duchy of Ekili will rest here.

Therefore, the importance of Vergersburg can be imagined.

There will be a level 4 army stationed here all year round. In addition to daily border patrols, there are also other tasks such as protection, sweeping, and defense against enemies. And if it is an invasion war. The invader must also take down this fortress in order to ensure the safety of the logistics line.

So this fortress naturally became the front line of the fascist kingdom to resist the army of the void duchy.

Facing the vanguard of the 30,000 orc troops, the defenders of Vangersburg naturally received the news at the first time and were prepared for defense.

But. What the defenders of Vangersburg didn't expect was. The vanguard sent by William had no intention of attacking this fortress at all.

Lu Xi'an as the commander of the vanguard army. Bloodhoof, very simply chose to bypass this fortress-the location of the fortress is very important, it is like a nail on a necessary route. But this is not to say that this fortress cannot be bypassed. Without worrying about the logistical safety lines and ignoring harassment, the value of this fortress will naturally be greatly reduced.

If William led an army to arrive, then this fortress is naturally an important strategic goal that must be conquered, even if the entire fortress is erased from the map. Therefore. So the high-level command from the military headquarters of the fascist kingdom. It is to let the defenders of Vangersburg stand firm, waiting for the arrival of reinforcements from the rear, and definitely not allow Vangersburg to fall into the vanguard army of the Void Duchy.

It's just that the generals of the Fascist Kingdom's military department obviously did not realize that the form of the war this time had changed significantly.

"Lu Xiu'an, what are we going to do?" Sitting at Lu Xiu'an. On the back of the blood hoof was a highland elf. He is the deputy commander of this vanguard force, Sage Chirotel. Snow wind. It is not difficult to see that he was born in the Xuefeng tribe from the surname, but few people know him and Saloqi, the tribal chief of Eye of the Storm. Xuefeng also has some indirect blood relationship, "Why bypass that fortress?"

"Master William said, our strength is simply not enough to take down the fortress, so there is no need to ask for trouble." Lu Xiu'an. Bloodhoof replied in a deep voice, "Our task is to bypass this fortress and looting all the targets we can see, including villages, small towns, outposts, camps, etc., but once we encounter cities, fortresses, We must retreat far away from human gathering places like forts."

"Hey! I like this job!" Sargekirotel exclaimed with excitement, "It used to be those  humans to rob our tribe, now it's finally our turn to trouble them.... ...Hey, Lord William is such a good person!"

Three thousand highland elves, one thousand catgirls, and one thousand rabbitgirls, all sitting on the backs of centaur, led by them to move. However, due to the weight of one more person, the marching speed of the centaur is naturally impossible to go as fast, and it will even accelerate their endurance consumption. Fortunately, there are only 5,000 people who need to be transported, while the centaur has 15,000 people, which means that every three centaur is responsible for transporting one person, so the burden is not big.

"Master William said, what is this called harassment and panic behind enemy lines." Lu Xi'an said, "As long as the damage we cause is large enough, the humans hiding in the strong walled building will definitely run out to look for us. Fighting with them on the field battlefield, Lord William said that we will definitely be able to win as long as we use our previous fighting methods.... But the only thing that needs to be paid attention to is the number of enemies."

"Hey, we have Rollo and Younis, so many of them can't hide us!" Highland elf Sagochirotel exclaimed with excitement, and at the same time turned his head to face the other two sitting on centaur. The young woman on the table smiled, "You guys are right?"

Luo Luo is a rabbit girl, she has an enlarged version of the rabbit head, but the figure is similar to that of a human-if you cover the head and ignore the white fine velvet on her body, she is a woman with a fiery figure. . After hearing Sagechirotel's inquiry, she smiled and said: "Wrap around us, as long as there is any movement of the enemy, we will not be able to hide our ears!"

While saying this, Luo Luo's ears quivered a few times, and he looked very lively.

But compared to Rollo's timid style, which is not like a rabbit, the catwoman named Younis seems much more silent.

Younis looks like a woman wearing a cat-shaped helmet, but compared to Luo Luo's fiery figure, Younis looks more ordinary. But her pupils were blue and green, and the tight leather clothes she wore added a lot of wild charm to her. At this moment, when he heard Sagochirotel's words, Younis just nodded slightly, and didn't say anything very actively. Instead, he licked the back of his hand, and then combed the hair that was a little messy by the wind. .

Looking at Younis's actions, the few people nearby laughed happily. Only Younis looked around blankly, not understanding what his companions were laughing at. On the contrary, the cat women who were subordinates of Younis, all looked terrible, turned their heads away, and did not look at their bosses at all.

"Sister Younis, you can't do this." Luo Luo, who was next to Younis, smiled helplessly, "You have to be more active. As a catwoman, how can you be better than our rabbit? The woman is still quiet."

"Oh." Younis simply responded, and then there was no more.

So everyone laughed more happily.

Only Younis didn't understand what happened to everyone, only the eyes were full of curiosity.

"Hey, Younis, why don't you marry me!" A werewolf on all fours with a long knife on his back grinned.

"No." This time, the expression on Younis's face was a bit more vivid, showing a look of disgust.

In this way, it caused the people around to laugh more loudly, especially the leopard man who ran side by side with the werewolf, smiled even more: "Rejected! Cavens, haha, sister Younis It's not something someone like you can climb high!"

"Chee, Atram, didn't you also be rejected when you proposed to my sister last month! When do you laugh at me!" The werewolf called Cavens relentlessly counterattacked, and immediately caused the whole The team laughed louder.

"I can smell human scent." Younis suddenly sniffed, and then suddenly stood up from the centaur carrying her, "Very rich smell!"

The laughter of the team quickly stopped.

"Where?" Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof asked in a deep voice.

Younis stretched his finger in a direction.

Luo Luo, who was next to , also said: "The voice is a bit mixed, it is difficult to determine the specific number of people, but it should be a small village, probably less than a thousand people."

Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof's face was a bit hideous: "Very well, that's our first hunting area!...Cavens, Atlas, you take your people to go first! Be careful, don't Let anyone go, Lord William's order for us is to create as much chaos and fear as possible!"

"Oh!"

The werewolves and leopards quickly uttered a cheer, then speeded up, and soon surpassed the entire team, rushing in the direction that Younis pointed before!

Chapter 62: .New combat form (2)

A village with a population of about a thousand people, it sounds like the number of people is not too small, but if it is divided, it is about three hundred and thirty households according to a family of three. And if it is a family with three generations under one roof, then there may be only about two hundred households. Therefore, in fact, only villages with 200 to 300 households can be regarded as small villages. Only those villages with more than 300 households are qualified to be called villages. It is also equivalent to owning Xiangxiao. The capital and potential for town-scale development.

The werewolf and leopard races from the wild land, totaling 10,000 people, are simply a disaster for this village.

The first to reach the outskirts of the village was the Leopard race led by Atram.

Said to be ethnic groups, but in fact they are from different tribes. The main members of the entire army are from the Crimson Leopard tribe with red fur all over, with fist-sized black spots on the body. The fur color is mainly gold, blue, and white. The silvery fur of the king's bloodline, the white-striped silver leopard with white stripes.

Although these Leopard races come from different tribes, their abilities are basically the same. The subtle differences are only reflected in power and speed. However, except for the white silver leopard of the leopard king bloodline, the ability of other tribes is different. It's not big.

However, no matter what ethnic group of Leopards, men always wear their upper body, and their lower body wears a pair of loose trousers similar to cropped trousers. The colors are also different, but mainly brown and white. As for weapons, they are mostly long swords, which are carried on the back or behind the waist. Occasionally, there are leopard men with a dagger tied to their thighs or a spear as a weapon on their back. The only thing they don't have is for long-range combat. weapon.

People from wild tribes, except for the elves of the highland elves and steppe elves, who have a little knowledge of war tactics and skills. Basically, other tribes don't know what war is. In their cognition, the so-called battle basically means that which party has more people and which party wins. A group of people rushing out and fighting each other, as long as all enemies in the field of vision are killed, they can basically win.

This simple and rude means of warfare. In the early stage, the wild tribes really won a lot of victories.

But after the countries that used the wild land as a military training ground gradually adapted to this style. The tribal army in the Wildlands is basically in a state of suffering. Especially in a war of more than 5,000 people, the human kingdom can often wipe out tens of thousands of wild tribal legions with the scale of 6,000 or 7,000 people, and the casualty rate is usually not high enough to be unbearable.

Although in constant wars, the Wildlands are also learning the art of human warfare, only a few people can really learn something, such as highland elves, prairie elves, fox tribes, swan tribes, and some. Barbarian tribe and so on. Most other tribes in the Wildlands are still in a state of being ravaged. Of course, this is also related to the fact that the training corps never provoke first-class seats and special-class seats, which can easily draw out tens of thousands of troops.

And like William this time. The use of an army composed of multiple ethnic groups and tribes, but it is the first time in the history of the truly barren land-the previous time because of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce's Head and Tail Snake Project, many large tribal joint projects were launched. In fact, the human coalition There were very few encounters with the wild tribes' coalition forces, and they were only limited to small-scale conflicts. Large-scale legions were in a state of confrontation and did not start a fight.

Together, those small-scale conflicts are mostly counterbalanced by the small forces of various tribes.

is not like it is now. Just a vanguard of 30,000 people involved the integration of six different ethnic groups.

Follow the looting plan. The Panther Orcs led by Atram will serve as vanguard knives to attack villages, small outposts, and small towns within five hundred households. Among these looting targets, the werewolf forces led by Cavens will be responsible for the encirclement plan, ensuring that no one can escape their encirclement and offensive circle. In towns with more than 500 households, relatively large outposts, camps, etc., you must wait for Lu Xi'an. Only with the cooperation of the Centaur forces led by Bloodhoof can they attack together, and the werewolf forces are still responsible for the encirclement, ensuring that no one can break through and leave to seek foreign aid, etc.

Of course, according to William's plan of spreading fear, a thorough massacre would not have a perfect effect. The best way is to plunder and slaughter one-half to two-thirds of the population. As long as the city burns, the "lucky" survivors flee to the deeper hinterland of the fascist kingdom, and then the border disasters, Fear, despair, and death spread out completely.

A male Crimson Leopard jumped easily over the fence of the village.

His strength is not bad, he is probably close to the level of silver in the upper ranks. When he leaped into the village, he already reached out and pulled out the long sword behind his waist. When he fell on the ground of the village, he was already standing on both feet. , Holding a knight sword in his right hand.

Several village women gathered together to talk and laugh. To this sudden orc, everyone was a little overwhelmed, or was shocked.

The leopard man showed a sneer and walked slowly towards the village women.

A scream sounded from a distance, followed by a scream.

seemed to be awakened by screams and screams. The village women finally screamed and then began to flee.

This Crimson Leopard man caught up with one of them with a stride, raising his hand and cutting it down with a sword, and a village woman was beheaded without any struggle at all. At this time, more and more leopard people leaped into the village. They all had different weapons in their hands, and there were male and female genders. Basically all the leopard people entered the village, they immediately attacked and killed the nearest target. In the past, there was no stay at all.

And when a steady stream of Leopards rushed into this village, the result of this village was already doomed.

The whole village, even before the alarm bell sounded, was completely wiped out by the soldiers of the Leopard race. Although they were a little excited and excited because they invaded the territory of the human kingdom for the first time, they did not forget the mission that they should do on this trip, so some "skipping fish" escaped the killing by chance.

After a simple killing, all the leopards began to search for the materials in the village, the most important part of which is naturally the stored food. With the size of this small village, it is naturally impossible to form enough supplies for the entire vanguard, and it is not the harvest season now. The village does not have enough grain reserves, but after all, it is better than nothing. After looting these materials, the leopards began to set fires in the village and burned the entire village.

When all this is done, all the leopards retreat directly.

Accompanied by the Leopard's retreat. The circle of werewolves led by Cavens also began to evacuate. Soon the two forces rejoined, and the centaur who came to meet again merged into a large-scale vanguard army, and quickly withdrew to the distance. And those survivors who escaped the doom by chance, finally dared to come out of hiding. They tried to put out the fire, but the fire was already extremely powerful, and it was simply not a scale they could stop.

is different from the fascist who looks sad and crying. This vanguard from the Allied Forces in the Wildlands. At this time, he opened his mouth to sing loud and joyful songs, and then continued to wander behind. Their goal is not just a small village, but all the villages and towns behind the border fortress. In addition to being a tactical test by William, this vanguard is more of an important  to disrupt the border layout of the Fascist kingdom.

And then, everything was just as William expected, and the saying about the wild devil quickly spread across the border of the fascist kingdom. And there is a faint possibility of spreading to the deep hinterland. This terrible feeling of despair and panic is simply not something ordinary people can stop. Especially those villages, towns and outposts that hardly have any protective capabilities, and only those camps and cities that have formed a large scale can barely suppress this panic.

As a result, the residents of all villages and towns began to move closer to the nearby cities. A large amount of land in the Fascist Kingdom began to show signs of desolation, which also aggravated the security problems in the city.

However, the residents of these villages and towns who are afraid of death can leave, but the soldiers at the outposts all over the front line of the border cannot leave at will. The strategic value of these outposts is to provide the movement of the enemy troops to the rear garrison, so even if the panic has spread across the border of the fascist kingdom, they can only be garrisoned. Although garrisons from the rear began to send troops to reinforce these outposts and camps, they could not stop the loss of morale in any case.

In just half a month, by Lu Xi'an. The vanguard forces commanded by Bloodhoof and Thach Grot destroyed three villages, one village, six outposts, one small town and one camp.

This troop is almost like locusts. Except for some people who will be released in the plan, there can be no survivors wherever it goes. Moreover, once the village or the outpost camp is conquered, it will be a material looting, and the materials that cannot be taken away or are too redundant are all set on fire together with the village and the camp outpost.

If you look down from the sky at this moment, you can see the border defense line of the fascist kingdom built around the Rios Forest and the Principality of Ekiri, which is already riddled with holes. The entire vanguard army is like going in and out in the back garden of no man's land. They don't stay in one place at all, and the direction of advancement is also irregular, but once they are listed as a target, they are not at all. There may be cases of defensive success.

The only time not being targeted by this vanguard queue was a small city with a seven-meter-high wall.

Strictly speaking, the scale of this small city is not that big, the garrison only has less than 5,000 people, and the defensive force is also very weak. People in the whole city discovered Luxiu'an. The bloodhoof troops all looked trembling, thinking that death was finally over the city.

Just, Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof restrained the desire to order a siege forcibly, waved and turned and led the entire vanguard to evacuate.

This move quickly made the fascist kingdom aware of the inadequate siege capability of the vanguard army, and even miscalculated the combat effectiveness of this vanguard army. As a result, the two legions located at the border station were mobilized in the first place, and began to gradually form an encirclement network, gradually sealing off the movement space of the entire vanguard force. Whether it is out of a desire for victory or an explanation to the people, the Fascist Kingdom has reached the point where it must annihilate this vanguard.

At the same time, the  of the fascist kingdom was finally officially issued, and a large number of private armies of nobles were assembled quickly under the convening of lords and nobles from all over the world. Although the period required for this  will take some time to form a scale, the counterattack mentality and strength shown by the Fascist Kingdom at this time has indeed given the domestic people a strong confidence.

Of course, at this time, it is not only the countries of the Southern Continent. All the human countries on the entire Marvel Continent have their eyes on the war between the Void Duchy and the Kingdom of Fascism.

What they care about is not whether this war is the victory of the Void Duchy or the success of the fascist kingdom.

What they really care about is what kind of power the army from this wild land can exert after integration. After all, this is the first time in the history of Marvel Continent that an army composed entirely of multi-ethnic tribes in the savage lands is in the real sense. In any war that has not been experienced before, there is naturally a lack of sufficient data and intelligence for this part of the collection, so At this time, we can see that the Kingdom of Fascism is used as an experimental site, which naturally attracts the attention of other big countries.

Of course, there must be some that do not want to see the Void Principality become an empire.

It's just that no one knows what these countries will do.

On a plain, a group of centaur is moving fast.

The rushing pace rolled up the billowing dust and smoke.

On both sides of this centaur, there are soldiers from the Leopard and Werewolf races. They only stand upright when they are fighting. The movement state of fast running is basically on all fours. Of course, some more powerful werewolves will choose to walk upright, but at this time the werewolves in the army do not have this level.

Sitting on the back of a centaur, there are highland elves wearing light armor and people from the three tribes of Bunny and Catwoman.

This is the vanguard force that William sent deep into the border of the fascist kingdom to make trouble, looting and sabotage everywhere.

At this time, they had just looted a small town. Although they encountered unexpected resistance and some people were injured, the overall combat effectiveness did not drop too much.

Never stay in one place, this is a concept that this unit has formed from the very beginning.

So after the town was completely destroyed, Lu Xiu'an. Bloodhoof immediately ordered the troops to evacuate. This time, because the fighting time was a little longer, the collection of materials was not as easy as the previous few times. But this is no way, because according to the information of the rabbit girl and cat girl, Thach Grottel has judged that they are now trapped in the encirclement net of the border garrison. If the time stays for too long, once the encirclement net is contracted If they do, then their situation is likely to be bad.

In the experience of marching battles, Thach Grottel's ability is better than that of Lu Xiu'an. There are a lot of blood hoofs, but in terms of reaction and decision-making power on the frontal battlefield, it is Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof is better. The abilities of these two people can complement each other, so William arranged for them to partner in charge of this vanguard force.

"Let's find a place to rest first." Luxiu glanced at the team. The wounded soldiers had been gathered. Although some treatment was done, the activities were indeed a little inconvenient. According to the old rules of the wild land, Wounded soldiers who have been inconvenient to act like this are often given up immediately when the battle is fierce.

"There is movement!" Just when Lu Xiu'an had finished saying this, Younis had already jumped up, his little nose twitched, "A strong smell of blood."

"The enemy is not small." Luo Luo also followed Younis' voice, "There are a lot of them, at least 10,000 or more....There are cavalry, it is impossible to accurately judge."

Luo Luo has excellent hearing, but it is not omnipotent. She can only roughly judge a quantitative scale.

Everyone's eyes focused on Lu Xi'an in an instant. Bloodhoof's body.

Chapter 63: .Fierce battle

"Everyone, get ready to fight!" Lu Xiuan. Bloodhoof looked around at the crowd, and then said in a deep voice, "The wounded protect the other Bunny and Catwoman to evacuate, and the Catwoman will form a guard unit.... Luo Luo, you will be able to lead it, right?"

"What about you guys?" Luo Luo frowned, "It is not a problem that Younis and I cooperate with other people to leave, but encircle..."

"Leave a breath, we will go to you after we break through." Lu Xiu'an said in a deep voice, "Moreover, the task given by Lord William is almost complete."

"I understand." Luo Luo nodded, and did not continue to say anything, "Then...may the beast * protect you."

Lu Xiuan stretched out his hand and punched his left chest, and said in a deep voice, "May the beast gods shelter you!"

A burst of loud sounds, one after another.

However, compared with the orcs, they basically believe in beast gods. As a branch of the highland elves, the highland elves are in the same ethnic group as the steppe elves, so the gods they believe in are the hunting goddess and the spring goddess. However, due to differences in living habits, it is just that most of the highland elves believe in the goddess of hunting, while the prairie elves believe in the goddess of spring water, but this is not absolute, so at this time there are also highland elves praying to the goddess of spring water.

"Then, act according to the fighting rules set by Lord William for us." Lu Xi'an smiled, "Everyone, don't die so fast. I hope that after the battle is over, I can still drink with you."

"Don't worry, we will definitely not die before you." Someone laughed.

Immediately, the atmosphere of the whole team became enthusiastic, and it didn't seem like going to war at all.

After a burst of laughter, Lu Xi'an took off the horn hanging on his waist and blew it.

An ancient, low, dull sound, slowly sounded.

Hearing the sound of the horn, everyone in the wild land felt the blood boiling in their bodies. A feeling of hotness made them all look extremely excited, and everyone felt that their bodies were full of a sense of strength at this moment. And because of this sense of power rising from their hearts, they felt fearless, and the excitement trembling made them all start to roar.

Lu Xiuan nodded slightly to Luo Luo, and then led the group to set off.

A thousand cat girls and a thousand rabbit girls and nearly a thousand wounded soldiers did not participate in the battle.

The most complete combat power is maintained. It is 15,000 centaur and 3,000 highland elf sword dancers. Both werewolves and leopards have more or less damage, especially werewolves. In the case of non-looting raids, it was Cavens's werewolf unit that was responsible for the frontal attack. Therefore, in several encounters and siege camps, the troops led by Cavens were under great pressure. .

Five thousand werewolves, at this time more than 700 were reduced.

Luo Luo stared at Lu Xi'an, Thaggy Grotel and others leaving, after she took a deep breath. Said: "Then... let's go."

soon. One thousand catgirls quickly dispersed in groups of twos and threes. In every catwoman group, there must be a rabbit girl to follow, and all groups began to move in a large fan-shaped formation. Rollo and Younis moved behind the large fan-shaped formation with the injured werewolves and leopards, and quickly left the encircling circle that was about to be closed.

The encircling circle will have deterrent effect only when it is completely formed.

If you want to get rid of the encirclement, the method is very simple.

One is to leave before the encircling circle is formed, forcing the encircling circle to be forced to change or directly fail. The second is the siege to defeat the encirclement with absolute strength. Then he left openly. The former has extremely demanding requirements for speed, while the latter has extremely demanding requirements for strength.

certainly. In fact, there are third parties.

That is to defeat one of the teams before the encirclement is formed, forcing the encirclement to be unable to close successfully.

Give to Lu Xiu'an by William. The scale of the vanguard of the bloodhoof configuration, in fact, they can leave before the encirclement is completely closed, of course, the danger is not small. After all, the Fascist Kingdom is in desperate need of a major victory, so the intensity of this encirclement net will definitely be great. This is also the reason why the Fascist Kingdom directly mobilized two frontier garrisons to implement the encirclement and siege plan.

But all of this, in fact, has long been in William's calculations.

So the relevant action plan and coping strategy, William also told Lu Xi'an long ago. Bloodhoof is waiting.

At this time, by Lu Xi'an. The troops led by Bloodhoof were advancing in the direction pointed out by Luo Luo and Younis before, heading toward the troop that implemented the encirclement plan.

Because the two sides are close to each other, the distance between each other is constantly shortening.

The only difference is that this unit of the Fascist Kingdom does not know the enemy's approach, and Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof knows the enemy's movements at this time. So from a purely strategic point of view, Luxiu'an at this time. Bloodhoof has the upper hand.

Soon, the troops reached a plain.

At the end of Lu Xi'an's line of sight, there was a small amount of dust rising, as if a breeze was blowing by, and it was like a small dust on the ground.

The dust is light, and it seems that the size of the enemy army is not large. But everyone at the scene knows that this is because the distance between the two parties is too far apart. If the distance difference is taken into account, it is estimated that the number of enemy troops should be more than 20,000 horses based on this level of dust—the citizens of the wild land. Judging the size of cavalry troops through sand and dust often possesses extremely accurate judgment capabilities.

Luo Luo's mistake in judging this unit through hearing does not mean that her strength is not good, but that this unit is a typical mixed foot-riding unit, plus the distance is too far, so we can only judge a general idea. That's it.

"Twenty thousand cavalry, infantry will definitely also have ten thousand to twenty thousand. Will this be the main force of the enemy's encirclement net?" Thaggy Grottel frowned.

"I don't know." Lu Xiu'an didn't shook his head clearly either. "Master William only talked about a few tactics that the opponent might perform, and told us how to deal with it. But what kind of target is selected, we can only look at it. We are out of luck... but I guess it is very likely that it is really the main force of the border garrison."

"Hey, what are you afraid of? I think I have made enough money in these days of fighting!" Cavens gave a grin and moved his neck. There was a crackling noise.

"Don't worry, I will collect your body when you die." Atlas grinned, "Your sister, I will also take care of you."

"Haha, don't worry. I will drag you on the road if I die." Cavens laughed. "On the way to the Throne of the Beast God, I would be boring without you arguing with me.... Besides, I will need someone to accompany you when I drink in the future."

Lu Xiu glanced at Sarchi Grottel who was sitting on his back, and smiled: "What do you say?"

This highland elf, who is not a low status now, smiled and took off the hip flask on his waist, raised his head and took a big sip, and then handed it to Lu Xi'an. Bloodhoof. The latter is also welcome. After taking the hand, he raised his head and poured a big mouthful. A lot of drinks were spilled directly, flowing along Lu Xi'an's collarbone toward his chest, then he flicked the flask boldly and wiped his mouth: "Go!"

The whole army continued to advance vigorously.

But this time, they did not rush on the road crazy, but just kept a constant pace and moved forward slowly.

The array of werewolves is at the forefront, and their chests are undulating. Each time, I took a big breath, and then slowly exhaled. Strength is constantly accumulating. The leopards wandered on both sides of the werewolf phalanx. They did not have the obvious and strong breathing rhythm like the werewolves, but the slightly bulging chests also fully expressed the strength accumulated in their hearts; walking at the end, It is a centaur phalanx. They have taken down their bows and arrows, and are debugging while walking forward; the highland elves are following the centaur, slightly behind the werewolf phalanx. After all, they are not fighting next. Sharp knife force.

The team, moving forward in silence, there is no smoke and dust, but the momentum is particularly strong.

The human force ahead is obviously a lot closer, because the smoke and dust that has been rising has gradually become obvious and intense.

The werewolves showed excitement, and with their eyesight, they were able to see the enemy well.

"It's Qingqi." Cavens grinned, "There are probably more than 10,000 infantry next to him. They should be the person in charge of the search line....should be the main force."

"Then you don't need to be polite." Lu Xiu'an nodded, and then waved his hand, and the movement of the whole army began to accelerate in an instant.

The Border Garrison Corps may not be very strong in general, but the size of its forces is definitely very large, at least about 100,000 people. Moreover, in order to guard against various war situations, the regiments stationed on the border generally consist of light infantry, heavy infantry, light cavalry, heavy cavalry, and long-range attack units. The main component of the army is generally infantry. Deployed to implement the encirclement plan, the main force must be the Qingqi-based troops.

Because only Qingqi has enough mobility to quickly enter the designated position on the battlefield within a specified time. However, in order to avoid the tragic destruction of the light cavalry units, they will definitely be equipped with infantry, usually a combination of light and heavy infantry corps. The main purpose is to quickly form a line of defense after reaching the destination, and execute search and reduce the encirclement net.

The interception in front of him is at Luxuan. The troops in front of Bloodhoof and others are indeed the main force of the Third Frontier Army of the Fascist Kingdom in charge of encircling the net this time, consisting of 20,000 light cavalry and 15,000. Behind the main force of this encirclement is the most important 10,000 heavy cavalry unit of the Third Frontier Army of the Kingdom of Fascism, and the encirclement units responsible for interception in other directions are all from 10,000 to 20,000. Composed of combined infantry units.

In addition, in the other direction, the Fourth Frontier Army of the Fascist Kingdom is rushing over here. The basic composition is similar to that of the Third Frontier Army.

The two border garrisons were originally used for emergency support in the case of Vangersburg to delay time. As a result, this time, because William used a barren land force with mobility far beyond the normal level of a human country, he forced the two border forces to abandon their original military missions and instead form an encirclement at the first time. Annihilate this vanguard force that has caused trouble behind the border.

And the few aristocratic territories closest to the border line have also first conscripted a part of the private soldiers rushed here to support-the strategic position of Fort Vangers, for William and others, belongs to the nature of the bridgehead. Once occupied, , The Void Duchy's deterrent power against the Fascist Kingdom can radiate to the three nearby territories, and at the same time form a horn with the border between the Ryan Kingdom and the Fascist Kingdom.

Any general of the fascist kingdom with a little strategic vision, would not helplessly watch Vangersburg fall into William's hands.

It's just that, the first prerequisite to avoid Vangersburg falling into William's hands. It is to solve this vanguard force first.

Blowing sand and dust, it is impossible for the troops on the human side to turn a blind eye.

However, the imaginary panic did not appear. Perhaps as a border army, they have been used to such sudden encounters during the war all the year round—especially on the plains, and there is no place to hide. Once the two sides are too close, they are directly red. bare. Exposed naked in the field of vision. The only advantage that Lu Xi'an and others can occupy. It is to start a charge outside the enemy's field of vision. After all, the size of this unit of the Third Frontier Army of the Fascist Kingdom is too large, even if it wants to adjust its formation, it cannot be adjusted in an instant.

The werewolves, rushing fast on all fours; the leopards had already ran away from the side, bypassing a large circle, and began to roundabout. The highland elves consume a lot of energy because of fast running. So they are temporarily riding on the backs of centaur. The centaur took the skill of following the werewolf and quickly approached the battlefield.

The distance between the two sides is shortening rapidly.

"Arrange the guns!" In the phalanx of the human legion, a commander began to issue instructions.

In the infantry phalanx that has barely formed, the pikemen standing in the forefront have squatted down and quickly raised their spears. force. The infantry of other arms in the rear is also quickly entering their combat positions in accordance with the combat array. Although they did not expect to encounter enemies here, their good military literacy did ensure that they did not collapse in the first place.

And the cavalry. He has already adjusted his direction and is preparing for a charge.

But facing the forward machine gun forest that the enemy opened, the werewolves didn't rush up stupidly. Instead, under the leadership of Cavens, they ran to the left and went around a semicircle. And the centaur, who had been keeping a distance of almost a hundred meters from the werewolves, also entered the combat range immediately after the werewolves, and were only about 500 meters away from the enemy spearmen's phalanx.

"Peng!"

A strong bowstring trembling sounded.

Tens of thousands of arrows, just like this, fell towards the enemy's phalanx from the front in a completely covering blow.

Unlike conventional archers' lob shots, the centaur's riding and shooting technique is known for covering strikes—the front centaur directly shoots horizontally, while the rear centaur raises the angle slightly by about fifteen degrees. The centaur in the back row raises the angle to 30 degrees, and the centaur in the last row has a projectile and lob shot from 45 degrees to 60 degrees, and the order of shooting is from back to front. Enter.

This gives people the illusion of a densely covered envelop.

Many infantrymen who were too late to respond quickly fell in this wave of centaur harvest, especially the spearmen standing in the forefront. Soldiers in the rear position and heavy infantry with shields and armor are better. Others can't escape this rain of arrows like locusts, even if the commander is screaming frantically. With slogans such as shielding and sheltering, the casualties were still tragic.

The formation of the infantry corps began to be chaotic.

Whether it is Lu Xi'an, Bloodhoof, or Thach Grotel, or Kafens, Atlas, all the orcs and highland elves have a sense of excitement at this moment. This head-on field encounter, after completely obeying William's designated battle formation technique, achieved such unexpected results, which they couldn't imagine anyway.

Because it stays deep in their memory, it is the human army that has very strong combat and defensive capabilities, and their equipment is very sophisticated. And they, who usually hide in the fortifications, are almost like tortoises shrunk in a hard shell.

But now, in just a covering arrow strike, the enemy's infantry formation has been messed up, which makes this vanguard force instantly obtain extremely important and affirming belief!

Centaur troops, in the process of running and shooting, they did not follow the direction of the werewolf to run away to the left, but moved quickly toward the right side of the leopard's roundabout. However, this kind of high-speed movement also has a difference in speed. The formation of the entire centaur began to grow longer, just like a thread that is constantly pulling out of a thread.

There was another bowstring trembling.

This time. The centaur's shooting is shot from the right side, and the shooting method in a straight line ensures that all the centaur can shoot straight out, without the need to attack with a full coverage strike as before. But this time, because we had prepared in advance, the casualty rate was actually not as high as the first covered strike before. It's just that the centaur placed all their attacks on the right side. Therefore, naturally, the entire enemy formation was pulled and deformed more severely.

The enemy commander finally understood how terrifying the deterrent power of the Centaur on this battlefield is.

So, he did not hesitate to order the cavalry to start charging towards the centaur.

As soon as the cavalry started running, the werewolves on the left also rushed into the deformed and chaotic infantry phalanx.

Almost all the main defense forces are concentrated on the right, so the defense on the left is relatively weak. The werewolves are known for their physical fitness, and their individual strength and attack power are definitely stronger than ordinary humans. Especially when confidence is extremely strong at this moment. Their combat effectiveness has exploded to a higher level.

Like a sharp and warm knife sliding into the butter, Cavens smiled and led the troops into the infantry phalanx. Although they are still slightly at a disadvantage in terms of numbers, the pressure they have to face when breaking into the square is extremely high. But what is unbelievable is that the entire infantry phalanx has no way to stop these werewolves from charging and killing, and it can't even delay their breaking speed.

On the other side, the light cavalry who charged out, at this time, could not return at all. Even if they were willing to return, they had already entered the middle of the infantry phalanx. It can almost be said that the werewolves integrated with the entire infantry phalanx, they are also powerless. The only thing that can be done at this time. Only after catching up with the centaur, inflicting heavy damage on them, turning around to clean up these werewolves.

But what everyone didn't expect was that, in the eyes of humans, the centaur—the highland elves riding on the back of the centaur—that should have been made up of cavalry. Already relying on the sensitive physical reaction ability and balance ability, it quickly landed and formed a unique defensive array of sword dancers.

After losing the weight of the highland elves, the speed of the centaur troops suddenly increased a lot, especially the part of the centaur that was originally drawn in a straight line, also speeded up the running speed, and the whole troop quickly broke into pieces. But this time their integration time was not long. Almost immediately after the integration, they immediately turned around and dispersed into two troops on the left and right, rushing out from both sides of the highland elf troops.

The Highland Elf troops also greeted the 20,000 light cavalry on the front at this moment.

Three thousand to twenty thousand.

This extremely wide gap ratio, put it on any battlefield, all commanders know that it will be a matter of time before the entire formation is pierced.

However, the development of reality has given the entire cavalry unit an unexpected deviation.

The hundreds of highland elves at the forefront really couldn't stop the charge of the cavalry troops. Even if these cavalry were light cavalry, many highland elves were still knocked into flight. However, the unique  and arrogant nature of the wild land also allowed these elves to leave a scar on the enemy while they were being hit and flying.

As a result, when the charge of 20,000 cavalry soldiers decreased in this way, until nearly 2,000 highland elves were directly or seriously injured in the battle, or died in battle, or trampled or thrown to death, they broke into Almost two-thirds of the cavalry force's charge has disappeared!

Their charge was completely stuck!

"Wow!"

A short spear broke through the air, and then pierced the neck of a cavalryman.

The cavalry with a somewhat unbelievable look, slowly slipped from the horse and fell down.

A sword light slashed head-on.

A highland elf swung his sword and jumped, and the blade slashed from bottom to top, slashing a cavalry to the ground. But before the highland elf landed, a cavalry lance pierced through the body of the highland elf, like a skewer, but did not wait for the cavalry to show up. Because of the joy of assassinating the enemy, the highland elf who was pierced through his body showed a grin, and a backhand pierced the cavalry's heart.

Then, countless short spears threw out through the air.

The centaurs on both sides of have already begun to attack. Only this time, instead of using bows and arrows, they were throwing short spears—at a distance of less than two hundred meters, for the centaur, this kind of throwing didn't require aiming at all. Every time they attacked The short spear can definitely hit an enemy, and most of the attacks are enough to kill the enemy in one blow because of the terrible penetration of the short spear.

The leopards who circled around did not come to assist the centaur and the highland elves. They swiftly and swiftly entered the infantry phalanx at the back of the battlefield.

Although the infantry who was dealing with the attacks of the werewolves expected this leopard force, the enemy commander did not adapt to the cooperation and fighting style of these orcs. He thought that these leopard men should be similar to reserve cavalry. Even if it goes into battle, it should support the highland elves and centaur, and attack the light cavalry. After all, the phalanx of the highland elves is almost pierced, and once the phalanx is pierced, the cavalry forces will charge again. Enough to hit this vanguard force once again.

Therefore, in their conventional tactical thinking, they must give priority to solving the cavalry units that have not opened the formation in the first time.

Unexpectedly, these Leopards ignored the cavalry units at all, but broke into the infantry phalanx, forming an alternative internal and external offensive with the werewolves who were constantly charging.

This time, the entire infantry phalanx finally failed to withstand this two-way pressure and was completely penetrated.

And the werewolves who broke through the formation formation did not turn around and go through them backwards like a cavalry. All the werewolves who broke out of the formation took their weapons into the wolf's mouth, and then jumped forward again with limbs. When they landed on the ground, they ran, and this time their attack target was the cavalry unit, and they still entered from the rear.

The Leopard troops led by Atram broke out and dispersed immediately, directly cutting the entire chaotic and incomplete infantry phalanx in the form of a squad, so that every part of the enemy army was required. Suffered by two to three teams surrounded by blows.

This is the most common cannibalization tactic used by infantry soldiers who have fallen into the heat of battle after the cavalry has penetrated the enemy's formation.

Usually, once the cannibalization tactics are deployed by one side, it often means that the phalanx is not far from being defeated.

As for the cavalry unit that was stuck in a stagnant state, after the werewolves at the back joined the battle, the entire formation became more chaotic in an instant. Especially the werewolf's completely irregular style of play: they either leaped and threw the cavalry down from the horse, or exuded the scent of a wolf that was terrified by the war horse, or hacked the war horse and vision with blood red eyes. The cavalry inside, or simply kills the horses and ignores the enemies who fall.

The battlefield is already in chaos.

And along with this chaos, the tragic * atmosphere completely spread on the battlefield.

Chapter 64: .Fortress of the Gorges

Although the fascist kingdom belongs to the southern continent, it is actually located in the southeast of the miracle continent.

Before the Kingdom of Darbion was destroyed, the southwest of the Kingdom of Fascism was bordered by the Kingdom of Darbion, while the southeast was bordered by the Duchy of Ekiri and the Rios Forest, close to the Ellison area, and the northeast was It borders the Eastern Empire, the Chenas Empire-because of the shameful history of being smashed by the iron hoof of the Chenas Empire, and even almost destroyed, the Fascist Kingdom has always stationed a large amount of military power here, almost occupying the entire Fascist Kingdom II. One part of the military power.

However, since the Kingdom of Darbion was annexed by the Principality of Len, the Kingdom of Fascism has also invested six legions on the southern border: the third and fourth frontier troops are mainly responsible for the southeast with Fort Vangers as the front line base. Frontier defense line; the First, Second, and Fifth Frontier Army is stationed on the southwestern defense line, maintaining a standoff with the Tenth Army of the Kingdom of Ryan and the private army in the territory of the Duke of Black Mandala.

As for the Sixth Frontier Defense Force, it is a high-mobility garrison that is garrisoned in the middle of the southwest and southeast defense lines. Once the war on either side is in a hurry, this corps can rush to the rescue as soon as possible.

At this moment, the Sixth Frontier Defence Force, which was accidentally involved in the power struggle in the capital, failed and became a victim. It has received an emergency order from the capital and rushed to Vangersburg for reinforcements. Because the main force of the Void Principality, which had not been moving, suddenly moved three days ago, and the marching speed was extremely fast. It was obvious that they were heading for Fort Vangers. Therefore, the Military Affairs Department of the Royal Capital requested that the Sixth Frontier Defense Army must Arrived in Vergersburg within three days.

And this means that the Sixth Frontier Guard must maintain more than 20 hours of marching time a day before it can reach the Vergersberg within three days.

The whole army is full of grievances.

But they also know that, as victims of political power struggles, they do not have too many choices.

But precisely because it is a victim, their intelligence channels are naturally not available. Therefore, this army is not clear, at this time the southeast defense line of the fascist kingdom is already in erosion.

The third frontier guard was almost wiped out.

After the autonomous force was defeated by the vanguard led by Lu Xiu'an Bloodhoof, after Lu Xiu'an realized the cooperation and growth of his and others' combat capabilities, he turned to sweep up the third frontier defense army that could no longer form an encirclement. Because after losing the main force, the remaining 60,000 troops of the Third Frontier Guard, except for 10,000 heavy cavalry, are infantry, and this time, in order to form the encirclement net as soon as possible, these 60,000 troops The infantry distributed in different directions are basically light infantry equipment, and the designated encirclement points make it impossible for these troops to gather together, so it also gives Lu Xi'an the possibility of defeating each.

Since the main force of the Third Frontier Guard was almost completely annihilated, within just ten days, the other encirclement units of the Third Frontier Guard have been attacked to varying degrees, especially the third and fourth routes. Twenty thousand people were wiped out. The second and fifth lines were relatively large in size, so they were only hit hard and not annihilated. The sixth line was because they were close to the main force of the Fourth Frontier Army, so they were lucky to avoid it. Was hit hard.

Later, after eliminating more than 65,000 troops of the Third Frontier Guard, Lu Xi'an smoothly merged with Rollo and Younis, who had evacuated beforehand, and then the vanguard, which was also almost a heavy loss, quickly moved to the Kingdom of Fascism. Evacuate abroad.

Three thousand highland elves, less than a hundred survived in the end, the deputy commander-in-chief of the vanguard, Thach Grotel, died in battle.

Of the five thousand Leopards, less than a thousand survived. The leader of the army, Atrom, was seriously injured and unconscious.

Five thousand werewolves, but also fewer than a hundred survived. The leader of the army, Cavens, died in battle.

The Rabbit Girl tribe and the Cat Girl tribe, each with only a few hundred people surviving, the only luck is that both Younis and Luo Luo are still alive-in fact, if it weren't for Lu Xiu'an Bloodhoof had arrived smoothly, this A weak team that had evacuated in advance but unfortunately had an encounter with the third frontier defense army on the fourth road must have been wiped out.

The only centaur that can keep the organization intact is the Lu Xi'an Bloodhoof Centaur.

Long-range strike operations and the face are basically light infantry, which is too great for the advantage of the centaur.

The vanguard of 30,000 people, only 17,400 people could eventually return.

However, when the vanguard began to withdraw from the territory of the fascist kingdom, William had already received the relevant news, and then immediately ordered the army to go out-not only to attack Vangersburg, but also to respond to the vanguard.

The Fascist Kingdom ordered the Sixth Frontier Guard to rush to Vangsberg in addition to strengthening the front line of defense. The main purpose was to cooperate with the Fourth Frontier Guard to completely wipe out this vanguard within the border of the Fascist Kingdom. There is an order to force the march for three days-as long as you arrive at Van Gersberg within three days and establish a corresponding line of defense, it will naturally be able to completely intercept this vanguard.

It's all this, it's just a whimsical fascist kingdom.

In terms of time, the army of the Void Principality that started the first has a great advantage-the party who is prepared and the party who received the temporary notice are completely inconsistent in the time of assembly and departure. In addition, in order to ensure that the Sixth Frontier Guard can still maintain combat effectiveness after arriving at Van Gersberg in the first time, of course it is impossible to march for 20 hours every day. The army is absolutely unable to sustain this intensity of consumption.

In accordance with the rules of the military, the "three days" time usually refers to the "four days and three nights" marching time, so there is a certain degree of spare time adjustment.

Therefore, under this result, the army of the Void Principality commanded by William arrived at Vangersburg one and a half days earlier than the Sixth Frontier Guard, and immediately carried out a siege war on the fortress-different from the previous occupation. In the siege, William didn't seem to need to occupy the bridgehead at all, so he used a complete blow of destruction. In just half a day, Fort Vangers was turned into a ruin.

At this point, all the big figures watching the battlefield in the Southern Continent have also received the results of the battle they wanted.

And these people who received the results of the battle also understood the great potential and value of the wild land for the first time. It's just a pity that now this most valuable and potential place has completely become a vassal of the Void Principality. This also makes many countries clearly aware that they must adjust themselves: either adjust their attitude towards the Void Principality, or Adjust the rectification of the domestic military.

Because of new forms of war and tactics, it has appeared.

When Sean received William's letter, he had already arrived at the Fortress of the Gorges.

The commander-in-chief of this fortress today is Stalin of the 1st Corps.

The former young general now has a beard and a moustache, and his whole person looks quite mature. Coupled with the high position he is now in and the temperament cultivated by his habitual warfare, it makes Stalin his whole person. Showing a calm temperament like a mountain. In the Void Principality, and even in the Kingdom of Lane, there are not many people who know Stalin's reputation, but those who really know his achievements will sincerely praise him as "the wall of the void."

At the beginning of the war against Darbion, the most difficult thing was the early stage of the southern battlefield before the national war broke out. At that time, the only landlord Sean had to face was the 100,000 Southern aristocratic army of Darbion. Although he had an excellent strategic plan, the most critical part of this strategic plan was still located in the hills and valleys. Two battlefields in the Huigu hills.

If the former did not have Aldolf's lightning invasion and the last straw that crushed the entire Chiraf's collar defense line-the aid of Nok, then the strategic layout of the valley and hills would be a joke, and it would even allow the enemy's army to drive straight in. The subsequent national war could not be fought either.

But if the former's strategic significance is extremely important, it depends on whether the former's strategic layout can be implemented smoothly.

With four thousand troops, it blocked 15,000 fully equipped enemy forces for a week.

The difficulty of _____ is no less than that of the third-level army facing the attack of the sixth-level army, because the defenders at that time did not have any support at all.

However, Stalin still held on.

Or it can't be said to be holding. After all, nearly 5,000 enemy troops broke through the defense line from Huigu hills into the valley hills. However, Stalin, who held the enemy for five days, can still be regarded as a brilliant record-although in the end, his First Army was only less than 30 people left, and he was only relieved with the rescue of Knok. But after this battle, everyone knew that as long as Stalin was in charge of the defense line, he would not want to break through his defense zone without more than three times the force. If he was stationed in a large fortification such as a fort, it would even take ten times. The above forces.

Back then, he just yelled out "Panda Collar Wall" in dreams, but he didn't expect that one day, he would get the honor of "Void Wall".

And I am afraid that it will not be long before his honor will be upgraded again and become the "Wall of the Empire".

Gorge Fortress, the regular garrison is 50,000 people. Although this legion is known as the First Corps externally, in the legion registry of the Void Duchy, the name of this legion is "Iron Wall Wings" and "Steel Wings" "They are the two most representative regiments of the Void Principality that are good at defensive warfare--but they are not as famous as Steel Wings. At the same time, they are currently the only two regiments of the Void Principality with a size of 50,000. The president is handsome. Stalingrad.

The surname _____ Gler was bestowed on Stalin by Sean, so the fortress of the Gorges is often called "Stalingrad Fortress" or "Void Wall".

Shaun knew why Neil arranged to meet with the Knights of the Darkmoon Spear in this fortress.

But knowing that Gui knows, Sean still thinks Neil is a little fussy.

He and Elsie are old friends, so he doesn't think Elsie will do anything to hurt him. This can be seen from the fact that Elsie did not lead the Darkmoon Spear to arrive in the Millennium Covenant Empire, but directly detoured over to find himself here-he already knew that the group that led the Darkmoon Spear Knights Long, it is Elsie Boulder.

Sean gently put down the report that William sent to Hela, and then Hela sent his own report.

At this time, he was in the battle command room of the Straits Fortress.

There are only three people in this secret room with a three-kilometer strategic map of the whole area near the fortress.

One is Sean, the other is Stalin, and the other is a middle-aged man with a blindfold on his left eye. The blindfold is very "just right" to cover the hideous scar that crosses his left eye from his forehead. Stalin called him Sains, and the hideous scar on his face was dropped to save him.

"Ryan's border should have already started action, right?" Shaun said after putting down the battle report, "Judging from the time when William issued this battle report, it should have been fighting with the Sixth Frontier Guard of the Fascist Kingdom by now, right? ?"

"According to intelligence, the Duke of Black Mandala has joined the Marquis of Rome and the Duke of Tequila to formally march towards the Kingdom of Fascism. The first border guards have been defeated across the board, and the second and fifth border guards are almost unable to withstand the pressure of the Ryan coalition forces, but the Fascist Kingdom I have formally protested to the Kingdom of Lane, condemning the invasion of the Kingdom of Lane." The answer to Sean's question was the current deputy commander of the Iron Wall Wings, "But the news from the Kingdom of Lane is also a little strange."

"Oh?" Sean raised his brows, "If it's weird?"

"The third prince Arlan and the fourth princess Vulcis fully supported Ryan's invasion of the fascist kingdom, and have begun to exert their influence to fully influence the interim council, and are preparing to order the mobilization of the legion and the private army of the nobles to participate in the war. However, the fifth prince Grenn was very opposed. This move, but the prince Adams remained silent."

"It's really strange." Sean frowned slightly. "If the fourth princess Vulcis fully supports it, I am not surprised. After all, there is Asuna next to the fourth princess. But Prince Arlan is actually with the fourth princess. Together, this is a bit subtle. It seems that the two have reached some kind of agreement.... It is reasonable for the fifth prince Grenn to object. He wants to fight for the throne, especially when he sees Prince Arlan and Princess Fulcis joins forces, so he must object no matter what. On the contrary, Prince Adams' silence is really very strange."

"Then about this..."

"Don't care." Sean shook his head, "Anyway, whatever Ryan does, it will have nothing to do with us after this battle. Leaving the kingdom of Ryan and becoming an empire is already a general trend, and no one can stop it.... But you have to be careful of peace. The trouble between the Parliament and Deaththorn, we are now fighting on the four fronts. Especially you, Stalin, I believe you should be very aware of your own importance."

Hearing Sean's reminder, Stalin also changed his face a lot. He nodded to express his understanding, but there was still a smile on his face: "Don't worry, Sir Sean, the security of the Gorge Fortress is definitely far more strict than you. Imagination. And... Neil sent the Void Wings over, and now the fortress is truly solid."

Sean knew that although the Gorge Fortress was called 50,000 defenders on the surface, in fact there were more than 50,000 defenders here.

In addition to the 50,000 iron wall wings of the regular garrison, Stalin also had an additional 5,000-man guard: the iron wall shield. In addition, because the Ghazi Fortress hides a secret laboratory and also has a secret passage to the underground world, there is also an underground resident troop summoned by Harding and Roti Kabas from nowhere: Earth Shadow Demon Blade, and the Crypt Spider Army controlled by Xina.

At this moment, coupled with the preparation by William and Neal, it can be said that it is Shaun's exclusive guard: Void Wings-this army has been stationed in the Void City for a long time and is responsible for protecting Neil. This time it is because of Dark Moon. The lack of understanding of the spear, coupled with the fact that Sean is now arguably the most hostile target of many organizations and forces, and the few super powers are not around, so Neil let Void Feather rush over to protect the current gorge. The ground fortress is as large as one hundred thousand defenders alone, and it spreads over all corners, shadows, and areas of the entire fortress, which is truly solid.

But Sean still felt that it was really a fuss.

On the surface, it seems that there is no super strong protection around him, but in fact, as long as Ulama is there, he is equivalent to being in a state of having super strong protection anytime and anywhere-the Chaos Portal is not a decoration. Although this portal has many restrictions and requirements, it is definitely the most advantageous and most suitable portal for a lot of super powers.

Unlike ordinary portals, it requires precise coordinate positioning, power transmission and stable channels before it can travel through ultra-long distances.

Ulamor's Chaos Portal can be opened in seconds. Although it can only be opened by Ulamog's side, Ulamog can open it by Sean's side as long as Shaun needs it. Portal, and then rushed to support immediately. As long as Shaun did not die in the first blow, Ulamog could teleport him and Kozilek first, then open the door to find Alexis, and then teleport with Alexis. Come and realize the situation where the three superpowers completely converge.

However, Sean knew that this was the reason why William, Neal, and Hela were all very concerned about him, so he could only accept Neil and others' arrangements.

"How long will the Gun of Dark Moon arrive?" Sean broke the subject and asked, "It's been a month, right?"

"According to the information that came from the day before yesterday in the void, it is estimated that it will be only one or two days ago." Stalin said, "Administrator Neil meant to prevent the Darkmoon Spear from entering the fortress..."

Before Stalin finished speaking, Sean interrupted: "No, I know Elsie very well. He will never have any thoughts of harm to me. By then, you will be in the fortress. Leave an area for his troops to be stationed...Remember, keep the eyes around the area away, I don't want Elsie to misunderstand anything."

Stalin looked helplessly at Sains. Seeing Sean's resolute attitude, the two of them nodded helplessly.

"Okay, now take me to see how the underground passage is arranged."

Chapter 65: .Fortress underground palace

The importance of Gapfield Fortress is not just because it is one of the six major entrances to the wilderness.

In fact, the core and fundamental reason why this fortress is important is that there is a blood laboratory built in the fortress when the Kingdom of Darbion and the Millennium Covenant Empire cooperated. Although many materials in this laboratory have been cleaned up, the crisis that erupted at that time came very suddenly, so some materials did not have time to be burned and cleaned-and this part of the secondary materials may be worthless at the beginning, but in Today it has become an invaluable material.

Ryce, this woman who has an unexplainable and unclear relationship with William, is now the new project host of this bloodline laboratory.

When she was in the Millennium Covenant Empire, she was one of the core leaders of the bloodline experiment. After being "rescued" this time, she naturally brought many highly professional new technologies, combined with the bloodline laboratory in the past. Part of the information left has made her research progress by leaps and bounds-in Ryce's words, it has shortened a full twenty years of research and development.

As long as there are suitable research objects, Lays can immediately develop new artificial blood vessels.

Artificial bloodline is a kind of synthetic bloodline. Although it can make people possess bloodline ability, it is definitely not as powerful as natural bloodline. However, the biggest feature of artificial blood is its coverage and compatibility. As long as the body can bear it, a person can even have multiple blood vessels and obtain the special abilities provided by these multiple blood vessels at the same time.

Of course, there are advantages and disadvantages.

Bloodline is a very overbearing natural ability. For those who have artificial bloodlines, although their body functions will be strengthened to a certain extent, they will also accelerate the consumption of vitality. After all, synthetic bloodlines need to consume vitality to activate. It's not like the natural bloodline that already exists in a person's genes. Therefore, the more artificial blood vessels are implanted, the greater the consumption of vitality. The most typical characteristic is the attenuation of lifespan.

However, in the game, players will not have such troubles, and compared with the aborigines, the rights of players are just like BUGs.

The so-called artificial bloodline refers to the bloodlines of the three levels of bronze, silver, and gold, while the legendary bloodline, Wanmin, and Shenmin belong to the natural bloodline.

Once a person with natural blood is awakened, he can immediately acquire a powerful blood line ability, and this blood line ability will not damage the life genes of the awakened person, but will strengthen the life characteristics and genetic abilities of the awakened person through the power of the awakened blood line. In order to obtain a strong natural ability. But people who don't have blood will never be able to acquire this ability, and it's like a waste to compare with people who have blood.

The bloodline experiment of the Millennium Covenant Empire was developed based on the concept of "I want people without natural bloodlines to obtain bloodline ability". But the final research also clearly shows that artificial blood can never be compared with natural blood, and once artificial blood is implanted, it will inevitably destroy the life genes of the implanter. Although high-level blood can cover low-level blood, it is limited to gold covering silver and silver covering bronze. Such people will never get natural blood.

Only players can use natural blood to cover the artificial blood. At the beginning of the game expansion, all players could only find a way to get the bronze artificial blood, and then slowly get more advanced blood to cover, or say Upgrade your own blood. However, compared with the natives, the player's disadvantage is that they can only have one bloodline. It is impossible for the natives to implant multiple artificial bloodlines at the same time to obtain the result of multiple bloodline capabilities.

When Lays evacuated, the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire developed three types of bronze bloodlines, which are the blood of the violent ape representing strength, the blood of the black wolf representing agility, and the blood of the iron-clad ox representing endurance. Now that Reyce was "rescued", she not only mastered the three bronze bloodlines of the Millennium Covenant Empire, but also improved them, and developed two brand new ones because of the relevant information. The bronze bloodline: Winter wolf bloodline and ghost python bloodline.

The typical characteristics that the former can possess are strength and endurance, while the latter are endurance and certain toxin abilities.

Ryce is currently presiding over the research, it is the silver rank bloodline ability.

But what Sean really cares about is not Lyce's blood experiment. He knows very well what these so-called artificial blood vessels will bring to the implanters. Perhaps in a short period of time it can indeed improve the combat ability of a large number of people. In the current situation where the technology is completely immature, usually implant a bronze The life expectancy of a person with blood will be reduced by at least 20 to 30 years. If it is compatible with two, then it will be even larger. Usually, if it is compatible with three bronze blood, people will generally not live beyond forty years.

The experimenters who can be selected as the implanted blood vessels have undergone a series of very rigorous tests and inspections. At least they are people who can live a hundred years old, which means that these people at least have the ability to impact gold. The potential of the environment.

Of course, it just has potential, but in the process of advancing, it is inevitable that you will suffer some hidden injuries or encounter some accidents. Not everyone can become a strong person in the golden realm. Therefore, between the uncertain future and the determined future, the vast majority of superiors will choose the latter--after all, if three bloodlines are forced to be implanted, as long as they do not cause their own genetic collapse, then at the age of forty Before he died, he could definitely become a powerhouse in the golden realm, and he even had the opportunity to attack the realm of the sanctuary.

And once the impact of the sanctuary realm is successful, it may be able to increase some lifespan--this is the reason why those who are willing to implant artificial blood will agree to become experimental products, because no one can refuse the temptation to "get strong power".

This is also the real reason why Sean hasn't let Reyce develop artificial blood in large numbers.

It was Ryce, who didn't expect that Sean would know so much about the dirty little secret of artificial blood. However, with the current technology, the bloodline experiment is indeed not mature enough--in fact, according to Sean's idea, it is better for Reyce to join the Heerson Institute. The ancient blood faction is the true foundation of all bloodline experiments in the entire Marvel Continent. People, only in terms of the current progress in bloodline research, no one really can surpass this faction.

According to the history of the game, the Millennium Covenant Empire was the first place where the bronze bloodline appeared. The origin of the silver bloodline afterwards is somewhat unknown, but the first one successfully studied the golden bloodline and organized all the artificial bloodlines into a very complete system. People--or organizations, are the ancient blood factions of the Helson Institute.

Sean, accompanied by Stalin, Sains and several other guards, entered this secret underground research institute together.

There are not many people who have free access to this underground research institute. Stalin is one, Lays is one, and Neil, William, Hella, Cecilia and others are naturally counted. Others, even Sains, who has almost the same authority as Stalin in the entire fortress, must be approved before they can enter this underground research institute.

Following the passage, Xiao En found that the passage of the research institute had obviously been rebuilt and was much larger in scale. And not only was it an expansion, the road that was originally just a road became accessible in all directions, and even the entrance was modified. In this part, Sean could clearly see that it was the Crypt Spider's work. These guys who like to dig caves are best at rebuilding underground passages. Obviously, under Hina's instruction, the entire underground fortress of the Straits has become a huge intricate labyrinth.

The cryptic spiders produced by the crypt spider queen also occupies an extremely important part of the cryptic spiders that are stationed in this maze.

If you want to make a metaphor, then the Crypt Spider is a real army, and the Shadow Demon Blade is more like a knife army, or a master army.

Since Xiao En entered this huge underground palace, he has felt the gaze of countless gazes- enabling him to perceive the gazes of those who are watching naturally proves that the strength of these people will not be strong, and it is probably around the golden realm. . But the weird thing is that Sean can only feel someone watching him, but he can't tell where these people are hiding. This makes Sean clearly aware of a problem: in this huge underground palace, they are here. The ruler, this is their home court.

"Is it a blood race or a demon descendant?" Xiao En asked casually.

"Both." Stalin replied, "Master Xiao En, although I control and take charge of the entire fortress, to be honest, this underground palace... really doesn't belong to me. So even I don't know this. What kind of race does the guardian lurking in the shadows and darkness have."

"Oh?" Sean's interest was obviously raised, "You are not responsible for the underground palace? Who is responsible for that? Harding?"

Sean didn't say the name of Rorty Kabas, this guy didn't know whether it was alive or dead, and he didn't know where he went.

"Neither." Stalin smiled, seemingly happy that Shaun had guessed the person in charge wrong, "It's Lord Hina."

"Hina?" Sean was really taken aback, "Unexpectedly, she has grown up too."

Hina Worst, Alfred's daughter, signed a contract with the Crypt Cold Spider Queen with the help of Andrew. She is considered to have the special bloodline of the Crypt Cold Spider. Although she cannot give birth to the Crypt Cold Spider, she has the ability to control the Crypt Cold Spider. He has studied with William, Neal, Rena, Rorty Kabas, etc., and he has excellent spear skills and certain sword skills. Under the training of William and Neal, although he is not an excellent general, he is also have a certain strategic vision and command ability.

"Earth Shadow Demon Blade troops are only a thousand people, so it's okay to guard some key points, but if they really want to guard this underground palace, they are really weak, and this underground palace is also a crypt spider. Yes, those eight-legged guys also have a strong home court advantage here." Stalin explained with a smile, "Although Hina-sama is not very good at frontal combat, but in her home court, relying on those eight-legged guys Guy, she is undefeated.... Before, Lord William asked us to rehearse an offensive and defensive exercise. Except for the Conviction Wings unit, no unit can break through to the laboratory gate."

Hearing Stalin's words, Xiao En's expression finally became serious: "The Wings of Sentencing is already a level six army...In this underground palace, the Crypt Spiders actually have the level of a level seven army?... Crypt Cold Spiders are nothing more than a level seven army. It is a fourth-level or fifth-level monster, which is equivalent to the strength of the Silver Realm. It is impossible to have such a strong strength."

The sixth-level army is already the limit of the general army.

Seventh-level army, that is a qualitative change field, at least it must all be high-ranking silver. However, the situation of Warcraft is different from that of human beings. The attack method of Warcraft is relatively simple, and there is no division of occupations. If it is a cold spider knight or a cold spider mage and the like, then it may be easier for Sean to accept that they have the level of a seventh-level army.

"Master William was very puzzled at first, but after learning about the situation, he was less confused." Stalin explained, "This underground palace was built by crypt spiders. They move freely here. And to be honest... Xiao Mr. En, the situation in this underground palace is more complicated than you think. It is directly connected to the underground secret room of the Black Swan Castle. There are a total of 30,000 crypt spiders living here. Once a battle is triggered, there will be a steady stream of land. The cave spiders swarmed and attacked from all directions. Even if the wing of the conviction is at level 6, it can only display the strength of the fourth or fifth level here. In addition, the cave spiders and the command of Lord Hina, Now these eight-legged guys are more than just savage beasts."

"That's it." Hearing Stalin's explanation, Sean understood a lot.

It turned out that it wasn't just the Crypt Cold Spider that became stronger, the army that entered this underground palace was also weakened, and the gap between the strengths of the two sides was even greater. More importantly, the Crypt Cold Spider has a giant of thirty thousand, and Sean has clearly understood how difficult it is to train an advanced army, so it is not a simple matter to really want to take this laboratory.

But it is a pity that these crypt spiders can only play their due value in this underground palace. Once they are allowed to fight on the surface, they will be the ones whose strength will be greatly reduced. I am afraid that even the strength of the fifth-level army cannot be exerted, and at best it can only be equivalent to the fourth-level army. This is really not of much value and effect for the current Void Principality. Only in this underground palace can it be regarded as a thing. Make the best use of it.

It's just that, in this way, it is equivalent to completely tying Hina here, which makes Sean feel quite sorry.

After all, after having the bloodline of the Crypt Cold Spider, Hina's potential is not as low as her father Alfred. Sooner or later, she will step into the sanctuary. If it is well cultivated, it may even hit the realm of legend-after all, the bloodline of the Crypt Cold Spider is not a synthetic bloodline, but a real natural bloodline. Although the method of activation is a bit special, it can reach the lowest level of the legendary bloodline anyway.

After turning around a long corridor behind the entrance of the passage, everyone came to an open space like a cave, and dozens of larger crypt spiders were lying quietly on the ground.

These crypt spiders stand up to almost two meters high and have a body length of more than three meters. The precursor is slightly smaller than the huge abdomen. No matter the premise, the abdomen, or even the four pairs of legs on the left and right sides, there is no hair, on the contrary. Has a metallic texture. However, the chelating limbs are relatively thick, and the front end has extremely sharp chelating teeth. Just looking at this part, you know that the penetrating power and strength are very strong.

Crypt Cold Spider Guard, a powerful cold spider species that is responsible for the close safety of the Crypt Cold Spider Queen. In the true sense of the five-level demon, in addition to the conventional rushing attack methods, it also has special features such as spitting ice silk and cold air attacks. Means of attack. There is no adventure team with more than two heavy shield warriors, even if it is alone to deal with a crypt spider guard, it will be very difficult-of course, the direct crushing of powerful adventurers is not included in this list.

Seeing the more than ten crypt spider guards, Stalin laughed: "This time, I have been exposed to you, Lord Shaun. Lord Hina already knows that we are here....I came here a few times before. At that time, Master Hina was willing to arrange a Crypt Cold Spider to pick me up, even if it was a shame."

While saying this, Stalin expertly found a crypt spider nearby, jumped up, and sat on the junction between his chest and abdomen. At this time, Xiao En discovered that the connection point of these crypt spiders can carry a person, and it really looks like a seat.

After that, several people sat on these crypt spiders one after another, and when these crypt spiders saw everyone sitting up, they immediately got up and quickly crawled towards the depths.

Sitting on it, Xiao En found out that although these crypt spiders were walking extremely fast in this underground palace, they did not feel any bumps. On the contrary, they walked very smoothly and steadily, as if they were sitting on a flat ground and galloping. The same as in a comfortable carriage. In particular, the cold air emitted by these crypt cold spider guards formed a force field similar to a protective film just right, which offset the cold and strong wind caused by the rapid advance.

But even with these crypt spider guards leading the way, it took Xiao En and others a lot of time to reach the entrance of the laboratory.

Shaun, who basically controls the law of time, is very clear about the flow of time. This journey took almost half an hour. And Sean, who also has the same concept of the law of space, knows that these crypt spiders did not take a detour, but went directly to their destination, which meant that the underground palace was expanded very large, and The entrance to the underground palace is very far from the entrance of the previous laboratory.

Standing at the door to greet everyone was the commander of the Cold Spider Legion, Hina Worst.

Chapter 66: .problem

Xina was standing outside the gate of the laboratory, with a calm smile on her face. After seeing Sean coming, she greeted her and said, "Master Shaun, welcome you."

The current Hina is very different from the Hina who Shaun took to the Wildlands.

Hina is different from her burly bear-like father Alfred. She has almost perfected and inherited the appearance of her beautiful mother-as she grows older now, she has not only become more and more Beautiful and moving, the figure is concave and convex, even the temperament of the body is full of a kind of maturity and stability without language, and the wildness hidden in this intellectual elegance.

Don't forget, Hina's most proud martial skill is spear. Although she is not particularly good at swordsmanship, she can be considered relatively proficient.

It's just maybe because the bloodline of the Crypt Cold Spider Queen is becoming more and more active, Hina's skin has become especially crystal clear-unlike ordinary people's white skin, on the contrary, it is more like pure ice crystals. The hair has also turned dark blue, and a long draped hair looks more like blue crystals that have been shaved into silk. In addition, under the induction of Sean, Hina's body also exudes a chill similar to the aura of force field all the time. This is a natural field and should be her bloodline talent ability, although it is specific Sean is not clear about the effect, but he can be sure that Hina's opponent will not want to fight her in this cold range.

"Everything is going well?" Sean asked with a smile.

"You can leave this to me with confidence." Hina said with a smile, both in her tone and demeanor, showing a unique posture of a legion commander. It is obvious that she has been well-trained. Sean has now It can be understood why Stalin would call him Lord Hina.

Although she is also the highest leader of a legion, and the same position is very important, Hina is not only higher than Stalin in her own strength, her father is also a ruthless person. Therefore, Stalin's call to Hina as an adult is not considered a price drop. In fact, in the existing Void Principality officer system, except for a very small number of people, including Stalin, Aldolf, Knok and other veterans, they also You must call Hina a sir.

"Since you have said so, I believe you will not embarrass the Worst family." Sean smiled, and then looked around casually.

"Those are the guards of the Shadow Demon Blade." Hina keenly noticed that Sean's seemingly random glances happened to be the most critical shadow corners outside the laboratory. "Mr. Rorty Kabas Now missing, Mr. Harding is now responsible for protecting Master Hela. There is no time to manage this unit, so I will take over the command of the Shadow Devil Blade for the time being.... You can rest assured, Lord Shaun, the guarding strength here is other. More than five times the area."

Shaun glanced at Hina, then nodded.

He doesn't know what the so-called "five times strength" is, but he knows that it's safe enough. After all, even Wings of Conviction, the strongest elite combat legion of the Void Principality, can only stop at the gate of this laboratory, and one can imagine how strong the defense force here is.

Of course, Shaun knows more clearly that Alfred's Worst family will inevitably become one of the most powerful families in the empire after the Void Duchy becomes an empire.

And this kind of power may never decline in the next two to three hundred years. If Hina can break through to the legendary realm, then it can even support the entire family for four to five hundred years. With such a long buffer period, given that Hina has awakened her bloodline, her descendants' achievements may not be too low. After all, the founder of the family, Alfred and the second-generation heir, Hina have already created one. It's a perfect foundation.

When all the crypt spider guards retreated, Hina opened the door of the laboratory, and then everyone filed in.

This laboratory has now been reactivated, and many people can be seen walking around here.

Sean knows that these people are some "talents" later recruited by Reyce. They basically have all kinds of ethnic groups and occupations. Of course, some of them are "experimental materials" and prisoners of war and death row prisoners who cooperate with the experiment. Both talents and death row prisoners were recruited from the Kingdom of Lane and obtained through a secret transaction with the Marquis of Floris.

In order to ensure that the death row and prisoners of war here will not cause trouble, there are naturally some guards in this laboratory. However, because of the confidentiality of the laboratory, the guards can only be performed by people from the Earth Shadow Demon Blade-this is indeed a little overkill in Sean's view, but considering that if there are any special circumstances, these people can also perform very well. Strong combat power, so he didn't point fingers at Hina's arrangement.

"Master Shaun, are you going to visit Miss Reyce's experiment?" Hina asked.

"No." Xiao En shook his head, "You don't need to notify her anymore, I'm here to see the progress of the underground passage."

Xina nodded clearly, and then led Xiao En and others to the right.

On the way, Xiao En soon discovered that the people lurking in the shadows on both sides were stronger than those previously encountered in the underground palace. If it is said that the members of the Shadow Demon Blade lurking outside the underground palace are generally in the lower silver, then the strength of the guards in the laboratory is basically close to the golden realm, and several of them are obviously only lower gold. The breath of the strong, but it has the prototype of the field.

If these people just have "fields", then Sean will not be surprised, after all, he had the concept of "fields" when he was in the golden realm. But these people are the actual prototypes of the realm. They are a higher level than the realm and are already infinitely close to the concept of the realm. Basically, this is also equivalent to showing that these people will definitely be able to accumulate vindictive growth for a period of time. Step into the realm of the sanctuary.

Sean has some doubts, where did his Void Principality come from so many potential talents.

Is it true that the aura that Levi and Alyssa mentioned before is already moisturizing and changing the entire void duchy?

"Those are from Mr. Harding's clans." It seems to be aware of Sean's doubts, and Hina, who walked in front, explained, "Mr. Harding also seems to have bloodline ability. He just awakened some time ago.... I think this should be the bloodline talent ability of their race."

Shaun nodded, without saying anything.

Now, he is really convinced of Levi's and Alyssa's theory of national veins. Although he believed it before, he always had some expectations that he didn't quite understand. Until this moment, Sean decided to turn around and let someone write a letter to William, asking him to destroy the entire fascist kingdom. Because according to Levy and Alyssa, only after a country is completely wiped out, or the royal blood is cut off, can the aura belonging to this country be taken away.

Therefore, completely destroying a country or ensuring the severance of the royal blood is the only way to annex the heritage.

The kingdom of Darbion was annexed across the board. Although there are still royal bloodlines, they are no different from ordinary nobles, and they don't even have a territory. Some of these remnants of the royal family resigned themselves to becoming aristocrats with only one title, and began to do some other business, or took refuge in the Garrod Principality of Asuna, but some people formed the Darbion Revival Army. Don't dare to trouble the Kingdom of Lane, but troubles the Duchy of Garrod often.

Shaun knew that as long as Asuna could completely kill all the members of the old royal bloodline in Darbion's Revival Army, this part of Darbion's final heritage that was not taken by the Kingdom of Lion would flow into the Principality of Garrod.

Led by Hina, everyone came to the entrance to the underground world passage that Shaun had checked before: Path to the Abyss.

But now, this entrance is different from what Shaun had seen.

On the black hole with a diameter of more than three meters, there is a six-pointed star magic circle glowing with golden light. On the edge of the six-pointed star magic circle, there are all ant-sized red magic runes, only in the six six-pointed stars. Inside the triangle, there are red magic runes almost the size of a palm. In the stone walls of the path of the abyss, the originally pitch-black stones also emit a faint blue light at this time. Although it is not very bright, the light does exist.

This means that the entire path of the abyss has been completely charged.

Several researchers wearing white gowns similar to doctors are busy working around the entrance of the Path of the Abyss. Not far from them is a huge machine that is more than five meters high and covers an area of nearly 30 square meters. The thing is the first generation of magical power machine designed based on the opinions and ideas provided by Sean and the simple design drawings.

It is precisely because this magical device power machine continuously recharges the entire path of the abyss that the path of the abyss is reactivated. Of course, it is only keeping the path of the abyss alive, and has not yet fully transmitted it, because here is still constructing the main control magic circle-what Sean wants is to completely control the path of the abyss in himself In his hands, he needs to explode the seal formation on the opposite side before he can rebuild and activate the main formation here.

Only in this way, this path of the abyss will fall into the control of Sean.

But before that, there is one more thing to be solved.

That is to blow up the sealing magic circle on the opposite side. If your side assumes that the main circle of the magic circle is transmitted on the axis, you must also establish a secondary circle on the opposite side. Only in this way, the so-called counter-axis energy transmission can ensure the spatial stability of the path of the abyss, and only after ensuring the stability of the space, can people be transported from the surface to the ground. Otherwise, teleporting in an unstable space channel is simply dying - of course, the super strong can ignore this instability.

It's just that this black technology is slightly different from what Shaun imagined.

He knew that the work of teleportation was not that simple, especially the gap in the space opened up after the seal formation on the opposite side was first burst. Originally, Sean thought it would be possible to send hundreds of people over, so that he could quickly establish a forward base on the opposite side. After the auxiliary formation was set up and bridged with the main formation, he could start a steady stream of reinforcements, directly underground. The world has a firm foothold.

But now, according to these people from the Heerson Institute, the gap opened after the opposing seal formation is blown can only transmit the past two people, and it will also cause a certain degree of damage to the path of the abyss, so follow-up In addition to assuming the main array and the auxiliary array to re-concentrate energy, the path to the abyss also needs to be repaired. In this way, when will the Path of the Abyss be completely repaired, will it be possible to continuously transmit troops.

Sean came here just to know exactly the answer.

It turned out that after he asked, these researchers from the Heerson Institute told him that the specific situation and repair time must depend on the damage of the path of the abyss. But what they can guarantee is that this repair time can definitely be completed within ten years, and according to the current calculated data results, it should not exceed five years.

Hearing this news, Sean felt extremely depressed.

The complexity and chaos of the underground world, as well as the level of blood, are far more phenomena than any surface person. Without the support of any reserve force, if you want to survive five years, unless Shaun sends two superpowers over, then it is possible to survive such a difficult period.

But, in the most difficult period of the Void Principality, is it possible for Sean to send two super powers over?

He is not stupid. It is not that he has not thought about using the peculiarities of the Chaos Portal, but after Sean told the concept of the Chaos Portal to the researchers from the Heerson Institute who were sent to study the path of the abyss, they Can not give an accurate answer. In other words, unless Shaun tries it himself, no one can be sure whether the Chaos Portal can open the teleportation between the ground and the ground.

Even when Sean asked Ulama, Ulama didn't know about it, but he really wanted to try it for himself.

In this regard, Sean was very disappointed.

This time, he hurriedly left the wild fortress, before even waiting for Cecilia, who was in a coma, to wake up. In addition to dealing with the betrayal of the Peace Council and Deaththorn, there was another more important one. The reason is this path to the abyss. The result was that the former's matter was arranged, and from the report of William and Alexis's message transmission, the effect was very good; but the latter's matter was really frustrating.

"Master Shaun, I have a suggestion." Hina obviously saw Sean's thoughts, so after thinking about it, she said.

"Tell me about it." Sean gestured.

"Although this channel is unstable at the moment, the energy tolerance is very high. We can send two strong men over." Hina thought for a moment, as if she was sorting out her own thoughts, and then she said. This kind of prudent performance once again won the affirmation of Sean, "Moreover, Mr. Rorty Kabas and Mr. Harding can recruit so many inhabitants of the underground world, so there must be some more special methods... The world is relatively Yes, so since people from the underground world can smuggle and appear on our side, then we can also smuggle past."

"Although this matter sounds simple, it is not that simple in fact." Sean understands Hina's words, but he has a wealth of game experience and history, and he is more aware of how difficult it is to implement these things, "not to mention After sneaking into the underground world, the positioning is to find a gap leading to the underground world. It is not a simple matter. The underground world mostly uses exile-style one-time passages, and it does not care whether these people can reach it smoothly. The surface..."

The meaning of exile, need not be too clear, everyone knows what is going on.

"I didn't consider it well." Hina apologized softly.

"It's none of your business." Xiao En shook his head and laughed. "There are many things in it that most people don't know, and I only found out after asking Harding and Rorty Kabas before....Even if it is. Rorty Kabas, who came to find the ruins of the riding god, was not exiled, but it is not so easy for him to go back. We still have to think of a solution here in Path of the Abyss."

Although Sean said so, but at this time he has already begun to arrange someone to enter the underground world.

Want to survive in the opposite world for five years, not impossible, but very dangerous. But if it is really successful, then Sean will be able to have a forward base leading to the underground world, which is very rewarding for him-the underground world is very rich in materials, and many of them are hard to find on the surface. The rare materials of, are things that no one cares about in the underground world. Once Sean can harvest these things, then the future void empire can quickly pass the initial difficult period.

"Five years, can't it be shortened?" Sean still asked unwillingly.

"It's not impossible, but I think it's unrealistic." A researcher wearing a white coat said, "The main reason for the damage is that the power of the power machine is not enough. If it can break through the current limit value, On the contrary, the gap can be widened, so that more people can be transmitted, and the path of the abyss will become more stable, and the damage to nature will be less."

"So in the final analysis, it's still on the magical power machine." Xiao En looked at the behemoth that was making a roar next to him, and sighed helplessly.

Because of his intervention, the world's black technology has been advanced a lot, but many necessary technologies have not yet been developed. After all, Sean is not a professional in this area. He can only provide a technical idea and a real technical breakthrough. Still have to rely on these researchers. Therefore, if these researchers can't solve the problems of materials, technical support, etc., it will naturally be very difficult for Magic Technology to go further.

According to Sean's original blueprint for the beautiful imagination of Path of the Abyss, it might be possible to do it after the second-generation magic power machine was developed.

Although Sean did not hesitate to sell Alisha, and also provided a series of related magic gun technology, but it will take one or two years before the second-generation magic power machine can be developed. time. If Sean hadn't turned his face with Deaththorn and the Peace Council, then he could naturally wait for another year or two until the corpse invasion was over before dealing with the invasion of the underground world.

But now, now that the Deaththorn and Peace Council have turned their faces, Sean must solve the problem of invading the underground world before the end of the bone invasion, and lay the foundation for the upcoming void empire.

"Tell Neil, let him give the magical scientific research project the largest injection of funds if financially permits." Sean thought about it, and finally decided to spend money!

"The highest authority?" Hina added.

Sean thought for a while, then gritted his teeth and said: "The highest authority!"

At this moment, everyone knows that Sean's determination to break through the abyss is not joking.

Just as Sean began to give new orders and decisions, Stalin who was next to him suddenly walked to Sean, and then said: "Master Sean, the Gun of Dark Moon came sooner than expected, and it will arrive in two hours. NS."

"So fast?" Sean was also taken aback for a while, and then asked again, "Is there any news from the Wild Fortress?"

Stalin knew what Sean was asking, so he replied: "Master Hitley has arrived in the wild fortress. There is nothing wrong with Miss Cecilia. It's just a mental overdraft and a certain degree of shock and shock, so it hasn't happened yet. Wake up. But Master Hitley also said that this is a good thing for Miss Cecilia, not a bad thing, and it will accelerate the depth of her blood awakening."

"Well, Cecilia is fine." Sean nodded, "Then we will go back to meet the guests."

Originally, Sean thought the Darkmoon Gun would not arrive so soon, so he still had a lot of time to deal with other trivial things by the way, but since the Darkmoon Gun is about to arrive, when will the other insignificant things be handled? It's all the same, so after he finished ordering the path of the abyss, he turned and left. Hina still arranged for the Crypt Cold Spider Guardian to take care of it, but she herself did not leave the laboratory, because Hina is now no better than before. As the security officer of the entire underground laboratory, she is also the owner of this underground palace. Hina had to deal with more things than outsiders thought.

Especially, Sean also gave Hina new tasks and orders, which is tantamount to increasing her workload.

After the door to the laboratory was closed again, Hina glanced at the woman who was walking slowly over the research area.

This woman looked abnormally haggard, her hair was messy and colorless, and her body still exuded a strange smell.

This person is Lays who has devoted himself to work, but she is such a workaholic side that no one knows except Hina. Of course, only Hina, who saw the crazy side of Reyce, knew very well that this Reyce was actually the bloodline experiment team that voluntarily joined the Millennium Covenant Empire, or she was the core initiator of the entire project team. And what she did before was just the appearance of her disguise.

"Gone?" Reyce asked, his voice a little hoarse.

"Master Shaun has left." Hina said without a good face, "You should be fortunate that Master Shaun didn't think about going to visit your experiments, otherwise it's not easy to disguise your appearance like this."

Hearing Hina's words, Lays smiled: "That big man won't come to visit my experiment. In other words, he doesn't care about the results of the blood experiment at this stage. He has a great understanding of this experiment. It's beyond your imagination.... Hey, you don't know your lord at all."

"I don't need to know Master Sean, I only know that she is my loyalty object." Hina said coldly, she hated this woman from the bottom of her heart, "I don't know what you and Cecilia-sama are in. What deal has been concluded, but I hope you will not disappoint Master Cecilia's expectations of you. Otherwise, even William will definitely not be able to keep you."

"Save me?" Reyce waved his hand impatiently, "Heh, do you really think William is so kind? Since I met him, he has understood my nature. He arranged you here. Do you think it is really to protect this laboratory and the path of the abyss? When he made it clear, he no longer trusted me. He arranged you here just to monitor me.... Everyone is an adult, so it is necessary to cover it up. That's it."

Hina was noncommittal, but sneered at Layce.

"Well, my experiment here has encountered a bottleneck again. I need one hundred milliliters of your blood." Reyce ignored Hina's indifference, and just spoke again.

"Damn it." Hina let out a curse.

"If you want to break through to the legend, you have no choice." Reyce said lightly. "The bloodline of the Crypt Cold Spider Queen, this newly born natural bloodline, has never appeared in history before. Believe me not. Say that you know that your body is gradually showing signs of spidering, so if you don't want to become a half-human, half-spider monster, then it is best to cooperate with my research to suppress your monsterization, otherwisehehe."

Xina took a deep breath, restrained the anger in her heart, did not say anything, but walked towards Reyce.

And Reyce also turned around and returned to the same path, but her voice was still babbling, "Speaking of which, I really sympathize with you.... The sun on the surface will accelerate your spidering," Is it worth hiding here forever for such a country?"

"I am pure blood. It is not surprising that there will be some mutations." Hina seemed very calm, "Master Rina will still be a dragon."

"Rina's situation can be controlled autonomously, and her dragon personification can enhance her own combat effectiveness." Reyce curled her lips with a look of disdain, "But your situation is different. Your situation is irreversible, even me. It can only be suppressed."

Xina knew that what Reyce said was the truth, so she did not refute it.

Reyce squinted at Hina, and then said: "Perhaps when your bloodline awakens to a deeper level, it can become a controllable behavior like Rena, but at least in the current situation, your spiderization It is an irreversible evolutionary behavior. So proceed according to the current trend, and you will eventually replace the crypt spider queen and become the highest leader of the entire crypt spider family, and the old spider will become an unconscious fertility machine."

Xina is not commenting on this, but she is still a little frightened when she thinks that her lower body will become like a spider: "But at least my offspring will not be like this."

"Then you have to find someone to marry as soon as possible, and then give birth to a child before you completely become a spider." In terms of bloodline, Reyce does have a certain authority, "But even if you dilute your body too high in this way The concentration of blood is very low....Unless it is a dilution of successive generations, it is possible to control this spidering, but I guess as far as your current blood concentration is concerned, it is at least five or six generations later. ."

Hearing Reyce's comment, Hina was completely silent this time.

"So..." Reis glanced at Hina, finally showing a smile on his haggard face, "It is better to cooperate with my experiment and break through to the legendary realm as soon as possible. Only in this way can you completely control it. Your own blood will not replace your body, so you don't have to worry about becoming a spiderman."

Chapter 67: .Friendship

The arrival of Elsie is definitely a surprise.

Darkmoon Gun is now one of the most powerful church knights on the Marvel Continent, and perhaps even the prefix "Church" can basically be removed.

In the entire Western Continent, there are no more than five knights that can be compared with the Darkmoon Spear. Of course, Pure White Wings are not among them. The only ninth-level knights in the entire continent have a fighting power that already belongs to another. A realm level, it is not an exaggeration to say that he is above all the knights of the entire Miracle Continent.

Shaun's Void Principality also has a knights called the Scarlet Knights.

However, the current level of the knights is at the level of a small name. Perhaps for some small duchy or small kingdoms, no one wants to provoke the scarlet knights, but in the face of those powerful kingdoms or empires. , The level of the Scarlet Knights is not enough.

From this point of view, we can determine what level of knights the Darkmoon Spear is.

Accurate to eight levels.

Sean really can't imagine how the soft and weak Elsie, who seemed not much better than the girl, did how to make such a powerful knight group. Sean believes that as long as this knight group comes to a group charge, even the steel wings with the impact shield ability will definitely be pierced. Of course, the only exception may be that the end will be slightly better, and it will not be completely wiped out. And the Gun of Darkmoon will definitely have to pay a certain price.

A level 7 army that has surpassed level 6 and reached a level of qualitative change, the level of combat effectiveness is not something that can be explained by a simple calculation formula.

A rhythmic knock on the door sounded.

A smile appeared on Xiao En's face: "Come in, the tea is ready."

So, the door opened.

Walking in from the door is Elsie Boulder, now the leader of the Knights of the Darkmoon Spear.

He is not wearing armor, just a simple set of coarse linen and coarse trousers, and even shoes are the most common sandals. When such a person walks on the road, everyone will only think that he is one of the poorest low-level poor, and he may even be a slave or something. No one thinks that he is the famous Darkmoon Spear in the Northern Continent today. The captain of the knights.

Of course, if he wasn't holding a black spear in his hand, it would look more like it.

It was a long gun that even Sean couldn't think of any words to describe and describe-it was about two meters long, and both the barrel and the tip of the gun were pure black, without strange patterns, symbols, and marks. , It looks like it was made from a piece of pure black ore, but it feels like an inexplicable quietness. And the most important thing is that Elsie held this spear in his hand, which made his sense of existence become a little thin, and even Sean's eyes were involuntarily attracted by this spear.

"ding." A soft beep of metal impact sounded.

Xiao En's eyes changed slightly, and immediately as if he had broken away from some strange resonance, the whole person instantly awoke.

"Huh?" Elsie was stunned for a moment, and immediately looked at the black long sword that Shaun had placed on the corner of the wall, "Artifact?"

"Well, divine weapon." Xiao En smiled and nodded, but he obviously didn't want to bring the topic closer to the black king. This guy was finally locked up by him, lest he kept arguing and yelling, "You are the one Twilight Gun?"

"Yes." Elsie nodded, and her eyes softened a lot when she looked at the spear in her hand. "This is one of the five artifacts that Goddess Twilight has left in the world, but it only requires divine power. It is much larger than the other four, because this is the only one that grew up with the goddess.... Also, my mother's relic, so I always carry it with me."

"Your mother's...relic?" Sean blinked, looking a little shocked.

In his memory, or during the period when he was playing games, although the Twilight Gun is the most powerful artifact of the Twilight Church, no one can use this artifact from beginning to end. As the only artifact known to be uncontrolled in the player community, it attracted countless players to join the Twilight Church, but the ideals are beautiful, but the reality is extremely cruel: no one can activate the tasks related to this artifact.

At that time, after countless players tried for a long time, they finally had to give up. They even thought that the existence of this masterless artifact was simply the complement and improvement of the game background. Unexpectedly, the core of this artifact was not in the Twilight Church in the Western Continent, but in the Boulder family that had long been shattered in the Southern Continent. If it weren't for Sean, Elsie would have already died. , This artifact will not be available.

Thinking of this, Sean couldn't help but put his  on the task planning in the game-how could such an insidious thing be discovered by the player.

But soon, Sean thought of another question.

The previous owner of the Twilight Gun appeared five hundred years ago, and Elsie actually said that the gun was his mother's relic. Doesn't that mean that Elsie's mother has lived for at least 700 years? Being able to live for so long is no ordinary existence, at least it is infinitely close to the level of super power!

Shaun looked up and down and began to look at Elsie.

"What?" Being looked at by Sean so much, even Elsie couldn't help feeling a bit weird, "Why stare at me like this."

"Sanctuary?" Sean asked.

"I can see it?" Elsie smiled, with a very happy look on his face, which shows that his happiness is sincere. "Because of the help of several artifacts, the analysis and understanding of the rules is very fast. Coupled with the awakening of the blood, I am now in the middle sanctuary, and not far from the upper sanctuary.... But unfortunately, my understanding of the law is limited to the goddess' dark law."

Elsie's mother does not exist in general, so if Elsie has no special blood, Sean would be surprised. However, in this way, he would be able to understand why Paqiuli was able to become the "freedom creator", obviously this is also related to her bloodline ability to a certain extent.

Of course, Sean, who had just woke up, soon realized another problem: "How many artifacts? Don't tell me, the only remaining three artifacts of the Twilight Church are in your hands."

"Sorry, you really guessed it." Elsie laughed, showing a triumphant look, "Except for the Twilight Spear, the Night Armor and the Twilight Shield are all in my hand. These two artifacts were specially crafted by the goddess after she grew up. Although they have been with the goddess for a long time, they are still not as long as the Twilight Spear, so the power is weaker than the Twilight Spear... But this The three artifacts were all possessed before the goddess ignited the sacred fire, so that he was able to pass the darkest period smoothly."

Shaun nodded clearly.

It is said that before the goddess of Twilight grew up, she was just a knight attendant, and on the day she became a teacher, her teacher gave her a spear as a gift. This spear is now the Twilight Spear. It is the first artifact that has truly witnessed the goddess from weak to strong, and accompanied by the goddess in her life. Therefore, it ranks first among the five artifacts left by the Twilight Goddess in the world.

After , the Armor of Night and the Shield of Twilight were specially created by the Twilight Goddess after stepping into the sanctuary. This was specially created by the victor to celebrate the glorious victory of the Twilight Goddess that year. It is said that it is because of the victory of this war that the Twilight Goddess realized the stalwart of the night for the first time, so the Armor of Night and Twilight The Light Shield has the special ability to make the Twilight Goddess almost invisible in the night environment.

With spears, shields, and armors, the Goddess of Twilight fought more and more bravely without any suspense, until she finally ignited the sacred fire to rise up the kingdom of God and sit on an equal footing with the gods.

As for the Eye of Night Light, it is a helmet. It is an artifact built in the kingdom of God after the goddess of Twilight became a god. Its function is very simple, that is, it can see through the shadows. Under the power of this helmet, even if the enemy escapes Entering the astral world will be pulled out mercilessly, not to mention the sneaky guys hiding in the shadows.

The dark shadow is a cloak, which was created in the kingdom of God when the goddess participated in the battle of the dusk of the gods. However, when she created this cloak, the God of Darkness had fallen, so this cloak was actually created by taking part of the God's personality and power of the God of Darkness, which also made the Twilight Goddess transfer the power of the law from night to darkness. In this way, he gained part of the power and priesthood of the God of Darkness.

As one of the few gods who did not fall in the battle of the Twilight of the Gods, the Goddess of Twilight is indeed lucky. It's just that there were no fallen gods in that battle. Basically, they were severely injured and had to seal themselves to sleep, but the Twilight Goddess still left some backhands—her descendants relied on the Twilight Goddess to fall asleep before going to bed. The five artifacts left behind founded the Twilight Church, which was once so strong that even the * of dawn had to walk sideways.

But it's a pity that after the divine battle that affected several gods in the Age of Ashes, the Twilight Church has gradually declined, and even five powerful artifacts have been destroyed. If it weren't for the Armor of Night and the Shield of Twilight, the equipment that the Goddess of Twilight had before she ignited the sacred fire, I'm afraid it would be broken in that battle—if that's the case, I'm afraid there would be no more survivors of the Twilight Church. .

But in any case, Elsie's appearance and return to Twilight Church did make it possible for Twilight Church to prosper again—maybe others don't know, but Sean heard Elsie say something about him over the years. Afterwards, he knew clearly: Anyone who can be recognized by the Twilight Spear is the darling of the Twilight Goddess, an apostle of the God recognized and trusted by the gods, and his status is higher than that of ordinary saints and saints. In terms of it, it's much higher.

Apostle, this is the ultimate power of the church.

Currently, Elsie cannot be regarded as an apostle—because the so-called apostles are devout believers who have stepped into the kingdom of God. They can travel between the kingdom of gods and the material world, which is a very special existence. However, apostles generally do not appear easily. Only during the time of the war of gods, when the power of faith in the gods is about to be uprooted, can apostles appear. Of course, not all churches will have apostles.

As far as the entire Miracle Continent is currently, the only church that can pack a vote to have apostles is probably the Morning Light Church.

But as long as the Saint-Joles Empire is not on the verge of extinction, the apostle will definitely not appear.

"But I really didn't expect that you were assassinated as soon as you arrived in the Western Continent. It's really hard for you to survive." After hearing Elsie's lightly narrating a few words about his life in the Western Continent, Sean also had to sigh, "Is Cassius all right?"

"Thanks to Uncle Cassius's desperate protection along the way, otherwise I won't be who I am today." Elsie smiled, with a look of remembrance on her face, "Now Uncle Cassius is Twilight. The legion commander of the Shield Division, this is a heavy cavalry force that is good at charging and attacking.

Knights are different from cavalry units.

The so-called knights are powerful knights who can ride on horses and fight on foot, and are basically silver-level knights. Unlike the situation where cavalry units are basically equivalent to annihilation once they fall into the enemy's formation or their charge is blocked, the knights can still exert extremely terrifying combat effectiveness even if they are trapped in the enemy's formation. Because of this, some of the more special knights do not aim at cutting through the enemy formation or cutting the formation. They often use the method of combat in which the enemy formation blooms—that is, directly charge the enemy and then attack the enemy formation. In and out of the horse to fight.

"I feel relieved to hear that my acquaintances are all right." Xiao En laughed, "But then again, why did you come to me suddenly?"

"This is a long story." Elsie laughed.

"It's okay, tell me, I have time." Shaun smiled and poured a cup of tea for Elsie.

In fact, Sean really missed his friendship with Elsie. Before that, he was still worried that Elsie had been to the Western Continent for so many years, and he also got rid of the situation of that weak boy in one fell swoop, and became a prominent figure in the Western Continent now, and he didn't know if any changes would be made. But at this moment, seeing Elsie still look the same as before, the heart that Sean had been holding was let go.

Elsie was not very kind to Sean, took a sip of the tea, and then her eyes suddenly lit up: "It's a little flower tea."

"Well, your favorite." Sean smiled. He still remembers that when Elsie lived in Elsie's territory, Elsie lived very plainly, not like a nobleman at all, and only occasionally drank it. With a few mouthfuls of tea made with small wild flowers that can only be picked at Modgerling, this guy will be a little bit like a nobleman, "I have people picked a lot, so you can rest assured, there is time."

"Okay." Elsie took a few more sips nostalgic, and then smacked her lips, as if she was reminiscing about something, "Originally, I planned to borrow the Kingdom of Lane, and then I will send you a message and go directly to the millennium. I went to the covenant empire. But I didn't expect that the situation on the millennium covenant empire is more chaotic than I imagined, so I thought about it and came to your vacation."

"Vacation?" Xiao En, who was pouring tea, was taken aback for a moment, then shook his head with a wry smile, "It's really a shame that you can figure it out... But what is the chaos on the Millennium Covenant Empire? I heard that the situation is not. Is it stabilized? The Thousand-Year Covenant Empire is now fully shrinking on the east and south lines. Although the size of the undead army is very strong, it will not find a good entry point for a while, so the two sides are temporarily stalemated."

"It was originally like this, but now the church has stepped in." Elsie said, "The chaos of the Western and Northern Continents, you should also be aware that there are too many churches mixed up here, and almost all churches are crazy. I also want to expand my mission area. This time the small-scale invasion of the bone plane just gave these guys an excuse, so now basically all churches send people to the Millennium Covenant Empire to squeeze..."

Elsie showed a look you know.

"Well, I really mourn for the Millennium Covenant Empire." Sean laughed, and the laughter is quite hearty-as long as you think that the Millennium Covenant Empire now has a large area that cannot be recovered, then you have to separate your mind to maintain it. The deteriorating law and order brought about by these churches in the country is indeed not tolerated by a few people. "But there should be a lot of powerful churches here this time, right?"

"Originally, there should have been the pure white wings of the Morning Light Church, but the situation on the Maggie Empire has been a bit unstable recently, so the Morning Light Church has not dared to send the strongest knights in its own country." Elsie thought for a while, and then spoke. Said, "And I don't know why, the other knights of the Saint-Joles Empire seem to have tasks, and they are currently in a fully contracted state... The movement and the subtle thing is that the shrinking line of defense of the Saint-Joles Empire seems to be faintly directed against the Northern Duchy."

About this little secret, Sean still generally knows.

At present, the Church of the God of War has become Emily's one-word temple. It is simply that she will issue any oracle she wants to issue. Under such a situation, the Commonwealth of the Northern Duchy has faintly developed towards a unified power with a federal parliamentary system. If it were in the past, the Saint-Joles empire would definitely be devastated, but now the Saint-Joles empire has died so many powerful people, so it is not reconciled to be a puppet and the imperial power also has a rebellious attitude, so before the civil strife is resolved, The Saint-Joles Empire will certainly not cause any trouble again.

In this way, it also gave the Northern Principality Federation a great opportunity for development.

Similarly, the Maggie Empire is clearly aiming at this state-there is not much in the whole country, and the country with the most magicians obviously has a faster brain than others. With such a powerful and terrifying neighbor, if the Saint-Joles Empire dared to remove the White Wings at this time, the Maggie Empire would definitely launch a war.

"So, there are not many strong churches?" Sean asked rhetorically.

"Well, I don't want to join in the fun, so Twilight Church has not been involved in the war for the time being. The situation of the Goddess of Life Church is also very delicate... The chief saint is on your side, and she brought a priest corps to help you Stationed in the wild fortress..." Elsie said here, and suddenly laughed, "Haha, you are really good enough, you have not changed at all, this kind of ability to take advantage of the fire.... Now the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire is all over there. Calling you the Jackal, they took the wild fortress while they were not paying attention."

"Nonsense, if I don't enter this fortress, the undead army can really go south smoothly." Xiao En rolled his eyes, "I just do it for the good of everyone, to limit the destruction of the undead army to a certain range. ."

"Then I ask you, after the undead retreat, will you return the wild fortress to the Millennium Covenant Empire?"

"What a shit." Shaun rolled his eyes again, "The Wildlands are mine. I'm thinking about how to get these six gates back, and want me to return the Wild Fortress? Even if I am willing to pay them back. , Will the Millennium Covenant Empire dare to come and get it?"

"Haha, you are as shameless as always." Elsie laughed. "That's probably the case. Now, there is a mess of porridge on the Millennium Covenant Empire. Various situations are emerging in an endless stream, and I heard how many bones invaded this time. An undead king is at war with some strong hermits, and the scope of the war is extremely wide. Now the Millennium Covenant Empire dare not send troops to fight the undead army, and even the scouts have to arrange for the legendary strong to investigate."

"Someone can beat Rick so they can't be distracted?" Sean also became curious, "What kind of hermit? So strong? Isn't this a horrible existence that has lived for hundreds or even thousands of years?"

Elsie shrugged: "Who knows.... Anyway, I am a missionary and I can't preach, and I can't fight a war, so I just brought someone to you for a holiday. Looking back and waiting for the situation there to stabilize a bit, When the undead army begins to prepare for the charcoal again, I can enter the battlefield directly from the wild fortress."

"Okay, whatever you want." Sean doesn't matter, anyway, he and Elsie are good friends, and of course he doesn't care if this guy wants to stay here to rest.

"By the way, I heard that you are now at war with the Fascist Kingdom. Would you like me to help?" Elsie suddenly approached Sean, looking a little wretched.

"You are an orthodox knight of the Twilight Church, can you participate in the royal war?" Sean was really scared by Elsie this time.

"What's the matter? We will take off the emblem at the time, or you can just replace us with arms. Who knows we are the church knights." Elsie waved his hand, "In the western and northern continents, the church knights If you don't hit the autumn breeze occasionally, you would have starved to death.... Do you think the churches in the Western Continent are very rich? If there are so many believers and so rich, the churches in the Western Continent will not be rushed. All of them have gone to the Millennium Covenant Empire."

"Dare to love your church knights in the Western Continent and also guest-host robbers and bandits."

"Don't say it so ugly, what bandit and bandit, we are at best guest appearances in the mercenary." Elsie curled his lips, "Don't worry, we have done this kind of thing many times, we are familiar with it, absolutely not There will be any accidents, and you will not be condemned by the Peace Council.... And you and I are so familiar, if you hire us, I will give you a 20% discount, how about?"

Sean looked at Elsie speechlessly: "I was wrong."

"What?" Elsie was a little dazed.

"I always thought you were the same, but I didn't expect you to have changed." Xiao En said with a pity, "You didn't do such a dirty thing before."

"Cut, don't forget." Elsie gave Sean a slanted look.

"Let's discuss the cost." Sean said without hesitation, "If I am armed, how much will it cost?"

"You don't want it." Elsie curled her lips, but she was just acting, "It depends on how long you plan to hire us. One hundred thousand gold coins a month, if you hire more than half a year, you will count as half a million. how?"

"Fuck, you are robbing!" Xiao En immediately slapped the table, "It's too expensive! It's impossible for the Western Continent to have such a rich person!"

"Don't look at the level of my Dark Moon Strength, one of the five strongest knights in the Western Continent!" Elsie said without retreat, "One hundred thousand gold coins a month are very few. Well, we have an absolute guarantee of employment, and the orders issued by the employer require no bargaining!"

"Two hundred and fifty thousand gold coins in half a year."

"You slaughtered too hard with this knife, right? Cut it in half. Did you bargain like that?"

"Well, two hundred and fifty thousand gold coins.... You have to be considerate of me. It is easy for me to manage such a big country. I don't know how much this overhead is. I think I want money. It hurts. You can't be so black-hearted because we are good friends."

"You have to be considerate of me, but I have 10,000 people waiting for me to eat.... Forty-eight thousand gold coins."

"You obviously only brought five thousand people here." Xiao En said with a look of contempt, "I am responsible for logistics and armaments, 255,000 gold coins!"

"War is going to kill people, and I have to pay my knights a pension." Elsie refused to give up, "And I have to give the old men in the church an explanation, let them open one eye and close one eye. , So the ups and downs also need to be managed, four hundred and sixty thousand gold coins."

"You really think I don't understand anything! Say good friendship! Now who else in the Twilight Church can command you, it's not you who have the final say. Two hundred and sixty thousand gold coins, no more, I It's really poor."

"I did a survey before I came here. You can earn millions of dollars by selling a few demonized weapons.... From our previous friendship, just 450,000 gold coins."

"It's too dark." Xiao En firmly disagreed. "It is said that money hurts feelings. We used to have such a beautiful relationship. Will you bear to let money taint it? Two hundred and seventy thousand."

"It's too much money to talk about feelings. It's impossible to have no money. Four hundred and forty thousand yuan."

"....."

Standing outside the study room, listening to the dispute between Elsie and Sean inside, they also exposed each other's old bottom, scars and dark history. Cassius, Gnar, Stalin, and Sa Ince and the other four people looked at each other and didn't know what to say, and their expressions were full of embarrassment.

Chapter 68: .Tianping Invitation Letter

In fact, there are not many things that Sean needs to deal with. The more urgent documents and materials were basically handled in Oasis City.

The main reason he came to the fortress of the Strait was to understand the situation of the path of the abyss. But unfortunately, there is a big gap between the current situation and what he imagined. This is somewhat disappointing to Sean. If there is a word of comfort, it is that he can send two people into the underground at any time at this moment. world.

Xiao En really wanted to go down and take a look at the situation by himself, but Stalin and others seemed to know what Shaun was thinking in his heart, and they almost stayed by Sean's side for the past two days. For such a lord who couldn't rest assured at all, they couldn't wait to have unlimited energy to stare at Sean every day—the current situation is that Sains and Stalin stared at Sean in turn.

"I said you, being a lord is so uncomfortable." Elsie sat in the study, laughing at Sean to his heart's content.

In the past few days, after getting up with nothing to do, Elsie basically came to the study to find Sean—who told Sean to eat and live in the study every day, so Elsie moved there afterwards. The study is here. Two friends who have not seen for a long time seem to have endless topics. In addition to the things that cannot be said about Andrew and Jibril, he even told Elsie about the plan of the God of War of the Northern Duchy. .

Elsie, who originally thought that his experience was legendary enough, was shocked when he heard what Shaun said: Compared with Shaun who directly subverted the entire Church of God of War, Elsie felt that he had inherited the will of his mother. , Obtained the Twilight Gun, and then trained the Darkmoon Gun for survival in a low-key manner, secretly solved the old opponents of those mothers, and finally successfully slapped the Twilight Church in the face through the secret confrontation with the Dark Face Knights of the Saint-Joles Empire. Compared to the experience of being a truly unique person in the entire church, it is nothing short of a shame, and it is not at all proud.

"You know, I was not suitable for being a lord." Sean sighed helplessly. "If it wasn't for Cecilia to take care of Cecilia, I didn't think she would be allowed to run around with me, I would not. Choosing to become a lord... After all, if I were just the head of a mercenary group, it would be impossible to help her regain those things that belonged to her."

"Indeed." Elsie nodded, this time it was rare that there was no mockery, "Then what's the situation in the Principality of Lembel now?"

"I also arranged for people to go there to investigate. They seem to have known the relationship between Cecilia and me, and now they are holding tightly to the thighs of the Saint-Joles Empire." Sean curled his lips in disdain. The Duchy of Rembel didn't pay attention at all. With the current strength of the Duchy of Void, let alone a super strong, he only needed to combine the five of Levi, Alyssa, Rena, Xuefanio, and Noro. Sending the legendary powerhouse over is enough to slaughter the entire Duchy of Lumber.

It is the Empire of St. Joles, who is now standing behind the Duchy of Lembel, that really keeps Sean from making this order.

The names of the five ancient empires, even if four superpowers were pitted because of the battle of destiny, the potential of the Saint-Joles empire still has no end in sight. Before he was fully prepared, Sean did not intend to act rashly for the time being, and at the moment he was still not quite sure about the Principality of Lembel. What exactly did Cecilia want to do: He wanted to take the entire Lembel The Principality regained it, or solved the murderers who killed Cecilia's parents.

"If you want to trouble the Duchy of Rembel, now is a good time." Elsie said, "The movement of the Maggie Empire is very subtle. Now the Empire of St. Giles is in a short period of weakness. If you make good use of it , You should be able to get huge benefits from it."

Hearing Elsie's words, Sean could only helplessly smile: "I'm not ignorant of my current situation."

"Yes." Elsie was stunned for a moment, and then realized that Sean's current situation is indeed unable to find the trouble of the Principality of Rembel, "Let you poke such a big basket, it's not easy to clean up now....The Kingdom of Fascism Let's not talk about doing that over there. It is estimated that there will be no problems in the wild fortress in a short period of time. You must believe in the group of bandits gathered on the Millennium Covenant Empire. The really tricky things are the Peace Council and Death Thorn. Bar....."

Hearing Elsie's words, the helplessness on Sean's face has turned into a look of almost madness.

Yesterday, Ruina had heard news about destroying the lair of Deaththorn in the Southern Continent.

Of course, this news is definitely not good news: Alexis has successfully uprooted all the strongholds and member deployments of Deaththorn in the Southern Continent—all strongholds, not just a lair.

It can be said that Deaththorn's loss this time is even more serious than when Sean sold the news of the nest on the northern continent to the Peace Council: it is not just the destruction of the nest and stronghold, even the few people who are sitting in the south. The really strong were all solved by Alexis.

probably learned the lesson of the destruction of the North Continent's lair, so at the moment Deaththorn has dispatched new powerful men to assist in the three lairs in the east, west, and south, in addition to the highest person in charge. Probably because the situation in the Southern Continent is more worrying, there are a total of two superpowers in the Southern Continent's lair. Although the strength of these two is not too top, one is just promoted. At the sixteenth level, one is a veteran super powerhouse with a strength close to that of the eighteenth level; besides this, there are a total of four legendary powerhouses including the six death steles.

In other words, the force that Deaththorn dispatched to the South Continent is one-fifth of the power of the entire organization.

And now, all these forces have died in the hands of Alexis.

It took a month for Alexis to destroy the entire circle of southern forces of Deaththorn. This is not that Alexis is lazy, but the enemy, even Alexis, finds it a bit difficult. He could always escape inadvertently and then hide, so the more he fought, the more unhappy Alexis, he simply destroyed all the hidden and public strongholds of Deaththorn in the southern continent.

This record can be described as extremely powerful on anyone.

But when Sean heard the news from Rena, he couldn't be happy.

The reason is simple: Alexis overdoes it.

Deaththorn has set up a total of five nests in the entire Miracle Continent. The first four are located in the four directions of the mainland, and the fifth is the real core headquarters, which is not known to outsiders. Even the inside of Deaththorn except for the real core. Nothing outside of the senior management is clear at all.

The four nests located on the four sides of the mainland are the command centers in their respective regions. All tasks related to the current region will be dispatched and arranged by this nest. Similarly, the entire organization network deployed by Deadthorn is also distributed based on this nest, providing all Deadthorn members with a place to rest, avoid danger, accept tasks, etc., which is equivalent to a safe house. .

Deadthorn Lair in the Northern Continent was originally because of Sean selling the location to the Peace Council, which caused the death thorn to suffer extremely heavy losses. But Deaththorn's loss, that is, this lair was destroyed, and the scheduling of the entire Northern Continent area temporarily lost unity. In addition, the bigger problem is the death of the strong and the leakage of some intelligence. But as far as the network of Deadthorn spreads like roots across the entire northern continent, there is no loss.

In other words, all the safe houses have not been destroyed, and those hidden strongholds are still well preserved-as long as Deadthorn spends some time to rearrange and arrange, the Northern Continent can still be brought under control again.

But now, the situation on the southern continent is different.

All the hidden strongholds were destroyed by Alexis, which is the kind of real uprooting. This is equivalent to saying that the entire intelligence network that Deaththorn has deployed for hundreds of years in the Southern Continent has completely become a thing of the past at this moment-and it is precisely because of this excessive move by Alexis. Let the people of the entire Southern Continent clearly see the terrible thorns of death.

There are more than 500 hidden strongholds that are regarded as safe houses, distributed in more than a dozen countries across the southern continent, and among them there are even high-level personnel from many countries: such as the duke of a certain country, the minister of military affairs, the marquis of a certain country, and the prince of a certain country. Wait, Deadthorn has been added. It is precisely because of the cover of these people that the death thorn can take root and develop in their country and territory, forming a terrible force.

After more than a month of chasing and killing, Alexis took Rena, and the footprints of the two walked almost the entire Southern Continent. Don't talk about the offender. Facing Alexis, the super powerhouse and Rena, the legendary powerhouse who can't be considered in terms of conventional combat power, even those super-class kingdoms with super powerhouses as the town powerhouses are all daring to be angry. I dare not say-of course, the kings of these countries are of course very happy for Alexis to uncover the dead thorns hidden in their countries, but they will not thank Sean for it.

To put it simply, they took the advantage, and the bad guy Shaun was taken.

After this incident, Sean can be said to have completely torn his face with Deaththorn-although there was a contradiction between the two sides, at least the contradiction between Sean and Deaththorn has not reached the level of endless death. It can even be said that by signing The relationship between Sean and Deaththorn eased a bit in the forest's secret agreement. Although Deaththorn turned his head and pitted Sean later, from a standpoint, it is common sense for Deaththorn not to see Shaun's void duchy becoming an empire. At least in terms of hostile assassination operations, Deaththorn is indeed like an agreement. That helped Sean a lot.

And Sean, in addition to really wanting to destroy the fascist kingdom and take away the heritage, he actually just wanted to teach the other party a little lesson about the death thorn, so that the other party should not think that he is the kind of person who can swallow his anger. So simply destroying Deaththorn's nest on the southern continent, although Deaththorn will suffer heavy losses, but at least it will not completely tear the faces of both sides, and will fully realize the danger of Sean.

Results...

Alexis makes Sean's mad dog name completely solid: once Sean gets crazy, he doesn't care about anything.

However, it was completely overwhelmed with Death Thorns. Although Sean found it very tricky, at least he was still in a state of being able to deal with it. After all, before the end of the skeletal invasion, the thorn of death can only grit his teeth, and cannot launch any retaliatory action against Sean during this period. With such a two or three years of buffer time, Sean believes that everything will be stable by then. After it settled down, it would be completely impossible for Deaththorn to execute any high-level assassination plan.

The real problem now lies with the Kingdom of Fascism.

Perhaps it was because Alexis made Sean's mad dog completely real. The Peace Parliament, which originally chose to watch the situation develop out of a rational mentality, suddenly intervened in the Void Duchy and the Kingdom of Ryan and the Kingdom of Fascism. Between the wars.

A team of the Peace Parliament led by five arbitrators has officially set off from the headquarters of the Peace Parliament. This team consists of 30 members-it sounds like there are not many people, but if you know that this team is in addition to In addition to the five arbitrators, the remaining members are the guards including four peace messengers and twenty golden robe executive officers, so the gold content of this team is terribly high.

"This peace talks, I really don't want to go." Sean sighed.

"It's impossible not to go." Elsie shook her head. "The Peace House has already issued a letter of invitation to you, so if you don't participate, the Peace House will formally intervene in this war. You will have to It's not just the Fascist Kingdom, but also the Peace House that stands completely beside the Fascist Kingdom.... Believe me, you would never want to see the situation when the Peace Parliament fully supports a country."

"If they support me." Sean curled his lips, a little angry, "Then I would be happy to comment."

"Unfortunately not." Elsie gave a smirk, "Moreover, the Tianbian invitation letter was actually delivered to you at this time. I guess you will vomit even the border of the annexed Fascist Kingdom and return it to them."

Just two days after Elsie arrived in the Fortress of the Gorges, there was news of the victory of William's frontline.

The Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Frontier Legions of the Fascist Kingdom were completely annihilated. The First Frontier Legion was hit hard, and the Second Frontier Legion was besieged on a plateau, and the destruction was not far away. Moreover, the entire southern line of defense was completely occupied by the coalition forces of William and the Kingdom of Lane. If it weren't for the occupied belly area and the Second Frontier Corps defending and making trouble, William would have continued to march north and formally embarked on aggression.

But now, all these military operations have to be suspended now.

Not only is the suspension, but also some food and medical supplies must be arranged to send some food and medical supplies to the Second Frontier Corps of the Fascist Kingdom to ensure that they will not die during this period because they are not rescued.

And all this stems from the fact that everyone has received a letter of invitation from the Peace Council.

That is the request for peace talks issued by the Tianping House composed of the seven peace saints, the highest decision-making level of the Peace Assembly-all those who receive the Tianping invitation letter must stop all hostile disputes, otherwise they will be regarded as Initiated a declaration of war on the Peace Parliament. Even if Sean is really crazy enough to be invincible in the world and deceitful, it is really a brain drain to provoke the Peace Council after it has officially become an unending hostility with the dead thorn.

What's more, in terms of foundation and strength alone, the Peace Council is stronger than the Deadthorn. The reason why Deadthorn dared to work against the Peace Council was that the Peace Council could not find the base camp of Deadthorn, but Sean's situation was different. Seeing Kristina directly executed the assassination plan, we can see the Peace Council. It is no stranger to assassinating high-level targets or even subverting the regime.

However, Sean knew the true meaning of this invitation letter from the Peace Parliament: The Peace Parliament no longer wanted to see a situation completely out of their control, especially matters related to Sean, so they finally decided to personally intervene in South Korea. The overall situation on the mainland is just like the fact that the Kingdom of Fascism was almost destroyed by the Chenas Empire. The Peace Council also intervened in this way, and ultimately saved the Kingdom of Fascism from being destroyed.

Thinking of the Peace Council always preventing others from destroying the fascist kingdom, Sean always felt that there must be some dirty deal behind it.

On the ruins of Old Vergersburg in the Kingdom of Fascism, the army of the Void Duchy camped here.

A enchanting looking Fox tribe half-orc opened the curtain of a tent, and then said: "Master William, someone is looking for you."

"Look for me?" William frowned, "Who is it?"

The fox half-orc shook his head: "The other party didn't say anything, but he said he was a messenger to deliver the news."

"Messenger?" William's brows deepened. He looked down at the white envelope that had been opened, and then quietly placed it on the table. There was only a golden scale on the envelope, "Please come in."

The fox half-orc nodded, then turned around and got out of the tent. After a while, another person in the adventurer's cloak walked in. He still wears his hood, and there seems to be some strange force field fluctuations on his body. All eyes looking at him seem to fall into the darkness, and he can't really understand his situation, even his gender. Can't tell.

"Who are you?" William asked in a deep voice.

"It doesn't matter who I am." The mysterious visitor said, his voice was high and low. Obviously, his original voice was also distorted through a certain force field. "The important thing is that this time I give Mr. William's proposal... I can assure you, this is definitely the best proposal."

"Oh?" William raised his brows, "Tell me."

In the invisible distortion field, the corner of the mysterious visitor's mouth seemed to be raised slightly, showing a smile, and then slowly speaking.

.....

Almost at the same time, Hela, Harding, and the leaders of several wild tribes in Oasis City, Neil and Diana in Void City, and Clover and Shefranio in the wild fortress all ushered in Such a mysterious visitor wearing an adventurer's hood and cloak, with a peculiar force field twisting around them, makes it impossible to distinguish between men and women. They and Hela, Harding, Neil, Diana, Clover, Chefanio, and the leaders of many wild tribes all made a proposal.

Except for themselves, no third person knows what these people's proposals are.

Because when they enter the room, the powerful force field isolates everything. Even people outside the door cannot hear all the conversations in the room, and even the movement becomes strangely silent. Get up, as if the entire space has been frozen and stagnated.

Perhaps their proposal is very simple, so simple that you can get an answer without much thinking.

So the meeting time between these people and everyone was very short, the longest was no more than five minutes, and then these people opened the door and left. Because the weird force field is distorted, no one knows what the faces of these mysterious visitors look like when they come and when they leave, but those who are guarding the door can see the expressions of their superiors. how is it like.

There is an angry face, a calm smile, and a closed eyes contemplation.

also has a face full of excitement and joy.

Chapter 69: .manner

Wild Fortress, this defensive fortress originally belonging to the Millennium Covenant Empire, has finally changed hands following the invasion of the Bone Plane.

Although Angel is out of the royal family of the Millennium Covenant Empire on the surface, in fact she knows very well that she is the first heir in the throne of the Millennium Covenant Empire. In other words, it is her brother—that is, if the Emperor of the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire dies, she will be the next heir. Even if her brother has offspring in the future, he will still be behind her.

Just, is it possible to have offspring?

Angel shook her head and gave a wry smile.

Today, the most orthodox royal bloodline of the Millennium Covenant Empire is her and her brother.

It is because of this blood bond that cannot be abandoned and forgotten anyway, so even if Angel denies her identity, her heart is still toward the Millennium Covenant Empire. So when she saw the wild fortress being occupied by Sean Dove, her heart was quite complicated to tell the truth—if she could marry Sean, then this aspect would naturally be indifferent, but the key is that Angel has clearly seen Xiao It's impossible to marry her.

Thinking of this, Angel suddenly felt a little sympathetic to Cecilia.

Even she could see Cecilia's feelings for Sean, why couldn't that fellow Shaun see it at all?

Angel suddenly felt that Sean might not be a good husband.

But soon, she fell into distress again.

In fact, Angel wants to find a suitable partner. This idea is not just a random thought. She doesn't mind borrowing, after all, she is not clear about the chaos in the aristocratic circle. If it weren't for her brother who has the identity of a dictator, she might not be spared some things—the high-levels of the Millennium Covenant Empire are not exactly the same. Under the control and grasp of the royal family, there are not few royal family members who have suddenly disappeared in history.

It is this sense of crisis that makes Angel possess such an independent and strong character. In terms of personal strength alone, in fact, even ordinary legendary powerhouses would not be her opponents. Only those truly powerful legendary powerhouses could completely suppress Angel. However, once a legendary powerhouse breaks out in battle within the Millennium Covenant Empire, this kind of power fluctuation cannot be concealed at all. This is the reason why no one has acted on Angel.

Of course, there are many people who play Angel's ideas and ideas.

It's just that Angel came to the Void Principality later. This seemingly terrifying existence of the principality is actually an empire, but not many people can do it on Angel here.

As for the problem of borrowing seeds, what Angel wants is an excellent offspring.

Because this offspring will become the next emperor of the Millennium Covenant Empire.

Angel's brother, the tyrant of the Millennium Covenant Empire, Budris Dern, will not leave an heir. No one knew what kind of darkness was hidden behind the emperor's killing of his brother and his father, and Angel no longer wanted to understand. She only knew that Angel was really taken aback when Budris told her that she and her descendants would become the only bloodline and pillar of the royal family of the Covenant Empire in the next millennium.

Since she was a child, Angel's shoulders have been burdened with such an important task.

Standing on the wall of the fortress, the cold wind whizzed past.

Angel has also become a lot calmer. She hasn't really figured out how to deal with the wild fortress, but she has figured out how to deal with the relationship between herself and Sean. Of course, she also knows the actions of the Void Principality during this period and future plans—even if William, Hela and others have not mentioned these things in front of her before, but Angel's success is not a trace of water, so only through some subtle She already understood something about her actions and arrangements.

"If it were my brother, I would definitely not agree that there is such an empire around me." Angel smiled, "But if it were me...maybe we could find a way to get along with Sean in peace."

"Miss Angel, do you really think so?"

A male voice full of magnetism suddenly sounded without warning.

Angel's face suddenly changed, her muscles tightened instantly, she turned around and looked in the direction of the sound, her right hand was already on the hilt. As long as Angel is willing, she can fully explode her full potential into battle in less than a second—the powerhouse above the golden realm has been able to control herself very well, and will not be surprised by a little bit of surprise or For other reasons, they missed and launched an attack.

It can even be said that after entering the sanctuary, there will be basically no such sudden runaway attacks.

Logically speaking, Angel wouldn't react so intensely even if she heard the sound. But in fact, her reaction was completely different from what a sanctuary powerhouse should have.

"I didn't mean anything." The voice sounded again.

"Heh." The corners of Angel's mouth lifted up, revealing a mocking look, "No malice? Just like you?"

Standing in front of Angel is a mysterious person covered in a cloak.

Under the cover of this cloak, it is impossible to see the opponent's gender and age at all. The hood completely conceals the opponent's entire face, and the only thing that can be seen is the shadow. Rather than saying that this person's figure is thin, it is better to say that this cloak is too huge-this mysterious person's height is at least about 1.9 meters, but the cloak can still completely wrap up his body, completely invisible. Cents.

The only person who can judge gender is probably his magnetic male voice.

But disguising or even changing the voice is not a difficult task for some assassins, so even if she heard her voice, Angel did not rashly believe the other person's true gender. In her opinion, this kind of guy who likes to hide his identity has nothing to believe at all.

"I'm just some safety measures." The other party seemed to have seen the mocking of Angel's mouth, so he added.

However, Angel's mockery is even more obvious, because she has already heard that the other party's voice has no ups and downs at all. It seems that this kind of magnetic voice is also specially produced. Even the voice was deliberately disguised in order to lower the psychological defense of the negotiation target. How could Angel relax her vigilance against such a person, especially when the other party could sneak into such a short distance beside her silently.

Maybe others don't know, but Angel actually maintains a special cold force field within a radius of ten meters around her, so as long as she enters within ten meters of Angel's side, no matter who it is, she will be taken by Angel. Perception. But now, this unidentified guy is standing three meters away from Angel's side, which makes Angel naturally in a completely alert psychology.

"Miss Angel, I really don't have any hostility towards you." The mysterious person also seemed to feel a little helpless, "This time, I'm here to give you a suggestion."

"The Eye of Twisting? The Hand of Shadow? The Dark Curtain Council?" Angel announced a series of organization names.

"What?" The mysterious visitor seemed to be unable to keep up with Angel's deliberate thinking.

"Only these few organizations that fear that the world will not be chaotic can sneak in the shadows and make some conspiracy." Angel sneered, her face became much colder, "I'm sorry, I don't make any suggestions to you. Will be interested."

"Miss Angel, if arbitrary is not doing you any good, you might as well listen to me first..."

This mysterious person didn't seem to want to just give up, but before he could finish speaking, the whole person suddenly slid back and retreated, and opened a full distance of more than 30 meters with Angel. Angel could clearly feel that the other party's aura had changed a little, and seemed to be a little angry, but she soon suppressed this anger by force, and it was obvious that she didn't want to fight Angel here.

"Miss Angel, you will regret today's decision." The mysterious person's tone became cold, but his voice was still full of unspeakable magnetism, just like a bard singing poetry. The seductive tone when people relax.

Angel's mouth raised slightly, and her face still had the mocking look: "Really? I don't think so....If you really cooperate with you people of unknown origin, then I will regret it."

This mysterious person glanced at Angel for the last time, and then there was a sudden twist in the position where his figure stood, and then the whole person seemed to be swallowed by some distorted force field, and the whole person disappeared into Angel in an instant. In front of. But what is strange is that there is no trace of energy fluctuations in the air, not to mention the aura affected by the law, as if all this should be the case.

Angel's brows frowned: "Projection? But if it was a projection, there was no reason to sense my murderous intention just now... But if it wasn't a projection, why would there be no energy fluctuations? Also, the other party was obviously not coming at me. Otherwise, I won't say to give me a proposal. This obviously should be a targeted action.... Then, Sean's situation does not seem to be very good..."

Angel's gaze could not help but look at a building in the fortress.

This is a five-story house. It is one of the few non-military buildings in the fortress that exceeds three stories high. However, this building has now been requisitioned by the Cecilia Guards, and Clover has arranged a total of more than three thousand troops here, and arranged a very strict defensive circle around the entire building. Just because Cecilia exhausted her magic power and energy during the last fight against the Skeleton Wizards, she fell into a coma, so Clover seemed particularly nervous.

Outside a room on the fourth floor of this building, there are standing four very burly and sturdy men.

Their duty is to guard the room behind them. Except for a few very special people, once others approach the door and are warned to be invalid, they have the right to kill them directly.

At this time, in the room, Cecilia was lying with her eyes closed.

Her face is not pale, on the contrary, she glows with a ruddy luster, and she does not seem to be in a drowsiness at all. But only those one meter close to her can feel that the extremely terrifying heat wave emanating from her, basically no one except the sanctuary powerhouse can get close to Cecilia's side.

And the reason why the whole room was not burnt down by the high-temperature force emanating from Cecilia was because Xuefanio was supporting it by performing magical skills.

Hitley has helped Cecilia check it again, and just left after confirming that everything is normal for Cecilia.

There are only two people in this room, Xuefanio and Clover.

"I heard that you met someone recently?" Xuefanio recharged the divine art in the room, stabilizing the structure of the whole divine art, and then looked at Clover and said in a deep voice, "The other party is looking for you. What are you doing?"

"It doesn't seem to be your business, right?" Clover looked back at Xuefanio and said lightly.

"It's none of my business." Xuefanio nodded, "However, this is related to the entire principality."

"Oh?" Clover raised his eyebrows. "I heard that you Snow and Winter Church and Lord Sean seem to have a contract agreement with God?"

"Who said that?" Xuefanio asked rhetorically.

"Rumors."

"Unexpectedly, you would believe the rumors." Xuefanio's voice was calm, but the meaning in the words was somewhat teasing. "To be honest, I don't care what the mysterious person said to you, either. I don't care what you said to the other person, but I think you should understand that at this moment, without Miss Cecilia's awakening, what will happen to your decision."

Klov was silent, but silently looked at Cecilia who was sleeping.

All vital signs are normal, which proves that Cecilia is not in any way harmful, but on the contrary, she just stays in a drowsy state and does not know when she will wake up. Hitley said that this was a sign of the awakening of the Phoenix blood in Cecilia's body. It was a good thing. As long as Cecilia was awakened, she would definitely be able to cross the boundaries of the law and become a true legendary powerhouse.

But Clover, looking at Cecilia like this, there was a depressive aura in his heart that he couldn't even explain.

"What you want Miss Cecilia most." Xuefanio said lightly, "I hope you don't do anything to disappoint her."

"Say you really want to know what's going on."

"I know." Xuefanio said, "Because the other party is also looking for me."

"Huh?" Clough was really surprised this time.

"In the entire wild fortress, as far as I know, the other party found you and me at the same time, and the others didn't seem to know about it." Xuefanio looked at Clover and said with a serious expression. "You don't have to ask how I know, I can sense it. Although I don't know what the other party said to you, but the other party's proposal to me can provide at least one hundred thousand copies of the essence of faith. The condition is, Let all the priests of my church get out of a battle when they are instructed."

One hundred thousand quintessential beliefs, this is the divine power gathered by the most pious and faithful, enough to make the current goddess of ice and snow and winter become a real high * in one fell swoop. It may not be at the same level as the * of dawn and the goddess of life, but it is definitely not inferior to the * of war or other higher gods.

"Did you agree?" Clover asked.

"I have tried other people in the fortress. Apart from you, there is no third person who has received these mysterious people." Xuefanio did not answer directly, but continued to speak, "Obviously, the other party is investigating. And planned. So even if they didn't clearly state the specific actions and plans, it's clear that this was an action against the Void Principality, or against Sean."

Clough was silent for a long time, and then he said: "I know... I know what the other party proposed. Some of Sean's actions have caused dissatisfaction among many people, but you have I never thought that this might not be the behavior of a force, organization, or country, but..."

"So what?" Xuefanio said faintly, "Regardless of whether the enemy is an individual, a group, or an alliance, what about it? I only know that if there is no Sean, there will be no ice and snow right now. The Winter Church will not have the current Void Principality...I like the Void Principality now, and I also like the people I know now. Because of this, I will stand here and talk to you about this, instead of...killing you."

Clough fell into silence again.

He knew that what Xuefanio said was the truth.

Because of the fact, he felt even more breathless.

Now in the wild fortress, the strongest person deserves to be Xuefanio. As long as she is there, unless the super power comes in person, it is impossible to win Xuefanio in a frontal battle. Not to mention, in addition to Xuefanio, there are two outstanding legendary powerhouses, Levi and Alyssa. In terms of high-end force, there are no highly targeted actions and a certain degree of high-end warfare. If it is strong, it is impossible to win the wild fortress.

"Think carefully about yourself." Xuefanio said lightly, "I hope you don't ignore Miss Cecilia's thoughts when you consider things...Of course, I hope you don't make any stupid mistakes, William. The Void Realm trained with Hela is no longer a display. Maybe what you and I say will soon appear on Hela, William, or even Sean's desktop."

"It seems that you refused." Cloff let out a soft breath, then smiled.

"No." Xuefanio shook his head, "I killed the opponent, not my hand, but... the goddess."

This time, Clover really felt the shock.

Chapter 70: .Get off the horse

The time and place of the peace talks have already been decided.

It was unilaterally decided by the Peace Council, and there was no room for other people to choose. This extremely powerful move seemed normal to the average person. Whether it was the Kingdom of Fascism, the Kingdom of Lane, or even William, they all felt it was normal, because The Peace Parliament has always done this. Only Sean felt unusually unhappy, but if it were not for certain considerations, Sean would not like to participate in the peace talks at all.

Of course, there is another reason that makes Sean unhappy, that is, the Peace Council did not restrict military operations in the Robert District, Nadalaf District, and Birmingham District. Therefore, the troops from these three regions are still pushing on the wild land, but not as aggressive as before, but with some tentative meaning-testing the attitude of the peace council, testing the defensive power of the void Principality, Test the determination of other countries and so on.

Sean is very clear about what is going on. It is nothing more than the Peace Parliament intends to use this trouble to speed up the peace talks process and their advantages in the peace talks.

But what followed was the corner of Sean's slightly raised mouth.

"What's the matter?" William looked at Sean, a little puzzled, "Why are you smirking all of a sudden?"

"Think of something very interesting." Although Sean didn't laugh out loud, the smile on his face couldn't hide it. "You said before that a mysterious person visited you?"

"En." William nodded, "The other party is not an ordinary person, it is interesting to be able to hide the perception of Kozilek and Ulamog."

"Twisted cloak," Sean said.

"what?"

"The cloak they were wearing was not a normal thing, but a specially made product, called the Twisted Cloak." Sean explained, "This thing is the iconic product of the Twisted Eye, and its effect is It shields all perceptions, at the same time it can create distorted illusions, and it also has the ability of short-distance random transmission.... However, few people know that the distorted eye was actually wiped out by the Peace Council long ago, and of course these twisted cloaks will also fall. It's in the hands of the Peace Council."

Hearing Sean's words, William raised his brows, and his eyes suddenly appeared.

"Understood?" Sean laughed.

William also nodded with a smile: "Understood.... It seems that the current situation of the Peace Council is not very good."

"The current peace parliament is no longer the peace parliament of the chaotic era. More and more people no longer agree with their ideas, nor are they satisfied with their overbearing and arrogant practices, so resistance and struggle are naturally indispensable." Shaun was indifferent. Said, the tone and demeanor were very calm, but it was this calm that made Xiao En's behavior a bit subtle, "He has experienced three major injuries, including the exploration of the plane, the battle of breaking the wall, and the encirclement and suppression of various countries. The remaining high-end combat power of the Peace Council itself will not be much. I did not expect that it will be weakened again due to the influence of civil strife... Ha ha, human beings."

William just listened to Sean's mutter quietly, and did not ask anything.

He always felt that Sean must be from an ancient inheritance family, and the family history must be traced back to the sanctuary or even the twilight age, and there were Noro, Alexis, Kozile, and Ulamog successively. The appearance of others strengthened William's recognition of this impression, so he was not surprised that Shaun knew these secret things.

Of course, William is not interested in these secrets.

He cares about one thing instead.

"How did you know that there was a disturbance in the Peace Council?"

"It was before." Shaun corrected. "When I sighed in the forest before, Christina and her teammates were in a bad condition. And this time, although the Peace Council arranged peace talks, according to their previous attitudes and practices, Shouldn't it be done directly on us?"

"Perhaps because of Christina." William knew of the contract agreement between the Peace Council and Sean. "After all, if you say, then Christina's potential is definitely worth the Peace Council investment."

"That's right." Xiao En nodded and said seriously, "There are indeed considerations in this regard, but their behavior is still too strange."

"I don't think it's weird." William said after serious consideration, "The Peace Council does not want the power structure of Miracle Continent to change, because this change is not good for them, and it does not conform to their ideas. , It will lead to many new disputes. This is not peace at all. But... what if our newly established void empire becomes the puppet regime of the Peace Council?"

"Haha." William didn't say the words too clearly, but Sean already understood and couldn't help but let out a sneer.

At this moment, William and Sean are sitting in a carriage, rushing to the peace talks in the row of the Peace Parliament.

The original invitation letter to the Peace Council will have a preparation time of almost one to two months. However, with the advent of the teleportation magic circle, many long-distance rushes can be omitted. As long as there is enough money and the main body is not damaged, many of them originally need to go for two or three months. The journey of time, now it only takes two or three days to arrive.

Of course, if it is in the suburbs, then it is an exception.

Temporary invitation letter from the Peace Council, the place to be discussed was placed in a manor near the border of the Fascist Kingdom.

This is a private estate in the realm of a baron in the Kingdom of Fascism, but the baron has already died in the battle with the Void Duchy. It is a pity that the title of the baron on the ground is not hereditary, so this realm is in the baron. After his death in the war, he was naturally recovered by the Fascist Kingdom. However, because it was a wartime, naturally no one would really come to reclaim this territory, and immediately after the Peace Council intervened, this territory was taken out as a negotiation site.

The number of people who followed Sean and William was not many, only five.

But in terms of combat power, it can be said to be more valuable than the team sent by the Peace Council.

Alexis, Ulamog, Kozilek, as well as Elsie with the addition of the three artifacts and Rina, who also has special artifacts.

Counting Sean, whose personal combat power is equally terrifying, it can be said that apart from William, who is a weak chicken, several other people have the ability to cause a terrorist disturbance in this world. Especially the three super powers have the power to challenge the entire fascist kingdom-if these three are allowed to do it at the same time, in fact, the war basically does not need to be fought. Sean asked William to bring Ulama and Kozilek was just for the sake of safety.

After all, the fascist kingdom dared to challenge the Chenas Empire back then, how could it really have no background?

In Sean's view, there is at least one super power in the Fascist Kingdom.

But now, the Peace Council forced a hand in, but it gave Sean a chance to call all the three of Alexis.

Nolo was also transferred from the wild fortress to Hela, the purpose is to prevent the coalition forces in the other three areas from suddenly crushing the territory-as long as there is Noro, Ulamo and others can support Hela at any time. On the side of the Wild Fortress, Elsie's Darkmoon Gun has also rushed over. Basically, as long as it is not for Rek and others, it is unlikely that the Wild Fortress will be lost.

Soon, Xiao En and others have arrived at the manor.

The manor is not guarded. Perhaps because of the outbreak of the war and the death of the baron, the manor looks a little deserted.

Looking at the deserted manor while trying to present a scene of prosperity and prosperity, Xiao En's face showed a look of disdain: "It's really hypocritical."

"Perhaps, in their opinion, they are determined to win this time." William seemed very calm, neither disdainful nor angry, "From the perspective of the winner, there is nothing wrong with this arrangement. After all, As a winner, you always need to show some tolerance."

With the arrival of Xiao En and others, people in the manor also greeted them one after another, including some of Xiao En's old acquaintances.

Since the Peace Council initiated the notice, all the people who received the invitation letter from Tianping began to rush over.

The delegation of the Fascist Kingdom and the negotiating group of the Peace Council were the first to arrive, so some arrangements and decorations were made for the manor. After all, in name, they are also the host, so it is natural to make some arrangements and arrangements for the manor, even if it is still wartime-perhaps in the eyes of the people of the Fascist Kingdom, there is a peace council backed by this. It's impossible to lose the second negotiation.

Followed by the coalition forces from the Kingdom of Lane.

This time it was actually the third prince Arlan who came in person, accompanied by the old Hatch Boulder, Duke of Tequila, Kos Hopson, Duke of Black Mandala, and Florence Wyl, the Marquis of Rome. Si-these are old acquaintances of Sean. As for the other people, Sean didn't know him, but looking at the aura displayed on those guys, it is estimated that they are not nobles, they should be guards.

However, Sean was a little surprised, but it was Alexis who took Rena to say hello to an elf woman. And when the elf woman saw Alexis, she obviously didn't want to take care of it, but facing the strength of Alexis, she really couldn't stand it.

"Grand Duke Sean, long time no see." Arlan stepped forward and greeted Sean.

"His Royal Highness Arlan, long time no see." Sean also responded with a smile, "Unexpectedly, it was His Highness Arlan who came to the negotiation meeting in person."

"It's just worrying about the country's share." Arlan also said with a smile, a bit of estrangement in a polite manner.

Of course, Sean could hear Arlan's attitude, and looking at Arlan's current situation, I'm afraid this meeting should be the last thing he handled as a prince. After returning home, he should take over the crown of the king of the Kingdom of Ryan. In this way, as the nominal suzerain of the Void Principality, watching Void Principality separate from control and independence, and it is actually an empire standard, if Arlan's attitude is very affectionate, then it is really a problem.

Seeing Arlan's attitude, Sean knew that there was no need to count on Lane Kingdom for this meeting.

Before, when they jointly attacked the Fascist Kingdom, the Kingdom of Ryan certainly didn't mind intervening because there was a profit to take. But now that the Peace Council has intervened, it is obviously impossible to have any benefits at all, so Arlan, who represents the Kingdom of Lane, naturally wants to separate the Kingdom of Lane from the whirlpool of this war.

Sean glanced at several old acquaintances. Both the old Duke of Hatch and Kose showed a somewhat apologetic look. Only Florence, with extreme dissatisfaction with Arlan flowing in his eyes. Needless to say, Sean also knows what Arlan said to these people, nothing more than "for Ryan's sake" or something like that.

It's just...

Shaun's gaze stayed on Florence for an extra second.

Not long, a few servants walked towards Sean.

"Excuse me, is it Sir Sean?" asked a person who seemed to be the maid.

"Yes." Sean nodded.

"Please come with me, Master Azik is already waiting for you." The maid said.

Sean raised his brows: "Aren't you going to let us rest?"

"I'm sorry, Master Azik has ordered that as long as Master Shaun arrives, I will invite you to the meeting room." The maid said softly, "I don't know the specific situation. I just came to meet Xiao as instructed. Lord, you."

Sean and William looked at each other, and instantly understood the meaning in each other's eyes: dismissing the horse.

"This Azik is..."

"The chief arbitrator of the Peace Council's peace talks team." Arlan on the side said, "This guy, give everyone a good idea.... It's just that it's not as straightforward as you are here."

When he said this, Arlan clearly meant something.

Xiao En smiled, did not answer the conversation, but after looking at each other with William, he nodded to the maid, and motioned to her to lead the way.

Soon, everyone was taken to a conference room.

This meeting room was obviously rebuilt temporarily. Two rooms are connected in series. There are several square tables in the room. These square tables are put together to form a long table. The representatives of the Peace Council and the Fascist Kingdom are already sitting on the side of the long table. The number is quite large, there are ten people. In addition to the five arbitrators of the Peace Assembly, the other five are obviously representatives from the fascist kingdom mission.

On the opposite side of the long table, there are five chairs. Obviously, only five people are allowed to negotiate.

The corners of Sean's mouth raised slightly, revealing a smile that was not a smile.

Undoubtedly, this is yet another stepping stone to the Peace Parliament.

Arlan obviously did not expect this situation. When he saw that there were only five chairs, he was taken aback, but soon he said as if he had made some decision: "Just trouble the Duke of Tequila to accompany me. Let's go in together, and the others will go to rest first."

Regarding Arlan's words, the others did nothing, but Florence's eyes flashed with unwillingness, especially when he looked at a blond man represented by the fascist kingdom's mission, the color of resentment on his face became more obvious. . It's a pity that this man ignored Florence at all, closed his eyes and meditation, and seemed to ignore all the conditions of the outside world.

Don't even think about it. This person is obviously the Patriarch of the Wiles Family in the Fascist Kingdom and the initiator of several previous conspiracies against the Void Duchy, Turin Wiles.

Sean's eyes narrowed slightly, and there was a dangerous look in his eyes.

But at this time, he didn't say anything, but walked into the conference room on his own, followed by William, Elsie, Rena, Alexis, Ulamur, and Kozilek. Et al. Originally, Diana should be responsible for this kind of negotiation meeting, but Sean was obviously out of some personal considerations, so he came in person, and Elsie came to accompany him in idle time.

It's just that Sean has so many people swaggering in, which completely does not meet the definition of dismissal by the Peace Council.

So Elsie and the others who followed William were not unexpectedly stopped by several guards.

"This is the conference room of the Tianping Conference. Irrelevant persons are prohibited from entering." Several guards stopped Elsie and others with a strong attitude.

"What is an unrelated person?" Xiao En also stopped and said coldly.

He knew that the Peace Council was not at ease this time, but he never thought of following the script of the Peace Council. Since the other party wants to give him a good start, then of course he has to be prepared for Sean to fight back. He is not the type that is stomped on his face and smiles and admits his mistakes.

"The guard is an unrelated person." The guard raised his head proudly and said.

He looked a bit like he was despising Sean.

"Which one of your dogs saw that they were guarding?" Shaun glanced at the other side, then turned to look at the people in the Peace Council, "This is your attitude?"

"I think this chief guard is right." The chief arbitrator who was sitting in the middle of more than half a century said, "This time we are discussing about the Libra Conference that caused the war in the Southern Continent. It's really not suitable for nothing to do. Critical outsiders enter."

"Then why can these watchdogs stand here?" Sean glanced around and sneered.

"These are the guards of the meeting and are responsible for the security of the meeting room." A middle-aged man from the Fascist Kingdom said in a deep voice. He was sitting next to the arbitrator who had just spoken. Obviously, his status was not low, if Sean had not guessed wrong. It should be the head of the fascist kingdom mission this time.

"I don't worry about your guards." Xiao En said lightly, "Or, let's test the security of this conference room?... I don't want to bully you, just let Rina come, in this room All the guards go together, as long as I can stop Rina, I will not pursue these issues."

"Joke, Grand Duke Sean, what is the strength of Rina Wu Ji under your command, don't we still know?" This middle-aged man from the Fascist Kingdom sneered. , Not afraid of damaging the image."

"You all know that they are in the Silver Realm, so you dare to say something to protect the safety of the conference room, your mind is flooded?" Sean said coldly.

"you....."

"There are also the guards of our Peace Council on the periphery. All Grand Duke Sean can rest assured." The arbitrator who should be Azik said in a deep voice.

"Since you have the guards of the Peace Council, what do you want these wastes for?" Sean glanced around again, "Don't hurry up and let these idiots get out? Isn't it embarrassing to stand here? Or, you are testing me. patience?"

"here is....."

"Let them go out." Azik glanced at Sean, then said in a deep voice.

The middle-aged man from the fascist kingdom seemed to want to say something, but in the end he did not speak, but waved his hand to signal the guards in the conference room to leave. Sean snorted coldly, then turned his head to look at the maid, and said, "There are still four chairs missing. You can find four more chairs."

In the conference room, the representatives of the Kingdom of Lane and the Duchy of Void are divided into five positions.

Now Arlan and Hatch Boulder in the Kingdom of Lane occupy two positions, and there are three more positions, but Sean has asked for four more positions, obviously intending to arrange all of Rena and others in. There was no difference at all from the previous situation. Azik's face sank immediately and he was particularly dissatisfied, but before he could speak, the middle-aged man from the Fascist Kingdom had already patted the table and stood up.

"Shaun, don't go too far!"

"Excessive?" Xiao En raised his eyebrows and smiled, "Why am I going too far? I brought six people over, and now there are fewer chairs, of course I asked for additional ones. Or, you don't want to make peace with me at all?... ...If you don't want to have a peace talk, it's okay, we'll go back now and continue to fight."

"Grand Duke Shaun, I think I have already made it clear just now that people who are not involved in the meeting must leave." Azik said again, "Since you think the guards arranged by the delegations of the Fascist Kingdom are also Irrelevant personnel, I have indeed met your request and invited them out. So now, do you have to abide by this tacit agreement?"

"I will comply." Xiao En nodded, "irrelevant personnel are not allowed to enter.... But when did I say that they are irrelevant personnel?"

Azik's eyes condensed, and the aura of the whole person was completely exuded-not the aura of a strong man, but the aura of a superior man like William. Judging from this point, it can be proved that this is definitely a long-standing and very strong arbitrator. Both age and seniority are obviously not ordinary.

"Grand Duke Shaun, I hope you know what you are doing."

"Of course I know, I'm invited to the Libra Conference." Sean shrugged, with a weird smile on his face, "However, I'm very curious. Your Excellency Azik, do you know what you are doing? "

Azik and Sean looked at each other for a few seconds, and then Azik said, "Sit down."

"Master Azik!" Several members of the Fascist Kingdom's mission were immediately anxious.

"You can too." Azik said lightly, "Go and invite a few envoys to come in and discuss together."

Hearing Azik's words, Sean's eyes narrowed slightly, but he didn't say anything, but chose to take his seat.
