

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 30 Just a Clown to Ac

“I’ll find someone to see if it can be restored to its original state.”

Luna hurried and left. Arya saw an incoming call on her phone. It was Allen.

“How is work? Going well? The weather forecast says it will be a bit colder later, take of yourself.”

Arya smiled faintly and replied, “No, there was some issues but I will deal with it.”

She put the phone in her bag and walked back to the set.

On the other side of the phone, there was a coldness in the man’s dark eyes. Tapping his fingers on the table, he said, “Go order lunch in Arya’s name and deliver it to her.”

“OK, Director Jones.”

Although he could not interfere with her plans, he could not neglect her. At the very least, he wanted to let others know that Arya had someone protecting her from afar.

After Arya had makeup on and changed her cloths, Caroline arrived.

“I’m sorry for being late, director. I just got discharged from the hospital, I wasn’t feeling well.” She explained as she held her forehead, looking very tired.

Director Brown looked at the schedule for today, then said, “There’s no scenes for you to do today, you can go back and rest.”

Caroline smiled and said, “I want to stay with everyone. You don’t need to pay attention to me, please continue.” Then she walked to her seat on the side to sit down.

Arya ignored her completely as she quietly sat on the bench, waiting for the director’s instructions.

When the actors saw how calm Arya was, they mocked her and said, “She is not even reading the script. Who knows how many mistakes she will make in a short while.”

“She’s properly already prepared to quit the production.”

After a short discussion between the Director and Assistant Director, Director Brown yelled into the loudspeaker, “Everyone get ready. First scene, shoot the scene when Emma enters the mansion.”

He glanced at Arya, who was already prepared was in position, “No problem, right?”

Arya made an OK gesture with her hand. Her expression was very calm. After the director finished his instructions, her expression immediately went into the character.

In front of camera, she seemed to have become a complete different person. From excited to nervous, also a little shy, portraying the second female lead, Emma, very well.

As she knocked on the door, she lowered her head and smiled. After opening her mouth wide, she stepped back two steps before stepping forward again. Just as she was about to knock again, the door opened suddenly.

When she saw the pavilion inside, her surprised expression was distinctly visible.

“From now on, will I be staying here?” Her eyes showed her inner excitement as she stepped through the door.

The director checked the scene, was very satisfied then shouted, “Cut, it’s done!”

When the actors saw how calm Arya was, they mockingly said, “Sha is not even reading the script. Who knows how many mistakes she will make in a short while.”

As expected, Arya still lived up to his expectations. After working together for three years, the movie queen’s radiance hadn’t faded at all.

The film crew all nodded in satisfaction. With one shot, she was able to portray the character so well. Arya’s acting was too perfect. Next, Arya had two more scenes and in one of the scenes, she gave a long dialogue which again made no mistakes.

Towards the end of the scene, her teary eyes made everyone praise her in admiration.

It wasn't until the director shouted 'Cut', she resumed her normal and quite demeanor. This was definitely a textbook performance.

"Did you see her recite her lines?"

"No, I didn't see her bring the script over. She memorized all the lines? That's impressive!"

"As expected as a movie queen award winning actress, if she hadn't retired, who knows what her worth would be as a famous celebrity?"

On the other side of the phone, Caroline was enraged when she saw Arya's performance. She wanted to act on her anger but on the second thought, she decided to be patient. After all, since she was in a production team with Arya, there would be plenty of opportunities to torment her. She would ensure Arya wouldn't have a peaceful time, "Just you wait, I have someone in production so wealthy supporting me, you are just a clown who can act!"
