

Love Of A Billionaire

Chapter 37

Chapter 37 I'll End My Life Now!

"Arya, don't be angry. You know how much money we have invested in her, if we were to terminate her, it will be a huge loss for the company. For this reason, can you support me in my career?" Again, he used the same excuse. If it was possible, he didn't want to give up on Arya nor Caroline.

"Then there is no need to continue this conversation." Arya laughed contemptuously.

"Wait! Okay, I will sort it out as soon as possible, but you have to promise you will register with me."

Arya said, "Oh, you better sort this out very soon."

When Caroline finds out this, she definitely wouldn't let Daniel off that easily. Then, she would anticipate the day when they would turn against each other.

Although Daniel was able to get in touch with Arya and suggested they get their marriage registration as soon as possible but with Arya's cold and distant attitude made Daniel very uncomfortable.

Daniel drove to Caroline's apartment, went in the building and looked at the elevator for a long time without pressing the button for her level.

He didn't know how to explain it to Caroline at all!

Caroline's eyes turned red from all the crying. She turned her head when she saw Daniel and asked, "What are you doing here? Are you going to let me fend for myself?"

Daniel felt really bad when she cried.

He couldn't help but hugged her, "Don't cry, your emotions can hurt our baby. Caroline, I came here today to tell you I have found a solution to this problem."

"What solution?" Caroline looked up from his arms, her eyes were shining brightly.

"First, you will leave here for a while and give birth to our child. After the matter had settled down and everyone has forgotten about it, I will help pave the way for you again to become the most popular and highest paid female celebrity."

Caroline was dismayed. She realized that Daniel wanted to give up on her, she grabbed his arm and said, "No, it took me so much effort to be where I am now. I won't leave. I'm not Arya, I won't be at your mercy."

"I'm carrying your baby. If you are really going to treat that harshly, I'll tell the reporters everything. When the time comes, we'll see who is in a worse position."

In terms of ruthlessness, Caroline would not lose to anyone. The day she seduced Daniel, she was already prepared to go down with him when the ship sunk.

"Caroline, I didn't mean it that way, but at this moment, there is no other way. I've actually already contacted Arya and she's going to marry me and that will prove that all the news about us are fabricated. The thing is, there was one condition which you have to leave the company. I was also forced into a corner."

"It's Arya again!" Caroline was enraged, but on second thought, she had to continue her hold on Daniel, "How can you believe her? Even if you get married, will you still get any benefit? Would Morrison Family let her inherit their fortune? Did you forget what you told before? The Morrison Family doesn't care about Arya's wellbeing at all."

"Will you calm down?"

She shoved Daniel's hand away. "How can I stay calm when you suggest something like that to me? Daniel, I can't lose you. If you really want to me to leave the company, then I might as well end my life now!"

She ran to the balcony as she spoke, "Make your decision. Do you want me or to reluctantly marry Arya?"

"Come back here, don't do anything stupid." Daniel was scared by her, so he could only agree to her threat, "I love you the most, there's no doubt I want to be with you."

"Really?" Caroline didn't really want to jump from the balcony. She just wanted to scare Daniel so he would agree to be with her. With him saying that, she left the balcony and went back into the living room.
