

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 5 Acting of the Movie Queen

Gradually, the small studio was filled with people. As the director entered the stage, one actor after another walked onto the stage for their auditions.

Arya was wearing a mask with her hair down, revealing only her eyes, which were heavily adorned with false eyelashes. She was sitting on the left side of the stage with Kayden, looking the stage quietly. If someone knew her well, they would know that she had entered the acting mode.

Kayden whispered in Arya's ear, "Pretend to look at the script, act on the stage then pretend to faint. After that, "I'll send you back to your room and your mission is complete."

"So, this is Caroline's character?" Arya pretended to be surprised as she asked.

Everyone relies on their abilities, but what Caroline relies on was Daniel's shady wrist????

"Of course, you must do a good 'fainting' act and don't do any unnecessary scenes for yourself." With that, Kayden got up and answered the phone.

With Kayden's warning, on the contrary, woke Arya up. She looked down at the script and her lips under the mask curled up slightly. An idea came to her mind.

When she looked up again, tears were in her eyes from her sympathy for the life of Jane.

The staff member walked to her side and said, "Caroline, you're the next."

Arya nodded and stood up. In order to not let Kayden see through her plan, she pretended to cough twice.

Kayden took this opportunity to explain, “Caroline has been sick from filming for the past few days and is still suffering from a high fever. She values this role very much and insists on coming to participate in the audition regardless of my objections.”

After saying that, he intentionally looked at Arya with a pained expression and shook his head with a smile.

When Kayden finished his sentence, Arya noticed the change in the way the people around her was looking at her.

While they were envious and jealous of her, they suddenly also felt a little more admiration for her.

Arya sneered in her heart: In order to create a kind and professional personality for Caroline, Daniel had put in a lot of effort to set this up. They'll see, she won't let it happen. Caroline's character set up would definitely be ruined today.

Arya walked up the stage step by step. Although she was wearing a hat and mask, Director Brown only looked at her and sighed due to Kayden's explanation just now. He didn't say anything.

Gently, she took off her hat, let her long hair down and only left the mask on that covered her face.

She slowly turned around and walked around the stage three times. It seemed like an unconscious action, but she already begun to enter a state of performance.

Kayden was quickly adjusting his emotions. In a moment he would pretend to panic as he prepared to rush over to help Arya, who would have fainted.

However, he didn't expect Arya to suddenly turn around. Not only did she not 'faint', but she even kneeled on the stage and cried. Her voice turned from weak to loud and her shoulders started to tremble. She choked out a line. "How can you leave me alone?"

As soon as she finished speaking, she raised her head. Her tears, which had been blinded her sight, rolled down from the corners of her eyes.

This was acting!

All the directors and staff present were moved by this scene.

The most important crying scene in Jane's role was well grasped by her! Compared to the other actors who had just performed the crying scene, her expression was much more realistic. The audience could not help but feel her heartfelt emotions.

According to the describing of the script, after being abandoned, Jane would be in so much pain that she would wish she had died. She would cry all day long, but Arya's performance was not only to suppress the pain in her heart, but it also gave her the feeling of being reborn.

When she sat on the floor of the stage with her arms around her knees and said her second line, everyone couldn't help but applaud her performance. The small studio was instantly filled with thunderous applause.

This was no longer a simple audition; it was a textbook level performance. She had completely portrayed the role of Jane in a different way, making it hard for people to forget her!

Director Brown sat on the chair and took a deep breath. His eyes were filled with surprise, “It’s her! The girl I’m looking for is her!”

The assistant director immediately announced, “The actress for female number three Jane, is Caroline Bennett.”

Arya slowly stood up from the stage. When she saw the excitement in Kayden’s eyes, her lips slightly curled up under the mask, “Don’t worry, I haven’t finished acting.”

At the very last row of the small studio, a man as noble as an emperor places both his hands on his trousers. His cold and arrogant gaze stopped on Arya’s face a look of amazement flashed across his eyes.

As cold as he was, he was also shocked by her acting just now. The previous grand slam movie queen was indeed extraordinary; he could not ignore this woman's emotions.
