Chapter 031 The Lousy Ex-husband

It had been seven or eight years since Owen retired from the military. Since he had not used a hacker tracking technique in a while, he was unskillful now.

After he got the hang of things once again, the movement of his hands across the keyboard was much faster.

Over the years, he had not investigated anyone personally. Even if he wanted to investigate someone, it had always been Jose Sosa who dealt with it. However, that brat was very useless. He even let Hailey Newman stay by his side for three years under the alias of "Hailey Bryne"!

Thinking of that, he simply wanted to blow up Jose's stupid head! Luckily, it was Hailey Newman. It would have been a terrible thing if it had been a commercial spy. However, after investigating, he found that he had wrongly blamed Jose.

Hailey's information and files had been highly encrypted, making them completely impossible to crack by ordinary hackers. Owen had been professionally trained in the military. However, he was good at Sniping, not tracking. The one who was really good at tracking was Matthew Holland, but that brat refused to help him. Not only that, Matthew even wanted to cut the ground from under his feet. When Owen thought of this, he felt a burst of irritation in his heart and wanted to explode! Hitting on the "Enter" key and seeing that Hailey's information was about to appear on the screen, Owen took a deep breath. After picking up the glass and drinking some water from it, he was now ready to get to know his "ex-wife". However, the moment the information was about to be displayed, the web page was suddenly stuck.

Owen's eyes flashed. As he clicked the mouse, the web page that was about to be displayed suddenly appeared with a series of messy codes, followed by a series of "ding" sounds. It seemed that the other party not only withdrew the information application but also launched an attack on him! Owen's expression changed dramatically. After he slammed the glass against the table, his hand started clicking on the keyboard, and he was now officially in a battle mode with the other party. However, the other party's hacking skills were much more proficient than his.

Lines of numeric codes leaped onto the screen in front of him, converging toward the middle. Finally, it formed a picture. It was a hand gesture, the middle finger

After the middle finger disappeared, a word appeared on the screen-"LOSER"! Owen's face instantly darkened. With a slam, he closed the computer.

Hailey looked at the screen with a disdainful smile. Looking at the re-encrypted files, Hailey interlocked her fingers and stretched them. As she thought of her opponent's angry face, she felt great. "Do you think you can beat me? Perhaps in your next life!"

Matthew, who was sitting on the other side, was stunned.

From the moment Hailey turned on the computer and started to operate it, he knew that she should be an expert. However, he did not expect that her hacking skills were invincibly awesome. Her file had been through AES (Advanced Encryption Standard). It was not easy to crack it. When the other party was trying to crack her file, not only did she re-encrypt her files, but also built in an NSA-standard anti-tracking device on top of AES to track the opponent's location. What was more, she even sent the other party a middle finger and blatantly provoked him by calling him a loser. Hailey was such a savage! Obviously, Hailey had vented all her anger that she had been holding back for the entire day on this loser. After shutting down the computer, Hailey closed Matthew's jaw-dropped chin. "Is it necessary to be so surprised? Are you not a hacker too? You must have encountered a lot of scenes like just now." Hearing that, Matthew gulped and pursed his lips. "I have seen a lot of them, but I don't know that there is a great beauty like you among the hackers. The scene just now was too pleasing to the eye."

When Hailey stared at the computer, a string of code flowed smoothly from her slender fingertips. As if she was an ancient heroine, she was devastatingly beautiful in her calm and composed look. However, she was not simply a Chapter 1 The Lousy EX NUSUARIO beautiful woman, but she was also a top killer. The scene was indeed pleasing to the eye.

Glancing at Matthew, Hailey accepted his praise calmly. "You are just narrow-minded. There are many excellent beauties out there. You will see more in the future."

"There's no need for more. You alone are enough for me." Saying that, Matthew smiled at her flatteringly and even winked at her.

Taking a sip of water that Chris Marsh handed over, Hailey said to Matthew with a face full of disgust, "Enough is enough. If this goes on, it only shows that you are a creepy old man." As she said that, Matthew's face immediately collapsed. He was in his prime and not even middle-aged yet. How could he be a creepy old man? He had been insulted by her many times today. However, Mr. Holland had always been a vengeful person. Out of revenge, he said to Hailey, "At this moment, Owen must be sitting in front of the computer and doubting his life. I feel deep sympathy for my brother." Hearing that, Hailey felt that her heart skipped a beat, her eyebrows furrowed.

"Who are you talking about?" "Owen. Owen Moore. Your ex-husband." In just three sentences, Matthew gave Hailey a strong impact. "He asked me to investigate you before, but I didn't agree to it. I suppose he did it on his own."

Hearing that, Hailey asked in disbelief, "That guy with lousy skills is actually Owen?"

Matthew couldn't help but laugh, almost spitting out his saliva. The only person who dared to say that Owen was a lousy person was probably Hailey Turning on the computer again, Hailey checked the IP address of the hacker just now. It was indeed from North City! Moore Mansion! It was Owen!

A burst of unkind laughter sounded in her ear. As Matthew defended his comrade, he explained, "Owen has been away from the military for so many years. He has probably forgotten most of the things he learned in the training. 3/5 6004 skill is indeed lousy."

Hailey couldn't help but hold her forehead, dejected at the fact that she just defeated her ex-husband in hacking.

Standing by the window, Owen smoked in silence with a gloomy look. His computer skills were really not as good as before. If he wanted to completely crack Hailey's file, he might need to practice again. But why was she so mysterious? What kind of secret was she carrying? And what kind of expert was helping her to hide all of this? Perhaps he really had to make a trip to Poya personally to obtain the answers. Putting out the cigarette, Owen took out his phone and dialed a number. Just as Matthew was speaking ill of Owen to Hailey, his phone suddenly rang. Looking at the caller ID, Matthew smiled. "Speak of the devil." When Hailey saw that it was Owen's number, her heart inexplicably tightened. With that, Matthew picked up the phone. "Hello..." As Matthew looked at Hailey with a playful expression, she also stared at him with a serious expression as she mouthed a warning. "If you dare to talk nonsense, you're doomed!" Raising her right thumb, Hailey drew a line on her neck as a warning. Looking at Hailey's nervous appearance, Matthew couldn't help but want to laugh. Just then, Owen's cold voice came from the other side of the line. "Didn't you say that you took a fancy to a piece of land in the northern Suburbs of Poya and wanted to start a racecourse business? Count me in." "The land belongs to someone else. I am still discussing the collaboration with them. It hasn't even been set yet," Matthew said.

As he mentioned "someone else", Matthew looked at Hailey. Seeing her glaring at him like a tiger eyeing its prey, Matthew suddenly had a feeling that if Owen was included in this collaboration, it might work.

"Cut the crap. Deal?" Owen asked impatiently.

Chapter 032 Do You Admit Your Mistake?

It took two and a half hours to drive from North City to Poya. The outside was covered in dense clouds, and the sound of the rain was really driving people to sleep. Hailey was not in the mood to chat with Matthew as she put on the blanket and was ready to sleep. Before falling asleep, she warned Matthew, "Don't make a sound." After that, she said to Chris, "If he is not obedient, throw him out!" "Don't worry. I am a good boy," Matthew assured. "Do you want me to lend you my shoulder?" As Matthew asked, he handed half of his shoulder over.

"No thanks, I am afraid of nightmares," Hailey rejected. With a yawn, she closed her eyes and ignored him. Looking at the woman who was sleeping soundly with her eyes closed in the blanket, Matthew chuckled. At the moment, she looked adorable, making people want to hug and kiss her. Taking out his phone, Matthew took a photo of Hailey.

Unfortunately, his act was caught by Chris. As Chris wanted to take Matthew's phone, his warned with a stern gaze, as if saying "How dare you secretly take a photo!"

Raising his phone high, Matthew shushed Chris to be quiet. In response to his gaze, Matthew blinked his eyes innocently, implying "I didn't do it secretly. I took the photo open and aboveboard." However, Chris forced him to delete the photo. At last, Matthew seemed to have no choice but to delete it, but in fact, he had already saved the photo elsewhere.

The photo of sleeping beauty had to be preserved permanently. Maybe he should send a copy to Owen later. It was such a pity for him not to have a photo of his wife after three years of marriage.

Hailey had a restful sleep. When she woke up, the car had already arrived at Poya. It was almost dark As she opened her eyes, Hailey met Matthew's bright eyes. She couldn't help but frown. "Why are you still in the car?"

"I'm waiting for you to wake up so that I can discuss with you about something." Matthew felt a little wronged and aggrieved. After all, he, Matthew Holland, had always been invincible in love as he could attract a lot of women everywhere he went. But why couldn't he get Hailey to like him?

Hailey stretched the kinks from her body, and her voice was a little hoarse. "What's the matter?" "It's about a racecourse business. I really wish to cooperate with you," Matthew replied. Taking the water handed over by Chris, Hailey drank half of it to moisten her throat. Then, she opened his mouth and said, "You should show your sincerity if you wish to collaborate. It can't be fifty-fifty. The most I can offer is thirty percent. I'll take seventy percent, and you can have thirty." Hearing that, Matthew narrowed his eyes. "Sixty-forty. You know the strength of the Holland family in the racecourse. We have abundant horse resources. If you cooperate with me, you won't be at a disadvantage." Drinking the remaining half glass of water, Hailey said to Chris, "Let's draft the contract." "Yes," Chris replied. Matthew smiled. She was more straightforward than he had imagined Raising his eyebrows, Matthew smiled. "Are you not worried that I will use the opportunity to pursue you?"

"I don't care at all." Hailey said lazily, "It's your business whether you want to do the pursuit or not. Likewise, it's also my business whether I agree or not. If you can make me fall in love with you, it must be because you earn it." "With your words, I know what to do." Hearing that, Matthew snapped his fingers.

The cooperation project of the racecourse still needed to be finalized. Matthew got off the car at the entrance of Crystaldale Company. Back in the company, Hailey called for a meeting with the senior management to announce the plan to transform the land in the northern Suburbs from a golf course to a racecourse. This meeting was naturally held without the knowledge of Morgan Newman and Reid Newman, and there was no need to inform them.

She stayed to work for a while and signed a few documents. When night fell, Hailey got a phone call from home. On the other side of the line, Lily the housekeeper reported to her that Eve could not hold on anymore. Hailey's eyes flashed. She almost forgot about Eve. Eve was about to die now. She felt that her soul was about to leave her body. If she really died in starvation and became a ghost, she would be a hungry ghost. The second lady of the Newmans, who had grown up carefree and had nothing to worry about, had never been so hungry. On the first day, Eve was feeling okay as she took it as dieting and losing weight. However, by the next morning, she was awakened by hunger. Eve really couldn't take it anymore. She wanted to pry open the door, but the door was locked from the outside. She wanted to jump out of the window, but the window was also tightly sealed. Even if the window was successfully pried open, she didn't dare to jump out of it.

Her phone was confiscated by Hailey, and the landline in the room was also removed from the outside line. There was no way to call for help to the outside world, and she could only contact by using internal line at home. Eve couldn't bear it anymore and shouted at Lily, "How dare you all imprison me? You guys have to be clear on this-I'm the boss, and all of you are servants. In ancient times, all of you are nothing but slaves! How dare you all bully me? Get me out of here immediately, or I will teach you a lesson!"

After waiting for her to finish scolding, Lily said lightly, "Miss Eve, before Miss Hailey left, she said that you have to make one of the two choices. Either you have to pick up the steamed buns and admit your mistakes, or you will starve."

"You want me to apologize to her? Tell Hailey to go to hell! Damn it!" Eve was so angry that she smashed the phone. After that, Lily ignored her again. When Hailey got home, she directly turned on the surveillance camera. From there, she could observe Eve's performance in the past two days. No matter how stubborn she was, the hungriness would make her surrender. Eve was so hungry that she was on the verge of dying. Half of her body was on the side of the bed as if she had no strength left. She was muttering something. Looking at the dirty and hardened steamed buns on the floor, Eve pursed her lips. At last, she could not hold on any longer, and she reached out her hand toward the steamed buns. When she put the steamed bun into her mouth and wolfed it down, Hailey opened the door and saw this scene.

Eve was like a thief who was suddenly caught doing something bad. When she heard the sound of the door lock, her whole body trembled and her throat stiffened. The cold and hard steamed bun was blocked in her throat, and she suddenly coughed vigorously. Cough, cough, cough...

Seeing that she almost fainted from coughing, Hailey stepped forward and slapped her back heavily. Just then, Eve spat out the steamed bun that was stuck in her throat. At the same time, Eve also felt that her spine was about to be broken by Hailey! It was unknown whether because of her coughing or because she was in pain that she burst out in tears. However, the next moment, Eve smelled a strong fragrance.

Behaving like a puppy, she sniffed the air.

Turning around, she saw a maid holding a tray with all kinds of food. There were freshly baked whole wheat bread, homemade buns...

Eve had been starving. She pounced toward the food with hunger. However, the maid handed the tray to Hailey.

Taking the tray. Hailey calmly put it on the coffee table. Then, she sat on the sofa and looked at Eve who was kneeling on the ground. "Do you know the taste of hunger now?" Eve nodded with tears in her eyes. She knew it too well! Seeing that, Hailey asked again, "Do you admit your mistake?"

Gritting her teeth in hatred, Eve was so hungry that she had no strength to fight against Hailey. Therefore, she could only endure the humiliation and nodded, and her eyes were staring straight at the food on the coffee table. Only then did Hailey raise her chin as if granting amnesty to Eve. "You can eat now."

Hearing that, Eve immediately rushed over, grabbed the whole wheat bread and put it into her mouth. The food was so fragrant. Looking at her, Hailey sneered gently. Pfft. Eve was so easy to deal with.
