

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 12 False Intensions

“Daniel, I am sorry but I didn’t have any options back then.” Arya’s acting was very good. After she said a few words, she broke into tears.

Daniel frowned and asked sternly, “Then what about Luna? Without your permission, would she dare to do what she did to me?”

“Daniel, you are still suspecting me? Since you do not believe me, then I will leave!”

Arya bit her lips, turned her head and walked out of the office with a wronged expression on her face.

But if she left, who would justify Caroline and take the blame?

Just as Arya was about to leave, Daniel quickly stopped her with an earnest expression and said, “I believe you! I was just a bit anxious! I need your help right now. You will help me, right?”

“How can I help you?” Arya looked at Daniel with tears in her eyes and asked after a moment of hesitation.

“Actually, the matter is very simple.” Daniel pulled her arm, “You just need to explain to the investors and directing team that everything happened because you wanted to make a comeback to acting so this was all your doing and then everything will be solved!”

“Is that so?” Arya smiled bitterly. She knew very well that the moment she appeared, she would be directly targeted. Caroline’s reputation would be cleared.

Afraid that she would discover his intension, Daniel stood in front of her and made a promise, “Arya, I’m doing this for our future. If the company doesn't succeed well, I won't have the face to go to the Morrison family. Rest assured, once this matter is over, I will immediately marry you!"

What a ridiculous scene. Why had she been so stupid in the past to be blinded by such words?

Arya nodded in slowly, "I can promise you that, but this will be the last time."

"Alright, I'll send someone to arrange it right away. You can rest here and don't go anywhere." Daniel said a few more words of advice and quickly left with his assistant.

In the spacious office, Arya gracefully took a tissue and wiped away her tears. The driver then pushed the door and entered, "Miss Arya, Mr. Daniel wants me to send you to the hotel for a rest. He'll look for you after he's done with his business.”

“Oh, really?”

He must be in hurry to update Caroline the latest developments.

“It's fine. Let him be if he is busy. I can...”

Before Arya could finish her sentence, she was interrupted by the driver, “His meaning is I must send you to the hotel.”

Arya understood that Daniel wanted someone to watch over her, but fortunately she already had a plan in advance. It didn't matter if Daniel sends people to watch her, but she definitely wouldn't compromise and take blame for them!

“Alright, then I'll go to the hotel and wait for him.”

Suppressing her emotions, Arya tightly grabbed the bag in her hands, pretended to be obedient and followed the driver out of Brilliant Entertainment.

Behind their car, Allen's men had been following them around in their cars. He could let Arya handle the situation as she pleased, but he wouldn't compromise with her safety.

Arya looked at the driver's rearview mirror a few times, then opened the window and looked behind her.

She knew the license plate number very well, and her lips were slightly raised. Her decision to choose that man made her feel at ease.

Arya walked into the hotel under the gaze of the driver, she walked into the elevator.

Luna walked over with a peaked cap and took off her mask. She smiled and said, “Daniel should have more people to watch you.”

“Luna!” Arya was both touched and sorry. “I’m sorry that you’re suffering together with me.”

“Don’t be sentimental; what are we going to do next? It seems that Daniel will not let you move freely.” Luna analyzed.

“It doesn’t matter. I have Luna’s help, and definitely make them bear the losses.” Arya suddenly thought of Allen and her lips unconsciously curled up into a smile.

When Luna saw her expression, she tilted her head and asked, “That smile of yours is weird. Is there someone else helping you behind the scenes?”
