Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 423

Savanna stared at Tyrell angrily. She gave a faint smile, as if she didn't want to bother with Tyrell.

Then Savanna turned and left.

The moment she turned around, Savanna poked Tyrell's face with the hair clasp in her hand. It was as fast as lightning, and no one could react to it.

Tyrell let out a scream, and the intense pain caused his body to sway.

Savanna pulled out the hair clasp, and blood splattered everywhere.

Tyrell screamed again.

Before anyone could react, Savanna stabbed the hair clasp in her hand at Flora's face.

"Ouch."

The pain in her cheek was sharp. Flora could no longer hold it and jumped out of the coffin. In a split second, the entire hall was shocked.

Everyone widened their eyes and looked at Flora like they had seen a ghost.

Flora was dressed in black, and the makeup on her face was thick. Savanna's hair clasp hurt her cheekbones, and bright red blood flowed down Flora's cheek. It was shocking and terrifying.

When the guests saw that, they were so scared that they ran away with their heads in their hands. Those who were bolder and knew what was going on looked daggers at Rowan.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 423

"Rowan, you have indeed been messing with us."

The bigshots stormed off angrily.

Rowan chased after them. No matter how he explained, no one responded. Rowan was discouraged. He was not playing with them. He just wanted to play with Savanna and the others.

Tyrell looked coldly at Savanna because of the intense pain. He pounced on Savanna like a madman. Jim pulled Savanna behind him and swung his fist at Tyrell. Tyrell had just started to heal, so he was still weak. Tyrell staggered a few steps and quickly fell back.

Flora jumped out of the coffin. When she noticed that he was about to fall, she hugged him. Due to the excessive force, Flora could not hold him. The two quickly fell back.

Jim turned on the cameras on his phone.

He took a few consecutive shots, as well as videos.

Jim edited the videos together with the pictures and posted them on social platforms, provoking uproar on various websites soon afterward.

When Rowan came back, he happened to see his daughter Flora and Tyrell fall. Rowan glared at Savanna fiercely and waved to the bodyguards. Rowan wouldn't let it go.

Savanna squinted and smiled. "Mr. Landis, you asked your daughter to play dead to frame Reece and defeat my uncle and me. Unfortunately, you've made a mistake."

His scheme was seen through, and Rowan flew into a rage. He took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, and pointed at Savanna. "Your man has become a living zombie, and you still dare to be so arrogant. I will teach you a lesson today. I've disliked you for a long time. Devin, close the door. Today, I will show them what I am capable of."

Rowan was being arrogant and ruthless.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 423

Devin immediately ordered people to close the door.

However, when the door was about to close, a strong force came from outside, and Rowan's subordinates could not close it no matter what. A pair of big hands held the corner of the door, and the door quickly opened. A group of people strode over, led by the tall Ethan. He strode to Rowan and stared at him with calm eyes. He said in a flat tone, "Mr. Landis, have you finished your acting?"

"You are not smart enough to play tricks to plot against me. Why don't you ask around? For decades, who would dare to cheat me?"

"Get out."

Rowan glanced at the group of people behind Ethan. Rowan knew that there was a great disparity between the enemy and him, so he chased them away in the manner of a host.

"You don't have to be arrogant. The police will find you to settle this."

As soon as Ethan finished speaking, several police officers came in. Rowan recognized them as the local patrolmen.

The leading police officer walked in front of Rowan and waved to his subordinates, saying briefly, "Take him away."

Rowan resisted the arrest. "Why did you detain me?"

Which law did I violate?"

The policeman pressed his tongue to his lips and sneered. "Mr. Landis, you have violated a lot of national laws. The reason why we arrest you today is just to play a long con."

Rowan's eyebrows twitched. He still wanted to argue with reason. He laughed loudly until tears came out.

"As law-enforcement officers, you actually believe Ethan's one-sided words. Today, if you can't present the evidence, I will not go with you."

The policeman stopped smiling, his eyes cold.

"Rowan, the Landis Group has been running for so many years. If you had strength, it would be fine. However, you have to break the law. We have been watching you since we knew you evaded the payment of tax. You have done so many fake accounts. Aren't you afraid that you will be sent to hell? You also forced women into prostitution, as well as selling children. Any one of your crimes can get you punished. You earn money by hurting others. The Landis Group is just a façade for your illegal deeds. Evidence? I will give you evidence. I have a lot on hand."

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 423

After he heard the policeman's words, Rowan's eyes lost luster. His legs went limp, and he almost fell to the ground. His lips trembled, and he could no longer utter a single word. Flora was shocked. She rushed over madly and grabbed Rowan's hand, shaking it desperately.

“I don’t believe it. Dad, tell me. He is talking nonsense. Dad, you won’t do those things, will you?”

Rowan gradually came back to his senses. He looked at Flora’s anxious face and forced a smile. “Flora, be good to Tyrell. You don’t have to avenge Dad. Dad deserves it.”

In fact, since Rowan started selling children and forcing women of poor families from all over the country to give sexual services in Boston, he had felt his soul was gone. But he wanted to become powerful and rich. He could not stand the contempt of his relatives. He wanted to be someone so much that he gambled his life away.

Rowan was a sinful man.

Now, he had nothing to ask for but a good life for his daughter.

Rowan was arrested by the policemen and forced into a police car.

Flora chased after him. Her shoes fell. She did not care. The stone cut her feet. She did not care. In short, she did not want the police to take her father away.

Her father was gone, and her world collapsed.

Tyrell glared at Savanna and Ethan before chasing after Flora.

The bad guys were punished. Savanna was relieved and dizzy. She fell to the ground. Jim reached out to hold her in time. Jim shouted anxiously, “Mrs. Cassel.”

Ethan was shocked. He walked over and looked at Savanna’s pale face. He said to Jim, “Send her to the hospital.”

Jim walked to the door with Savanna in his arms.

There was a loud creak.

The shocking sound of the wheels was followed by Tyrell's crazy roar, "Flora."

Savanna was awakened by that voice. She opened her eyes and followed Jim's gaze. Then, she saw Flora lying in a pool of blood. The wind messed up her black hair. Tyrell's hands trembled as she held her blood-stained body in his arms. He choked like a wounded beast.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 424

Savanna smiled sarcastically. Tyrell was really an infatuated person.

Didn't Tyrell say that he loved Tracy?

Tracy had just died, but Tyrell fell in love with another woman.

A man who could be devoted to one woman for a long time was rare.

Savanna didn't know how long Brandon's love for her could last.

Ethan and Jim held Savanna and stood in place for a long time until the ambulance whistled over and took away the bloody Flora.

Jim carried Savanna into the car. Ethan followed them to the hospital. Rex was not on duty today and was on leave at home. When he heard that Savanna had fainted, he rushed over anxiously. Savanna was lying on the bed. The gynecologist used an instrument to measure the fetus' heartbeat. Rex came in and asked impatiently, "How is it going?"

The gynecologist smiled and replied, "Dr. Barton, if we don't know your concern, we will definitely think that Ms. Cassel is your wife. Are you too concerned? You can't steal your friend's wife."

Rex looked daggers at her and hissed, "Do you believe I will transfer you to billing?"

The gynecologist was good, otherwise, she would not dare to joke with Rex like this.

"Okay, I was just worried about working the night shift. What's wrong with the billing? It's much more leisurely than working here."

The gynecologist went to the computer to apply for Savanna's medical record card. Savanna had lost her card. In order to make it easier for her to enter the hospital, she had to apply for another one.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 424

Rex was not embarrassed by his colleague's joke. In any case, he didn't feel embarrassed.

Rex was afraid that Savanna would overthink it. He was just about to come over and talk to Savanna when he saw her round, fair belly.

Rex's face turned red, and his mind went blank.

He quickly turned away and left the examination room.

No matter how familiar he was with Savanna, even if he thought about Savanna every day, Savanna was still Brandon's wife. So, there must be a line between Rex and Savanna.

Savanna had just come out when Rex went up to her and reached out to support her. Perhaps the joke of the gynecologist worked, Savanna actually took his hand away and smiled gently, "I can walk on my own. I'm not that fragile."

Rex suddenly felt an invisible wall between him and Savanna.

They looked at each other through it.

This metaphor was not appropriate. After all, Rex's love was unrequited. Savanna only loved Brandon.

Moreover, Brandon and Rex had been friends since they were children. If Brandon knew Rex coveted his wife, he would definitely want to kill Rex.

In an empty corner, Rex patted his face twice.

He wanted to turn around and leave, but he was afraid that something would happen to Savanna again, so, he stood at the end of the aisle, his hands.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 424

in his pockets, and watched Savanna enter Brandon's ward. Only then did Rex turn around and leave without looking back.

While waiting for the results, Savanna stood at the head of the bed and looked at Brandon's face.

Today, Brandon's face looked better, probably because the doctor had adjusted the medicine for him.

The room was quiet. Only Savanna's soft voice sounded. As usual, she talked about what happened today, and it was mostly about Flora. Savanna only said a few words about her fainting, because she was afraid Brandon would be worried. But Rex said she should stimulate him with words so that Brandon might wake up one day.

For Brandon, who was sleeping, Savanna could never be hard on him.

She only loved Brandon for this life. This man was her everything. Thinking about it, sometimes she felt she was quite miserable.

The doctor sent the results to Savanna's phone, and Savanna read them carefully. The medical report said that she fainted due to anemia. Unexpectedly, one day, Savanna would be anemic. Savanna was going to wipe Brandon's body. She called Jim over. Jim flipped Brandon's body as usual.

Jim could not bear to see Savanna working so hard, so he said, "Mrs. Cassel, let me do it. You should take a rest today."

Savanna wanted to persist, but another wave of dizziness hit her. She could only hand the towel to Jim, sit on the stool, and watch Jim do it.

Occasionally, she would instruct Jim on how to wipe Brandon's body.

After cleaning up Brandon's body, Jim followed Savanna out of the hospital.

Early in the morning, Savanna woke up. Just as she tapped open her phone, a piece of news popped up.

Flora died in a car accident. She paid off her father's sins with her life. Rowan had done so many evil things, and his only child died in a car accident.

For the credibility of the news, there were photos of the accident. Flora's body was bloody on the scene.

Her eyes rolled up as she lay on an operation table.

She looked miserable.

Jim also saw them.

During breakfast, Jim said to Savanna with a smile, "Mrs. Cassel, Flora should be really dead. Last night, I was thinking that it was impossible that she did not break her bones when she flew so high. I heard that all the bones in her body were broken, and she almost lost all her blood. Plus, Rowan's illegal deeds have just been exposed, and no one was willing to operate on Flora. If she had been sent to the hospital earlier, it might have still been in time. But she deserved it."

Savanna went to the hospital early in the morning and impatiently told Brandon the good news. She said, "Brandon, all the bad guys have received their punishment, when are you going to wake up? I can't hold on much longer. I'm malnourished. The doctor said I had anemia. If you don't wake up, your wife will die. One corpse and two lives."

Ever since Brandon became a vegetable, Savanna had been reporting the good news and not the bad news every day. However, just now, when she reached the entrance of the hospital, she saw a young couple. The woman was here for a prenatal checkup. The woman's belly was bulging. The man held her up, carefully and with happily, as if his wife had been a queen.

Savanna enviously looked at them until she could no longer see them. Then, she looked away.

Savanna sniffed and complained softly, "Brandon, when I gave birth to Tye, you were in love with Winnie, so you did not care about me. It was not easy to get pregnant with another child, but in the blink of an eye, it has been four months. But now you look like you are dead. Sometimes, I think that if one day I can't hold on, I want to find a random man to marry. Maybe we are not meant to be together."

Neil called, saying that there was an important meeting today. Savanna had to attend and ended the call. Savanna looked back at the motionless man, turned her head, and left.

In the quiet room, a drop of tear silently trickled down the corner of Brandon's eye.

The tear was crystal clear and untainted.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 425

The news that Flora had been buried was overwhelming.

Savanna had just taken care of the document.

Savanna leaned back and felt both physically and mentally exhausted. Savanna closed her eyes and rubbed her eyebrows with her hands. Savanna did not know if it was because she was pregnant or because she worked too hard every day. Savanna felt that her vision was getting worse and worse. Savanna could not see anything clearly.

The door rang.

As Savanna said 'come in', the sound of high heels touching the ground was even louder. Savanna opened her eyes and saw the smiling face of Lizeth.

Lizeth carried a lunch box and walked towards Savanna.

"Ms. Thompson, it's time to have lunch."

Yesterday, Savanna was diagnosed with anemia.

Lizeth bought some tonic ingredients early in the morning. Lizeth opened the box, took out the tonic soup, and handed the spoon to Savanna. "It's porridge. I stewed it for several hours. And this is crab roe. I peeled it for an entire afternoon."

Savanna saw that Lizeth's fingers were wrapped in bandages, and a burst of bitterness welled up in her heart. "Thank you for your hard work, Lizeth."

Lizeth smiled, her eyes glowing. "It's my pleasure."

Ms. Thompson, I should thank you. Today, Seth said that his legs are getting better."

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 425

"Great!" Savanna shouted excitedly.

There were tears in Lizeth's eyes. "Ms. Thompson, thank you for what you did for Seth."

Savanna held Lizeth's hand. "Don't be so polite."

Lizeth, I have no sisters. In my heart, I regard you as my sister."

Lizeth choked and could not say a word.

After being excited for a while, their emotions slowly calmed down. Savanna ate and Lizeth waited on her. After Savanna finished eating, Lizeth walked away with the box and asked Savanna, "Ms. Thompson, what do you want to eat? Call me. No matter what the dishes are, I will cook them."

Savanna smiled and waved her hand. "Alright, go."

Lizeth closed the door as she turned to leave.

Fortunately, Savanna got Lizeth. Lizeth was able to manage Savanna's home in an orderly manner.

Savanna did not need to worry about it at all, including the two naughty kids. Lizeth was able to manage them well recently.

Savanna was really happy that Seth's legs were getting better. After two marriages, Lizeth finally met Seth. However, so many troubles were caused.

Sometimes, Savanna thought that if it was not because of her and Brandon, perhaps Seth would not be sick and paralyzed by surgery. In the end, Savanna felt sorry for Lizeth. Savanna always hoped that Seth would get better quickly and have a wedding with Lizeth.

The improvement of Seth's illness gave Savanna new hope. She believed that Brandon would wake up soon as well.

Hum, hum, hum.

Someone called. Savanna saw that it was a stranger.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 425

She raised her finger and refused the call. Just two seconds later, the phone rang again.

Savanna picked up the phone but did not speak immediately. The people on the other side was also silent. Savanna looked at the phone number again and thought that maybe someone called her mistakenly. Just as Savanna was about to hang up, a voice slowly came, "Savanna, let's talk."

"What do you want to talk about?"

Savanna recognized that it was Tyrell. Hearing Savanna's warning, Tyrell promised, "Don't worry, I won't hurt you. I really have something to tell you."

“Come to the Young Group.”

Savanna set the meeting place at the Young Group because she was afraid that Tyrell would play tricks.

On the other hand, Tyrell agreed without thinking, “Alright.”

A few minutes later, the intercom rang and the secretary reported, “Ms. Thompson, there is a Mr. Goodwin who wants to make an appointment with you, is that okay?”

“Let him in,” Savanna said.

After a while, the door was pushed open. Tyrell, who was dressed in black, came in. Tyrell wanted to close the door. Savanna stopped him. “My secretary is about to bring tea in. Mr. Goodwin, please have a seat.”

Of course, Tyrell knew Savanna’s concerns. After all, so many things had happened before, and Savanna was afraid of him. Tyrell glanced at the open door, and Jim had already walked over from outside, staring at Tyrell with a fierce gaze.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 425

Tyrell pursed his lips and laughed at himself. It was as he expected. One should not do bad things.

Otherwise, wherever one went, people would be on guard against one.

Tyrell sat down on the opposite side of Savanna, and the secretary soon sent a cup of coffee.

The secretary quietly retreated. The door was not closed.

Not wanting to have anything to do with Tyrell, Savanna asked directly, "Tell me, what is it?"

Tyrell said, "Savanna, I know you hate me, and I hate you too. Tracy is dead, and so did Flora. They were both my beloved women. I believe you know better than me how they died."

Savanna had a smile on her face as she listened attentively.

Tyrell paused for a moment before continuing. "I don't have the energy to continue fighting with you. I want to live a peaceful life. Of course, I need your help."

After Tyrell said it, he looked at Savanna with a deep gaze. Seeing that the man was waiting for her opinion, Savanna smiled deeply.

"Mr. Goodwin, I think you are mistaken. This war has always been started by you. For the sake of your so-called lover, you colluded with Rafael to kidnap my husband. Then, you disguised someone as my husband. Now, my husband is still lying in the ward, unconscious."

Savanna's voice suddenly became sarcastic. "The person who is least qualified to talk about armistice is you. There are some things that you can't stop just because you want to."

Tyrell looked conflicted. He took out a box of cigarettes from his pocket, picked one, held it in his mouth, and went to find a lighter to light it up.

Savanna reminded Tyrell in a neutral tone, "Mr.

Goodwin, please go to the smoking area outside."

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 425

Tyrell took out the cigarette from his mouth and held it between his fingers. Tyrell pressed the tip of his tongue against his teeth. "Actually, I came here today mainly to take Mandel away. He is the child of Tracy and me. You and Brandon raised him so well. Thank you." Tyrell had always been grateful to Brandon and his wife.

Tyrell was just unable to accept Tracy's death, which was why he had gone mad and done some extreme things, such as the kidnapping of Brandon.

Savanna thought for a moment and replied, "As you said, Mandel is the child of you and Tracy. Tracy was gone, and you are Mandel's biological father. But Brandon came to find you, but you did not give a clear answer at that time. Later, Brandon became paralyzed. This matter was put aside. It is good for you to take the child over, but you have to promise me that you will treat him well for the rest of your life."

Hearing Savanna's words, Tyrell was slightly moved. He hoarsely replied, "Of course, he is my biological child. I love him more than anyone."

"When are you coming to pick him up? Tell me the time. When I go back, I still have to talk to him.

After all, he grew up in the Cassel family. He is dependent on me."

"I can do it anytime.

"I know that he has deep feelings for you. After knowing the truth, it is really not easy for you to treat him as always. Thanks."

Savanna said, "In any case, Tracy was raised in the Cassel family. Tracy has suffered a lot since she was young. Otherwise, she wouldn't have become like that. Tyrell, no one likes war. Take Mandel and live well, and then let our grudge... be written off."

After receiving Savanna's promise, Tyrell rubbed his eyes and said with embarrassment, "There is sand in my eyes."

"Alright, don't be so pretentious. Mandel is a little naughty. You should be more tolerant."

As Tyrell's eyes turned red, he stood up from his stool and turned around. "After you persuade him, call me. Thanks."

Tyrell could almost bury his head to his waist when he walked out of Savanna's office.

Ever since Tyrell came into the office, Jim had been in a state of alert. Seeing that the man did not make a sound and came out embarrassingly, Jim was puzzled and walked into the office. "Mrs. Cassel, what did Tyrell tell you?"

Savanna flipped open the folder. "He wants to take Mandel away."

Jim said, "So he was afraid that others would see him cry."

Jim wondered if Tyrell was faking it.

Jim asked warily, "Mrs. Cassel, is he pretending?"

Savanna said, "It doesn't matter if he is pretending or not. It is a good thing that he is willing to raise Mandel. Tyrell is the biological father of the child anyway. No matter how well we do, we can never replace this kinship."

Savanna was afraid that when Mandel grew up in the future, he would blame her. Therefore, just now, after seriously thinking about it, Savanna decided to let go and agreed with Tyrell to pick up the child.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 426

When Jim heard Savanna's words, Jim's eyelids kept twitching. In short, Jim did not believe that Tyrell would be willing to take Mandel away not long after Flora's death was announced. Jim expressed his doubts and said, "Mrs. Cassel, I think we should be more careful."

"OK."

Jim went out.

And he closed the door.

Savanna began to read the documents. Suddenly, the child in her belly kicked her. She endured the pain and got up. Savanna walked to the windowsill and looked at the world outside the window. She touched her belly with a smile on her lips.

Savanna leaned on the windowsill and closed her eyes for a moment. Suddenly, she wanted to share this joy with Brandon. She took her coat and went out. Jim came up to her.

Savanna said, "Drive me to the hospital."

Jim nodded and followed her out of the Young Group.

The car soon arrived at the hospital. Savanna walked into the ward, and Jim waited outside the door.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 426

Savanna held Brandon's hand. The cool skin that she touched made her frown. Savanna took the remote control and adjusted the temperature of the room to 75°F. Then she called the nurse in and scolded the nurse. Savanna usually did not scold people. Just as she touched Brandon's cold hand, the joy in her heart was replaced by anger. So Savanna blew up.

The nurse repeatedly apologized and promised that such a thing would not happen in the future.

Savanna waved her hand, indicating for the nurse to leave.

The nurse left carefully.

Savanna fell to the side of the bed, and her tears fell.

She knew that she was extremely angry just now. The young nurse did not dare to look at her and kept apologizing. It was not that Savanna was making things difficult for the young nurse, but Savanna was worried about Brandon. Although he was unconscious, he was still breathing. So she would never allow them to treat him like a dead person.

After sitting for a long time and waiting for the anger to subside, Savanna turned her face and slowly looked at the calm man. Brandon just lay there, no matter what changed in the world, no matter whether it was windy or rainy today, and no matter how much the Young Group earned. It seemed that everything had nothing to do with him. Savanna slowly said, "Brandon, I suddenly feel a little envious of you. You don't worry about the change of the stock price, don't care about the progress of the company projects, and don't need to predict the development of New York's technology.

All the business opportunities seem to have nothing to do with you."

There was no response. Savanna could only feel the cold air.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 426

Savanna took a breath and endured the bitterness and discomfort in her heart. She lowered her eyes and looked at her slightly protruding belly. "Brandon, today your daughter kicked me. I can feel her vitality. She is very naughty. Time flies. She is more than four months old. And you have slept for almost a month. Perhaps because she was too happy, Savanna grabbed his hand and placed his large palm on her belly.

Unexpectedly, the child in the belly moved again.

Savanna was surprised. "Brandon, do you feel it? It's our daughter calling you. She said, 'Dad, wake up quickly. I must see you the day I come out!'"

It was unknown if it was because Brandon felt his daughter's movement that his large hand held by Savanna twitched slightly.

Savanna thought it was her illusion. She lowered her eyes and stared at his finger. She held her breath and waited for a long time. He didn't let her down. It seemed that his finger had moved again. Savanna was so happy that her heart was about to jump out of her chest. She got up and ran out of the ward. She suppressed her excitement and shouted to Jim at the door, "Jim, go call the doctor. Brandon seems to be awake."

Hearing this, Jim was overjoyed. He rushed to call the doctor like a gust of wind.

After a while, the doctor stumbled over. After a series of examinations, the doctor's face lit up. "Mrs. Cassel, did you just say something to stimulate Mr. Cassel?"

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 426

Savanna replied, "I said his daughter was about to be born and told him to wake up quickly."

There was hope in the doctor's eyes. "That's great. A person in a vegetative state is conscious. He just can't speak or move, he is sadder than anyone else.

If you say more similar words to him, I believe he will wake up soon."

The attending doctor happily went to write the medical report.

Jim was so excited that he cried.

He pounced on the bed, grabbed Brandon's hand, and cried, "Mr. Cassel, wake up quickly. The Young Group needs you, and Mrs. Cassel can't leave you."

Savanna sat at the head of the bed, silently crying.

Jim did not comfort her. He knew that Savanna had suffered too much in this period. The moment they learned that Brandon had consciousness, who would not cry for such a happy thing?

Even a strong man couldn't help but cry, let alone

Brandon's wife who had slept in the same bed with Brandon for many years.

Brandon had consciousness. Savanna seemed to have seen new hope.

When she returned to Rose Villas, Savanna was full of confidence. As soon as she got out of the car, Lizeth ran out of the villa with the two kids and surrounded Savanna. The two kids hugged Savanna's legs while Lizeth grinned. "I've heard about it. Jim just called to report the good news. Mr. Cassel is coming back from a business trip. When the children heard the news, they were so happy that they could not sleep. They shouted that they would only rest after you come back."

Tye couldn't speak and could only look at Savanna with a pair of bright eyes.

He seemed to be asking, "Mommy, is Daddy coming back?"

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 426

Mandel's voice was loud and clear. "Savanna, I'm so cheerful. Dad is finally coming back. I think Dad will take me to a pizza shop."

Savanna smiled. She stretched out her arms and held her two sons in her arms. "Yes, your daddy is coming back. Are you happy?"

Mandel replied, "Not only happy but also very excited."

Tye nodded.

The two kids took a bath. Savanna told Lizeth to take Tye away. Savanna helped Mandel put on his clothes and brought Mandel to the bedroom. She sat on the bed and kissed Mandel on the forehead. She said seriously, "Mandel, Mom has always loved you.

Today, your biological father came to the company to find me. He said that he would take you away. Do you want to follow him?"

Mandel would cry and throw a tantrum on the spot if it were some time ago.

After hearing what Savanna said, Mandel was very calm for the first time, lowering his head and biting his lip. No one could see what he was thinking.

Savanna carefully touched his elbow. "Darling, you can choose for yourself. If you don't want to go with him, I will refuse him. If you are willing to follow him, I will take you there."

Mandel was silent for a long time. He raised his head and looked into Savanna's eyes. "Savanna, if I go with him, can I come back to see you at any time?"

"Of course, this place ... will always be your home. No matter what Tye has, I will prepare the same things for you."

Mandel nodded his head and replied, "OK."

Savanna looked at his tender face, and her heart welled up with bitterness. "Darling, Mommy will always love you."

Mandel kissed Mandel's forehead and hugged him tightly. He buried his face in her chest and said in a low, muffled voice, "Tonight, I want to sleep with you. Is that okay? Savanna."

Savanna looked at Mandel and said, "Alright."

She held Mandel in her arms and pressed her cheek against Mandel's face. She gently stroked the tip of Mandel's nose, held his little hand, and entered her bedroom

Mandel was excited. He lay on one side to give Savanna some space. He curled his lips into a smile and put his legs crossed. "Savanna, this is the bed of your and Daddy's. Daddy is not here. Tonight, I will warm the bed for you on his behalf."

Mandel turned over when Savanna was lying down. After turning off the light, he kept getting closer to Savanna's embrace and kissing Savanna's neck with his lips. "Savanna, I'm so happy tonight. Tye can't sleep with you, but I can."

Savanna realized that Mandel was always competing with Tye.

Savanna stroked Mandel's hair and rubbed his ears. "Pumpkin, everyone is an independent individual. You are smart and sensible, and Tye is also a cute boy. Both of you will have a successful life. Tye may have something that you won't and not have others that you will. So, don't deliberately compare yourself to Tye."

Mandel thought of something and sighed. His arm around Savanna tightened.

"Okay, Savanna, I will listen to you."

Mandel somehow couldn't sleep well tonight. He woke up from the nightmare several times. Savanna turned on the light and held him tightly in his arms. Feeling that he was trembling violently, Savanna asked anxiously, "Mandel, did you have a nightmare?"

Mandel rubbed his eyes. After seeing who was next to him, he slowly moved his lips. "I saw Tracy. She said that she was my mother. I didn't believe her, and she cried. She cried so hard. I ran, and she chased after me. When I fell, she came over to hug me and even touched my forehead to kiss me. I later found out that she was dead, so I woke up in fright. Savanna, tell me, is Tracy my mother?"

Savanna didn't intend to avoid this sensitive question.

Mandel would eventually know about this one day.

Therefore, she cleared her throat and said word by word, "Do you want the truth or a lie?"

"Of course the truth," Mandel replied without thinking

Savanna said, "The truth is, Tracy is your biological mother. You are the child of Tracy and Tyrell."

After knowing the truth, Mandel got silent.

In the room, it was silent, and even a pin drop could be heard.

Mandel seemed to be struggling to accept this fact. He didn't speak for a long time. Savanna was afraid that he would be sad and quickly said, "Mandel, no matter who gave your birth, Brandon and I will always love you. You will always be our eldest son."

"If that's the case, why did you send me away?" Mandel's eyes blinked with tears.

Savanna said, "I've said that if you don't want to leave us, I won't send you over."

Mandel rolled his eyes and asked, "If I don't want to leave, are you willing to take me in?"

"Of course," Savanna said with a smile.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 427

Savanna thought that Mandel had made a decision. She held his cold little hand and kissed it with her lips. "Pumpkin, don't feel worried. Whether you leave or not, you are the child of the Cassel family."

"The biggest child in the Cassel family." Mandel wiped away a drop of tear from the corner of his eyes and smiled.

Savanna suddenly laughed, "Yes, you are. Tye is the youngest child. And there is another baby in my belly."

Savanna didn't want to discuss this sad story with Mandel anymore. She grabbed his little hand and placed it on her belly. "Feel it. Your sister is kicking me."

Mandel stayed still for a while and felt something on Savanna's belly. His eyes shone. "She's kicking. Savanna, you must inform me of the day she is born. I want to be the first person to see her."

"No problem," Savanna replied.

"Deal."

They hooked their pinky fingers together to make a promise.

They chatted until late at night. The next morning, Savanna was a little sleepy. Instead, Mandel got up early. After getting up, he went to the kitchen to help Lizeth make breakfast.

Lizeth knew that Mandel would leave soon and treated him exceptionally well.

Tye felt the sad atmosphere of parting and woke up early. He walked into the kitchen and joined them to make breakfast.

Lizeth showed the two boys how to make breakfast in the kitchen.

Mandel got up and went downstairs. Lizeth and the two boys were sitting tight in the dining room waiting for her. Seeing her go downstairs, Mandel jumped down from the stool and reached out to hold Savanna's hand. "Savanna, slow down a bit."

Mandel helped Savanna sit on the stool, took a bowl for Savanna, and also put tomato sauce on the bread. "Savanna, take this. Your baby must be hungry."

Tye also brought a cup of warm milk for Savanna.

Savanna sat there, glancing between Tye and Mandel. She was moved to tears.

She finally understood why parents of poor families would feel happy and worthwhile no matter how tired and bitter their lives were as long as their children were filial.

Tye wiped away the tears on Savanna's face with a handkerchief and made a smiling expression to soothe her while waving to prevent her from crying.

Mandel said, "Savanna, Tye is saying that he wants you to be happy. Don't bring bad feelings to your baby. Just now, I told him that she is kicking your belly. Tye is happy."

Mandel turned his head to look at Tye and said in a tone of an elder brother, "Tye, after I leave, you have to be considerate. Now that Daddy is not here, it is very hard for Mommy to manage this family. After the baby is born, Mommy will get more tired."

Mandel sounded an adult.

Tye kept nodding, indicating that he would take care of Savanna and that Mandel didn't have to worry.

Both Savanna and Lizeth were moved by the two children. Lizeth kept turning back to rub her eyes.

For the first time, Savanna hoped that time would pass more slowly.

The two adults and the two boys enjoyed their meal at the breakfast table. The atmosphere was harmonious.

Buzz

The phone rang.

Lizeth got the phone for Savanna from outside the kitchen.

Savanna looked at the name on the screen. When she picked up the phone, she met Mandel's nervous eyes.

"Hello."

"Savanna, did you tell Mandel? When can I come to pick him up?"

It was Tyrell.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 427

Savanna covered the speaker and opened the balcony door. After going out of the room, she replied, "I told him. Tyrell, do you want Mandel to live with you?"

Tyrell was excited when he heard this. He couldn't wait any longer. "Of course, Savanna. He is my son. His mother died. I have to shoulder the responsibility of being a father. I have lost him for five years. I don't want him to hate me when he grows up."

"Mandel has said he is willing to go with you. Come and pick him up in an hour."

Savanna hung up the phone and walked back to the dining table. The bread in Tye and Mandel's bowl was still the same as what when she left.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 428

"Hurry up and eat. What are you doing?" Savanna looked at the two children lovingly and reached out to rub Mandel's head.

Soft hair went through Savanna's fingers, and as the hair parted, a feeling of reluctance gathered up in Savanna.

"Savanna, did Tyrell call? Is Tyrell coming to pick me up?"

Mandel realized that he was going to leave, and his eyes suddenly turned red. The bread in his hand that Mandel loved the most instantly became not plain.

“Yes,” Savanna nodded and said honestly, “Tyrell will come to pick you up in an hour.”

In an instant, tears filled Mandel’s eyes.

Pretending nothing had happened, Mandel lowered his head and took a bite of the bread.

Bean-sized tears rolled down from Mandel’s face, dripping onto the bread slices. They mixed with sour tomato sauce, and the bread tasted sour and astringent.

Savanna felt as if her heart was being cut by a knife.

Savanna would be giving birth in a few months, and it was still uncertain if Brandon would be able to wake up.

Mandel returning to Tyrell’s side was the most perfect arrangement.

LLLL

Savanna toughened up, turned her face away, and quietly wiped away the tears at the corners of her eyes.

At the dining table, the sound of a knife and fork hitting the table suddenly came.

Tye pulled a piece of napkin from the dining table and handed it to Mandel.

Tye looked anxious.

And it was obvious that Tye was trying to Mandel to wipe his face.

“Who cried? Men don’t cry easily. I didn’t cry!” Mandel stubbornly wanted to smile, but his tears fell. Mandel’s two small hands took turns wiping the tears, but Mandel couldn’t wipe them clean.

“Mandel.” Savanna was so heartbroken that she couldn’t breathe. Savanna called out to Mandel, “Don’t cry.”

“Savanna, I can’t bear to part with you.” Mandel choked and stretched out his hands, hugging Savanna tightly.

“I can’t bear to part with you either.” Savanna

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 428

reached out to pull Mandel into her arms. “Your father is quite good. He will treat you well.”

Savanna was referring to Tyrell.

“You are my mother.” Mandel’s furry head was buried in Savanna’s arms, and Mandel’s voice was full of nasal sounds.

“I will always be your mother and this home will always be your home. We welcome you to come back at any time.”

Tye looked at Mandel and Savanna hugging each other. Tears fell down Tye’s cheeks, and Tye’s eyes were also red.

An hour passed.

The doorbell rang.

It was Tyrell.

Lizeth went to open the door and let Tyrell in, who was tall and in black.

“I’m here to pick up the child.” Tyrell seemed to be much more reserved, not arrogant as Tyrell usually was.

Tyrell repeated, “I’m here to take Mandel home.”

Savanna asked Lizeth to hand Tyrell the packed suitcase. Savanna said, “There are some of Mandel’s clothes here, and the toys Mandel likes to play with. You must take good care of Mandel.”

“Don’t worry, I will take good care of Mandel,” Tyrell took the box and said with a serious expression.

“I hope you do what you say,” Savanna looked deeply at Mandel and then said with great reluctance, “Take Mandel.”

“Mandel, come home with me.” Tyrell used his empty hand to hold Mandel.

Unexpectedly, Tyrell grabbed nothing. Mandel dodged.

Mandel took a step back and pursed his lips. Mandel said, “I want to ask. Why do you only come to pick me up now?” he asked.

Tyrell froze when he heard that. It instantly became awkward for everyone.

That caught Tyrell off guard. How should Tyrell answer this question?

Tyrell hesitated for a few seconds and said, "Because of some special things, and I didn't know that you existed, so I missed you for so many years."

Mandel was skeptical of Tyrell's words.

Mandel said in determination, "Although I have two fathers, the one I like the most is still that in the Rose Villas."

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 428

Tyrell felt as if his heart was being cut by a saw. The pain was so bad that Tyrell could not say a word.

It was a deadlock again. Tyrell glanced at Savanna again as if he was complaining that Savanna hadn't had a good talk with Mandel.

"Mandel, aren't you coming with me?" Tyrell felt as if his heart was being cut by a knife as he asked.

"I'll go with you." Mandel took a step forward and stood next to Tyrell.

A smile finally showed up on Tyrell's tense face. Tyrell said gently to Mandel, "Say goodbye to Savanna."

Mandel frowned and muttered unhappily, "I'm going with you because my father is sick. Savanna is now pregnant with a sister, so she can't take care of us."

Mandel's words made Savanna feel bad. It hurt so much that Savanna could not breathe. "Mandel..."

How can Mandel be so sensible?

"Savanna, you must remember to miss me." Mandel buried his head in Savanna's neck.

Mandel almost begged, "Don't forget me."

Savanna nodded and said, "No, I won't."

Mandel did not look back. Mandel got into the car with Tyrell. Tyrell drove away. Lizeth held Tye's hand and chased after them all the way until the car was completely gone. Then the two of them stopped.

Savanna stood at the door of the house and watched the car go away. Tears fell from the corners of her eyes.

Savanna returned after going to work for half a day, because Lizeth said that after Mandel left, Tye was in a bad mood. Tye shut himself in the room, did not speak, and did not eat.

Savanna was afraid that something might happen to Tye and rushed back from the company.

Savanna pushed open the door of the children's room and saw Tye holding his chin, sitting in front of the window, and looking out intently. Savanna looked out. It was a green lawn, a place where the children played. Tye missed his brother.

"Tye, are you unhappy?"

Tye heard Savanna's voice and turned around. Tye met Savanna's probing gaze. Tye suddenly raised the Transformer in his hand. That was Mandel's favorite toy. The Transformer was missing a leg. Mandel deliberately left it with Tye when Mandel packed his luggage.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 428

Mandel's scent seemed to be still floating in the air. Mandel's shadow seemed to be everywhere in the house.

Not wanting Tye to be so conflicted, Savanna suggested, "Tye, let's go to the park to feed the pigeons and relax, okay?"

Tye nodded. Tye, Savanna, and Lizeth went to the park together.

The meadow was like a carpet. When one walked on it, it felt soft and fluffy. Gray and white pigeons were flying in midair.

Lizeth went to buy a bag of bread crumbs and carefully protected Tye when Lizbeth took Tye to try to feed the pigeons.

Savanna saw that the two of them were having a great time, and her agitated mood was gone.

The three of them played in the park for the whole morning. Tye was exhausted and fell asleep in the car on the way home.

Back at home, Savanna asked Lizeth to take Tye back to the room to sleep.

The huge living room was so quiet that one could hear a pin drop.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 428

Yesterday, Brandon could move his fingers. Because of that, Savanna was so excited that she could not sleep well last night. Savanna went to the garage to pick up a car and drove to the hospital.

In the ward, Brandon lay on the bed, still motionless. And Brandon's skin looked pale and almost transparent.

Savanna sat down on the stool beside the bed and reached out to hold Brandon's large palm. Her fingertips gently stroked his palm.

"Brandon, Mandel left. Tyrell took him. I hope you wake up. Don't blame me. He ... might be better with Tyrell."

Thinking of how Mandel was when he left, Savanna had a lump in her throat.

Savanna hadn't slept well the night before. In addition, it was easy to get sleepy during the pregnancy. Savanna leaned on the bed and fell asleep.

In a daze, Savanna felt something gently stroking her neck.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 429

Savanna had a dream.

Savanna dreamed that Brandon had woken up. Brandon, who was wearing a hospital gown, had been unconscious for 54 days. Brandon had lost more than ten pounds. Brandon looked more chiseled.

Brandon stared at Savanna with his dark eyes seriously as if Savanna was a stranger.

The coldness in his eyes was like a sharp arrow, piercing through Savanna's heart.

Savanna cried in her dream, "I am Savanna, your wife. Don't you remember me?"

Savanna cried and woke up.

Savanna met a pair of black pupils while her eyes were filled with tears.

As Brandon narrowed his eyes, he looked elegant.

Savanna was fiercely startled as if she had instantly lost the ability to speak. Savanna said in a broken sentence, "You... You're awake?"

Brandon was expressionless. The strange and distant look made Savanna's fingers tremble. Just as Savanna was in a daze, Brandon's slender fingers reached over and gently touched Savanna's forehead.

The warm touch of their skin was the best proof.

It was so real that a pleasant surprise rushed into Savanna's heart. Savanna's vision suddenly blurred.

“How are you feeling? Are you feeling unwell? I’ll call the doctor! I...”

Savanna turned around and was just about to call the doctor. Brandon suddenly grabbed Savanna’s arm.

Brandon said cruelly, “Who are you?”

Savanna almost fell to the ground, and Savanna suspected that she had misheard.

Is this the nightmare becoming true?

At that moment, the color on Savanna’s face faded and her body could not stop shaking.

“What did you say? You ... don’t remember me?”

Tears flowed down Savanna’s cheeks uncontrollably.

“Why is it like this? You... Why do you not remember me again?”

Brandon almost took Savanna’s life the last time he lost his memory. Why did Brandon have to do it again?

Savanna looked out of the window and forced the surging tears back.

“I’ll call the doctor. I’ll ask the doctor what happened.”

Brandon didn't let go of Savanna's hand. Brandon pulled hard, and Savanna was pulled to Brandon's side.

The strength was just right, so it wouldn't hurt Savanna's belly, and Savanna just happened to throw herself at him.

Brandon said, "Hottie, you look familiar. Give me a kiss and I will remember who you are."

Savanna was familiar with that tone.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 429

Savanna suddenly understood. Savanna was anxious and angry. Savanna punched Brandon in the chest. Savanna said, "Brandon, you just woke up, and you're already joking."

Brandon coughed from the punch and said, "Savanna, are you trying to kill your husband?"

Savanna was both angry and aggrieved. Savanna said, "Then why did you lie to me? Do you know that just now, I was so scared that I almost died?"

That feeling of helplessness and loss surged up once more, making Savanna feel so much pain that Savanna didn't want to live anymore.

Brandon held up Savanna's face and kissed her piously. Brandon used the tip of his tongue to wipe away every trace of bitter tears.

Brandon said, "Don't cry. I won't forget you no matter who I forget."

Savanna nodded. Savanna closed her eyes, and the sound of their lips and teeth intertwined was magnified in the silent ward.

Brandon was like a traveler in the desert who had been blessed by the rain, crazily grabbing every bit of sweet dew in his mouth.

In the end, Savanna was so tired she collapsed in Brandon's arms.

"Brandon, I sent Mandel away. Mandel is with his biological father."

"It's good to send him away. Tyrell will treat him well. We already have a child at home, and you are still pregnant. You can't take care of Mandel." Brandon gently stroked Savanna's soft hair.

After making out, Savanna called the doctor to check on Brandon.

Brandon was well. Other than the weakness that an operating patient should have, all of Brandon's indicators were normal.

Hearing the doctor say that, Savanna finally breathed a sigh of relief. Savanna pursed her lips and forgot about her worries.

Brandon said, "Did you hear that? I'm fine. You can rest in peace and give birth to my daughter."

Just as Brandon finished speaking, Savanna felt the little fellow in her belly kick her as if she was echoing Brandon.

"The baby is moving."

Brandon leaned over to listen and said seriously, "The baby wants you to stop crying. Don't worry about me."

After receiving the news that Brandon had woken up, Darwin and Rex came together, followed by many doctors.

After Darwin completed a thorough examination of Brandon, Darwin felt relieved. Darwin turned to Rex beside him and said, "I can assure you that Brandon is healthy."

Darwin was also very happy. Darwin left with the medical staff.

Rex stayed behind. Rex and Brandon looked at each other. Nothing needed to be said. Rex gently punched Brandon's chest and said, "Don't get sick again. This time, Savanna is very tired. If you don't wake up, I will poke your head with a stick."

Brandon held Savanna's hand and looked at Savanna lovingly. Brandon said, "Thank you."

Rex coldly snorted and said, "Are you thanking me or Savanna?"

Brandon smiled and said, "Thank you both, okay?"

Rex was very happy that Brandon could wake up. At least, Savanna did not need to work so hard.

In the past two days, Rex had always been upset by Savanna's hard work and upset that he could not help her.

Darwin asked someone to call Rex away and said that they would discuss another case together.

When the room was completely quiet, Brandon patted the empty space next to him and asked Savanna to lie down. Savanna rolled her eyes at Brandon and his face suddenly turned red like blood. Savanna said, "You aren't serious. You just woke up. Get some rest."

Brandon said, "I knew you would misunderstand me. My body is okay and I can do it. It's just that you are so big now. If I still want to do that ... I am not a man. I just want to talk to you."

As Brandon spoke, regardless of whether Savanna was willing or not, Brandon grabbed Savanna and pulled her onto the bed.

Savanna was afraid that the family members of other patients would pass by outside, or that the nurses would come in with medicine or something like that. If they saw her and Brandon lying on the bed in the middle of the day, it would be inappropriate.

Brandon held Savanna's soft waist like an iron hoop, and Savanna couldn't move.

Savanna could only shyly take the quilt and cover her neck, only revealing her head.

Brandon said, "Don't worry. They will be tactful.

"It doesn't matter if they see us. If they have never seen a man and a woman being in love, they can come and have a look.

"Savanna, you have worked hard during this time."

Brandon picked up Savanna's white and tender hand, but Brandon felt that it was rougher than before.

Brandon was heartbroken. Brandon kissed her hand and said, "I'm sorry. When I was unconscious, I kept hearing your voice. It was as if you had told me a lot of things. I wanted to open my eyes and look at you, but there seemed to be a mysterious force pulling me. It didn't let me wake up.

"Did you come to talk to me every day?"

Savanna asked, "What did I tell you?"

Brandon recalled, "I can't remember too clearly. You said so much. Sometimes, I could hear you. Sometimes I couldn't hear you. I seemed to have heard you sobbing. I wanted to reach out and hug you. I wanted to kiss you. I wanted to comfort you and protect you. But I couldn't do anything."

That helplessness seemed to have gripped Brandon's heart, making Brandon wish he was dead.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 430

Lover's company was the most effective medicine for healing

With Savanna's meticulous company, the hospital informed Brandon he could leave the hospital the next day.

However, Savanna was worried and asked for another overall exam.

All the indicators, from Brandon's hair to his toes, showed he was healthy.

"Are you relieved now? I am in good health.

It won't be a problem for us to have a third child."

Brandon took the report and patted the back of Savanna's hand, telling her not to worry.

Savanna said with shame and annoyance, "The second one hasn't been born. How could you think about the next one?"

"We love each other so much. The third child is only a matter of time." Seeing Savanna blush, Brandon wanted to tease her.

Rex heard that when he went into the room. He poured cold water on Brandon. "You've just recovered from a serious illness. Restrain yourself. I don't want to drive an ambulance to bring you back."

Brandon glared at Rex. "As a damn single, you know nothing about love."

Rex got angry and waved his hand. "You two leave as soon as possible. Don't be my eyesore."

Staring after Rex's lonely figure, Brandon felt that he himself was blessed.

The black Cayenne drove to the Moon Villas and stopped in the courtyard.

Hearing the sound of the car, Lizeth ran out with Tye.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 430

"Mr. Cassel, you finally came back, from a business trip." Lizeth looked down at Tye beside her and rubbed her hands excitedly on her apron. Tears welled up in her eyes.

The pillar of the family had recovered, and Savanna, who was pregnant, did not have to work so hard and no longer needed to rush between the company and the hospital.

"Yes, I am back." Brandon looked at Tye and echoed Lizeth's words. He held Savanna's hand tightly and looked meaningfully at her. "Thanks to the care of Savanna, I have recovered in a short time."

“These days are hard for Ms. Thompson, and she has lost a lot of weight.” Lizeth saw what Savanna had done and was worried about her.

Brandon stared at Savanna’s face for a while. His eyes were filled with concern.

“You have been thinner. I will make it up.”

At that moment, the wind blew. There was a tantalizing aroma in the air.

“What’s the smell?”

Brandon smelled again. It was the aroma of mushrooms.

“Ms. Thompson said that you would come back. She told me to cook some mushroom soup for you because you like it the most,” Lizeth answered quickly.

Savanna was so meticulous that Brandon was moved.

Brandon gripped Savanna’s soft hand and pulled her into his arms.

Brandon looked down at Savanna’s red lips passionately.

“Lizeth and Tye are still here.” Savanna reached out to stop Brandon, and her fair face turned red.

Brandon turned to look at them. Tye was hiding behind Lizeth timidly, and his eyes were bright.

Tye compressed his lips and said nothing, but his eyes spoke out what he wanted to say.

Tye welcomed Brandon home.

However, he seemed to be disappointed. Staring at Brandon's empty hands, Tye twitched his mouth secretly.

Savanna noticed Tye's expression and shook off Brandon's hand. She walked up to Tye and squatted in front of him.

"What's wrong, Tye? Can you tell me why you are unhappy?"

Tye shook his head to indicate he was not unhappy, but the disappointment in his eyes couldn't be concealed.

Savanna knew what Tye was thinking.

At the beginning of Brandon's illness, in order not to make Tye worry, Savanna and Lizeth told him that his father was on a business trip so he couldn't go home.

They also told Tye that Brandon would bring him a gift when he came back.

Tye stared at Brandon's hands. That was the proof.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 430

He was wondering where the gift was.

Savanna patted Tye on the head. He was annoyed that she had forgotten that.

Savanna turned to Brandon and pretended to be angry. Then, she said, "Haven't you promised to bring a gift for Tye when you return? Why do you forget that?"

People who shared the same bed shared the same thoughts. Savanna and Brandon had a tacit understanding.

Brandon reacted soon and slapped his thigh exaggeratedly.

"What a terrible memory! Tye, can you forgive Daddy? What do you want? I'll buy you now."

Tye snorted and pouted. However, he was no longer disappointed.

In fact, children were like women. Sometimes, what they wanted was care and love instead of something substantial.

Brandon walked over and carried Tye up to hold him tightly.

"Tell me what you want."

Brandon had just been discharged from the hospital. Black stubble covered his chin. He was not as sloppy as other men. With silver hair, he looked like a young yuppie.

Brandon was a playful father. When Tye kept silent, he used his stubble to rub Tye's soft face.

"If you don't tell me, I will rub you."

Tye avoided Brandon and kept silent.

Brandon and Tye laughed together.

Savanna was pleased to see Tye being cheerful as an autistic child.

She suggested, "Tye, you like listening to stories. Why don't you ask Daddy to tell you a story?"

Brandon and Tye agreed.

After dinner, Lizeth took Tye to have a bath. Tye was in a soft bathrobe and sat on his bed.

Brandon had taken a shower and shaved his beard. His face looked clean.

He sat at the edge of the bed. His legs were too long to stretch straight, so he could only bend them.

Brandon took the storybook at the head of the bed and opened it. He chose the story "The Wolf is Coming".

"Once upon a time, there was a boy. He lived in a small village..." Brandon's voice was deep, and he lowered it to tell the story.

Tye listened attentively with his hands supporting his chin. His eyes were bright, and his eyelashes fluttered.

Love Has its Will by Selena Lewis Chapter 430

"When the farmers heard his shout, they thought he was lying again. No one ran to help him anymore..."

When the story was finished, Tye had fallen asleep.

His mouth opened slightly. Shiny mouth water flowed out from the corner of his mouth.

At that moment, the door was pushed open.

Savanna stepped on the soft carpet barefoot in a white nightdress.

She walked to the bed and sat down. Her tiny movements brought a shower gel fragrance.

“What are you telling?”

Brandon tucked Tye in and considerately tucked the four corners of the quilt to prevent Tye from kicking off the quilt.

“Shh, Tye is asleep.”

Savanna became quiet soon.

Brandon sniffed the fragrance in the air. “What’s the smell? It’s so sweet.”

Savanna lowered his head and sniffed. It was sweet. “It should be the smell of the milk shower gel.”

“Milk shower gel? Let me have a taste.”

Brandon lowered his head and pecked Savanna’s collarbone. He nibbled Savanna’s delicate skin.

Wherever he went there was a feeling of numbness.
