

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 27 I Want You to Remember Me

The car stopped near the port by the river. The wind blew Arya's long hair and skirt, her face was flushed by the night wind. Allen saw Arya's face, he took off his jacket and draped it on Arya's shoulders.

"Mrs. Jones, please step abroad the yacht."

Arya looked up at him and she held onto his outstretched hand.

"I didn't realize the scenery to be so beautiful at night from yacht."

The stars shone brightly on a clear dark night like a glittered curtain. Leaning against the railing, Arya enjoyed the night.

As the jazz music played inside, the music echoed throughout the yacht. Allen stood next to her and frowned slightly. "It's not enough."

"Huh?"

Arya looked at him in astonishment. The next second, he embraced her and then fireworks shot into the air surrounding the night sky. She was drawn to the man's gaze in front of her.

"I want you to remember this evening, and I want you to remember me." His affection was deeply imprinted in Arya's heart.

Arya smiled and gently rested her head on his chest. "I will cherish tonight in my heart."

His domineering attitude, his care and thoughtfulness and his lingering kisses.

They gazed at each other with admiration and appreciation.

Allen, wait for me. I will definitely be in a position to stand next to you, side by side.

In Allen's heart, he too, was also looking forward to that day. He also wanted to see what his little wife had in store for those scumbags.

While Arya was enjoying the wonderful evening, Caroline was at home, angrily throwing things around.

To be in 'The Evening', she had put so much effort. Why did Arya have the opportunity to be offered the second female lead? Unfortunately, there was nothing she could do. This situation happened because Daniel still cared about Arya.

Hearing the footsteps behind her, Caroline turned around, looked at Daniel with teary eyes and asked “What are you doing here?”

“Of course, I’m here to see my darling.” Daniel presented her a beautifully wrapped gift box. “This is the necklace that you like so much last time, try it on.”

“I don’t need more necklaces, I have enough of them!” Caroline wasn’t appreciative. She knew this was Daniel’s way trying to appease her.

“Then what is it you want? I’ll buy it for you right away! Even if you want stars in the sky, I will get them for you.” Daniel said as he hugged Caroline and placed a kiss on the side of her neck.

“You know exactly what I want!” Caroline snorted.
“Everything Arya did was to indicate that she will steal

you away from me!”

In Allan’s haart, ha too, was also looking forward to that day. Ha also wantad to saa what his littla wifa had in stora for thosa scumbags.

“Idiot, I’ll always be yours. Don’t let your imagination run wild; it’s not good for baby.”

Daniel patted her back gently. He was oblivious that the woman in his arms had plans prepare to embarrass Arya.

Everything would have been alright if Arya had not accepted the second female lead. Since she had accepted the role, Caroline was not to let this go. After all, she was much more popular than Arya. It would be a piece of cake to create problems for Arya.

After all Daniel had no choice but to agree to Arya's role as the second female lead, Arya was invited to the film crew's opening ceremony.

"Arya, I've arrived." Luna parked the car in front of the villa and saw Arya walking down the stairs wearing a simple sports coat. She frowned immediately, "Is that all you're wearing?"

“Uh-huh.” Arya took a look at her attire. The dress looked relaxed and natural; she didn’t see there was anything wrong with it.

Coincidentally, Allen walked out and overheard their conversation.

“Come with me.” He gently took Arya’s hand and walked into the walk-in wardrobe that was specially designed for Arya.

“Don’t you like any of these? I’ll have someone arrange them again to your style.”
