

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 7 She will End It Personally

Why did Allen Jones suddenly appear here?

Moreover, he had actually interfered in this matter. Everyone understood the position of Dahua in the industry, so they speculate that Allen Jones definitely thought Arya Morrison had committed a big offense.

Arya had just dug herself a grave. From now on, the movie queen will have no place in the industry.

Just when everyone thought that Allen Jones was targeting Arya Morrison, they found that he suddenly stopped beside Arya and nodded in approval. “Your acting skills are not bad.”

Arya looked at him with her eyes wide open. He actually saw her performance! Furthermore, he took the initiative to help her.... This person was the husband that she had just married!

Allen took Arya's expression in his eyes and turned to Director Brown, "Director Brown, what do you think?"

"Miss Arya's acting is naturally impeccable. I believe everyone has seen it just now." Director Brown's gaze swept over her as he said with a troubled expression. "But she just..."

"I don't think that's a big problem."

Although the investors were afraid of Allen Jones's position, they still gritted their teeth and said, "No, Caroline must be this movie's female lead."

How could they overturn the plan just because of Allen Jones's unclear statement? How much money did they invest?

“Does it have to be her? So you have decided to give the third female lead to Caroline?” Allen Jones casually asked, his cold aura crushed the opponent, “But in my opinion, she is not qualified at all and cannot play the role with soul. Arya, on the other hand, is very suitable for this role.”

Anyone who wasn't a fool could see that Allen Jones was going to stand up for her to the end with such a clear attitude.

Arya never thought that he would suddenly appear and stand by her side without hesitation to help her. Although it was unexpected, it was also a touching moment.

The investor didn't dare to refute it as his arm couldn't even be twisted. He muttered a few sentences and aggressively went to find Daniel and Brilliant Entertainment to settle this matter.

“Then let’s leave this matter as it is for now.” Director Brown looked at Allen Jones helplessly and let out a sigh.

Allen looked at Arya meaningfully, then left with his secretary.

The reporters who were surrounding Arya earlier were chasing after Allen Jones. For a moment, there was no one around Arya.

After making four or five calls, Kayden walked to the center of the stage and glared at Arya. He said hatefully, “Arya, you are really poisonous. Just you wait, Mr. Daniel will not let you off.”

Arya calmed down from her happiness that she was saved by Allen. She threw her mask into the trash can and stared at Kayden without showing any signs of weakness. “Alright then, I’ll wait.”

Because she definitely wouldn’t let them off!

Arya left through the back door before the reporters came back, just in time to see Allen’s car drive out of the parking lot. She saw the black glass sliding down in front of her, seeing him sitting in the car, with a cold expression but a caring smile on his face, “Get in.”

Arya nodded obediently. “Thank you.”

Due to her familiarity with the industry, Arya knew very well that she wouldn’t have been able to stop what happened just now without Allen’s help.

“You are already my wife. Do you think I will tolerate others bullying my woman?”

His eyebrows were slightly raised as domineering words came out from his mouth.

The meaning behind his words was, would he always protect her like this?

“If it’s because I brought trouble to Dahua and you, I...” She sat down beside him and closed the door. Arya gripped her fingertips, pursed her lips, but didn’t say anything.

Allen just looked at her with eyes devoid of emotion, “If I’m afraid of trouble, I wouldn’t have registered with you.”

Arya’s heart skipped a beat. She felt the atmosphere in the car was very strange. Sitting next to this man, her heart was beating faster and harder that couldn’t be controlled.

“Where are we going now?” She quickly changed the subject.

“My home...”

After he calmly said this, he saw Arya’s slightly dazed look and smiled faintly. “I don’t like to procrastinate when doing things. If you agree, I will make it so that you will have an unforgettable marriage.”

Arya’s face looked slightly tipsy as she decisively replied, “I’m willing.”

It was not that she agreed, but she was willing. She knew her choice. The words, Allen Jones, had already been branded into her life and could not be erased.

She was willing to give him her whole body.
