Chapter 361

Chapter 361 I Also Want to See Him

Bradshaw, upon confirming that Robin was not on the tavern's seating list, began to cough violently in a moment of excitement.

Suddenly, his legs gave out and he rolled his eyes back, falling to one side.

Jacob quickly embraced him, "Grandpa, what... what happened? How did you start laughing and then suddenly have a laughing fit?"

Miranda was terrified.

Grandpa certainly couldn't die at the Finley family's celebration!

Otherwise, the Finley family would definitely have taken action against the Brown family.

I mustn't die until I get my hands on the Brown family!

Seeing this scene, Raymond quickly took out his special tools and stabbed them into Bradshaw's vital body parts.

Five minutes later, Bradshaw finally recovered, "Cough, cough, thank you Mr. Powers, thank you Mr. Powers. I was just too happy, too excited, that... that I couldn't catch my breath for a moment."

Raymond shook his head, "Mr. Brown, given your current condition, you must keep your emotions stable, otherwise, you could pass away at any moment..."

Chapter 361 LAlse Want to See Him

Bradshaw's face slowly turned red.

He held Raymond's hand, took a deep breath, "Mr. Powers, I know, I will take care of my body."

"I did know someone named Robin, however, he was certainly not the extraordinary person you're talking about!"

"When I was young. I knew a friend with whom I had spent some time."

"That time, when I was drinking with him, I made a joke and arranged a child marriage for my granddaughter."

"Back then, both Miranda and that child hadn't been born yet."

"Later, that friend, possibly due to a decline in family fortunes, disappeared for decades without any contact."

"Unexpectedly, his grandson came over now to have our family fulfill the marriage agreement."

"Mr. Powers, think about it, the Brown family, no matter what, had some standing in Hallcester now."

"How could we possibly fulfill that marriage engagement again?"

"Didn't we treat our Miranda too unfairly?"

Looking back, the marriage agreement made at the dinner table that year was nothing more than a joke.

Raymond then asked, "What happened next, Mr. Brown, did the young man agree to the divorce from the Brown family?"

Chapter 361 LAlse Want to See Him

“Accepted! That lad didn’t fuss about anything and smoothly called off the engagement.”

“Just a poor man of low status, he wouldn’t dare to make a fuss. So what if he withdrew? Even if he didn’t want to, what could he do?”

“Oh, right, this kid was also named Robin.”

Raymond laughed, “What a coincidence?”

“Mr. Brown, was the reason for your excitement just now because of this?”

“Did you think that Master Bruce was the young man engaged to someone in your family?”

“If that was indeed the case, were you worried that Master Bruce would hold a grudge and not treat you?”

Bradshaw shook his head with a smile. “Even so, that kid will surely heal me!”

“Mr. Powers, do you know why? That boy, after seeing my granddaughter, was so infatuated he was about to go crazy!”

“He would have been willing to die if my granddaughter had just said a word.”

Raymond glanced at Miranda, nodding with a smile, “Hmm, this age, indeed, doesn’t quite meet Master Bruce’s criteria.”

Bradshaw nodded, “There are many people with the same name, but those who are praised and willing to be mentored by a medical giant like

Chapter 361 Lalse Want to See Him

Mr. Baker must be a miraculous healer.”

“To achieve that level of cultivation, one would have been at least seventy years old.”

“I really wished I could see Master Bruce today.”

Raymond was also full of anticipation, “Mr. Brown, not just you, I was also very eager to meet Master Bruce.”

“My master, Mr. Baker, was already the pinnacle figure in the Londraland traditional medicine community.”

“Up until now. aside from Mr. Holt who had long since retired from the scene, there was not a single person who could make Mr. Baker admire. them wholeheartedly.”

“Last time, I had the privilege of listening to my mentor, Mr. Baker, talk about Master Bruce. He was simply a legendary figure!”

“There was no disease in the world that Master Bruce couldn’t cure! I dreamed of meeting him!”

“As long as I could have the fortune to hear a piece of advice from Master Bruce, I would have no regrets in this life!”

Bradshaw was also so excited that his whole body was shaking.

As long as he could receive treatment from Master Bruce, he would be able to continue living.

A few days ago, I heard some rumors.

Not only was Mr. Donovan snatched back from the hands of death by Chapter 361 Also Want to See Him.

Master Bruce.

Moreover, that Master Bruce had also extended Mr. Donovan's life by 20 years!

Bradshaw was excited just thinking about it.

How many of my own life's ambitions had not been realized.

He wanted to bring the Brown family into the top-tier society of Hallcester.

Still dreamed of one day being able to move into Mauveglow Villas.

Even moving into the lowest-grade District 3 would be fine!

Wished even more for a day when I could host a luxurious birthday feast like Mr. Donovan's.

Bradshaw looked up at the sky and let out a long sigh, "I really wish I could live for another 100 years!"

Master Bruce, I had to find you!

Bradshaw clenched his fists, praying incessantly in his heart.

Even if it meant kneeling before Master Bruce, offering up all of the Brown family's assets.

Even offered his own granddaughter Miranda, to let her kick Jacob.

He was willing to exchange his own life for another 30 years.

"Mr. Brown, long time no see, you look much better today."

Nathen came from behind, laughing, with Shawn and his daughter Elsie following him.

Bradshaw immediately extended his hand and bowed slightly, "Mr. Reynell, hello, hello! Thank you for your kind words."

Nathen smiled gently, "Mr. Brown, I heard from Miranda that you went abroad for treatment a few days ago. It seems like it must have been quite effective!"

"Uh... It's okay, I guess." Bradshaw nodded, "But it still doesn't completely solve the problem."

"I hoped to see the legendary Master Bruce at the banquet today."

"If I could have been treated by Master Bruce, my chronic illness would have been completely cured."

Nathen nodded, "I have heard of this master, but, it's quite difficult to meet him."

"Mr. Brown, I believe you must have waited for it."

Bradshaw nodded excitedly, exchanging pleasantries with Shawn as they shook hands.

Nathen nodded slightly to Jacob and Miranda, pointing to Elsie beside him, "Let me introduce you, this is my girlfriend Elsie, who just returned from abroad, graduated from Millbush Business School."

Elsie shook hands with Miranda proudly, "Miranda, I heard you and Mr. Walsh are having an engagement ceremony tomorrow?"

Miranda nodded with a smile, immediately taking out the invitation, "Ms. Sherman, we are hosting an engagement ceremony at Mauveglow Villa 1 tomorrow. We would be honored if you and Mr. Reynell could attend."

"Sure, Mr. Reynell and I will definitely come to share your joy," Elsie said, laughing as she linked arms with Miranda. "You guys are amazing, being able to hold an engagement ceremony in that area, it's so enviable."

"I heard that the mansion belonged to a mysterious big shot. How did you get to know him?"

Miranda laughed proudly, "Oh, he and I are close friends. However, he doesn't like to socialize with ordinary people."

"He said, I could use this villa however I wanted, even if I lived in it for the rest of my life, it would be fine."

Elsie admired, "Miranda, you're really amazing. Could you introduce me when you get a chance?"

Miranda hesitated for a moment, "Well, okay, but we need to wait for the right time. That big shot is very busy. When the time comes, I'll arrange it and then contact you."

Elsie excitedly held Miranda's hand, "Miranda, you are really great!"

"Ah, I just heard, that man Robin, the one you were previously engaged. to, he also came today."

"I just saw him with Karina at the door."

Miranda sneered, "That loser, huh, always showing off under the protection of the Huber family, just trying to meet more people in our high society, isn't he?"

"Elsie, Mr. Reynell, take a look at this seating card. At this banquet, there isn't even a place for him, Robin. What a joke!"

Nathen flicked his head nonchalantly, "Indeed, he is nothing but a big joke in Hallcester."

"Oh, speaking of the devil, look at the joke coming over," he pointed at Karina and Robin, laughing mockingly.

A few people in front of the sign all looked towards Robin, Karina, Cecilia and others who were walking towards them.

Raymond, facing the sunlight, looked at the dazzling Robin under the sunlight, his heart skipped a beat.

Seemed like I had seen this figure somewhere before?

Remembered, once at Master Blaine's, accidentally saw a silhouette in a photo.

Blaine told him, it was that Master Bruce.

It's just a pity that Master Bruce's true face couldn't be seen in this photo..

"Master Bruce?"

For a moment, Raymond was somewhat bewildered.

"What does it mean?" Bradshaw asked, puzzled.

Pointing at the approaching Robin, Raymond asked, "Mr. Brown, are you sure this is the Robin that your daughter Miranda broke off the engagement with?"

Bradshaw sneered. "If not him, then who?"

"This boy, he really went to great lengths to win my granddaughter's heart!"

"No one knew what means he used to get close to Ms. Huber."

No wonder, Ms. Huber grew up under multiple layers of protection since childhood, she didn't understand the ways of the world or know people.

"She kept Robin by her side, for the times when she would cry in the future."

"This Robin, he wanted to rely on the Huber family to settle down in Hallcester."

"Mr. Powers, do you know why he chose to stay in Hallcester?" Miranda asked with a sneer.

"Wasn't he just trying to get close to me, to prove himself to me? I really felt sorry for him, his infatuation with me was too deep!"

In the midst of conversation, Karina and Robin and others came over.

“Ms. Huber, your long skirt is quite beautiful today.” Nathen waved to Karina.

Karina treated him like he was invisible, not even glancing at Nathen once.

Nathen shrugged self-deprecatingly, “Ms. Huber, I know you’ve been provoked into having prejudices against me, but I’ve always cared about you.”

“I recently observed the progress of your Eastern District Development Corporation’s EBD project.”

“It seemed that the partner of the Eastern District investment project had a major problem.”

“I heard that these investors wanted to negotiate with you about changing the contract.”

“This was not a good thing at all! Hehe...” Only

Chapter 363 Damn Bitch

Nathen gave a self-deprecating laugh when he saw that Karina and Robin were ignoring him.

“If all 50 partner investors of the Eastern Business District had severed ties with the Huber Group, the trillion-dollar investment of the Eastern District Development Corporation might have been completely stranded.”

“In a short period of time, it was probably impossible to raise such a large amount of capital to enter the Eastern Business District.”

“From what I understood, the Huber Group’s financial chain was really tight, if it broke, the Huber family might not have made it through the year!”

Karina stopped in her tracks, coldly saying, “The matters of the Huber family, you need not concern yourself with!”

“A lowly small family, who rose to their current level through despicable means, had no right to dictate to the Huber family!”

“How dare you speak like that?” Elsie, completely different from her timid and trembling demeanor yesterday, stormed up to Karina in anger.

“It was rumored that the young lady of the Huber family was a goddess- like figure in Hallcester. Today, upon meeting her, it turns out she has no manners!”

Karina frowned slightly, disdainful of the ranting of such a lowly

Woman.

He was even too lazy to talk to her, turning around to leave.

Elsie saw Karina ignoring her, blocking her way, “I told you, I am now Mr. Reynell’s girlfriend.”

Nathen also said with a smile, “Let me introduce, Elsie is my girlfriend. She is the daughter of Shawn, the former second largest shareholder of the Huber Group. She just returned to the country last week and graduated from Millbush Business School in Potrya. She is also your alumni.”

Karina didn’t want to deal with Nathen anymore, she bypassed them and walked ahead with Robin.

Elsie thought of the scene at the barbecue restaurant the night before last, and was filled with anger.

With a swift stride, he rushed in front of Robin and Karina, “Stop right there!”

“You didn’t want to talk to me, were you worried that this loser beside you would be despised in such an occasion today?”

“Yesterday, I thought he was the heir of some wealthy family. Today, I found out he’s just a no-good bum!”

As Elsie’s words fell, the atmosphere around instantly turned cold.

Robin gave a cold laugh, "It seems that the lesson I gave you that day wasn't enough!"

Before the words had even fallen, a slap landed on Elsie's tender face, "Bitch, you dare to provoke me!"

Robin's actions immediately drew astonished gazes from those around him.

"Did this person have a death wish, starting a fight at Mr. Donovan's party?"

"That woman seemed to be Mr. Reynell's girlfriend. Who on earth would dare to hit her?"

The smile on Nathen's face suddenly froze.

Even though he was with Elsie, it was just for show.

However, Elsie appeared here today as his girlfriend.

Robin hit Elsie, which was equivalent to slapping Nathen in the face.

He stepped forward, saying coldly, "Robin, aren't you afraid that Mr. Donovan will throw you out for causing trouble here?"

Robin laughed, "Carrots worry for nothing!"

Nathen was so angry that his face turned pale, pointing at Robin for a long time without knowing what to say.

Robin gave a nonchalant smile, "You mean, you're going to stand up for that bitch after I hit her?"

“Say it again, believe it or not, I’ll have both of you husband and wife down on the ground?” Robin said with a smirk.

Nathen watched as Robin nonchalantly wiped his palms with a wet wipe, and he didn’t dare to speak anymore.

He had experienced the kind of person Robin was.

Never played by the rules.

Also never adhered to the so-called upper-class social rules.

They resorted to violence at the slightest disagreement.

At that time, the scene where Deandre was defeated by Robin on the spot was still fresh in Nathen’s memory.

This was quite a tough character.

Nathen certainly didn’t want to be slapped away by Robin in front of many celebrities in Hashville at the Finley family’s banquet.

That was too much of a loss of face.

“Alright, alright, I won’t argue with you, we’ll see!” Nathen shrugged and walked over to help Elsie up.

Elsie covered her face and began to cry, “Dad, he... he’s gone too far!”

At that moment, Shawn could no longer contain his anger, “Karina, I know Robin is a dog you’ve raised...”

“Mr. Huber?” Shawn was momentarily dazed, trembling all over in fright.

“Mr. Huber, are you even worthy to call Mr. Huber, you beast!”

Shawn, accustomed to his past actions, hastily bowed and said, “Mr. Huber, I...”

At this point. Shawn suddenly stopped.

He slowly straightened up. his eyes flashing with icy coldness: “Harold, I’m no longer a part of the Huber Group. What right do you have to treat me like this?”

Harold’s hand once again slapped Shawn’s face: “You’re not qualified to bluster in front of me!”

“Shawn, I warned you, if you dare to be presumptuous again, I, Harold, will definitely take action to erase the Sherman family from Hallcester!”

“Don’t think that just because you ganged up on Karina at the board meeting a few days ago, and I didn’t do anything, that I, Harold, have retired behind the scenes and become soft-hearted and forgiving!”

“I told you, I was a fierce tiger back in the day, even now that I’m old. I’m still a man-eating king!”

“Mr. Bruce, Mr. Huber, Karina, you all have arrived,” Nia briskly walked from the tavern’s hall.

Today, she wasn’t wearing her uniform, but had changed into a brightly colored long skirt.

The long hair that was once coiled up, had also fallen down.

A dazzling ray of sunlight shone diagonally on her beautiful face.

Her beauty stunned the entire room.

This dash of beauty, shocking to the mundane world, instantly attracted the attention of numerous wealthy and distinguished guests.

“Whose young lady was this?”

“You are truly ignorant, she is Mr. Donovan’s granddaughter, Mr. Ethen’s daughter, Nia!”

“Ms. Finley was a colonel in the military, a heroine of military command!”

“Ah, such a magnificent life it was.”

Under the fiery gazes of a crowd, Nia, like a proud phoenix, gracefully made her entrance into the hall.

Harold slowly reined in the ferocity on his face, pointed at Shawn, and said, “Get out!”

Shawn also knew the seriousness of the current situation.

He certainly didn’t want to anger the Finley family.

Even after siding with Nathen, he didn’t dare to act rashly.

Nathen’s foundation was not even on par with the Finley family.

Nia stepped forward and took Karina’s arm: “Let’s go, Karina, Robin, Mr. Huber, my grandfather and the others are waiting for you upstairs.”

Karina, along with Robin, Harold and others, walked towards the hotel lobby with Nia, under the envious gazes of many.

To receive a personal invitation from Ms. Finley, what a great honor that was.

What puzzled many people was, why could the Huber family be treated in such a way by the Finley family?

There were many families larger than the Huber family in Hashville State, but none of them received such treatment.

How could Harold have had such prestige?

After much speculation, everyone believed that it might be because Karina and Nia were best friends.

Nia and the others had just reached the front of the hall when Miranda caught up with them.

She pointed at Robin, "Ms. Finley, he is not on the seating arrangement of the tavern, he cannot go in."

Nia slowly turned to look at Miranda, her eyes flashing with coldness: "Does our family need you to dictate when we entertain guests?"

"No, Ms. Finley!" Miranda said ingratiatingly.

"I wanted to remind you, I was worried that some people might sneak into the restaurant and disrupt the order of the Finley family's celebration."

Nia sneered, "Don't you have enough worries?"

"Did you let the Finley family arrange you on the top floor?"

Miranda still hadn't noticed Nia's coldness towards her: "Ms. Finley, you mustn't let Robin into the bar, he will lower our overall standard."

"Lower our overall standard?" Nia said coldly.

"Did you think you were on the same level as me?"

Miranda laughed and said, "Since there is a list of our names, it means we are on the same level..."

"Get out! If you dare to say one more word, I'll have you thrown out of this tavern!" Nia snapped coldly.

Bradshaw hurriedly stepped forward, saying, "Ms. Finley, this is my granddaughter Miranda, she might not speak, she just wants to remind you of something..."

"Mr. Brown, you thought your granddaughter was qualified to remind me of my duties? You overestimated the Brown family too much, didn't you? Step aside!"

Nia no longer paid them any attention, leading Robin and the others towards the elevator.

Miranda stood frozen in front of the hall door, annoyed, "What's going on? I warned her, and she even blamed me, Robin... that bastard Robin, I wonder what sweet words he used to deceive Miss Nia this time!"

Nathen watched as Robin, Karina, and the others entered the elevator, a hint of malice flashing in his eyes.

Pulled out the phone and sent a message.

"Mr. Meyer, you should have confronted the Huber family today."

Forced them to alter the agreement in the cooperation treaty, otherwise, pressured them to terminate the contract.

After sending out the information, Nathen sneered, "The Huber family, huh, today I will turn you into ashes!"

Seaside resort, private reception room in the fifth floor presidential suite.

Randall's face was serious, his sturdy fingers forcefully tapping on the chessboard on the coffee table.

"Randall, did you really think so?" Donovan asked, dropping the chess piece in his hand.

Randall exhaled, "Mr. Donovan, to tell you the truth, over the years, I have been secretly investigating the shocking robbery case at Lord Wyvern's Mansion in Draccastle."

"I had sent out numerous spies to gather a lot of clues, but until now, I had no leads."

A hint of sadness flashed in Donovan's eyes, "Yes, the disaster at Lord Wyvern's Mansion was truly terrible!"

Randall sighed, “I’ve followed that lord for many years, and I absolutely refuse to believe that he would ever betray us! Even if everyone in Dragon Soul betrayed their principles, Lord Wyvern never would!”

“In this world, there was no worldly interest that would make him resort to such despicable acts as slaughtering his own kin and betraying his faith!”

Donovan nodded, “Of course, I’m well aware of Lord Wyvern’s integrity. He is a towering, god-like figure in the world of Londraland.”

“Just that disaster came too suddenly, truly unexpected.”

“Importantly, the investigation of Lord Wyvern by the Londraland Court of Censors had not yet concluded when Lord Wyvern’s Mansion was wiped out by this brutal massacre!”

Randall shook his head bitterly, “During the time Lord Wyvern was detained in Dragon Chaining Prison for investigation, several key figures of our Dragon Soul were dispatched on missions.”

“On the night of the shocking massacre at Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, not one of us was in Draccastle.”

“That great fire burned down the entire Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, not a single one of the thirty-seven family members inside Lord Wyvern’s Mansion survived!”

“Madam had just given birth to Lord Wyvern Jr. two months ago at that time, and the young miss was only a little over two years old.”

“According to the subsequent on-site investigation records of the Londraland Court of Censors, after the fire, thirty-five bodies were found in the mansion, and the lady also tragically died!”

“Strangely, the inspector of the Londraland Court of Censors searched every corner of Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, as well as all areas within a dozen miles of Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, but did not find the bodies of Lord Wyvern Jr. and the young lady.”

“Later, after the Twelve Excellent Fighters of Dragon Soul returned to

“On the night of the incident at Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, Lord Wyvern himself, who was detained at Dragon Chaining Prison, and his accompanying guard, Phantom, mysteriously disappeared!”

“The Head of the Londraland Court of Censors was greatly enraged. In three hundred years, since the construction of the Dragon Chaining Prison, there had never been such a rebellious act.”

“Thus, the 36 guardians of the Londraland Court of Censors were dispatched to search for Lord Wyvern and Phantom throughout the realm.”

“After that, Lord Wyvern and Phantom disappeared as if they had evaporated from the world, without a trace!”

“For twenty years, there had been no information received about him.”

No one knew where he had gone, and his personal bodyguard, Phantom, had also never appeared again.

“Many people were spreading rumors that they had already left this world.”

“But, I always felt, the adults were still there, and so was Lord Wyvern Jr.!”

“Perhaps they were waiting for an opportunity to make a comeback.”

The chess piece in Randall's hand suddenly fell, he looked at Donovan in shock, "I... I dare not think further..."

Donovan moved closer to him, "In case... Lord Wyvern Jr. brings out the Dragon Soul Token, would your Twelve Excellent Fighters in Dragon Soul from back then...?"

Randall's cheeks twitched violently, pausing for a good while, "The charges against Lord Wyvern back then must have been baseless slander!"

"The disaster at Lord Wyvern's Mansion was speculated to be the work of Lord Wyvern's numerous enemies."

"In the event of this disaster, what was strange was that on that day, all Twelve Excellent Fighters in Dragon Soul were dispatched, and the catastrophe occurred on the very night when Lord Wyvern and Phantom were imprisoned in Dragon Chaining Prison."

"To say it was the doing of Lord Wyvern's enemy, that would be too much of a coincidence!"

Donovan also nodded, "There must be a conspiracy in this!"

"However, no one could clearly describe what that short dagger actually looked like."

"There were plenty of people in the martial world who used short daggers, which only added to the mystery surrounding them."

“Not bad, I’ve heard of this mysterious short dagger you mentioned,” Donovan put down his chess piece.

“Just, no one had truly seen Lord Wyvern’s ancestral heirloom.”

Randall shook his head, “I came to Hallcester this time, also hoping to make a breakthrough from the legend of the short dagger. However, no clues were found from the two bodies in Gloom Valley.”

Donovan mysteriously began to laugh, “Randall, are you suspecting that Robin is the person you’re looking for?”

Randall shuddered, staring at Donovan in astonishment.

Randall was silent for a good while, then nodded.

Intuition told me that he was the one I was looking for, but I couldn’t find more evidence to prove it was him.

“This was not an ordinary matter.”

“Mr. Donovan, my conversation with you ends here!”

“If it turns out as I suspect, that would be a tremendous responsibility that neither you nor I could bear.”

“If that was indeed the case, his sudden move to Londraland to reside in Hallcester must have been for a significant purpose.”

“We should just wait and see, we must not act rashly, otherwise, it would ruin his big plans.”

Donovan nodded cautiously, “There’s also the risk of alerting the huge hidden hand lurking behind!”

Randall took a deep breath, “At the moment, I’m just suspecting, I dare not make rash judgments.”

“This matter must be handled with absolute caution, as it is connected to the earth–shattering conspiracy from twenty years ago.”

“Recently, the clues I’ve obtained still couldn’t prove that he was the person I was looking for.”

“However, it could essentially be proven that he was definitely not an ordinary young man.

Various signs indicated that he somewhat matched an Annihilator, Lord Dragon, who was active on the Bronia mercenary battlefield two years prior.

“I believed that after a while, I would be able to prove this theorem.”

“As for whether he was the one I had been searching for over the past twenty years, further observation and verification were still needed.”

At this point, Randall gave Donovan a meaningful look.

“Mr. Donovan, twenty years ago, after the incident at Lord Wyvern’s Mansion, you retired and recuperated in Hallcester.”

“Was he really just recuperating?”

“I guessed, the more important reason, you were also waiting for that person, weren’t you?”

A spark suddenly lit up in Donovan’s eyes. He paused for a good while before he reluctantly nodded.

“Randall, you’re no outsider, just speak up,”

“Back then, that person did me a favor. In my life, I always repay my debts, whether they are of vengeance or gratitude!”

“Lord Wyvern’s Mansion has suffered such a disaster, although I am weak, I am willing to do my best to find Lord Wyvern’s bloodline!” Only world!”

Randall laughed with relief, “If Lord Wyvern Jr. appears, Wyvern Palace will surely regain its glory!”

“Since the disappearance of Lord Wyvern, for the past twenty years, the evil sects from various realms have started to run rampant again, and the pressure on the Londraland military commands has been increasing.”

“In the past two years, there was a significant trend towards a market crash.”

“If we can’t see the emergence of a war–god figure like Lord Wyvern in the past, the future is worrisome!”

“This was also my biggest purpose for coming to Hallcester this time.”

“I was investigating the death incident of Gloom Valley Valluynnian assassins, the real purpose was to find that nobleman!”

Donovan nodded and said, “This matter can only be investigated secretly. When Lord Wyvern’s Mansion had an incident years ago, there must have been an insider sabotaging it.”

Randall let out a long sigh, “Twenty years have passed. If Lord Wyvern Jr. were still alive, he would be twenty–one this year, in the prime of his life!”

Randall exclaimed, “Mr. Donovan, you hired him?”

Donovan nodded, "Yes. I'm feeling much better now, and I think I can do something for Lord Wyvern in my lifetime."

"In return for the grace Lord Wyvern had shown to the Finley family years ago."

"After closing the case at Lord Wyvern's Mansion, Chad resigned from his position as the Deputy Dean of the Londraland Court of Censors."

"After retiring, he devoted himself to studying Go. Ten years ago, he surprisingly became the president of the Londraland Go Association."

"He was really something! Whatever he did, he always stood out!"

"Back in the year at Londraland Court of Censors, he was known as the detective god, he was indeed the pinnacle figure in Londraland's investigation!"

"Unexpectedly, even in chess, one can reach the top in one step, achieving the status of a contemporary Go Grandmaster in ten years. This old fellow is smart!"

"Today, I invited him over, and at that time, you played two games with this Mr. Jensen."

Randall laughed and said, "I can play a couple of rounds with you, but he's on a different level."

"When he was the Vice President of Londraland Court of Censors, he was known as the Chess King."

"At that time, it was hard to say that Dale Hill, the president of the Londraland Go Association, won every game when he played against him."

"This old fellow had trained hard for another twenty years, how could I possibly be his match."

Donovan said with a smile, "It's okay, just a friendly exchange and discussion. You should interact more with Mr. Jensen, we will have a lot to learn from him in the future."

Randall asked, "Did you inquire with this Mr. Jensen about the Lord Wyvern's Mansion robbery case of that year?"

Donovan nodded, "I asked, but he refused to talk about it."

"I asked several times, but he kept putting it off, so it wasn't appropriate to probe any further."

"Presumably, this Mr. Jensen had something he found hard to express."

"Behind the robbery at Lord Wyvern's Mansion, there must be a shocking secret hidden!"

"It was very likely to involve many powerful forces!"

"Perhaps Chad's actions back then were just to avoid this controversy, to

"Bang! Bang! Bang!"

"Grandpa, Mr. Bruce is here." Nia pushed the door open and walked in from outside with Robin.

Chapter 367 Why Are You Keep Staring at Me?

"Come on, come on, Robin, sit here, sit here." Donovan stood up and pulled Robin to sit next to him.

Robin glanced at the chessboard on the table, then at Randall's sparkling eyes, "Playing chess? Judging by your look, old man, it seems like you lost?"

Randall shook his head, "I've never lost a game of chess to Mr. Donovan. Do you also play Go?" All content is

Robin nodded, "Yes, it does, but very rarely."

Donovan immediately exclaimed excitedly, long as it's

"This guy beat me several times this morning, look at how smug he is now. Help me beat him to take him down a peg!"

Nia looked at her grandfather's expression at that moment, then at Randall.

The two old fellows were a bit strange.

Their eyes were all fixed tightly on Robin.

Seemed to want to discern something from Robin's face.

She furrowed her brow, "Randall, are you really going to play chess with Robin?"

"Yes." Randall's eyes remained fixed on Robin, continuing to scrutinize him.

Robin patted Randall's head, "Old man, why are you looking at me?"

Randall gave him a glance.

"Randall, I've always felt that you're strange. From the moment I first saw you, you've been staring at me. What does that mean?"

"Did you really have any strange habits?"

Randall shook his head, pursing his lips and said, "Hmph! I just wanted to see how many secrets you have that I don't know about."

Robin said with a laugh, "Well, you just guess then!"

Donovan urged, "Come on, Robin, set up the chess game and beat him fair and square!"

Seeing the expectant looks on Donovan and Randall's faces, Robin said. "Alright, I'll play a couple of rounds with you."

The chess game had just been set up, and a few moves later, Randall started to sweat.

He stared intently at the chess game Robin had set up, completely unable to understand it. He anxiously said. "You...you said you only knew the basics, didn't you?"

"What? Giving up already?" Robin shrugged, "Your chess skills stink. I'm not playing with you anymore."

Donovan started laughing. “Randall, it seems your skills can only show off in front of me, hahaha...”

Wiping the sweat from his forehead, Randall stubbornly said, “I was careless in this round...”

“Dad. Mr. Shi has arrived,” Ethen led an elderly man with a head full of white hair from outside.

A man was following behind the old man.

This man was indeed Jeff, the security officer of Hashville Airlines.

Jeff was surprised to see Robin here as well.

arose

Looking again at Nia standing beside him, a surge of jealousy in his heart.

The old man was indeed Chad, the president of the Londraland Go Association that Donovan had spoken of Twenty years ago, the deputy director of the Londraland Court of Censors devoted himself to studying Go after retiring from the Londraland Court of Censors.

In the past decade, he had risen to fame in the Go community of East Estya, becoming a contemporary Go Grandmaster.

Over the past twenty years, Chad’s disciples have spread all over the world.

Many were descendants of political figures and high-ranking military officials.

“Mr. Jensen, I’ve finally been waiting for you,” Donovan said, rising to his feet.

Randall also gave a slight nod, "Mr. Jensen, long time no see."

Chad frowned, "You... General Allen?"

Back in the day when Chad was handling the Lord Wyvern's Mansion case. Randall was still one of the Twelve Excellent Fighters in Dragon Soul.

He had only met Randall once.

Later, there was no intersection anymore.

Seeing Chad's wariness, Randall changed the subject, "Mr. Jensen, over the years, your accomplishments in the world of Go have been quite profound, and your skills have reached the pinnacle."

"I just heard from Mr. Donovan that you were coming today. I wanted to ask for your advice, but my chess skills are not up to par."

Chad finally laughed, "General Allen, you flatter me. Those are just their polite words. As the saying goes, there are always higher skies and better people, how dare I claim to be the best!"

Jeff saw Randall praising his master, and a look of pride also appeared on his face.

Randall changed the subject. "Mr. Jensen, this young man's chess skills. are also exquisite. I had a hard time even making three moves in front of him."

"Without exaggeration, his chess skills were absolutely at a master level."

Donovan was instantly stunned.

There was a provocative tone in Randall's words!

Jeff snorted. "A master hand? Keep bragging!"

"Those who dared to claim to be a master in front of my teacher, weren't even born yet!"

Anger suddenly flashed in Randall's eyes.

He looked up at Jeff, "Who is this uncultured creature!"

If it hadn't been for the fact that this guy was brought by Chad, he would have definitely made this kid kneel down and apologize.

Chad symbolically scolded; "Jeff, don't talk nonsense!"

Then, he turned to look at Robin, laughed, and said, "Hmm, the younger generation is indeed formidable! I believe in the field of Go, age and achievements are irrelevant."

Randall saw Chad but it didn't provoke his desire to compete with Robin.

He continued, "Mr. Jensen, wouldn't you like to see how this young man plays chess?"

A hint of disdain flashed in Chad's eyes: "Today... Today is Mr. Donovan's celebration banquet, let's not waste time."

Donovan chuckled, "Mr. Jensen, there's no rush. There's still some time before the banquet begins, playing a game with the young man wouldn't hurt."

Chad saw Donovan was also about to speak, he pointed at Jeff, "This is my apprentice, let the young ones play a game."

Robin laughed, "Him? Haha... let's forget about it!"

Chad was taken aback, clearly detecting Robin's disdain.

Disdaining his disciple in front of him was a challenge to his authority!

let Chad looked at Robin, a flash of annoyance in his eyes, "Young man, me teach you a lesson!"

Chapter 368 Go With the Flow

After Chad finished speaking, he was about to step forward to set up the chess game.

Jeff tugged at him, "Master, my dad just called, he said he'll be here in five minutes. Didn't you agree to meet with him before?"

Chad glanced at Robin, patted Jeff's shoulder, and said, "Five minutes, five minutes is enough."

"Come on, young man, let's get started," he said.

Everyone present could hear the contempt in Chad's words.

Five minutes was enough for a game of Go.

The meaning is that Chad and Robin played a game of chess, and it only took two or three minutes to finish the game.

Jeff sneered at Robin, "If you could last two minutes under my master, that would be quite an achievement! You're overestimating yourself, you're just asking for humiliation!"

Chad pointed a finger at Jeff, symbolically reprimanding him, "Jeff, playing chess is like living life, you need to learn humility. How can you be so arrogant, with no manners at all?"

"How am I supposed to teach you in the future if you behave like this? How am I supposed to take you to compete against the world's top players?"

"Jeff, remember this, no matter what you do, if you can't do it well and are too arrogant, you will never achieve anything."

"Did you think you could learn to play chess overnight?"

"That took a long time of meticulous practice to accomplish!"

Robin could tell that Chad was indirectly criticizing him.

The meaning was that he was too arrogant.

Dared to claim a master level skill in front of him, Chad.

Randall, on the other hand, just smiled without saying a word. This was exactly the result he wanted.

After chastising Jeff, Chad gestured to Robin, "Come, come, young man, sit down. Let me see what level your chess skills have reached."

"Young man, who did you study under? Let's see if I can still recall a name."

Robin said indifferently, "I didn't have a teacher. I just learned by playing a few rounds with an old man a few years ago when I was bored."

Chad paused for a moment, "What? You've never had a master guide. you? You learned by yourself? You've only played a few games?"

Robin looked at Chad, puzzled. "Does this thing really need a master's guidance? It's just a minor skill, isn't it something you can play with once it's set up?"

A shadow crossed Chad's face, "Young man, that wasn't a nice thing to say."

"The chess player must definitely respect the game. How can you become a good player if you disrespect it like this?"

Robin shrugged. "I've never thought that much about it. Isn't chess just about finding some enjoyment in it?"

"If it was used to pursue vanity, showing off everywhere, it would have. been better not to play at all."

"I only liked to follow my heart and let things take their natural course. If there was no joy in doing something, it was better not to do it at all."

"You..." Chad said angrily.

"Alright, alright, set up the chessboard then. I want to see what this freestyle chess skill of yours really looks like!"

Randall watched Robin's flippant demeanor, a subtle hint of amusement flashing in his eyes.

Nia was also watching Robin with great interest.

From the first day she met Robin, she saw that this man was always flippant and dismissive.

Initially, it was thought that Robin was just an arrogant and ostentatious man.

However, Robin's every performance would greatly astonish her.

Later on, she would rather believe that Robin's aloofness, even what could be described as arrogance, was because his energy was beyond imagination.

Originally, Randall had said to let Robin play against Chad.

She thought, how could Robin possibly have beaten Chad.

You should know. Chad was the pinnacle Go Grandmaster in the Go world of East Estya.

There has hardly been anyone who could beat Chad these past few years.

However. Robin's words did pique her interest.

The attitude towards work was to follow one's heart and let things take their natural course.

For the experts, that was the pinnacle of their achievement.

For those vain and ostentatious people, it was boasting and a lack of self-awareness.

Nia lifted her beautiful eyes, scrutinizing Robin's handsome and resolute face for the first time.

Suddenly, there was a desire to understand this man more deeply.

As Nia was deep in thought, Chad and Robin's chess game had already been set up.

Chad had initially disdained Robin, even intending to teach him a lesson, before he was willing to sit down and play a game.

It was just the beginning. Robin's chess game immediately made him feel a tremendous pressure.

On the tranquil chessboard, with the fall of Robin's piece, dark clouds gathered instantly, followed by a storm.

Like a soaring dragon in the dark clouds, swallowing clouds and exhaling fog. intimidating all directions!

This was a vicious game of chess that Chad had never seen in his twenty years of playing.

This game of chess was filled with murderous intent.

The moment he made his move, he felt a suffocating sensation, as if a sword was at his throat..

After a brief moment of tension. Chad laughed at himself in self- mockery.

Young people, perhaps at the beginning, might have put on some pretentious gestures.

Next, the true colors would be revealed, full of flaws.

After a while, there was no more momentum.

Chad had seen such tactics many times before.

However, when he placed his second piece, he suddenly gasped for air, and sweat began to bead on his forehead!

Seeing Chad's indecision, Robin leaned back on the sofa and checked the time.

"Four minutes have already passed, didn't your disciple just say his dad would arrive in five minutes?"

“Mr. Jensen, did you want to continue this game slowly, or concede right now?”

Chad looked up at Robin, feeling extremely annoyed, yet powerless to retort.

This sentence was more uncomfortable for him than a slap in the face.

Just four minutes into the game, I was already struggling to make a move, holding a chess piece but not knowing where to place it.

“How dare you speak to my master like that?” Jeff suddenly roared.

“My master was only trying to let you lose with a bit of dignity, that’s why he was going easy on you. Otherwise, you wouldn’t have lasted even a minute.”

However, even though he said this, Jeff had actually already realized that Chad’s game was really hard to turn around.

Before. Chad was full of disdain.

His eyes were now firmly fixed on the chessboard, his expression serious. The sweat from his forehead had already trickled down to his cheeks.

After resigning from the Londraland Court of Censors, Chad devoted himself to studying Go for ten years.

Ten years ago, he made a sensational debut as soon as he started.

It could be said that along the way, he had hardly ever lost in the Go world of East Estya.

Even when faced with a powerful opponent, they ultimately lost a game. or two by a slim margin.

Like today, a mere four minutes was not enough to make progress, it was an experience that had never happened before.

Chad stared at the chess game, completely at a loss.

The chess skills I've devoted myself to studying for the past twenty years were completely useless in this game!

What was this strange chess game?

To be honest, he couldn't understand!

In the past decade, throughout the thousands of games he had experienced, he had never seen such a gorgeously bizarre and ever- changing chess game.

Another two minutes had passed, and the presidential suite was so quiet that only their breathing could be heard.

Neither Donovan nor Randall had anticipated such a situation.

Chad, known as the Go Grandmaster, surprisingly couldn't make a move in front of Robin's chess game.

This situation continued for a full three minutes, and Chad was almost completely soaked.

He finally let out a difficult sigh, "I was careless in this round."

"How could this be possible?" Jeff exclaimed immediately.

Lost? My master Chad, he lost!

He was a Go Grandmaster in the East Estya Go world, how could he possibly lose to this gigolo?

At that moment, his gaze towards Robin was filled with anger.

"My master simply disdained to play this game of chess with you, it was just an oversight."

"Master, forget it, there's no need to waste time with such a mediocre chess player. My father just sent a message, he's already waiting at the hotel entrance."

"Shut up!" Chad was extremely annoyed, holding a belly full of anger. Seeing Jeff constantly making a racket around him, he felt utterly humiliated.

Jeff looked at Chad, puzzled, "Master, what...what happened to you?"

Chad didn't pay him any more attention, instead he looked up at Robin: "Come on, young man, I made a mistake just now, let's play another.

This time, Chad's words were much softer.

Robin slightly furrowed his brow, "Are you still going to continue with me? You couldn't even hold on for four minutes just now, wouldn't it be even worse if we continue?"

A hint of anger flashed in Chad's eyes: "Young man, I told you I was careless in the last round, I haven't used all my moves yet."

Robin looked at the persistent Chad and could only nod, saying, "Alright, I'll play another round with you. Watch closely this time, don't hold back anymore!"

Nia was secretly scrutinizing Robin's expression, the corners of her mouth lifting in a subtle smile.

This time. Chad didn't dare to be careless again, he used all his skills to set up the chess game.

Every piece that was lifted was carefully considered before it was dared to be put down.

After a bout of cautious combat, this chess game finally had a hint of a clear situation.

Five minutes later, a smile spread across Chad's face.

It seemed that my chess skills were still at their peak.

If he continued at this pace, he was sure to win the chess game.

Just as Chad was wiping the sweat from his forehead with a wet wipe, the situation on the chessboard dramatically changed when he suddenly saw the chess piece that Robin had dropped!

Chapter 369 I Was Careless in This Round

The situation, which was originally firmly in control, changed instantly due to Robin's move, altering the entire tense battle.

The relaxed smile that had just fought on Chad's face came to an abrupt end!

"What...what kind of move was that?"

If a person who understood chess watched this game.

This time, Robin had completely put himself in a desperate situation after making his move.

He glanced up at Robin, wondering if the young man was playing coy or truly didn't understand.

Robin understood Chad's meaning and signaled him to focus on the chessboard.

He subconsciously took another look at the arrangement of the entire chess game.

Surprisingly, I found myself holding this chess piece, not knowing how to put it down.

What... what was this strange chess game?

Despite the other party being at a disadvantage. I couldn't find a breakthrough at all.

Moreover, no matter where the chess piece in hand was placed, it would always result in a game lost without suspense.

Chapter 369 | Was Careless in This Round

Chad stared at the chess game, the more he watched, the more excited he became!

This was not a chess game, but a stunningly beautiful painting.

From the arranged chess pieces, he seemed to see a divine hand wielding a brush, painting a grand and magnificent scene.

Secretly admired in the heart.

However, this admiration for the brilliant chess game, just couldn't be voiced out.

He sighed incessantly, filled with shame!

He devoted himself to studying the art of chess for twenty years.

But I had never seen such a mesmerizing, even arguably extremely beautiful chess game.

Chapter 370 How Rude!

Jeff stared at the chess game in front of him, utterly shocked!

Although my own chess skills had not yet reached the high ranks, I could still distinguish between high and low level games.

Before, he had a disdain for Robin's chess skills.

However, as the game progressed, it was suddenly realized that it was not the case.

He never dreamed that his master would struggle in front of Robin's chess game!

Jeff looked at the white-haired Chad.

At that moment, eyes were fixed intently on the black and white chessboard, fearing that a mere blink would cause them to miss a fleeting moment of brilliance.

One moment he was breaking out in a cold sweat, the next he was lost in deep thought.

Subsequently, a gleam of surprise sparkled in his eyes.

Since I studied under Chad.

He had never seen his master with such a complex expression in any chess game before.

Clearly, it was a match with a worthy opponent!

Even, this opponent made him extremely in awe, hence the ever- changing expressions.

Looking at Robin's carefree and arrogant demeanor at that moment, a surge of jealousy suddenly arose in Jeff's heart!

The moment he first saw Robin, he felt extremely uncomfortable!

How could this kind of man be better than him!

Every crucial moment, this guy always stole the spotlight.

On the plane, he had made Robyn fall in love at first sight.

Nowadays, he had once again made his master admire and respect him!

One was a woman he had long admired, the other was a master he had followed and relied upon.

Everything paled in comparison to this guy, thrown into disarray.

In a flash, consumed by jealousy, I wished I could stab Robin to death.

It was this guy who stole all his glory, Robin must not be allowed to continue to perform!

“Master, have a cup of hot water.”

Chad was engrossed in the enjoyment of this fascinating chess game.

Jeff deliberately brought a cup of boiling hot water to him, spilling it all over the chessboard!

The chess pieces on the entire board were instantly scattered in all directions.

A chess game as poetic and picturesque as ever, was completely unrecognizable!

“What...what are you doing?” Chad was livid, slapping Jeff across the face.

“Master, I... I saw you were tired...” Jeff explained, bowing his body and covering his burning cheek, his eyes glaring fiercely at Robin.

“You damn bastard! A game of chess of unparalleled excellence, and you just had to ruin it!”

Randall and Donovan were also watching with great interest at this time.

Suddenly, it was completely ruined by a cup of hot water from Jeff.

Donovan slapped the table, "What are you trying to do? You've messed up a perfectly good game of chess, you uncultured brute!"

He pointed at Ethen, "Did that bastard named Noel Williams come? Tell him to get his ass over here! I want to ask him face to face, how the hell was a beast like him born!"

At that moment, it was clear to everyone that Jeff's cup of hot water was intentionally meant to disrupt the entire chess game.

This behavior was utterly despicable.

This was no longer just a matter of upbringing and cultivation, but rather, beastly behavior!

09:18

A gentleman should promote the good in others, while a villain does the opposite.

This despicable beast, it deserved to die!

Robin leaned back on the sofa, looking at Jeff with interest as he chuckled lightly.

There were many petty people in this world, not knowing whether they were foolish or genuinely brain-damaged.

The things done were so ridiculous that they were beyond comprehension.

On an occasion like today, even a fool could see that Jeff's actions were a suicide mission!

Did

you think you, a petty person, could easily ruin the chess game set up by two major generals?"

This was not about humiliating Robin, but challenging Donovan's authority!

It even put Chad in an extremely embarrassing situation.

Chad withdrew from politics and devoted himself to studying Go.

After nearly twenty years of battling in the world of Go, he finally earned the title of Go Grandmaster.

At this age, I valued honor more than life itself!

Jeff committed such a despicable act of poor sportsmanship, causing him to lose all his reputation.

09:18

Chapter 370 How Rude!

Losing a chess game was not a big deal.

In any field, no one could claim to be the best forever.

However, if one lost their integrity, it was over!

Character was the path, and chess skill was the technique.

Losing the way meant losing everything.

Even if you had won the whole world, you would still be a loser.

At that moment, Chad was almost driven mad with anger.

He pointed at Jeff and roared angrily, "Get out of my sight! You don't even have basic decency, what are you learning Go for?!"

"Today, you are no longer my apprentice, Chad! From now on, I am a stranger to you and the Williams family!"

"Mr. Jensen, what happened? I... General Finley..." Noel rushed in quickly from outside, following Ethen.

The icy atmosphere in the room made him shudder suddenly.

Noel had almost run all the way to Chad, bending over.

Chad pointed at Noel, "You've raised a fine son, take him away! From now on, I have nothing to do with you, the Williams family!"

Noel's legs went weak, almost causing him to sit on the ground.

"Bastard, kneel down!" Noel kicked Jeff to the ground with one foot.

"What the hell did you do to make your master so furious!"

"Apologize to Mr. Jensen and General Finley immediately!"

Jeff knelt on the ground, roaring, "Dad, Master, don't blame me!"

"I... I played chess with my master and this kind of lowly pretty boy, it was so embarrassing!"
