

Love Of A Billionaire

Chapter 45

Chapter 45 Who The Hell Does She Think She Is!

When Julia received the notice, she felt admiration for Arya. Compared to Arya's magnanimity, Caroline's petty tricks did not cut it. Next step would be up to Daniel to deal with this matter.

Caroline also heard the news and hurried back to the company. Upon seeing Julia standing inside the office, she also saw the invitation letters on Daniel's desk, she was fuming.

"Daniel, you are not really going to help Arya accept the offer, are you?"

If this opportunity was accepted, no one would be able to stop Arya making a comeback and regaining her original popularity.

Julia remained silent in the corner. Caroline was wary of the danger, but the decision was not hers to make. Although she and Daniel had a strong relationship foundation, in the sense of profit for the company, he would not hesitate.

"Take a seat first and listen to me. If the company continues to ban Arya, it would be detrimental to the company's image and reputation. The videos are still circulating and haven't been resolved yet. If you can reconcile with Arya and compromise in filming together, then the rumors will be dispelled. Then, I'll announce to the media, Arya and I have broken up. Then you will be cleared of being the 'mistress'. When the time comes, the best actress award will be yours to claim!"

After listening to Daniel, Caroline's eyes brightened up.

"Really?"

"Of course, why would I lie to you! She will be your stepping stone forever."

Julia left the office quietly and told Arya everything she heard. Since that day when she decided to follow Arya, she would get all the information she could.

However, after listening her words, Arya had no reaction.

"Aren't you concerned?" The more time she spent with Arya, the more she realized that she couldn't read her and didn't know what she was thinking at all.

"Do a favor for me." Arya smiled and indirectly answered Julia, "Help me decline all the invitations and tell them that I am going abroad to study acting."

Daniel had always used her as a bridge for Caroline. She had seen too many people asking for an actor and then have another actor accompany them, similar to buy one, get one free. She will not allow him to succeed this time.

To be able to resolve this crisis so easily, Julia could see Arya was really smart.

When Julia went back to the office to report to Daniel, Caroline was still present.

"Who the hell does she think she is! There is no chance for her to go abroad to study. That's out of the question!" Caroline was stomping her feet and shouted in anger before Daniel could say anything.

"Shouldn't that be Director Daniel's decision?" Julia asked.

Caroline snorted and pulled at Daniel's arm. "Daniel, say something!"

"Where is Arya? Tell her I want to see her."

Julia was shocked for a moment as she did not expect Arya to have predicted this and already told her of her plans a day in advance. She took out the concert invitation that Luna had gave her. It was an internal invitation for a renowned international orchestra. Only twenty people were invited which of course, people like Daniel and Caroline didn't even have the qualifications to enter the venue.

"Arya said it wasn't convenient for her to appear at the company recently, but if you want to see her, you should go to the concert hall."

"How did she get an invitation to the concert? She even invited Daniel to go with her!" Caroline eyes were filled with hatred and jealousy.

"Arya is Morrison Family's noble daughter after all, so of course it's expected, she has the qualifications to receive the invitation to the concert. Back then, she was trying to be low-profile and did not want to make a fuss, but now, she is being banned by the company, can't she even have the right for some luxury in her own time?"
