Chapter 331

His Dream

There was only a dim yellow light in the villa. Arya went into the bathroom to help Allen wash up. His arm was injured, so it was very inconvenient.

"Does it hurt?" Arya looked at his arm and sighed, "Don't let yourself be in danger in the future. I will feel sorry for you."

Allen turned around and hugged her gently. "I promise you that I will not let myself get hurt again."

At this time, both of their hearts were heavy. Buying the Skywings did not make them happy. Instead, it was as if they were carrying a heavy burden.

"Allen, you are the most outstanding man I have ever seen. But occasionally, you can also rely on me when you are tired."

"I was just suddenly moved. Death is so close to us. It is only when Death is standing beside us that we realize that it is too late. If I did not meet you, I might be as lonely as Santiago in a few decades."

Arya wrapped her arms around Allens and rested her head on his chest. She listened to his heartbeat and said quietly, "People will die. Allen, you should rest early, okay?"

Arya brought his pajamas and put them on him. The two of them went back to the bedroom together.

All this time, it was Allen who helped her fulfill her dream. She was also very clear about her goal. But what about him?

As the president of the Dahua, he controlled everything, but it seemed like nothing was done for himself.

"What are you thinking about?" Allen asked when he saw Arya standing by the bed in a daze.

"I am thinking about what you are thinking about. Is there anything else you want to do other than President of Dahua?" Arya asked very straightforwardly.

"I want to be the scriptwriter." Allen leaned against the bed and held Arya's hand.

He had achieved what many people dreamed of, but what he really wanted to do was something else.

We'll Register Tomorrow

On the way from the company to the slimming class, Luna thought that Martin still had to work overtime at night, so she wanted to go to the nearby food street to buy lunch for him. Just as she turned the corner, she chased after a car parked by the roadside.

Because she was too fast, Luna was directly knocked unconscious by the airbag that popped out.

By the time she woke up, she had already been unconscious in the hospital for a few hours.

"The patient's diet has been poor recently, causing her body to be weak. That's why she has been unconscious for so long. She must have a proper diet and must not lack nutrition."

Martin listened. He looked at the person on the bed and frowned. "Thank you, doctor."

At this time, Luna had already woken up. But when she heard the doctor's words, she covered her face with the blanket and really wanted to find a hole to hide in.

"Get up when you're awake. Don't pretend to be asleep." Martin felt a little helpless. He did not say that he disliked her. Why was she obsessed with losing weight?

Luna knew she could not avoid it. She slowly poked her head out of the blanket. "I..."

She had just said one word when she saw Martin's haggard face due to the continuous overtime.

"Because you came to see me, it has delayed your rest time again. I am already fine. Let's go."

Martin should go back to sleep during this time.

"You!" Martin could not do anything to her. However, the doctor had said that she was fine. "I have already negotiated with the owner of the car. You must be careful when you drive in the future. But why did you take a detour to that side?"

"I... I know you're working overtime tonight. I was afraid that you wouldn't have time to go out for dinner and wanted to buy a bento for you." Luna lowered her head like a child who had made a mistake.

Martin felt even more sorry for her now that he said that.

"Let's go home!"

Along the way, he held Luna's hand tightly...

When they entered the house, Luna wanted to turn around and apologize to him but was pushed to the wall by him and kissed, "Do you know how worried I am? Why did something happen to you after only a few hours of separation?"

Qualifications To Attend Such A Banquet

Stanley was more anxious than anyone else when he saw the listless faces of the employees as they were unable to pay their salaries.

In order to pursue Arya's scandal, he had taken out all his belongings. After he had paid his salary two months ago, he had taken out his house as collateral. Now, he was at the end of his rope.

"Mr. Ward, the money I saved is only enough for me to last until the end of this month. If you can't pay my salary again, I really have to leave."

"Chief Editor, we don't want to force you. It's just that everyone has to live."

Stanley knew that these people had indeed suffered a lot following him. He clenched his fists and said to everyone, "Give me a little more time. The situation will change very soon."

Hearing what he said, the employees had no choice but to wait.

Stanley sat in front of his desk and thought for a while. He picked up his bag and left quickly. He went straight to the restaurant that night and asked the waiter for the contact information of the mysterious boss.

But before he could say anything, the waiter handed him a phone.

That man knew he would agree!

Stanley's palms were sweating. He felt like he had fallen into the trap of some big shot, or maybe he was making a deal with the devil.

"Hello? I promise I will do what you say."

"It's still the same price. If you have any other requests, you can raise them." That person smiled indifferently, his tone carrying a kind of viciousness that toyed with people's hearts.

Go And Ask Allen Who I Am

Katherine saw that the organizer was talking to someone not far away. She immediately took her handbag and walked over proudly.

Arya frowned slightly. She could not care about anyone but Katherine who appeared out of thin air and had hostility towards her made her a little concerned.

"The Smith Corporation has been developing very well recently and has business dealings with many international family businesses. As the Smith Family's youngest daughter, Katherine's temper has always been like this. She looks down on the entertainment industry but wants to attend this kind of banquet to show her special status."

"She is going to look for the person in charge now. She should be asking to change seats."

Arya looked at Lorena who explained the situation to her and nodded, indicating that she understood. However, the expression on her face was even more indifferent.

"With such a background, no wonder."

"I remember that you are also from a famous family. Perhaps your family background is not worse than hers."

When mentioning the Morrison Family, Arya's eyes turned darker. She did not answer and only looked away.

Seeing her like this, Lorena did not speak again. After all, it was enough for her to live a good life in such an occasion. Who would really treat anyone as a friend?

At this moment, Arya's phone vibrated. It was Allen's message.

"I'm done here. I'll go and pick you up."

"Okay. I'll probably be gone in a while." Arya gave a simple answer.

"I will wait for you."

It seemed that the meeting at the Dahua had ended. Arya looked at the watch on her wrist. If there was no need for her to be here all the time, she was prepared to leave first.

At this time, Katherine walked back to her seat and saw that Arya had just sent a few messages. She asked her directly, "Is it Allen Jones?"

Ms Smith, Have Some Self Respect

Katherine just wanted to scold Arya. She did not expect that this sentence would bring her a lot of trouble.

The female actors beside her would occasionally talk about her. Some even accidentally spilled their red wine glasses on Katherine's dress. They were all watching Katherine make a fool of herself.

"I'm sorry, Miss Smith. I did not notice you..."

"Stay away from me!" Katherine immediately stood up and avoided the actress's hand that wanted to wipe the wine stains for her. She quickly walked to the washroom.

After that, the actress snorted and returned to her seat.

The person beside her revealed a mocking smile and could not help but say, "You should teach that kind of person a lesson. Her words are so unpleasant!"

"Arya, how did you do it? Katherine provoked you so much and you didn't even take action."

Arya smiled slightly and picked up the red wine cup. She could be considered to thank these few people for helping her teach Katherine a lesson. Sometimes, there would always be others who hated that kind of woman who spoke unpleasant words more than she did. Why did she need to take action?

At this time, Lorena realized that Arya was a very smart woman.

"No wonder there are so many female artist in the entertainment circle, but Director Jones has taken a fancy to you."

Arya smiled, "Don't judge my relationship with Allen with your eyes."

"Although Katherine's words are unpleasant to hear, she was right. In the entertainment circle, how many people are clean?"

Wanting to marry into the Wealthy Class was almost every actress's dream, but how many could dream and come true?

"I only have one principle when I do things. If I don't offend you, I won't be offended by you. I never said that, I am a good person, but... there are some boundaries that I will never touch."

After saying that, Arya no longer spoke to any of them. This kind of meaningless social activities, she did not want to continue.

After Katherine walked out of the washroom, the person in charge had already arranged another table for her. She arrogantly looked over at Arya's side and went over to take a seat.

Call The Morrison Family

More importantly, he had left the Smith family's beloved jewel to protect an actress?

"Dad, I can't tolerate this!" Katherine thought of Arya's carefree manner and was so angry that her teeth itched.

"What did you just say the actress's name was?" Mr. Smith seemed to have thought of something.

"Her name is Arya Morrison. She just signed a contract with the Dahua." Katherine said snappily.

"I remember that the granddaughter of the Morrison Family is called Arya. She left the house a few years ago and entered the entertainment circle. Could it be the same person? I will call the Morrison Family later and make sure that she will apologize to you in person."

"Dad, are you talking about the Morrison Family of the jewelry and perfume family?"

"Yes. When you were young, you even learned ballet with the two daughters of the Morrison Family. Have you forgotten?"

Katherine suddenly became even more frustrated. Originally, she was able to step on Arya because of her family background that she was proud of. After all, she was just a lowly actress who relied on her body to get to the top. But now... Arya was also a Noble Miss!

This feeling of losing an advantage made Katherine very unwilling.

"She is a good big miss and still wants to be an actress?"

"I heard that she was chased out of Morrison Family. The specific situation needs to be understood."

Escorted out of the Morrison Family?

Katherine's mood immediately became much better. She immediately held onto her father's arm, "Dad, quickly call the Morrison Family and ask!"

Outsiders did not know why Arya gave up Noble Miss's life and went to the entertainment circle to fight. However, the people of the Morrison Family understood very well. They just did not know if the Smith Family father and daughter could find out the reason...

Arya saw the fatigue in Allen's eyes and hugged him.

"I see you are so tired. I really want to do something for you. Now that the matter of acquiring the Skywings was nearing its end, the list of actors for the Memory Fragment was finalized, so can you rest for a few days? "

"It's not that simple. Actually, the upper echelons of the Dahua don't think highly of 'Memory Fragment' as compared to the current mainstream commercial films, this movie is more partial to the plot of the story. It might not fit the taste of the majority of the audience."

In this era, very few people would spend money to watch sentimental films.

Arya also considered this point. The Dahua was a company after all. The directors needed to see a rewarding plan.

"Allen, this movie will definitely be popular!" Arya looked up and said firmly, "You have always been very strategic when doing things. Although from the data, most of the audience may not like such a theme, but as long as you publicize it well and let everyone spread it, perhaps the more unique story will become a dark horse."

"I guess the reason why you are so conflicted is because the screenwriter of this movie is you, right?"

Allen's eyes were shaking with shock.

Arya continued, "Actually, I was deeply attracted when I first saw this script. You used this story to persuade Bieber and moved me. Clarissa was also very interested in it. Can't this prove that it is a good movie?"

"Although I don't know what kind of feelings you have for this movie..."

Allen did not expect Arya to see through this matter. He did not deliberately hide it but... He nodded and picked up the script and said, "You are right. This was written by me before I became President of Dahua."

Arya suddenly understood.

In other words, Allen wanted to be a scriptwriter more than a businessman.

Arya looked at Luna and was a little puzzled, "In the past, no matter where I go, you would always come with me. Now that Martin is here, are you going to abandon me?"

"No, this time when you enter the production, you will be back in two weeks and the boss will be with you. I don't need to go, right?" Luna smiled and said.

Arya grabbed Luna's hand and interrogated seriously, "Is it that simple? Why do I feel that you are hiding something from me?"

Luna lowered her head and took out the marriage certificate from her bag, "That day after I received the marriage certificate, I did not have time to put it back home. Martin and I are already legal."

"What!" Arya opened their marriage certificate in surprise and surprise, "Why didn't I hear you say that?"

"We made a decision at the last minute. We just want to go further." Luna's face was red and her voice became softer as she spoke, "He wants to sleep with me before the wedding. I insisted that we can't, so we took the marriage certificates."

Arya put down the marriage certificate and reached out to hug Luna. She felt a little unhappy in her heart, "You married yourself just like that and I did not even have the time to bless you."

"Between us, Needless to say." Luna smiled and hugged Arya back. "Moreover, Martin and I don't want to do anything. It's good to live our lives like this."

"In that case, I have to approve your leave application and enjoy the two of you!" Arya smiled and said, "I will call Allen now and ask him to give Martin a few days of leave. You guys can have a sweet time."

"You better..."

When Arya told Allen about the marriage between Martin and Luna, Allen looked at the busy figure outside the office and nodded, "Okay, I will give him a break right away. He needs time to rest too."

Allen had no choice but to agree to Arya's request.

After getting off the plane, he brought Arya to have a meal and went straight to the production of the movie.

After seeing them, Clarissa was very excited. She immediately brought Arya to see the other Assistant Director on the production team. After that, she took Arya to try out her makeup and clothes.

When Arya walked out of the dressing room in that medieval long dress, Allen only had one word in his eyes, "stunning." Even though he had seen her shine on the stage many times, but this time, Arya gave him a different feeling.

When she wore the gray and black dress, she immediately entered the role that the script required. It was as if she really was a woman who walked out of the ancient oil painting.

When Arya turned around in front of the mirror, Clarissa could not help but clap her hands in praise. Arya had this kind of ability to play all the roles into three parts. She was a born actress!

Allen also really understood Arya's unique charm at this time. She was not trying to put on makeup, but turning herself into a person in the play.

"It's perfect!"

Arya turned her body to look at Allen. Her eyes were filled with the emotions she was looking forward to. Allen nodded with a smile, "Very beautiful..."

This kind of beauty was not only Arya's beauty, but also the character's beauty.

"Director Jones, you really don't need to hesitate anymore. The female lead of your movie is definitely her!"

Hearing Clarissa say so, Arya understood what she meant, but there was a trace of hesitation in her heart. She did not know if she could perform the character Allen wanted.

Allen did not say anything. He did not want to give Arya too much pressure, even though he trusted her strength more than anyone else.

Allen's silence, Arya blinked. "Do you think any other movie in the past. When he looked at Arya, his eyes burned with excitement. Chapter 339 Unwanted Phone Call

The news of Dahua's annual investment in the new Memory Fragment had already spread throughout the country.

That night, the chosen female lead, Skylar, was having dinner with an elegant woman in a high-class coffee shop.

In the past five years, Skylar had been the lead actress in many official dramas and had achieved good results. In addition, she was a professional drama actress and had a solid foundation in her lines. Many big directors were willing to work with her. She was only in her early thirties, but she was able to get a good box office in the international film industry. This point made her score even higher.

Based on this development trend, in a few years, she would become one of the most valued actresses in Dahua.

In order to strive for her to be able to act in the "Memory Fragment," the Dahua had also put in a lot of effort.

It was just that before signing the contract, this woman suddenly came looking for her. There were only two words on her name card, Xandra Briggs.

As far as Skylar knew, this Xandra's father was a shareholder of the Dahua. Why did she find her at this time?

"The Dahua knows how to select people. Miss Skylar is very charming." Xandra smiled and praised.

"If you have anything to say, just say it." Of course Skylar was not stupid. She liked to put things on the surface. After being in the entertainment circle for so long, she still had a bit of discernment. It was just that she did not know how many trump cards Xandra had that she dared to challenge Allen.

"Okay, I will get straight to the point. I want you to be the female lead of Memory Fragment."

From Xandra's smile, Skylar could clearly feel that she did not want to put on a serious act, but had other plans.

"And then?"

"There is no need for you to stop acting. As long as you complete 70% of the scenes and there is a small accident, that is all." Xandra sipped the wine in her glass and smiled gently. "I'm looking forward to the end of the movie that has invested more than 100 million yuan. Allen will have to deal with this."

"At that time, the directors of Dahua will probably have a problem with him."

Skylar could not help but laugh, "They will be so stupid to blame Director Jones for this?"

Chapter 340 Don't Bother Me

Almost every magazine had her endorsement products or her interview articles. This was something Arya did not expect.

After more than half an hour, Georgia appeared with a high-end handbag. Compared to her arrogant and ruthless temperament, Arya's cold temperament was a little weak.

Georgia wore a dark green dress and a white mink jacket. Her long brown curly hair was draped over her shoulders and her beautiful red lips were not vulgar. Her entire body emitted an invasive beauty.

After seeing Arya, she walked straight over. Then she took off her sunglasses and sat opposite Arya. She took out a transfer contract from her bag, "This is a real estate company under my name. I will transfer the shares unconditionally to you. The company is running well and you don't need to worry about it and you can make profits."

Was there really a pie in the sky?

Arya coldly hooked her lips and did not look at the contract. Instead, she looked at Georgia mockingly.

"I know that you have been very close to a big boss in the entertainment industry recently, but will the men in the industry really treat you sincerely? I saw the car you drove and he did not look like what the news said. Does he like you that much? And you don't have a formal relationship now. If you continue to waste your time without fame, you won't get anything."

"Why don't you sign now and give yourself some security?"

Arya picked up the coffee cup and said in a very calm tone. "You asked me to meet you because you want to talk about this?"

"Do you think I want to come? A few days ago, Grandpa mentioned you at home."

"Are you worried that I will return to the Morrison Family?" Arya sensed Georgia's intention and her tone became fierce, "If you did not take the initiative to call me, I might have forgotten about the existence of the Morrison Family. And take away your charity. I do not need it. As long as you do not appear in front of me and disturb my life, I will not return to the Morrison Family."

"You misunderstood. What I mean is, I hope that you will leave the entertainment industry." Georgia raised her eyes and looked at Arya with an unfriendly tone.

"Now that you have signed a new company, your fame is growing day by day. There will be people who will link you to the Morrison Family. I don't want the Morrison Family's name to appear in those third-rate media newspapers."
